MINES, RAILWAYS, BANK, STEAM-SHIP, and INSURANCE SHARES BOUGHT, SOLD, or EXCHANGED.

Capitalists who seek safe and profitable investments, free from risk, should act only upon the soundest information; the market prices of the day are for the most part governed by the immediate supply and demand, together with the operations of speculators without reference to the bona fide merit of the property.

Mines afford a wider range for profit than any other public securities, and pay dividends bi-monthly, varying from 15 to 30 per cent. per annum. Instances frequently occur of young Mines rising in value 400 to 500 per cent. The undersigned devotes special attention to the above, and affords every information to capitalists, and effects purchases or sales upon the best possible terms.

SLATE QUARRIES IN WALES

CONSIDERED AS AN INVESTMENT.

By THOMAS COOPER SMITH.

WITH A SHORT DESCRIPTION OF THE PRESENT STATE OF THE SLATE TRADE.

The wealth which has from time to time been extracted from the Mountains of Wales has elevated many men from the lowest ranks of life to affluence and independence, created squires and baronets, and added grandeur to the equipages of noblemen.—Parry.

We recommend this publication to the perusal of those inclined to embark in Slate Quarrying, of which we have on different occasions expressed our opinion as being amongst the best speculations of the day.—Limited Liability Companies' Journal.

The author, who has been long engaged in Slate Quarries, has, in a few pages, brought before the public the position of the Slate trade as one that recommends itself in the most tempting form to capitalists for investment. The leading features of this small pamphlet go to show that the demand for slate exceeds, at the present time, any former period, that the supply is utterly inefficient for the wants of the trade, that the prices are high beyond all precedent, that the profits realised by most of the large quarry proprietors are upwards of 50 per cent., and that extensive opportunities exist for opening other large quarries and increasing the supply; but the work should be read to be appreciated.—Mining Journal.

THE INDIAN COUNCIL AND THE BANK OF ENGLAND.

We are enabled to state with certainty that an arrangement has been come to between the Bank of England and the Council of India, whereby the former agree to take of the latter Indian Five per Cent. Stock to the extent of upwards of £750,000. It may be asked—How have the Indian Government power to create so large an amount of stock? The answer is simply that they do possess that power by Act of Parliament. The Act in question provides that against such amount of India Bonds or India Debentures as may fall due, and be sent in for payment, or be presented for conversion, the Government shall be authorised to issue an equivalent amount of Five per Cent. Stock. A large amount of India Bonds having been sent in for payment, the Council have paid the holders off in due course, and have created a like amount of new Five per Cent. Stock, which the Bank of England have agreed to take. It is by this means that the Indian Government have been enabled to contract for the whole of the amount of silver bullion (in round numbers, £850,000) lying in the Bank of England, and which will be sent to India by instalments.

The fact of that very cautious Corporation, the Bank of England, having invested so large a sum in Indian Securities, is calculated to give increased confidence to the holders. It also confirms the view that the course of public investments this year will in all probability be in Indian Securities to an unusual extent.

It may be interesting to place before our readers the exact amount of Indian Government Stock and Debentures placed in this country, and at present in existence. The statement, which is perfectly authentic, is as follows:—

Indian Five per Cent. Stock ... ..	£8,079,200
Ditto, created in 1861 ... ..	3,000,000
Total of Indian Five per Cent. Stock ... ..	11,079,200
Debenture Debt... ..	13,047,000
India Bond Debt ... ..	5,873,800
Grand Total ... ..	£30,000,000

The Indian Government, as already stated, have power to convert the whole of their Bonded and Debenture Debt into Five per Cent. Stock, and will doubtless continue to do so whenever the opportunity occurs. No addition is thereby made to the general amount of their debt. Of course, as the whole of the Indian Bonds and Debentures authorised are issued and actually in possession of the public, the Indian Government cannot convert them until the holders demand payment, or make application to convert their Bonds into Stock. As either contingency arises, the Council have full power to issue Stock. This policy of funding the floating debt into one general stock is perfectly sound and laudable.

THE FALLACIOUS POINTS IN MR. GLADSTONE'S BUDGET.

We have considered it our duty to call attention to several points which lead to the conclusion that Mr. Gladstone's Budget is based upon over-sanguine estimates, and that his financial scheme for the year, considered as a whole, is not a safe one. The misgivings expressed with regard to the prospect of a surplus of revenue over expenditure for the year 1861-2 being realised to the large extent of £1,923,000 are decidedly gaining ground amongst all practical men of business. The more the Budget is discussed, the more plain does it appear that to take off taxes to the extent of £2,460,000 per annum, on the strength of an unrealised surplus, is very unsound and venturesome financial legislation. We confess that we cannot help concurring to a considerable extent in the condemnation which Mr. Thomas Baring has pronounced on Mr. Gladstone's Budget, viz., that it is "neither safe, wise, nor politic."

Unless we are to go on adding to the National Debt ad infinitum, we contend that, before one single penny of taxation is remitted—firstly, the balances previously in the Exchequer ought to be restored; secondly, the million of Exchequer Bonds issued to make up the deficiency of 1860-61 ought to be redeemed; and thirdly, no tax ought to be remitted until it is clearly proved that the revenue of 1861-2 actually exceeds the expenditure, and until the surplus is actually in hand.

It may be useful to place the various items of revenue for 1860-1 and 1861-2 in juxtaposition. They stand as follows:—

	1860-1. Actual Receipts.	1861-2. Estimated Receipts.
Customs ... ..	£23,305,777	£23,585,000
Excise ... ..	19,435,000	19,463,000
Stamps ... ..	8,348,412	8,460,000
Taxes ... ..	3,127,000	3,150,000
Property-tax ... ..	10,923,816	11,200,000
Post-office ... ..	3,400,000	3,500,000
Crown Lands ... ..	290,568	295,000
Miscellaneous ... ..	1,453,101	1,400,000
	£70,283,674	£71,053,000
China Indemnity Money ... ..		750,000
		£71,803,000

If the paper duty is to be totally repealed in October next the public ought certainly to be informed on what grounds the Chancellor of the Exchequer expects to obtain a revenue from paper of £600,000 between the present time and October. We should also like to have some detailed explanation as to why the Income-tax is estimated to produce £11,200,000 this year, or £276,184 more than last year, considering the falling off which is taking place in trade, and in the incomes arising from agriculture.

It is clear, if faith is to be kept with our merchants, that the sum to be derived from the China indemnity this year will not reach £750,000, for the whole amount which we are likely to receive from China is only £650,000, and the amount of indemnity to be first paid to the merchants is, according to the Treaty, £660,000. It is evidently, therefore, a fallacy to reckon on such an amount of revenue from that source during the present year.

Then, again, as regards the taxes to be derived from stamps, we may be allowed to doubt whether an increase of £110,000 is likely to occur, in face of the falling off in the commercial bills in circulation.

Taking away, therefore, the China indemnity money for this year, and doubting very much whether there will be any increase in the aggregate of taxation over that of last year, we arrive at the following figures:—

Revenue ... ..	£70,283,674
Expenditure ... ..	69,900,000
Surplus ... ..	£283,674

This is assuming that, with diminished trade, and diminished incomes, the revenue of 1861-2 will equal that of 1860-1. But if we take into consideration the fact that the Paper Duty and one penny Income-tax proposed to be remitted this year amount to £1,515,000, it becomes more reasonable to suppose that there will be a deficit for this year of £1,132,000 than the surplus of £408,000 estimated by Mr. Gladstone. Even then, the balances taken from the Exchequer last year of £1,450,000, and the million of Exchequer Bonds lately issued, are left totally unprovided for.

Taking this cautious view of the case, and believing that the expense of the China War yet to be met will greatly exceed the sum to be received from China by way of indemnity, we are led irresistibly to the conclusion that this is not the time to remit any taxation whatever. It is just as important for the nation to carry out the same rules of prudence as those which would guide a private individual. We yet hope, therefore, that the result of the present discussion will be to retain the present amount of taxation until the estimated surplus is realised, and this seems to be the verdict of every man of business in and out of the House of Commons.

The present debate in the House is not intended to lead to any other result than to demonstrate the fallacy of Mr. Gladstone's estimates and figures, and to pave the way for a motion which will be made in committee to retain the Paper Duty for this year. But we go further than this, and contend that it is not safe to remit taxation at all until the surplus is realised. When that is accomplished it will be quite time enough to discuss the precise kind of taxes that ought to be repealed. And if any better plan than this can be suggested, it will consist in reducing the present monstrous scale of the public expenditure.

THE ACCOUNTS OF PUBLIC COMPANIES.

No. IV.

THE MIDLAND RAILWAY COMPANY.

We have been requested by several respected correspondents to analyse the accounts of the Midland Railway Company, upon a plan similar to that adopted in the case of the London and North-Western and Great Western Companies.* We do so with the more pleasure because the review suggests conclusions of a more satisfactory character than those presented in the two instances referred to. The Midland Railway is unquestionably a fine, self-contained and improving property. It has avoided the quicksands in which not a few of our other great railway companies have become engulfed. It is exempt, in an eminent degree, from the danger of competition, and is, beyond a doubt, very efficiently managed. The prosperity of the Midland Railway Company will doubtless vary in degree with the fluctuations of trade; but, apart from those occasional oscillations which are inherent in all commercial enterprises, the Company's progress bids fair to be steadily onward. The proprietors express the utmost faith in its remunerative capacity and steady development, and an investigation into its finances tends strongly to show that their confidence is well founded.

In the present instance, we will not carry the review back over a space of fifteen years, as in the case of the London and North-Western and Great Western Companies, but will confine the comparison to the last four years, contrasting the figures for the six months ending the 31st December, 1856, with those for the six months ending the 31st December, 1860.

The first point that strikes attention is the rapid increase which has taken place in the traffic. The total of the Company's half-year's receipts from traffic and all other sources was:—

" 1860 ... ..	1,119,872
Increase in 1860 ... ..	£252,714

The increase is spread, of course, over every department of traffic, but is least in the passenger traffic, and greatest in the goods traffic. The receipts from passengers were:—

Dec. 31, 1856 ... ..	£286,448
" 1860 ... ..	347,416
Increase in 1860 ... ..	£60,968

The receipts from merchandise (agents' expenses and the cost of town cartage deducted) were:—

* See MONEY MARKET REVIEW of March 9, 23, and 30, and April 6.

Dec. 31, 1856 ... ..	£305,664
" 1860 ... ..	432,512

Increase in 1860 ... .. £126,848

There has also been a decided rise in the revenue from minerals, the figures being:—

Dec. 31, 1856 ... ..	£186,327

It will be remarked that four years ago the receipts from passenger traffic were only £19,216 short of those from merchandise or goods traffic; but during the last four years the latter department has grown so rapidly that the passenger traffic is now short of the goods traffic by as much as £85,096. It is the popular impression that passenger traffic generally pays a railway company the best, and goods traffic the next best, whilst the mineral traffic is reputed the least remunerative of any. This view is not apparently borne out by the experience of the Midland Railway Company, which has paid a dividend at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum on its ordinary stock for the last six months, against only 4½ per cent. per annum for the corresponding six months of 1856, although the addition which has been made to its revenue in the interval has arisen, as shown above, mainly from what are popularly accounted the less remunerative kinds of traffic. The fact that the Midland Company has been able to make such a stride as a dividend-paying property in face of this apparent disadvantage says much, we think, for the efficiency and care of the management.

If we glance from the statement of revenue to that of expenditure, we find no reason to qualify these favourable conclusions. The Company's revenue having increased, the expenses have likewise increased, but not by any means in the same proportion. The Midland has succeeded in doing what most of our other great railway companies cannot accomplish—it has contrived to retain as net profit the bulk of the increase in the gross receipts. The following statement shows the augmentation which has taken place under the principal heads of the Company's working expenses, during the last four years:—

	Dec. 31, 1856.	Dec. 31, 1860.	Increase in 1860.	Decrease in 1860.
Maintenance of way and stations	£42,854 ..	£73,044 ..	£30,190 ..	—
Locomotive power .. ..	141,634 ..	162,361 ..	20,727 ..	—
Repairs and renewal of carriages, waggons, &c. .. ..	46,012 ..	29,287 ..	— ..	£16,725
Traffic expenses .. ..	93,230 ..	119,298 ..	26,068 ..	—
General charges .. ..	12,989 ..	19,155 ..	6,166 ..	—
Total of the above	£336,719 ..	£403,145 ..	£66,426

An aggregate increase of £66,426 in these five principal items of working expenses, considered in relation to the great increase in the amount of traffic carried, must be accounted very moderate, particularly if regard be had to the far less favourable experience of most other companies.

Glancing next at the other charges which have to be met before the holders of the £9,315,279 of Midland Railway ordinary stock are entitled to dividend, there is again room for satisfaction. The Company's credit having improved, it follows that there is no increase such as is presented in other companies' accounts in the charge of the debenture and loan debt. The amount of this charge for the two periods under review was:—

Increase in 1860 only ... ..	£967

In the amount for 1860 we have included both the interest on debentures and loans and the "debenture share interest:" the latter item does not appear at all in the accounts for the year 1856. We presume it represents the charge of the debenture stock into which the directors are judiciously endeavouring to get the ordinary debenture debt converted. The advisability of having the debt in a funded instead of an unfunded form needs no demonstration.

The improvement which has taken place in the credit of the Midland Company is well shown in the following comparative statement of the rate of interest borne by the debenture debt proper, at the two periods:—

	Dec. 31, 1856.	Dec. 31, 1860.	Increase.	Decrease.
5 per cent. .. ..	£323,739 ..	£1,000 ..	— ..	£322,739
4½ " .. ..	933,815 ..	149,245 ..	— ..	784,570
4 " .. ..	1,367,132 ..	459,966 ..	— ..	907,166
4½ " .. ..	280,028 ..	12,850 ..	— ..	267,178
4 " .. ..	563,669 ..	3,140,593 ..	2,576,924 ..	—
3½ " .. ..	154,380 ..	291,161 ..	136,781 ..	—
3 " .. ..	713,098 ..	38,080 ..	— ..	675,018
3½ " .. ..	4,120 ..	— ..	— ..	4,120
3 " .. ..	550 ..	— ..	— ..	550
Total .. ..	£4,340,534 ..	£4,092,895 ..	— ..	£247,639

It will be noticed that a large amount upon which rates of interest varying from  $4\frac{1}{4}$  up to 5 per cent. were previously paid, has been renewed at the moderate rate of 4 per cent. Of the £4,092,895 forming the entire debenture debt, no less than £3,140,593 is now placed at 4 per cent. We are not aware that there is another railway company in the kingdom which can show a statement so good as this. It will be remarked, too, that the aggregate of the debenture debt, instead of having increased, has actually diminished about a quarter of a million during the four years. The proportion of the debenture debt (£4,092,895) to the entire capital of the Midland Railway (£21,178,068) is satisfactorily small, and contrasts rather strongly with the proportion which obtains in the case of the Great Western Railway Company. All this argues a sound and vigorous financial condition of the Midland Company.

As another favourable point, we observe that the sum appropriated from revenue to wiping off the permanent way renewal debt has been increased from £15,000 at the 31st Dec., 1856, to £34,772 at the 31st Dec., 1860, thus rising as the Company's prosperity has increased. The whole of the permanent way renewal debt has now been liquidated, and there will no longer be any necessity to trench upon the Company's current profits to defray old arrears on this account.

Again, there is a decrease, on a comparison of the two periods, in the charge entailed on the Midland Company in the form of dividends on other stocks and undertakings guaranteed by it. There are four principal stocks comprised in this category—namely, the Sheffield and Rotherham, Leicester and Swannington, Bristol and Birmingham and Midland Bradford—and the total charge for these was:—

" 1860	..	..	..	100,097
Decrease in 1860				£4,499

There is a remarkable contrast between this statement and a similar one in the case of the London and North-Western Company, the cost of whose guarantees and leases was glanced at in a former number of the MONEY MARKET REVIEW.

We have now run through all the principal charges which have to be defrayed by the Midland Company before the gross half-year's receipts become condensed into net profit available for division amongst the Company's stockholders. We have shown that the increase which has occurred in the charges during the four years has been very moderate. The grand total of all the items of expenditure already enumerated, including working expenses, permanent way renewal debt, debenture and loan charges, and dividends on stocks guaranteed by the Company, is as follows:—

" 1860	...	...	...	710,274
Increase in 1860				£112,723

The result thus is that, of the £252,714 constituting the increase in the Company's gross revenue in the four years, the amount that is eaten up in the increased expenses incidental to an enlarged business, and in other ways, is only £112,723; consequently close upon the handsome sum of £140,000 remains as a net addition to what is termed the "disposable balance." The exact amount of this "disposable balance" was:—

At Dec. 31, 1856	...	...	...	£269,607
Increase in 1860				£139,891

This is a great and a gratifying result, for it proves to the holders of railway stocks that there is no reason why, with prudent and careful management, the benefit accruing from the growth of traffic should be torn away from them as occurs in some cases. It shows that, under a proper system, a more remunerative future ought to be in store for them, and that the increasing dividends which many of them have come to regard as extremely problematical are really possible.

Of the "disposable balance" brought down in the foregoing figures, the amount actually divided was:—

At Dec. 31, 1856	...	£253,601	...	Leaving an undivided balance of	...	£16,006
" " 1860	...	405,771	...	"	...	3,727

The principal claimants upon this fund have been for both periods the holders of—1. The Ordinary Consolidated Stock (the total of which is now £9,315,279 against £9,129,868 at the end of 1856); 2. Birmingham and Derby Stock; 3. Consolidated Four-and-a-Half per Cent. Preference Stock; 4. Midland Preference Stock; 5. Erewash Valley Consolidated Stock; 6. Leicester and Hitchin Preferential Stock. To each of these is allotted its due proportion, and there falls to the share of the holder of the Midland Ordinary Consolidated Stock the following amount:—

At Dec. 31, 1856	..	£194,009	..	Being at the rate of $4\frac{1}{4}$ per cent. per annum.
" 1860	..	326,034	..	" " 7 " "

Increase in 1860	..	£132,025	2 $\frac{1}{2}$
------------------	----	----------	-----------------

The addition of £132,025 to the net dividend fund was all that was required to raise the dividend on the Ordinary Consolidated Stock from the moderate rate of  $4\frac{1}{4}$  to the very satisfactory rate of 7 per cent. per annum. The same circumstance has raised the price of the stock from 83 to 125 per cent. This is a difference of 42 per cent. in the market value of the ordinary capital. Now, 42 per cent. on £9,315,279 is £3,912,417. In other words, nearly four millions sterling have been added to the market value of this class of stock, to say nothing of the improvement which has taken place in the prices of the other forms of the Company's capital.

We put the question to railway stockholders generally—Are not results of this character worth striving for and waiting for? And we beg them to observe that the improvement in the Midland dividend has been mainly obtained through the moderation which has been observed in adding to the capital of the undertaking. The total capital was as follows:—

" 1860	...	...	...	21,178,068
The increase in 4 years has only been				£902,740

STATISTICS OF THE TRADE OF 1860.

II.

We give at page 336 a continuation of the Commercial Statistics for 1860, with which we have been furnished by Mr. W. F. Spackman, jun. They present many points well worthy of attention as illustrating the remarkable progress of trade. War or deficient harvests may intervene, yet from year to year the movement of the national commerce is ever onward.

It will be seen by Table No. 5 that the "real value" of the imports into the United Kingdom has increased from £152,389,053 in the year 1854, to £210,648,643 in 1860. The imports in the latter year were, of course, greatly swelled by the deficiency of our crops, and were in excess of those of 1859 by no less a sum than £31,313,662, or  $17\frac{1}{4}$  per cent.; whereas the exports in 1860 were in excess of those of 1859 by only £5,402,390. This appears to indicate a balance against us of £25,911,372, part of which we have discharged in specie. Another portion we shall meet by calling in numerous outstanding balances due to us from foreign nations. But, were volumes to be written in explanation of the course of the money market during the last few months, they could express little more than what is comprised in the few pregnant figures above cited. Upon the transactions of the past year there has undoubtedly been a large foreign balance against us, and it is the necessity of redressing that balance, combined with the dislocation of commercial and political affairs in America, that has caused all the disturbance which we have lately suffered. Let it be remembered, too, that these circumstances have not lost their force. We have not yet got over the effects of our bad harvest. Our export trade is still restrained, whilst our imports of food continue necessarily large. Under these conditions of foreign trade, it would be vain to look for a low rate of money. The recent inordinate rise in the rate of interest has been followed, as was natural, by a violent revulsion; but now that these severe and mischievous variations have ceased, a steady demand for money is found to be arising in connexion with the foreign bullion trade, which provides the means of liquidating foreign balances.

It will be noticed that, of the six years for which Mr. Spackman has given us the import figures, there was an increase in four, and a decrease in only two. The two years marked by a decrease were 1855, when trade was disturbed by the war with Russia; and 1858, when a kind of commercial paralysis was experienced, resulting from the crisis of the previous autumn. But the total increase in the import trade in the six years from 1854 to 1860 is £58,259,590 (namely, from £152,389,053 to £210,648,643), or no less than 38 per cent. This is a wonderful advance in so brief a period.

The account of the exports of British and Irish produce and manufactures from 1850 to 1860 shows that of the intervening ten years there was an increase in seven, and a decrease in only three, the latter being 1854 and 1855 (the years of the Russian war), and 1858 (the year after the crisis). The general movement of the exports has been from £71,367,885 in 1850, to £135,842,817 in 1860. The total increase is £64,474,932, or no less than ninety per cent. At this rate it may almost be said that the exports of the national produce and manufactures are doubled in amount in eleven years. Such a result is well calculated to excite astonishment, and to beget very sanguine views as to what may be in store in the future. Our expectations in this respect are increased by a review of the difficulties which the trade of the past decade has successfully overcome. It has not been by any means a time of plain sailing. There have been storms and quicksands in plenty. Wars and rumours of wars have abounded. Great Britain expended a hundred millions sterling in curbing the ambition of Russia. France threw away an equal sum, and Russia far more. So vast a waste contributed greatly to check commercial development. Then, in 1859, there was a fierce war between two of the greatest military Powers in Europe, which deluged some of its fairest districts with blood. At one time, aided by a false alarm, this convulsion caused a thrill of apprehension to run from one end of England to the other, such as probably none of us may ever witness again. Above all, the period of ten years under review has been marked by the definitive establishment of the second French Empire, by the revival of the old French court-pomp and military pageants, by a terrific concentration of force in French dockyards and arsenals, and by a corresponding degree of watchfulness and preparation on the part of other nations, including ourselves. Europe has been gradually overshadowed—and is now to some extent overawed—by the military growth of the French Empire. Every country is in a state of armed and costly preparation. The French Government has earned for itself the character of being utterly unprincipled and unscrupulous. No neighbouring State dares to trust it. Hence the fortifications, the ship-building, the massing of hordes of idle men, that are witnessed on every side. There has been no repose in the world since the Emperor Napoleon seized the helm: many people fear that his Empire means merely interludes of peace between successive stages of aggression and territorial aggrandisement, and that his policy is permanently incompatible with the tranquility of nations. Considering all these points—the cost of armaments, the ambition of despotic governments, and the heaving of “nationalities,” which have pre-eminently distinguished the last decade, the progress of the trade of this country is absolutely marvellous. There is abundant ground for hope, for the commercial classes can hardly have more to contend with during the next ten years. If we in this country have had five years of peace at home, we have had wars of our own abroad—war in China, and a terrible mutiny in India; and for the greater part of the time we have been induced, by the instinct of self-defence, to keep up what is practically almost a war expenditure. A Budget which provides for £70,000,000 of taxation on the one side, and £70,000,000 of expenditure on the other, cannot be regarded as a permanent peace budget.

As regards the exports of foreign and colonial merchandise—a branch of trade wherein we act as receivers and distributors of foreign and colonial produce, which is not required for our own consumption—the increase in the exports is not so large as in the case of articles of our own produce and manufacture, yet it is still considerable. The movement was from £18,636,366 in 1854, to £25,203,163 in 1859, showing an increase of £6,566,797, or 35 per cent. It is a fact not by any means creditable to the statistical department of the Board of Trade that the figures under this head for the year 1860 will not be published until the present year is drawing to a close.

Table No. 6, shows the exact amount of the increase or decrease which has taken place during the last three years, in each principal article, both of import and export. As regards the imports, the chief increase has been in corn and flour, which figure in 1860 for £31,432,803, or about one-seventh of the value of all kinds of imports. Cotton, however, maintains its supremacy as the largest article of import: the total in 1860 was £36,475,039. Comparing 1860 with 1858, silk has increased from £6,110,576 to £10,323,837; timber from £5,964,008 to £9,206,092; wool from £9,789,330 to £11,950,406; provisions from £3,138,912 to £6,545,872; flax from £3,020,879 to £3,836,770; tallow from £3,042,381 to £4,014,280; tea from £5,206,618 to £6,944,042; and wine from £2,040,552 to £4,201,434. These figures help to show that the past year was one of unusually large imports, from the necessity of paying for which we are still suffering. The expansion was both in commodities suited for food, and in those suited for manufacture. The only large item that presents a diminution is sugar, the imports of which have declined from £13,467,846 in 1858 to £12,810,734 in 1860. It is also worthy of remark that there is a decrease (namely, from £2,530,741 to £1,777,632) in the receipts of what many persons consider a noxious article—tobacco. This arises, probably, not from any abatement of the passion for the weed, but from the stimulus which the high rate of duty gives to imitation and adulteration.

The statements of the exports of British and Irish produce and manufactures for the years 1858, 1859, and 1860, have been examined on former occasions. It is instructive, however, to remark that, whilst we imported in 1860 £36,475,039 worth of cotton, the value of the cotton manufactures and cotton yarn exported is returned at £52,013,482, showing a difference of no less than £15,538,443. The inference suggested is that this sum represents the profit that has accrued on our cotton manufacture—on our manipulation of the raw material; but there must be added to this sum the value of all the cotton fabrics consumed in the United Kingdom, the whole of which have been provided out of the £36,475,039 worth of raw material. An idea may thus be formed of the immense importance of our cotton interest, and of the vast profits which are realised by it.

THE URGENCY OF THE LAND QUESTION IN INDIA.

WE are extremely glad to perceive that the great question of the means of providing capital for the vast public works now in progress in India, and imperatively required for the development of that magnificent country, is being actively taken up by the commercial community at home. Intimately connected with this question is that of the tenure of land in India. The present system is framed upon a basis akin to barbarism, and operates as a permanent bar to the improvement of the land, and to the development of its immense resources. We have now lying before us a copy of a sensible petition which was presented to Parliament by Mr. Bazley on Monday night, and which emanates from the Chambers of Commerce and merchants of the United Kingdom. It urges the paramount necessity of every possible stimulus being given to the progress of railways, works of irrigation and other enterprises, as one of the most effectual means of increasing the production, wealth, and revenue of India. It urges “the necessity of providing by means of a loan—whether from the Imperial Government as an advance on the security of the works themselves or otherwise—for the completion of such railways, canals, and other permanent works, as are already commenced, or are deemed to be absolutely essential for the improvement or opening up of the means of conveyance of agricultural produce throughout the country.” Even the grant of the Imperial credit, it will be noticed, is advocated, so strong is the petitioners’ sense of the urgency of the occasion. Amongst the crying evils which must be forthwith remedied, it is pointed out that “the tenure of land allowed by the Indian Government is such as to offer little inducement to capitalists for its purchase, and comparatively little for its improvement;” and in another part of the document the petitioners reiterate their conviction that “the purchase, tenure, and cultivation of land in fee simple should be rendered as secure and free as possible, by the removal of every impediment to the full enjoyment of the advantages to be derived from the application of capital to its improvement.”

The land question in India is evidently forcing itself on the attention of the Government, both at home and in India. According as it is treated, so will it prove either the greatest element of wealth, or the greatest cause of embarrassment to them. As the desire of the natives is, above all things, to possess land in perpetuity, free from Government tax or interference, it would evidently be most expedient for the Government to commute the land-tax at a certain number of years’ purchase. They might take in payment either cash, Government securities, or railway bonds or debentures which they have guaranteed. This seems a very effectual way not only of diminishing the dependence of Government upon a tax which is very troublesome and expensive to collect, but also of reducing the debt of India, and providing means for completing the railways, works of irrigation, and other reproductive undertakings which are essentially necessary. For the want of these works the great resources of India now lie dormant. We have, on a former occasion, cited the authority of Lord Stanley, who, in the latter part of the year 1838, took up precisely the same views. For some reason or other, however, his despatch seems to have been almost disregarded by the Indian authorities, for, so far as we can learn, it has never been replied to. But events are fast hurrying the question to a solution. In some quarters, we have heard the questions raised—Who owns the land in India, and who can give a title to it? Does the land belong to the Queen, or to the Indian Government, or to the Zemindars, or to whom? Which of these can sell the land, or give a title to it? The readiest way of solving obstructive questions of this kind is, perhaps, to point to the fact that the Government derive upwards of eighteen millions and a quarter sterling per annum from the land-tax, the commutation of which at twenty-five years’ purchase would represent a capital of more than four hundred millions sterling. Let us suppose, for a moment, that land in England were in such a state as it is in India. Let us imagine the land and population of England being in such a position that the Government habitually took possession of one-half of the crop as their due, or received one-half of the value of the crop as a money payment. What hope would there be, under such circumstances, of cultivators in England (any more than those in India) tilling more land than was necessary for their bare subsistence? It is evident that no system could be invented so well calculated to keep land out of cultivation, and to prevent capital from being invested in it for its improvement. Every one who thinks on the subject can well imagine how great must be the desire of the natives to possess land they can call their own in lieu of such a system. Not the least important consideration is that of the expense, trouble, and heart-burning which the collection of the rent from land held on such a tenure necessarily creates. There can be no doubt, too, that the periodical famines which afflict India are greatly aggravated by the same cause; for the tax on land, as at present levied, acts as a preventive against raising more produce from it than is absolutely necessary. There is no encouragement for the accumulation of grain and other produce, for if the Government perceived that the natives raised more grain than was necessary to support themselves and to pay the tax, a plea would be given for raising the amount of the tax. At least, this is an argument which appeals with peculiar force to the native mind. The real remedy would consist in the Government disposing of the revenue they derive from land at twenty or twenty-five years’ purchase, and withdrawing from any interference as regards the manner in which the land is cultivated.

Every one interested in the progress of India has seen with great regret that already a most serious state of affairs exists as regards the growth of indigo, which must entail a great loss on the planters. We are not going into the question upon the present occasion as to who is right and who is wrong; but it is not difficult to perceive that the tenure of land is at the bottom of the disturbances. If the ryots are allowed to break their contracts with the indigo-planters, the next thing they will do is to break them with the Government, thereby jeopardising the revenue derived from land.

We all admit that it is a matter of the highest importance to encourage the cultivation of cotton in India; but how can it be expected for a moment that British capital will seek investment in land capable of growing cotton if the title to hold that land is not first clearly ascertained? This is a stumblingblock at the very threshold of all enterprise.

We think we have said sufficient to show that the question of the tenure of land in India must be looked at steadily and without delay. The subject can be no longer postponed, for affairs have arrived at a crisis. The Government here must take the initiative. Sir Charles Wood promised in 1854 that the land question should be taken into immediate consideration. He stated then that the time for consideration was past, and that the time for action had arrived; and yet we are in 1861, and everything remains in statu quo. The Government in India seem to be as obstructive as ever to all suggestions for improvement. They are sorely perplexed to make the revenue meet the expenditure; and yet they will not take the initiative in removing the greatest obstacle to all improvement in India, by simplifying the tenure of land. If this be done, the Government may open up a new mine of wealth. If it be not done, they will go on in the old jog-trot system of frequent deficits and of ceaseless anxiety as to the means of "making both ends meet." Of this we are convinced, that the manner in which the eighteen millions of revenue now derived from land in India is assessed and levied is a disgrace to enlightened England, and worthy only of the fellah-flogging and fellah-torturing caste which holds sway in Egypt.

THE new monster steamer, Mooltan, built by the Peninsular and Oriental Company, will, it is expected, be ready to take out the Australian mail on the 20th proximo. She is built with all the improvements in shipbuilding and steam machinery. She has also machinery on board for abridging every kind of heavy labour, and all the inventions for contributing to the comfort of the large number of passengers who travel by the Alexandrian mail steam-packets.

THE FAILURES AT MARSEILLES.—A letter from Marseilles says:—"Contrary to what had been expected, the firms of Demetrius Balthazzi and Co., and Gabriel Hava and Co., of this city, have suspended payment. The Bank of France advanced them in one day about 3,000,000f., but when one of its principal functionaries was sent to ascertain their real situation, and found that they would require a further sum of 6,000,000f. before the end of the month, it refused them any further discount, and they were obliged to suspend. Very few bankers of this city are said to be compromised, owing to the Bank having for three months discounted directly for the two firms in question. It is stated that the Bank holds their bills to the amount of 31,000,000f. The two firms, however, have large assets; the Sultan owes them about 25,000,000f.

THE STATE OF TRADE.

(COMPILED FROM NUMEROUS LOCAL REPORTS.)

It is satisfactory to observe a slight improvement in the character of the accounts received this week from some of the manufacturing districts. The amount of trade is still below the average, but there is a growing impression that the period of the greatest slackness is over.

The accounts from Manchester state that the market remains without any particular alteration. Its aspect is rather quieter, but this may be merely an ordinary pause after increased activity. Owing to the high rates of cotton producers are very firm in their quotations, and are asking prices which check transactions. It appears that a considerable business has been done in India and China cloths at an advance of 1½d. to 3d. per piece for shirtings. There is a steady and rather more active demand also for T-cloths, and a fair sale has taken place in these fabrics, at hardening rates. The better sorts of printing-cloth have advanced a little in price, but other qualities are entirely neglected. The market for yarns has been very stiff, and there is not much actual business, owing to the high and still rising prices asked by spinners. Such as it is, the business is fairly divided between German and Mediterranean houses, as well as those operating for India and China, though the continental buyers remain very cautious.

At Leeds the woollen cloth market has been quiet. The attendance of buyers was moderate, but they were not eager to purchase. Light goods continue to be the most saleable, little being done at present in plain cloths. Manufacturers, in the aggregate, are working about two-thirds full time. Prices continue steady and firm.

At Rochdale there is little change to notice in the flannel and wool trades. There has been a fair attendance, but the aspect of affairs both at home and abroad is not of that character to give buoyancy to the commercial world. The manufacturers are moderately active, but they report that orders are rather slack, London and other wholesale dealers apparently delaying as long as possible before they enter upon the fall trade. Prices are firm.

From Bradford the report, dated Thursday, states that there is rather more doing by the export houses in worsted yarns, but the prices accepted by the spinners leave room for a very uncertain profit. Now that the stocks which had accumulated have been cleared off, it remains to be seen whether wool will be brought to meet spinners' prices, or yarns will rise to accord with the price of wool. In the home trade, there is but little increase in the consumption, and manufacturers fear to increase their production. The fine weather has had the effect of inducing merchants to do rather more in spring goods. Continental and American merchants operate to a very limited extent.

At Leicester the hosiery trade remains quiet, and there has not been an average amount of business doing this week. Home orders are by no means prolific, and very little is doing for shipping. At Loughborough and in the adjacent country districts trade is dull.

At Nottingham there is no improvement in the state of the lace trade. Cotton goods are not so much in demand as they were a week ago. Home buyers purchase sparingly of cotton goods, and for export the business doing is extremely small. There is a fair demand for silk lace articles suitable for trimmings, and, as the fashions continue to be more in favour of laces, future prospects are considered good. Manufacturers in all departments are producing cautiously, in order that stocks may not accumulate. In hosiery there has not been much doing this week; the home trade is dull, and very little is doing for export.

At Huddersfield there has been a better feeling in the market to-day, consequent upon the continuance of fine weather. Not that there is any great increase in the amount of business doing for the present, for buyers of every kind are still operating very sparingly, but from an impression, which is becoming very general, that there is now a probability of trade taking a turn for the better.

At Birmingham the workmen at a great number of the manufactories are on short time. This appears to be the case in many of the staple trades. A worse spring trade has not been experienced for years. Throughout the district matters are in much the same state. The foreign orders are small in every department; but in two most important instances—the East Indian and the American trades—there is scarcely anything doing.

The report from Wolverhampton states that the anticipated reaction in the country trade, consequent on the reappearance of something approaching to ease in the money market, has been realised only to a very moderate degree. The manufacturers generally are complaining that business is unusually dull. In the Iron Trade there has been no change since our last; orders are small; but upon the whole, there is more animation than there was a month ago.

THE WEATHER.—It has been a splendid week, though the warm sunshine has been toned down by easterly winds, and the clear moonlight and starlight nights have been accompanied by frosts. Vegetation has made marked advance, and a few April showers would render verdant the whole face of nature. The farmers have had a magnificent time of it, and they have turned every hour to good account. We have now been almost entirely without rain for three weeks, and the surface soil has infinitely benefited by the change. In fact, the whole aspect of the country has an altered appearance.—Sussex Advertiser.

Literature.

SLATE QUARRIES IN WALES CONSIDERED AS AN INVESTMENT. With a Short Description of the Present State of the Slate Trade. By Thomas Cooper Smith. Second Edition. Published by Ward, Brothers, 56, Bartholomew-close, and by the Author, 5, Warneford-court, Throgmorton-street.

THIS is a practical, sensible little treatise, on a class of home enterprise which does not meet with the full attention it merits. The author is fully qualified to speak upon the subject, for he has long been engaged with slate quarries in various capacities, all of which gave him excellent opportunities for close observation. The result of his experience he declares emphatically to be that there is no branch of enterprise in which equally large profits are to be secured with little outlay and little risk. He affirms, and we think truly, that "there are probably but few countries that can vie with the Principality of Wales in the variety and value of its mineral productions, capable of supplying for ages to come an inexhaustible source of profitable investment to individuals, and of commercial and national wealth." He also observes that—"A quarry is far less speculative than a mine, and, when well selected and worked with judgment, never fails to realise a handsome return; this the writer will endeavour to show, in the hope that it may induce many who are seeking for an employment of capital that will pay better than the ordinary channels, to embark money in it." This, in fact, expresses the object of the pamphlet. Our space precludes our making more than the following extract, which indicates one of the districts regarded by the writer as peculiarly promising:—"In the Festiniog district the seam of slate called the Festiniog vein is supposed to be about seven miles in length—here the great Welch Company, better known as Lord Palmerston's Quarry, Huddart and Mathews', Messrs. Hollands', Messrs. Grieves', Messrs. Cassons', and several others, are working at immense profits, and producing a class of slate famous for its colour, texture, and durability. There are miles of this vein still unexplored. It is not necessary to multiply cases, there are numerous other veins, some partly explored, others untouched and undiscovered, which offer the highest temptation to the enterprising capitalist. To persons seeking a sound and profitable investment there is no difficulty in satisfying themselves that, with a good selection and good management this may be found in the slate district of North Wales, and it is to be hoped that the facilities afforded by railway will induce public companies and spirited individuals to embark in this highly remunerative branch of our national commerce."

ASSURANCE MAGAZINE AND JOURNAL OF THE INSTITUTE OF ACTUARIES. Part 43. For April, 1861. Charles and E. Layton; Fleet-street.

ALTHOUGH this scientific periodical is ostensibly published for the benefit of those who are in immediate connection with Life Assurance Societies, it has attached to it a more general public importance, for it conveys a knowledge, not only of the theory but of the practice of the science of insurance, which may be studied with advantage by every one desirous of making a provision of this kind.

There are three important papers in the present number. The first is "On the Rates of Premiums required to provide certain Periodical Returns to the Assured;" by Mr. Robert Tucker, Actuary to the Pelican Life Office. Mr. Tucker lays down the true principles which should guide Assurance Companies in estimating their surplus profits. The second paper is by Dr. Edmund Hallam, "On Compound Interest." This is a republication from Tables printed as far back as the year 1761, by Sherwin, and considering the celebrity of the writer, the ability displayed in the paper itself, and the comparative scarcity of the work, the editors of this magazine have done good service in reproducing it for the benefit of its professional readers. The third paper is the annual report of the "Insurance Commissioners of Massachusetts." A similar commission in this country would enable us to ascertain what amount of liability the Insurance Offices are under, and what means they have of meeting their liabilities. At present, with us all is darkness, the Offices being perfectly independent of each other, and it may almost be said of the State also.

Several interesting communications from correspondents are given. One in particular deserves notice. It is from Mr. Porter, Actuary of the Alliance, on "Mr. Finlaison's Report and Observations on the Mortality of Government Life Annuitants." In reference to the Census question Mr. Porter observes that the false returns which the experience of previous censuses has shown to have been made with respect to the ages of females, have been to an extent probably hitherto little suspected, and he points out how the advance of science may be imperilled and retarded by the loose system which very generally obtains in the method adopted in practice of arriving at the ages of deceased persons with the view of their being recorded in the books of the "District Registrar."

The Atlantic Royal Mail Steam Navigation Company's steamer Adriatic sailed on Tuesday at 1.10 P.M. from Galway, for St. John's, Newfoundland, and New York, with her Majesty's mails, 540 passengers, and a full cargo.

None are genuine without their corporate mark the "Sun," granted to their father by the Cutlers' Company of Sheffield, June 26, 1835. Messrs. The above return, compared with that for the previous week, shows the following changes:—

Circulation Active.. .. .	20,038,985	..	Decrease	256,230

Total Reserve (Notes and Coin) in Banking Department .. .. .	7,552,964	..	Increase	240,976

These changes are of rather a favourable character, for there is no decline worthy of notice in the bullion, notwithstanding the shipments of gold to the Continent, whilst the reserve has increased rather considerably. The movement in the latter item may be primarily attributed to the falling-off in the Bank's discount business.

THE MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 26.

There is no change of importance to notice in the discount market this week. The expectation of lower rates, however, has subsided, now that silver is flowing freely to the East, both on Government and on private account, and that gold is being sent to the Continent in payment. The demand in the discount market during the last two days has somewhat increased, and there is, accordingly, less willingness to take even the best bills below  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. At the Bank of England the applications have been rather limited.

In the Stock Exchange money has continued abundant, and the rate for loans on Government Securities has been as low as 2 per cent. To-day there was more demand, and the charge rose to 3 to 4 per cent.

Since the date of the return given above, £54,000 in gold has been taken from the Bank for exportation to the Continent.

It was announced on Monday that the Indian Government has just purchased from the Bank of England the whole of the silver bullion held by that establishment. This amount (now £890,858) comprises the balance of the £2,000,000 of silver which was taken by the Bank some months ago from the Bank of France, in exchange for an equivalent amount of gold. It will be despatched to India on government account in instalments by several packets. As notes have been issued against this sum, its withdrawal will operate upon the money market in precisely the same way as if it were gold. The magnitude of the specie requirements of the Indian Government has excited some surprise. It is said to be connected with the reduction in the cash balances in the Indian Treasuries.

The next Mexican steamer is expected to bring a large amount of silver, which, however, will not be available in time for the Calcutta and China steamer of the 4th of May. The amount required for that vessel on mercantile account must, therefore, be imported from the Continent, and gold will probably be sent in payment.

The shipments of specie by the outgoing Bombay steamer of the 27th inst. are quite as large as was anticipated. The total is £397,140, of which £328,990 is silver, and £66,150 gold for Bombay, and £2,000 gold for Alexandria. Included in the silver is a Government remittance of £90,370, which has been withdrawn from the Bank.

The Africa, from the States, has brought £15,000 in specie, while the Arabia and the City of Baltimore have taken to that quarter £13,600 and £5,000 respectively.

The amount of Australian gold known to be on the way to England is £717,500, of which £417,000 is due. Subjoined are the particulars:

THE BULLION MARKET.

With reference to the movements in bullion and in the Indian Government paper, Messrs. Pixley, Abell, and Langley report as follows:—

GOLD.—The gold ex Kooria Moorla has been delivered, and has all been taken for exportation. The demand for the Continent has revived within the last day or two, and in the absence of supplies, about £120,000 has been withdrawn from the Bank. Arrivals of gold from Australia are now hourly looked for, nearly £800,000 being now at sea, of which about £390,000 may be considered as due. Some amounts of gold have been received from Constantinople, and the Africa has brought £15,000 from New York. Some small sums have, however, been sent to America, the Arabia having taken £13,600, and the City of Baltimore £5,000.

SILVER.—Since the date of our last Circular silver has been in demand, and the price has risen to 61½d. per oz. standard; a considerable amount has been purchased at this rate, and the shipments to Bombay by the steamer of the 27th instant, are likely to be large. The next West India steamer is expected on the 29th instant, and is supposed to have a rather large amount of specie on board; this, however, cannot be delivered in time for the next outward Mail to Calcutta and China, and some purchases have already been made for the steamer which will leave Southampton on the 4th May. We quote the price as 5s. 1½d. per oz. standard. The Alhambra has brought £3,150 from Lisbon, and the Pera £300 from Alexandria.

MEXICAN DOLLARS have again been in demand during the past week, and as the quantity obtainable has been but small, the price has again advanced; the closing price has been 5s. 0½d. to 5s. 1d. per oz.

EXCHANGE on India for Banks' Drafts at sixty days' sight, we quote 1s. 11½d. to 2s. 0½d. for Calcutta; and 1s. 11½d. to 2s. 0½d. for Bombay. Some transactions have taken place below these quotations, viz., 1s. 11½d. for Calcutta and 1s. 11½d. for Bombay, but the transactions were exceptional, and this rate was yielded to effect large sales.

INDIA GOVERNMENT LOAN NOTES are in about the same state as at date of our last; Five and-a-Half per Cents. may be quoted 100 to 100½; and Five per Cents. 94.

The report of Messrs. Haggard and Co., dated this day, observes:—

Since our last circular our market has been again rather active, and some important changes in prices have occurred; the principal feature of novelty is a renewal of the demand for gold to pay for silver received from the Continent, some amounts having been withdrawn from the Bank for this purpose. There has been an active demand for gold for the Continent, the whole of the Australian and Turkish arrivals having been sent away, in addition to £157,000 withdrawn from the Bank of England. It is feared that the next mail from America will bring a report of lower exchanges, in which case shipments of gold from this side would be renewed to some extent. Bar silver has again been in active demand, and the price has risen to 61½d.; owing, however, to the completion of the orders for Bombay, the market is now a little weaker, and bars are offered a shade lower. Mexican dollars have also risen owing to the short supply, but the demand is not great.

THE EXCHANGES.

On Tuesday there was a fresh decline in the continental exchanges, but this afternoon decided indications of recovery were apparent. It is believed that the lowest point has now been touched. The rates current this afternoon were as follows:—

THE GREEK INTEREST.

It is announced that decided measures are being taken to relieve the Greek interest from the severe pressure to which it has lately been subjected. Several persons of position, accompanied by an eminent accountant, have left London for Paris, where a conference will be held with the representatives of the Greek firms in France and of the Bank of France. The solvency of this class of traders, observes the Daily News, is not doubted for a moment, and it would be equally harsh to them and injurious to the general interest of business were they to be forced to suspend payment, and to make needless sacrifices, whilst possessing in reality a large surplus beyond all claims. During the last few months the Greek engagements have run off to an immense extent, and the amount now in existence is comparatively moderate. The object of the movement in progress is to induce a common action on the part of the financial establishments interested, for if they will consent to keep under discount merely such an amount of Greek paper as they now hold, instead of throwing the interest overboard, it is confidently believed that the whole of the bills afloat will be satisfactorily liquidated in the course of a comparatively short period.

TURKISH FINANCE.

An arrangement has recently been concluded between the English and Turkish Governments of considerable financial importance to the Turkish empire, and calculated materially to improve the position of English holders of Turkish bonds. The Porte having formally consented to adopt a system of thorough reform in its financial administration, at the instance of our ambassador, Sir Henry Bulwer, has now further assented that the improvements contemplated shall be carried out in concert with agents appointed by our Government. Two English commissioners are accordingly en route to Constantinople for this purpose. Turkey has hitherto kept faith with her creditors, and her undeveloped resources are immense. These considerations will tend to increase the interest with which the bondholders will watch the result of the efforts now in progress for her relief at the point where relief is most needed.

THE PRESTON OLD BANK.

With reference to the affairs of the Preston Old Bank, the Manchester Examiner of Tuesday has the following:—"We understand that a meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Pedder and Co. (Old Bank) will be held at Preston on Saturday next; and that, should the affairs of the concern be carefully and judiciously managed, a favourable liquidation—probably amounting to 15s. in the pound—may be expected." According to this, the winding up will not be so favourable as was at first anticipated.

THE STOCK EXCHANGE.

Mr. Thomas Vile was on Wednesday elected a member of the Committee of the Stock Exchange, in the place of Mr. Thomas Gibbes, deceased.

A STOCK EXCHANGE HOLIDAY.

The Stock Exchange will probably be closed on Wednesday next, the 1st of May, according to custom, that being the day fixed for striking the half-yearly balance at the Bank of England, where the transfer offices will be shut.

THE COLONIAL WOOL SALES.

The second series of Colonial wool sales are fixed to commence on Thursday, the 9th of May. The fresh importations up to the present date since the beginning of the last sales comprise 51,352 bales—viz., Sydney, 12,631; Victoria, 14,008; Van Diemen's Land, 4,388; Adelaide, 11,735; New Zealand, 1,052; Swan River, 1,000; Cape of Good Hope, 6,538; total, 51,352 bales. Further arrivals are, however, daily expected.

RAILWAY TRAFFIC.

The Brighton Railway traffic return shows this week an increase of £547; the South-Eastern, a decrease of £936; the Great Western, an increase of £169; the Great Northern, a decrease of £1,320; the London and North-Western, an increase of £800; the South-Western, an increase of £1,254; the Midland, an increase of £882; the Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire, an increase of £747; the Eastern Counties, an increase of £828; the Lancashire and Yorkshire, an increase of £1,042; the North-Eastern, an increase of £1,662; and the Caledonian, an increase of £625.

The traffic on the 1,004 miles of the South Austrian line of the Lombardo-Venetian Railway Company for the week ending April 15, was £49,371, being £26,351 more than in the corresponding week of 1860 on 687 miles; and that on the Lombardo-Venetian line £4,805, showing an increase of £817.

RAILWAYS.

The annexed memoranda, relating to the satisfactory progress of the Scinde Railway and the associated undertakings, are from an official source:—

SCINDE RAILWAY.—The agent, in a letter dated Kurrachee, 22nd March, reports "that an engine may run through the line to Kotree either on the 30th March or the 1st April; but it will be necessary to postpone the actual commencement of traffic for a week, as, among other reasons, the line could not be examined by the consulting engineer to government for an earlier opening. A reduction of the engineering establishment will be made immediately on the opening of the line for traffic."

INDUS STEAM FLOTILLA.—The agent, on the 22nd March, from Kurrachee, writes that "the Stanley steamer was handed over to the traffic department on the 15th March. One of Messrs. Richardson and Duck's cargo flats had been received a day or two previously, and having taken on board 100 tons of stores for the Punjab Railway, the steamer and flat left Kurrachee Harbour for Kotree, where they arrived last evening. I propose to send the Stanley away on her first regular trip about the 8th or 9th April, with 150 tons of railway stores in the flat, and additional cargo, either of general goods or railway stores, in the steamer. One of the tugs was to leave with two locomotives for Mooltan in a few days."

PUNJAB RAILWAY.—The agent, under date from Lahore, March 15, reports that the chief engineer had returned from a tour of inspection along the line to Mooltan, and that "he speaks very favourably of the state in which he found the embankments on the whole length of the line, and that the quantity of ballast on some parts of the line greatly exceeds what he was led to expect."

Regarding the Lahore and Umritsir Railway the agent states that "a recent visit to Umritsir enables me to inform the board that there is on that section of the line an equally satisfactory improvement; the platelaying is rapidly progressing, the deposits of ballast are more frequent and important, and the district engineer reports favourably in other respects."

It is anticipated that the Lahore and Umritsir section will be opened before the end of the current year.

A special meeting of the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway Company is called for the 3rd of May, to consider two Bills pending in Parliament, one of which is for extending the Metropolitan Railway from Smithfield to Finsbury-circus.

An extraordinary meeting of the Nassau Railway Company is called for the 24th May, at Wiesbaden, "to take into consideration the report of the council of administration upon the negotiations with the Prussian Government, and to confirm, if necessary, the provisional agreement entered into with the Government in virtue of the resolutions of the last general meeting, relating to the sale of the railway to the Government."

The annual meeting of the Madras Railway Company is called for the 10th of May. A resolution will be proposed for the conversion into stock of the whole of the paid-up shares in the Fourth Extension capital.

A general meeting of the Zealand Railway Company is called for the 29th of May at Copenhagen. The report for the year 1860 shows a net profit equivalent to a return of 4 per cent. on the shares and debentures. At the extraordinary meeting of this company, held on the 10th instant, at Copenhagen, it was resolved that the concession for a railway from Copenhagen to Elsinore be accepted.

At the annual meeting of the Royal Swedish Railway Company, held on Thursday, it was stated by the chairman (Mr. George E. Seymour) that the traffic during the past year increased 11 per cent. In consequence of the very unfavourable weather there was a large increase in the working expenses, the cost of maintenance of way being, in particular, no less than 66 per cent. beyond that of the previous year. An increase in the tariff has accordingly been decided upon; and for the first quarter of the present year the receipts have been 50 per cent. more than in the same period of 1860. All expenses of every description have been defrayed out of revenue, yet there is still a surplus of £600 upon the company's operations for the past year. The prospects of the undertaking, which is now perfectly free from debt and litigation, are considered to have decidedly improved. A Government branch, connecting the railway with the State line, will be opened next year. After some discussion, £300 was voted for the present year to the English directors, who have, for the last five years, administered the affairs of the company without any remuneration whatever.

A special general meeting of the North London Railway Company is called for the 7th of May, to approve two Bills now before Parliament, one of which empowers the company to construct a railway from Liverpool-street to join their present line at Kingsland.

The share coupons of the Antwerp and Rotterdam Railway Company, for the year ending December last, will be payable at the rate of 6s. 3½d. per share on the 1st of May.

A call of £1. 10s. is to be paid on the shares in the Metropolitan Railway Company by the 16th of May.

BANKS.

The annual meeting of the Oriental Bank proprietors was held on Tuesday, when the directors' report, recommending a dividend of five per cent. for the half-year ending December 31, and a bonus of four per cent., was received as satisfactory, and adopted. A pertinent inquiry by a proprietor as to whether it is the intention of the board to increase the reserve fund, now £252,000, was met by the chairman with the somewhat inappropriate remark, that although the directors have not absolutely limited that fund to its present amount as a maximum, they consider the proportion of one-fifth of the reserve fund in relation to the capital sufficient. The reserve fund ought to be considered, not in relation to the amount of the capital, but to the amount of the liabilities. The latter have increased, in the case of the Oriental Bank, from £9,807,721 at the 31st Dec., 1859, to £10,998,767 at the 31st Dec., 1860—a difference of £1,191,046, yet no addition whatever has been made to the reserve fund. After the recent experience of the Union Bank of London, it may be considered superfluous to insist upon the advisability of every joint-stock bank accumulating a good reserve fund, available for all contingencies.

A considerable number of shareholders in the Bank of Turkey, in consideration of the extraordinary delay which has occurred in carrying out the objects of the undertaking, as well as of the indefensible mystery in which the directors have kept its affairs enshrouded, have sent in a requisition to the board, requiring them to wind it up. The requisition was signed by the holders of about 12,000 shares. The following is a copy of the reply from the company's solicitors:—

57, Coleman-street, London, April 18, 1861.

Gentlemen,—We have submitted to the directors of the Bank of Turkey the requisitions from certain shareholders, which were enclosed in your letter of the 13th instant, and we are desired by them to state that the subject to which you drew their attention has been long under their consideration.

They feel that notwithstanding the value they attach to the concession from the Turkish Government, the time must soon arrive when a final decision must be come to as to the possibility of carrying out the objects of the undertaking, and with this view they have sent Mr. Elkin, an officer of the Bank, to Constantinople, to ascertain what are the intentions of the Government of Turkey, and to protect the interest of the shareholders of the bank.

The directors regret this unavoidable delay, but as soon as they hear of Mr. Elkin, they will communicate to the shareholders the result of his mission.—We are, gentlemen, &c.,

CROWDER, MAYNARD, AND CO.

The administration of the General Bank of Switzerland announces that the dividend upon the coupons Nos. 6 and 7 of the fully paid-up shares will be paid, at 5*f*. each coupon, on the 1st of June. The council will pay at the same time the coupon No. 8, due 1st April, 1861, likewise at 5*f*.

THE NATAL LAND AND COLONISATION COMPANY.

Since the establishment of the Thames and Mersey Marine Insurance Company, no undertaking has been brought on the market that has commanded so much attention as the Natal Land and Colonisation Company (Limited), announced this week. The basis of this project is the purchase (with a view to re-sale) of 250,000 acres of land in the colony of Natal, at an average price of 11*s*. 6*d*. per acre. It is a very satisfactory feature that the vendors take the entire purchase money (£140,000) in paid-up shares. It is justly pointed out by the Times that as these shares stand in a class by themselves, as not being subject to calls, they will be held permanently, so that the vendors of the land look entirely to the ultimate success of the undertaking for their recompense. Following the plan adopted successfully in Canada by the Trust and Loan Company, whose shares are at a high premium, the present company proposes to borrow money on debentures in England, and lend it in the colony on the tangible security of landed estates, at much higher rates. The capital is £225,000, but it will be seen that only £85,000 in cash is sought from the public. The board of direction is very respectable. The shares have been dealt in to some extent this week, and were quoted to-day  $\frac{3}{4}$  to 1 premium.

THE CANADIAN LAND AND EMIGRATION COMPANY.

Another new project is the Canadian Land and Emigration Company (Limited). The principal object of this company is to carry on the class of business which the old-established undertaking known as the Canada Company, and other associations interested in promoting the agricultural development of Canada, have already prosecuted successfully. Land of great intrinsic value can be bought from the Government with an indefeasible title, at an almost trifling price. The land which this company proposes to purchase is obtainable, for example, for about 2*s*. 1*d*. sterling per acre. It is intended to commence operations in a district which is considered to be peculiarly suitable, and which is situated about ninety-five miles from each of the two cities of Kingston and Toronto. The company hopes to make large profits by the re-sale of its land in lots. It will also endeavour to promote emigration and settlement. The names attached to the prospectus are highly respectable, and comprise some well known in connection with colonial matters. The capital is £250,000, and the first issue will be £125,000, of which a large amount has already been subscribed for.

THE LIVERPOOL AND NEW ORLEANS STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.

The Liverpool and New Orleans Steam Navigation Company, (Limited), is announced with a proposed capital of £250,000. It is assumed, and with considerable justice, that the great political convulsion just accomplished in America will lead to the diversion of a large amount of trans-oceanic trade from the Northern to the Southern section of the Union. The commercial relations between New Orleans and the regions watered by the Mississippi, and Liverpool will doubtless become much more intimate and extensive. It is accordingly intended to establish a first class monthly line of steam vessels between Liverpool and New Orleans. Amongst the gentlemen who take part in the enterprise and who assist in its management, are the members of several eminent houses connected with that branch of trade. From the fact that the shares are of so heavy a denomination as £50 each, it will be gathered that the promoters address themselves especially to the investing, as distinguished from the speculative classes.

ASSURANCE COMPANIES.

At the annual meeting of the Scottish Provincial Assurance Company, at Aberdeen, on Friday, the report stated the income to be £87,590, and the accumulated fund £334,606. The assurances during the year were 736 for £270,746, yielding £7,971 in premiums. A dividend of  $7\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. was declared.

An extension of the assurance business is about to be introduced in London under the superintendence of directors of the Mutual Life Assurance Company. It will be called the Mutual Annuity Endowment and Tontine Association, and although entirely separate from the transactions of the Mutual Life Assurance Society, will be carried on at the same building in King-street, Cheapside, and will be managed with the same caution and economy as that office. The chief feature is that it will enable prudent persons to provide for the contingency of long life—that is, for a duration of life beyond the term of active pursuits, when, if there has been no fortune accumulated or pension secured, there must be dependence upon children or other relatives or friends. Under the plans now proposed various descriptions of Tontine will be opened. Classes of subscribers will be formed according to age, and the yearly proceeds of the investments will be divided pro rata. When a subscriber dies his interest will cease, and the amount to be divided among the remaining members of his class will be proportionably increased. Thus, supposing 100 persons, each of the age of 20, subscribe £100 a-piece, with the condition that the principal shall ultimately be distributed among the 10 latest survivors, the income would be paid to each in half-yearly dividends, and those who lived the longest would be constantly receiving an increasing amount. At first the return would be about 4 or 4 $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent., but it would at last be 40 or 45 per cent., and the 10 individuals who had survived their 90 co-subscribers would then each receive £1,000. This mode of provision against old age has long been popular on the Continent, especially in France and Spain, and its adoption here will afford a new means for the growth and exercise of careful habits.

THE FRANCO-SERB COMPANY.

A French Company bearing the above title, and engaged in carrying out a concession from the Servian Government, is in the market for a loan of £40,000, half of which is to be raised in London and the other half abroad. This company has a considerable subsidy for carrying on a steam service on the Danube. Its concession comprises also valuable rights as regards timber and minerals. In addition it possesses the grant for 30 years of the coal mines of Dobra, which extend over a royalty of 17,298 acres. The terms accorded to it being very liberal, the company is enabled to offer terms to English subscribers such as are not usually met with in this market. The Bonds bear 6 per cent. interest payable in London, and are repayable at par within 15 years, by annual drawings. The special attraction held out is that each holder of five Bonds of £8 each shall receive by way of bonus, or free gift, one fully paid-up share of £20, involving no responsibility, whether as regards calls or otherwise. The list is to be closed on the 4th May.

OTHER PUBLIC COMPANIES.

In the Court of Common Pleas, on Saturday, execution was issued against the Great Ship Company, at the suit of Mr. Scott Russell, who is adjudged entitled to £18,000, under the arbitrator's award. The Chief Justice observed, that "if Mr. Russell got his writ, no doubt there would be a reconciliation between the parties, and some arrangement would be come to."

The Great Ship Company (Limited), 90, Cannon-street, London, E.C., April 23.

SIR,—The decision of the Court of Common Pleas, contrary to the unanimous opinion of the Court of Queen's Bench, in the case of Mr. John Scott Russell's claim, renders it necessary to be prepared to lodge about £19,000 in court before an appeal against that decision (with stay of execution meanwhile) is likely to be entertained. The directors think it all important to be thus prepared, so as to prevent delay in the sailing of the ship for New York on the 1st of May next. It is proposed to raise the sum of £35,000 on debentures at six months, bearing interest at 7 per cent. per annum, with which to pay off the present mortgage, and deposit the amount of Mr. Russell's verdict, or to settle with him amicably if possible. The debentures to be further secured by a mortgage on the ship (with policy of insurance), to be given to two responsible persons in trust for the respective debenture-holders. The directors, and others, have already subscribed for about £17,000, so that only £18,000 remains to be provided; and I am instructed by the directors to request that you will favour me with an immediate reply, stating the amount of such debentures for which you are willing to subscribe.—I am, &c.,

J. H. YATES, Secretary.

In the Court of Common Pleas yesterday, in some further proceedings in the case of "Russell v. the Great Ship Company," it was mentioned that the ship and her stores have been seized in execution.

At the annual meeting of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company on Wednesday, the directors' report was adopted, and the usual dividend of £2 per share was declared.

Shareholders in the East India Irrigation and Canal Company have learnt with satisfaction that a petition to the House of Commons is about to be presented, in support of this undertaking, by the Cotton Supply Association, and that the complaint of the company of the unfair treatment received by it at the hands of the Indian Government will shortly be discussed in the House, under auspices calculated to ensure consideration. There never was a time, observes a contemporary, when it was more incumbent on the Government of India to encourage the flow of English capital into reproductive enterprises in that country, and of the various public works proposed, none are more useful or more deserving of support than those connected with irrigation. The company took the work in hand under a specific contract; Government now come upon them with an interpretation of that contract very different from that which it was originally understood to bear; and it is only by public opinion that the scale can be kept fairly balanced between the two parties.

The Submarine Telegraph Company have issued an advertisement inviting applications from the public for the remaining portion of the proposed issue of 7 per cent. debentures to the amount of £70,000, one-half of this amount having been subscribed for by the shareholders. Since the reduced tariff of this company came into operation, on the 1st of February last, their business has increased nearly 30 per cent.

THE PERUVIAN THREE PER CENT. LOAN.

The particulars are published of the Bonds of the Peruvian Three per Cent. Loan which have been purchased and cancelled this month. The sum applicable to the purpose was £48,074.

THE SWEDISH FOUR PER CENT. LOAN.

The particulars are published of various bonds of the Swedish Provincial Mortgage Loan, which are to be paid off at par on the 1st of June.

INTEREST AND DIVIDENDS.

Messrs. Baring Brothers and Co. announce the dividends on Quebec City Sterling Six per Cents. and Louisiana State Sterling Five per Cents.

The Union Bank of Australia announce the half-year's interest on the City of Melbourne Loan.

THE PARIS BOURSE.

At Paris to-day (Friday) the Three per Cent. Rentes opened at 68.35, and closed at 68.70 for money, and 68.65 for the account, showing an improvement of  $\frac{3}{8}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. since yesterday, and an advance of nearly  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. since last Friday.

THE STOCK AND SHARE MARKETS.

The English funds this week have shown much steadiness, owing chiefly to the ease of the money market. Consols have only varied a fraction above and below 92 until this morning, when the price was driven down to  $91\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{5}{8}$ , owing to the news of the commencement of hostilities in America. As it would appear, however, that there has been remarkably little bloodshed, the market recovered this afternoon to  $91\frac{7}{8}$  to 92, both for money and the account. This price is  $\frac{1}{4}$  per cent. below that of last Friday.

The Indian Five per Cent. Stock has continued in demand, and advanced  $\frac{1}{8}$  per cent. to-day, touching at 102 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ . To-day there was a relapse to  $101\frac{5}{8}$  to 102. The Five per Cent. Rupee Paper was quoted to-day  $93\frac{3}{4}$  to  $94\frac{1}{4}$ ; and the Five-and-a-Half per Cent. 100 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ .

A decline of 2s. has taken place in Exchequer Bills, the price to-day was 3s. dis. to par.

The official list of to-day's actual business in the English Funds and Indian Government Securities, is annexed:—

Three per Cent. Consols, for money,  $91\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{5}{8}$ ,  $\frac{7}{8}$ ; ditto for account, May 9,  $91\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{5}{8}$ ; Three per Cents. Enfaced Rupee Paper,  $94\frac{1}{4}$ ; and Exchequer Bills, 3s. dis. to par.

The Turkish loan of 1858 advanced slightly at one period of the week, owing to the effort which is being made by our Government in favour of the Turkish finances (as referred to above). There has since been a relapse, and the prices of both the Six per Cent. Loans closed to-day  $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. lower than on last Friday. Mexican and other Foreign bonds are quiet but steady.

The market for English Railway Stocks this week, has, for the most part, varied with the funds. What little business is going forward is principally speculative. In several instances a slight improvement has occurred, owing to the satisfactory traffic returns and to the scanty supply of some stocks amongst the dealers. To-day, however, the market was rather weaker, owing to the news from America. The most satisfactory feature is that bona fide holders do not sell.

The following shows the closing prices of the principal British Railway Stocks this day, and the result of the week's variations. The share list in detail will be found in another column:—

The demand for colonial government securities continues. Several descriptions show a fresh improvement.

AMERICAN SECURITIES.

The position of the market for American securities is noticed as follows by Messrs. D. Bell, Son, and Co.:—

During the past week there has been but a very limited business in American Securities. State Stocks, as well as Railroad Bonds and Shares, have been dealt in at generally lower prices.

BANK NOTES UNREPRESENTED BY GOLD.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—At school they used to set me a copy saying that there had been a golden, a silver, and an iron age, but that ours was the paper age. Some ten years later, when the Russian ruble had fallen to one-fourth of its nominal value, Danish paper to one-twentieth, and Austrian to no value at all, and when twenty guineas sold in England for twenty-eight one-pound notes, the British Parliament passed the memorable resolution that paper money was not depreciated, but that gold had risen; and it is not many years since discussion ran high as to the deposits at the Bank being liabilities or not, the Bank leaning towards the latter opinion.

However diffident we may be, and whatever deference one may habitually entertain for the authorities that rule the money interest of this country, recollections like the above will beget doubt—not the less so for knowing that the Bank has lent its capital, as it were, on mortgage, and therefore cannot carry on business as a money-lender but by means of the same nature as the kite-flying pursued by other traders under such circumstances. What else is the ingenious contrivance of manufacturing fourteen millions of money out of cast-off petticoats? These fourteen millions, professing to be tantamount to as much solid gold, do they not bear a strong resemblance to the celebrated spelter warrants of Coles and Co.? What are these bank notes but gold warrants? What are these fourteen millions of notes but warrants for gold which is not, as those spelter warrants were for metal that was not? Where is the difference? Law sanctions the one and sends the issuers of the other to the Old Bailey, but law cannot make legally right what is morally wrong, and confer on perishable and worthless things the nature of precious, durable, indestructible commodities. By hook and by crook, the spelter men contrived for a good while to keep these warrants afloat; does the Bank do otherwise?

Fourteen millions were the sum fixed upon, on the plea that such an amount was necessary to the country, and would not, nor could, under any circumstances, be presented for payment. If so, why this periodical alarm? The Bank holds ample provision for all notes but these; if every sovereign were to leave the Bank, in exchange for its other notes, that institution ought to remain at its ease, if, as we are told, the fourteen millions are necessary to the country, and will, under no circumstances, be presented for payment. But I disbelieve it altogether. At times, I am sure, it is difficult to keep comfortably afloat even eight or six millions. I say comfortably, for, by hook and by crook, more is made to float, but by means which are a commercial mistake and a national calamity.

As an ounce of fact is worth a pound of argument, I shall ventilate the Bank operations of the past five months in my next letter, having the most perfect conviction that my illustrations will fully confirm my assertions.—I am, sir, yours, &c., A.

Mines.

FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 26.

In the Mining Market this week attention has been principally monopolised with East Wheal Grenville shares. The demand for these has been of an extraordinarily active character, and a great advance has taken place. The market in other respects has been rather dull, and in several instances a slight reduction is observable. The late rise in East Caradon shares is not fully supported.

It being understood that an important discovery has been made at East Wheal Grenville, the shares were again in animated demand to-day. The transactions were very numerous, and a fresh rise was established. Bryn Gwiog, North Minera, Wheal Grenville, Wheal Moyle, and Birch Tor and Vitiifer shares were also inquired for. East Caradon were flatter.

The following prices are reported to us from the Stock Exchange this evening:—

Camborne Vean, 2 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; East Basset, 97 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 100; East Caradon, 18 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 19; East Carn Brea, 8 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; East Grenville, 55s. to 60s.; Great Wheal Fortune, 11 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Herodsfoot, 38 to 39; Lady Bertha, 22s. 6d. to 27s. 6d.; Marke Valley, 7 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; New Seton, 45 to 47; North Downs, 3 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 4; North Treskerby, 23 to 24; Providence Mines, 39 to 41; South Frances, 130 to 140; Stray Park, 35 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 36 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Treloweth, 3 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; West Basset, 18 to 19; West Caradon, 70 to 72; West Rose Down, 11 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 12 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; West Stray Park, 4 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 5 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Wheal Clifford, 175 to 180; Wheal Ludcott, 3 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 4; Wheal Margaret, 48 to 50.

In foreign mining shares the principal feature has been a reduction in United Mexican. Colonial mining securities are steady.

The shares of the Labuan Coal Company were quoted to-day 3 $\frac{1}{4}$  to 3 $\frac{3}{4}$  prem.

At West Wheal Seton meeting, on the 16th inst., the accounts showed a profit on the two months' working of £4,026. 11s. 10d. A dividend of £10 per share (£4,000) was declared, leaving £799. 4s. 2d. to the next account, in addition to £7,870. 14s. 10d. by the sale of copper ores on March 7.

Wheal Clifford, on the 17th inst., declared a dividend of £5 per share (£2,500).

At Wheal Kitty (St. Agnes) meeting, on the 19th inst., the accounts showed a balance of liabilities over assets of £1,102. A call of 2s. 6d. per share was made.

The Camborne Consols accounts, presented at the meeting on the 17th inst., showed a debit balance of £151. 17s. 9d.

At West Stray Park Mine meeting, on the 17th inst., the accounts showed a debit balance of about £600. A call of 12s. 6d. per share was made.

At East Wheal Grenville meeting on Tuesday, a call of 2s. per share was made.

The Penhall's Mine accounts, presented at the meeting on Tuesday, showed a credit balance of £42. 18s. 1d.

At Wentnor Mine meeting on Tuesday, a call of 5s. per share was made.

A general meeting of shareholders in Pendeen Consols Mine was held on Tuesday. The accounts showed a balance of £2,126. 1s. 4d. in favour of the mine. The committee was re-elected. The agents report very favourably on the mine.

A meeting of the Mariquita and New Granada Mining Company was held on the 17th instant, Mr. Routh in the chair, when the directors were empowered to borrow £7,300 in 10 per cent. debentures in addition to the £12,700 already authorised.

At Great Wheal Alfred meeting this day, the accounts showed a debit balance of £2,668. 10s. 3d. A call of 3s. per share was made.

North Basset Mine, on Wednesday, made a call of 3s. per share.

At Lady Bertha Mine meeting on Thursday, the accounts showed a balance of liabilities over assets of £1,029. A call of 2s. per share was made.

East Tamar Mine sold on Thursday 20 tons of lead, at £14. 1s. per ton.

Par Consols Mine has sold 21 tons 12 cwt. of black tin, for £1,452; and West Fowey Consols 14 tons 3 cwt., for £963.

Mr. J. E. Coleman has been appointed by the Master of the Rolls official liquidator of the Risca Coal and Iron Company.

An advance of £5 per ton took place on Tuesday in the price of English tin. The present price of refined is £127.

From East Grenville the subjoined official despatch was received on Thursday:—"Lode maintains its size, and looking equally as well. 25 west, 3 $\frac{1}{2}$  feet wide, kindly lode."

THE WEST DEVON CONSOLIDATED COPPER MINE.—The steam engine on this mine was set to work on Saturday, the 22nd inst., in the presence of a large number of gentlemen interested in this adventure, and mining operations generally. The machinery was started about two o'clock, when every portion of the mechanism performed its part in the most perfect manner, and to the complete satisfaction of all present. The ceremony of christening having been performed, the party, to the number of about forty, sat down to dinner, when the chair was taken by Mr. W. S. Trotter, secretary and agent to the company. The cloth being removed, several gentlemen, having a practical knowledge of the property, gave their opinions as to the value of the mine, holding out the best hopes to the shareholders of the success of the undertaking. Now that the machinery is started, the water will be got out in as short a time as possible, and the working of the property will proceed in a regular manner—when it is confidently expected that considerable results will be realised.

MERCANTILE EMBARRASSMENTS.

Messrs. Churchill, Macmillan, and Co., wood brokers, of Cannon-street, stopped payment on Tuesday, but the liabilities are understood to be moderate. One or two small failures in the same trade are announced in connection with this suspension.

A meeting of creditors of Messrs. Burrell and Geary, corn and coal merchants, of Millbank, was held on Tuesday, when a statement of their affairs was submitted by Messrs. Harding, Ball, and Bush, showing liabilities (after deducting securities in the hands of creditors) of £8,680, and assets £4,425. A guaranteed composition of 10s. in the pound was agreed to unanimously.

The adjourned meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Leone Rodocanachi and Co., Greek merchants, was held on Tuesday. Since the last meeting, held on the 24th January, the liabilities in connection with the houses in this country, and those at Marseilles, Alexandria, and Constantinople have increased only £187, the total now being £101,937, while the assets now amount to £134,993; being £1,900 above the sum previously mentioned. The realisation of the assets up to the present time has been sufficient to allow of the payment at once of a dividend equal to 40 per cent., or 8s. in the pound, and it was proposed to pay in addition 4s. in November next, 4s. in May (1862), and the remaining 4s. (making 20s. in the pound) in November (1862), with interest at the rate of 5 per cent. The partners reserve to themselves the right of anticipating such payments, if able to do so. A resolution was passed unanimously agreeing to the terms offered, and leaving the further liquidation of the estate with Messrs. L. Rodocanachi and Co.

A meeting took place on Thursday of the creditors of Messrs. Cook and Greenwood, wine and spirit merchants, who recently failed. Their liabilities, according to a balance-sheet presented by Mr. Quilter, the accountant, amount to £14,850, and their assets to £6,837. It was proposed to pay a composition of 7s. 6d. in the pound, in instalments extending over seven months, but several creditors spoke in favour of bankruptcy proceedings, although it was mentioned that a winding-up in the court would reduce the dividend to 3s. The show of hands was in favour of the acceptance of the composition. Nevertheless, at the conclusion of the meeting, it was intimated by the dissentient creditors that they had determined to throw the estate into bankruptcy.

At an adjourned meeting on Thursday of the creditors of Mr. D. Navone, Greek merchant, it was resolved to wind up the estate under inspection. Although the assets show now about 5s. in the pound, it is doubted whether the ultimate dividend will be more than 2s.

With reference to the affairs of Mr. E. Vitalis, Greek merchant, who failed in February, the accountant engaged issued the subjoined circular on Thursday:—

7, Gresham-street, London, E.C., April 25, 1861.

I beg to inform you that, with the concurrence of the inspectors to his estate, Mr. E. Vitalis has, since the date of my last communication, proceeded to Constantinople with the view of effecting arrangements with his principal debtors there, upon the liquidation of whose estate the result of his own will mainly depend. In pursuance, however, of the resolution passed at the general meeting of creditors held on 27th February, a pro forma meeting took place here to-day, and was again adjourned until the 27th May, on the understanding that I am to summon one prior to that date, if any intelligence of sufficient importance is received from Constantinople, Mr. Vitalis having been there too short a time to enable him up to the present time to send home any reliable report as to the probable settlement of his affairs. I may, in addition, state that I am advised, through independent channels, that the settlement of his debtors' affairs, as well as of his own firm, is likely to prove satisfactory.—I am, &c.,

CHARLES F. KEMP.

It appears that the commercial difficulties at Marseilles, lately referred to, were only temporarily adjusted. Much regret was excited on Saturday last by the announcement that the two firms spoken of—namely, Messrs. Gabriel Hava and Co., and Messrs. Demetrius Baltazzi and Co., both of that city—have at last been obliged to stop payment. They are two of the most eminent houses in the Levant trade, and it is believed that the aggregate liabilities will not be less than a million sterling. The bulk of their acceptances are held by the Bank of France, and it is understood that the unwillingness of that establishment to grant an extension of accommodation has contributed to bring their affairs to a crisis. Any loss that may occur will fall chiefly abroad. In most quarters, however, it is believed that the two firms have merely been overtaken by the undue extent of their engagements, and that the assets will prove to be very large. The excellent character for caution enjoyed by the management of the Bank of France, who have hitherto given them great support, affords much ground for this hopeful view. It is considered by no means improbable that assistance may yet be extended to them. Messrs. G. Hava and Co., of Marseilles, are understood not to be partners in the firm of P. Hava and Co., of London. Messrs. D. Baltazzi and Co., of Marseilles, have no house in London.

The Produce and other Markets.

COLONIAL PRODUCE.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 26.

The transactions in Colonial Produce have been of moderate extent during the week, quotations showing little alteration, and the markets are quiet at the close to-day. Coffee remains firm, further parcels of Plantation Ceylon just landed, finding buyers at full prices. The heavy supplies of Sugar brought forward have only partly sold, previous rates not being quite maintained in several cases, and the consumers, who are for the present well stocked, now evince less desire to operate, owing to the extensive arrivals expected. Bengal Saltpetre has sold at rather lower prices, but to-day there were partial enquiries at the reduction established on good to fine grades. Rice is dull, white Bengal and cargo kinds being 3d. to 6d. per cwt. cheaper. No change has occurred in Spice. The Tea market is steady by private contract, but the public sales have passed off without much animation. Cocoa remains much neglected. Rum has continued in but limited request, and the business done has been on rather easier terms for common West India kinds. Tapioca (Penang), unless of fine quality, is slow of sale. An active demand for Cotton has again been experienced, and a further improvement in value has in most cases been realised.

THE TALLOW TRADE.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, APRIL 26.

The Tallow Market during the past week has exhibited no change of any importance. There has been a steady demand for consumption; but although this demand has materially reduced the available stock (of sorts), a very trifling advance in prices has been established, and this only on certain qualities, the general conviction prevailing that the probable demand for the next month or two will be adequately met by the arrivals of sorts, and a portion of the old Y.C., held mostly at present by the monopolists. Of the latter article, a large quantity may at any moment be brought forward, and it is not likely that the holders will keep it out of the market much longer. Its quality is now rapidly deteriorating, and it will soon be difficult to dispose of it even at the moderate prices at which it will probably be submitted. The transactions connected with the monopoly in first sort Y.C. Tallow have had, since our last advice, but little effect on quotations, nor do we think that much importance can be fairly attached to them in their probable influence on the future. There was some show of firmness in the early part of the week, and much talk of a rapid advance in quotations for the April to June account; but the only result appears to have been a rise of 3d. to 6d. per cwt. for October to December delivery. Some repose seems to have been thought expedient after this effort, and a degree of languor has again prevailed in the market.

To-day very little speculative business has been transacted; first sort Y.C. is quoted 59s. for ready delivery; the same to the end of June; and 55s. 6d. per cwt. October to December.

The arrivals for the week ending the 25th inst. were 816 casks; deliveries, 1,249 casks; stock this day, 70,764 casks; showing a decrease of 433 casks.

Town Tallow has been in steady demand during the week, and the melters have had more difficulty in meeting the wants of consumers. This evening an advance of 9d. has taken place, the latter price being 57s. 3d. or 54s. 9d. per cwt. net cash. Fat, 2s. 11½d. per stone of 8 lbs.

The following are the particulars of the public sales this day:—
 Y.C.—78 casks unbracketed were offered, of very inferior quality; the entire parcel was sold at 51s. 9d. per cwt.

Odesa.—223 casks were offered, 153 casks sold. This Tallow has been in active demand during the week, forming the bulk of the deliveries, and 53s. to 53s. 6d. for fine Ox have been obtained. Fine Sheep has been scarce, and has brought as high as 55s. 6d. to 56s. The prices at auction to-day were, for middling to fair, Sheep, 55s. to 55s. 3d.; dull to fair, mixed, 52s. to 54s. 3d. Fine Ox, 53s.; lower qualities, of heavy colour, 52s. per cwt.

Australian.—Supplies have continued very light, and the business of the week has been limited to the sales of a few parcels, chiefly fine Ox, at 52s. 6d. to 53s. per cwt., the latter price being the extreme quotation. To-day there was none of this Tallow offered.

North American.—There were 32 casks only offered to-day, of inferior to fair quality. The parcel was sold at 50s. to 53s. per cwt. The quantity on the market is very small; 54s. is quoted for fine sound description.

Ibrazil.—A parcel of 55 skins was offered to-day, of which 5 skins were sold at 53s. good bright Ox. Sheep was bought in at 55s. per cwt.

East India.—We have no sales of any extent to notice. The quantity on hand has continued small, the bulk of it being of middling quality. 7 casks and 100 cases were offered to-day. The former brought 50s. per cwt., quality middling, rather dreggy. The cases were very inferior, and were not competed for, being taken in above their value.

Continental, &c.—The market has been almost without supplies. 20 casks of fair Belgian were offered to-day, and found buyers at 53s. to 53s. 3d. 6 casks of Scotch tallow went at 53s. 6d. per cwt., nett cash. The quality was very good.

Cocoa Nut Oil has continued to support the quotations of last week, but under existing conditions of supply and demand, we do not look for any advance in prices, although a steady business has been maintained. Of 502 casks Cochin and 213 casks Ceylon offered to day, 192 casks of the former were sold at 47s. 6d. to 48s.; quality good, and the whole of the Ceylon, of average description, at 46s. to 46s. 3d. per cwt.

Palm Oil.—The improvement in prices noticed last week has been steadily maintained; the demand for fine qualities has been good, and stocks have been much reduced. To-day 206 casks were offered; 70 casks were sold; fine Whydah at 45s. 6d. to 45s. 9d. and good red Lagos at 44s., a better sort being bought in at 46s. A few casks of inferior brought 40s. to 42s. per cwt.

Palm Nut Oil.—Only 3 casks (inferior quality) were offered, for which no bid was made. The article is scarce, and 38s. 6d. to 39s. per cwt. may be quoted as the value of fine quality.

South American Horse Grease has not shown any change during the week. Small parcels have been disposed of at 38s.; 23 pipes and 218 cases were offered to-day. The pipes were all sold at 38s. per cwt.; the cases were bought in at the same price.—Furnished by Messrs. Culverwell, Brooks, & Co., Brokers.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET.

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY MORNING, APRIL 26.

There has been a good demand for cotton this week, the accounts from the States conveying the idea of higher rates. Prices have been generally well supported, and show an advance of ½d. per lb. in some instances compared with the rates of Friday last.

[BY ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.]

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

The market has been firm to-day, with sales to the amount of 20,000 bales, half of which were taken on speculation and the other moiety for exportation. The imports to-day are 37,437 bales. The sales of the week comprise 80,070 bales, including 13,050 on speculation and 12,050 for exportation, and the imports 145,553 bales. The present stock is 954,100 bales.

The Corn Trade.

LONDON, FRIDAY AFTERNOON, APRIL 26.

With the only exception of a passing shower last Tuesday, no rain has fallen in London since the 4th of this month—say for upwards of three weeks. In other parts of the country the weather has also been rainless, and generally cloudless, except during the last eight days, when clouds commenced gathering, without however dissolving into rain. The wind continued to blow from the East and North-east, lowering the temperature in day-time, with frost at night. Vegetation has been much retarded by the dry and cold temperature.

SUPPLY.—The supply of home-grown wheat has been this week about equal to the quantity brought forward in the preceding week, but there has been less of barley, and still less of oats. Farmers have been so fully engaged in field-work lately that time and hands have been wanting for threshing out corn. A fair quantity of corn is supposed to remain at present in the lands of farmers, but mostly of inferior quality. The latest weekly returns of the quantity of grain sold in England and Wales are as follows:—Wheat, 64,360 qrs. at 56s. 9d.; barley, 24,466 qrs. at 37s. 3d.; oats, 8,456 qrs. at 23s. 5d. per qr.

IMPORTS.—The imports of foreign grain show a considerable reduction this week compared with preceding returns, the quantity being about one-half short of previous returns. The largest proportion of grain imported is still wheat—principally from the Baltic and America, with a moderate addition from the South of Europe. The imports of barley show a falling off compared with preceding weeks. The imports of oats are also smaller, and of maize only moderate.

The British Corn Trade has been characterised this week by inactivity and a downward tendency of prices. The recent reduction in the rate of discount, and the greater abundance of money, have been partially counteracted by the unimproved fine weather during the last three weeks, the improved opinion about the growing crops, and the expectation of large imports of grain during the ensuing months. Wheat—superior sorts continue scarce, and in demand, and fetch extreme prices, but all inferior sorts are difficult to dispose of at present quotations. Flour—with a moderate demand, prices show no change of importance—if anything, slightly cheaper. Barley—the trade rallied this week, and superior sorts advanced in price 1s. per qr., with an improved demand, under an impression that the growing spring crops might be injured by want of rain. Oats—with a falling off in the imports, holders have become more confident, and have recovered about from 6d. to 1s. per qr. from last week's depression. Maize—the demand has been very quiet for some time past, partly in consequence of the falling off in the consumption of this kind of grain, and also owing to the anticipation of large imports from America. Prices are quoted this week about 1s. under last week's rates. Beans have again advanced this week in price 1s. per qr. Peas without material alteration in value.

In Mark-lane to-day the attendance of the trade was moderate, and the tone quiet. Wheat—English, in retail demand, at last Monday's prices. Foreign—not much business doing, unaltered, at last Monday's rates. Flour—American, in quiet demand, and quoted the same as last Monday; Norfolk, 38s. to 39s. per 280lbs. Barley is still inquired after, at last Monday's advance. Oats—Steady, at last Monday's improvement. Beans—Firm, at last Monday's rise. Peas—Unaltered.

Imports of foreign grain and flour into London since Monday last:—44,450 qrs. wheat, 3,600 qrs. barley, 2,170 sks. flour, 16,910 qrs. oats.

[BY ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.]

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY AFTERNOON.

The attendance of the trade was small. Wheat was in slow demand, at last Tuesday's rates. Flour—Dull sale, without change in value. Oats and Oatmeal, quiet. Maize—Mixed, 38s. 6d.; yellow and white, unaltered.

The object of this Company is to work the Glan-y-Pwll Slate Quarries, situated in the parish of Festiniog, in the county of Merioneth, North Wales, and on the same mountain range as those magnificent quarries owned by Lord Palmerston, Messrs. Huddart and Mathews, and Mr. Holland. This sett adjoins their boundary, is a direct continuation of their seam, and consequently produces slate rock of precisely the same character and quality.

From the position of this sett it is, perhaps, unequalled in Wales in natural facilities. The workings are about 250 yards from the level, and the slate rock crops out from the top of the mountain. From the works an incline, at a comparatively small cost, may be laid down for the conveyance of slates in railway trucks direct to the main line, running within 100 yards of the mountain, to the quay at Port Madoc. The carriage is about 3s. 6d. per ton. Another very important advantage is the space afforded for the deposit of waste or debris sufficient for an unlimited period. The water-power is at all seasons ample for any work that may be required.

A considerable portion of the capital has been already subscribed.

Plans of the quarry, together with reports and samples of the slates, may be seen at the Office of the Company.

Applications for the remaining shares to be made to the Bankers, Solicitors, Brokers, and the Manager, at the Office of the Company, where prospectuses and forms of applications may be obtained.

OBJECTS OF THE COMPANY.—This Company is formed for the purchase and re-sale of land in the prosperous Colony of Natal, 250,000 acres, held under grants from the Crown, have been secured as a commencement, at the average price of 11s. 6d. per acre. The estates thus bought belonged to many of the principal settlers in the colony, who have accepted the entire purchase-money (£140,000) in the paid-up shares of the Company, under the conviction that its operations will be highly remunerative, and that its shares will form an excellent investment, augmenting in value with the prosperity of the colony.

The Company will offer inducements to a valuable class of emigrants with adequate means and experience to settle on their property, and it will enable European capitalists to participate in the profits arising from the rapid increase in the value of land, and make safe and highly profitable investments.

The Company will make advances on the mortgage of landed estates and other approved securities. The capital thus advanced will be repaid by the issue of debentures for convenient sums and for stated periods, bearing a fixed rate of interest, with coupons attached, payable half-yearly at the Company's bankers in London. Thus the capital will be frequently turned over, and will afford, upon each re-investment, a distinct and repeated profit, arising out of the difference between the rates at which the Company will borrow in the English market and the high colonial interest on its mortgage loans. This branch of the Company's business will obtain a large and early remuneration for the shareholders, and will rapidly augment the value of their estates by advancing the prosperity of the colony.

The Company will act as agents for the purchase of estates, or for making other investments in the colony, and will transact any financial business at home that may be entrusted to it by the local government, by public bodies, or other constituents.

POSITION AND ADVANTAGES OF NATAL.—Natal lies on the South-East Coast of Africa, between 29 degrees and 31 degrees south latitude. It contains an area of about 20,000 square miles, with 140 miles of coast, and is well watered by 23 rivers flowing into the Indian Ocean. The climate is the most salubrious of our colonial possessions, and admirably adapted to European constitutions. The Natal territory forms three terraces of different elevations. The coast land yields the most luxuriant crops of sugar, coffee, and arrowroot, and is well suited for the growth of cotton, indigo, ground nut, and other tropical productions. The midland and upper districts produce wheat, barley, oats, Indian corn, beans, flax, and every kind of European fruit and vegetables, and are well suited for sheep farms, and the breeding of horses and cattle. The export of wool is steadily and rapidly increasing, and coal is found in two distinct localities, and is used by the colonists.

The European population numbers 15,000; the natives enter freely into the service of the settlers, and the recent introduction of Coolies from India meets the increasing demand for labour.

Her Majesty's Government have manifested their conviction of the important position this colony is destined to occupy, by authorising the local government to raise £165,000, at which sum contracts have been concluded for the construction of harbour works at Port Natal, according to a plan approved by the Admiralty, and to be executed under the direction of James Abernethy, Esq., C.E.

The proposed new line of steamers between the Mauritius and the Cape, via Natal, will shorten the distance from England to Natal from 42 to 34 days.

PRODUCTION OF COTTON.—Great attention is now directed to the facilities which Natal offers for the growth of large quantities of cotton, of a quality which experience has proved to be fully equal to that of America, the supplies from whence are now imperilled by political conflicts. In the Appendix will be found important extracts relating to this subject, from the despatches of the Lieutenant-Governor and other authorities.

Many of the Company's estates are admirably adapted to the growth of this important staple, and the Directors are prepared to deal liberally with public bodies or private individuals desiring to undertake its cultivation; and, should they determine to carry out the long cherished plan of promoting the removal of free blacks from North America to a climate well suited to their constitution, the Company will enter heartily into their views.

SUGAR.—Much of the land in Natal, including many of the Company's estates, is fully equal in productiveness to the sugar lands of the Mauritius, which command very high prices. The Natal sugar crop for the current year is estimated at 3,000 to 4,000 tons, or nearly double the exports of Mauritius in 1812, since which date the sugar exports from the latter have risen to 110,000 tons; and there is every reason to anticipate an equal rate of increase in the Natal exports of this important staple.

GENERAL REMARKS.—By actively assisting emigration, and promoting the influx of capital into the colony, the Company will accelerate the already rapid rise in the value of land—the principal source of the anticipated large profits to the Shareholders. Every plot of land sold and brought into cultivation augments the value of adjoining sections; and advantage will be taken of this fact, in the allotment of estates, to reserve for the Company their fair share of the benefits arising from the growth and prosperity of the colony.

The Company offers great facilities to farmers and others desiring to settle in Natal, as it possesses estates fitted for every variety of culture, full particulars of which can be obtained on application at the Company's offices; and provisional agreements for purchases can be effected subject to confirmation after inspection by the colonist.

Lands will be sold at prices dependent upon their quality and locality, and the capital of settlers will be left available for purposes of cultivation, by allowing portions of the purchase-money to remain on mortgage, or by other means adapted to meet the wants of emigrants, and at the same time afford ample security to the Company. To give further aid to the industrious settler upon their estates, the Company will be prepared to make prudent advances upon his improvements, and will adopt every legitimate means of promoting the growth of sugar, coffee, and other expensive but highly remunerative crops.

Very favourable terms will be granted to associated bodies of immigrants, who may wish to purchase large blocks of land to found a town or village; and, in such cases, free grants of land will be made for the erection of schools and places of religious worship.

PROFITS.—The profits of the Company will arise from the sale of estates at enhanced prices; from the rents of its lands; from the investments of its capital at high rates of colonial interest, and the difference between the rates of interest at which the Company will borrow on this market and lend in the colony—and the commission upon its agencies.

The Company will be managed on principles analogous to those of the Canada and other successful Land Companies. The shares of the Canada Company have risen from £32. 10s. to £109.

The Directors have much pleasure in stating that they have secured the services of Carl Behrens, Esq., late Manager of the Natal Bank, to act as this Company's manager in Natal; and as evidence of the security with which prudent advances may be effected in that colony, it may be observed that during six years of Mr. Behrens's management of the Natal Bank, that establishment did not make a single bad debt, and paid annual dividends of from 15 to 18 per cent.

In an Appendix to this prospectus will be found letters illustrating the increasing value of land in Natal, from Adolphe Coqui, Esq., member of the Legislative Council in Natal, and from Henry Milner, Esq., one of the earliest sugar planters in the colony, and formerly member of its Legislative Council.

A pamphlet giving full particulars on all matters relating to the colony, and which is especially adapted as a guide to intending emigrants, can be had at the Company's offices and of Messrs. Jones and Causton, 47, Eastcheap.

FORM OF APPLICATION FOR SHARES.

No. — This must be presented to the Brokers, or the Secretary of the Company, No. 41, Threadneedle-street.

Offices—25, Old Broad-street, London, E.C.

This Company has been formed for the purpose of settling a tract of land, situate near the centre of Canada West, and comprising about 450,000 acres, divided into townships, which has been purchased from the Canadian Government, at the rate of 2s. 1d. sterling per acre, with advantageous terms of settlement. The surveys already made of this locality show it to possess great fertility of soil, a good supply of water, and other essentials of an agricultural district, besides being of easy access. These townships will be fully surveyed and divided into smaller lots, to be sold or let to settlers upon terms not only convenient to the emigrant, but also remunerative to the Company.

Upwards of 12,000 shares have already been taken up in reply to private circulars, and, excluding those reserved for appropriation to applicants from Canada, there remain only 9,000 shares to be allotted, for which immediate application will be necessary.

Prospectuses, containing full particulars and forms of application for shares, may be had from the Brokers of the Company, or from the Secretary, at the Offices, 25, Old Broad-street, London.

THE BEARIZ TIN STREAMING COMPANY (Limited).

The LIST OF APPLICATIONS FOR SHARES in this Company will be CLOSED on MONDAY, the 6th of May next.

Application for shares (as per annexed form) to be made to Messrs. T. Tinley and Sons, Sharebrokers, Liverpool.
Messrs. Huggins and Rowse, Sharebrokers, 1, Threadneedle-street, London.

Messrs. Shore and Kirk, Sharebrokers, Manchester.
Mr. John Perry, Sharebroker, Waterloo-street, Birmingham.

Long before the secession of the Confederate States it was a matter of surprise to the commercial world that, amongst the various lines of Atlantic steam communication, there should not have been one established between Liverpool and New Orleans, and that the extensive traffic in the produce of the great Mississippi Valley, carried on between the American ports of shipment and their European emporium, should be either still confined to sailing ships, or diverted into costly, circuitous, and inconvenient channels.

It is obvious that this extraordinary omission must have been injurious alike to the commerce of both the aforesaid ports.

Whilst New Orleans is undeniably the point to which shipments of manufactured goods, for the supply of the large and increasing markets in the great cities on the Mississippi and its tributaries, should be directed, it is also becoming the entrepot for Texas, Mexico, and other districts on the Mexican Gulf.

Notwithstanding these facts, however, and although there has long existed in the Southern States a strong desire to establish direct commercial relations with Europe, and thus become independent of the Northern importers and manufacturers, yet a large portion of this valuable traffic has been, through the absence of direct steam conveyance, driven to New York and Boston, at a great loss, both of time and money, to all parties interested.

The foregoing observations apply with even more force to the passenger traffic. Large numbers of passengers are compelled every year to traverse the Atlantic, to or from New York, at inconvenient seasons, and frequently at the cost of much suffering; whereas, in passing to or from New Orleans, smooth seas and summer weather may be relied on for at least three-fourths of the voyage.

Superadded to these important considerations, the secession of the Southern States, and their liberal tariff as compared with that of the Northern States, will now render a direct steam communication absolutely indispensable; and, from numerous inquiries that have been instituted in New Orleans, it has been satisfactorily ascertained that an efficient line of steamers would there be welcomed, and that it would be generally and liberally supported, not only by the importers and dealers in European goods, but by exporters of American produce and the planters in the interior.

Under these circumstances, therefore, and with a view to provide partial accommodation for this large trade already in existence, and which, it may with truth be affirmed, is capable of unlimited extension, it is proposed to establish, as soon as suitable vessels can be constructed, a Monthly Line of First-class Steamers between New Orleans and Liverpool, to be hereafter increased in number as circumstances may require.

A careful calculation of the estimated receipts and expenditure of the proposed Company has been made by gentlemen who are in every way conversant with the state of the existing traffic and with the management of steam-vessels, and the result, after making a liberal allowance for interest of capital, wear and tear, and all the usual contingencies, shows a dividend of about 12 per cent. There is, therefore, no reason to doubt that, with due care, punctuality, and fidelity, the undertaking will yield a most satisfactory return to the shareholders.

N.B.—Coals of excellent quality are always obtainable at New Orleans at a moderate price.

AT a MEETING of the LANDHOLDERS and COMMERCIAL ASSOCIATION of BRITISH INDIA, held at the Office of the Association, 8, Craig's-court, Charing-cross, on the 27th of April inst.,

D. MACKINLAY, Esq., in the Chair,

It was resolved:—

That it is the anxious desire of this Association that some public opportunity be afforded to the independent British settlers in India to re-ute the unfounded and injurious charges made against them by Mr. Lazard in a recent speech.

That the policy of the Government of Bengal, approved of by the Secretary of State for India, is destroying capital, discouraging industry, and leading to the expulsion of European settlers from the country, and the impoverishment of the natives.

That the Lieutenant-Governor's interference with the judicial officers of Bengal has already been most mischievous, and that the power of so interfering is one that ought to be restrained; that one of the most important subjects, and one deserving of immediate attention, is the thorough reform of, and suppression of corruption in, the courts and police throughout India; and the establishment of Small Cause Courts with judges, who, by being independent of dictation from superior authority, may administer equal justice to both natives and Europeans.

That the Association approves of the answer to the minute of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, dated the 17th December, 1860 (now submitted to the meeting), and that the Chairman be requested to sign and forward this document to the Secretary of State for India.

W. V. EDDIS, Secretary.

INDIAN FINANCE AND INDIAN RAILWAYS.—THE POLICY OF A GOVERNMENT LOAN.

ACCORDING to the latest financial accounts from India, the estimated deficit for 1861-62 amounts to £4,500,000, which will probably be met in a great measure by the reductions which will take place in the Military and Civil expenditure, and by an increase of the duty on salt. It is assumed, in estimating this deficit, that the Income and Licence Taxes will produce only £2,000,000, which is considered to be under, rather than over, the mark.

When it is recollected that the railway expenditure in India is going on at the rate of £500,000 a month, and that it must be provided for either by the Companies or by the Government, it is clear that some £6,000,000 must be forthcoming, from one source or other, during the present year. It is admitted on all hands that no policy would be so fatal as any delay in the completion of the Indian railways. Their completion has become not only a financial, but a political and commercial, necessity. The force of the latter consideration is greatly increased by the events in the United States.

We have every belief that, if time be given them, the Indian Railway Companies would be able to raise the capital required for their respective lines. But time is an element of immense importance in the matter, and is precisely what cannot be given; for to facilitate the transport of the cotton and other produce of India from the interior to the coast is of paramount importance, and delay might be attended, at the present juncture, with serious consequences to our manufacturing interests and population.

These premises being admitted, would it not be well, as a matter of mere precaution, that the Indian Government should come forward and raise a loan for a considerable amount in England, so as to enable the Government in India to prosecute the railway works with vigour, by means of liberal advances to the Companies, until such time as the latter are in a position to repay the advances by calls on their shares and by the issue of debentures?

In the present disposition of the public to invest in Indian Five per Cent. Stock, there would be no difficulty in raising any sum that might be required at par, or a fraction below. Virtually, therefore, it can make no difference to the Indian Government whether it raises the money itself or guarantees the money raised by the companies, whilst the fact of the Government coming forward to push on railway works would give great confidence and a great impetus to the desire of the public to invest in the railway securities. For the present it would appear that the public prefer Indian Government Five per Cent. Stock to Indian Railway Guaranteed Five per Cent. Stock, or to Five per Cent. Debentures, guaranteed by the Indian Government. As the railways develop themselves the reverse may be the case, but our business is with the present, not with the future.

Should the Indian Council determine on assisting the railways liberally, no delay ought to take place in bringing the Indian financial statement before Parliament, and in obtaining its sanction to raise whatever sum may be required. Under the most favourable circumstances a delay of six weeks or two months must occur before the sanction of Parliament is obtained, and that would probably be the most favourable time for raising a loan. The Indian Government will also do well to be first in the field as a borrower, for there is scarcely a government in Europe that will not require a loan this year.

In support of the view which we have adduced, it is hardly necessary to advert to the well-known fact that Indian railways, though constructed by, and the property of, companies, are intimately identified with the Government, and are, in a sense, State undertakings, just as much as they are works of State necessity. The Government has its representative at the board of every one of them, and is, therefore, by implication, answerable for their acts, and responsible for their progress. We are merely arguing, therefore, that State assistance must be given to the State railways. The proceeds of the last Indian Government Five per Cent. Loan were professedly destined for railway purposes. The Government can hardly hesitate to proceed further in the same path.

THE FINANCIAL ARRANGEMENTS OF THE INDIAN COUNCIL.

WE drew attention last week to several points of interest in connection with Indian finance. We stated, firstly (but not quite correctly, as we will proceed to show), that the Bank of England had agreed to take from the Indian Government a large amount of Indian Five per Cent. Stock, computed in some quarters at about £750,000, but really less; secondly, that the Indian Government had contracted to take the silver, amounting to upwards of £800,000, in the Bank of England, for transmission to India by instalments; thirdly, that the exact amount of the Indian Government debt now in existence, and issued in England, is as follows, viz. :—

Indian Five per Cent. Stock	...	...	...	...	£8,079,200
Ditto, created in 1861	...	...	...	...	3,000,000
Total of Indian Five per Cent. Stock					11,079,200
Debenture Debt	...	...	...	...	13,047,000
India Bond Debt	...	...	...	...	5,873,800
Grand Total					£30,000,000

It was also explained that the Indian Government has power under Acts of Parliament which we will now more minutely designate as Sec. 10 of 22 and 23 Vic., cap. 39, and 23 Vic., cap. 5, to convert into Five per Cent. Stock its bonds and debentures as they may fall due, or be presented for payment. When we speak of conversion, we mean that as fast as the holders of debentures and bonds are paid off in money, the Government may create and issue an equivalent amount of Five per Cent. Stock. It may, perhaps, interest the holders of such bonds and debentures to learn that if they wish to take Five per Cent. Stock direct from the Indian Council in lieu of money, it is understood that such an arrangement is possible upon terms to be decided on in each instance. But before any such arrangement can be made with regard to India Bonds, the holders must give the requisite twelve months notice, and must wait its expiration.

The only portion of these particulars that is in any way inaccurate is the statement that the Bank of England have themselves taken a large amount of Indian Five per Cent. Stock. The Times, which reproduced it from this journal, has since pronounced it to be without foundation. Other journals have followed the example of challenging it. Amongst others, in the City column of our aged contemporary, the Morning Herald, we find a portentous paragraph, whereof it may merely be remarked that it is even more verbose and pretentious than usual. Another journal has been good enough to explain that the announcement that the Bank of England had taken such and such an amount of "Indian Five per Cent. Bonds" was erroneous. We beg our contemporary's pardon; we made no statement of the kind, being perfectly aware that there are no such securities as Indian Five per Cent. Bonds in existence. People who undertake to correct others should at least be correct themselves, or they themselves become open to correction.

Instead of saying that a large amount of Indian Five per Cent. Stock has been recently disposed of to the Bank of England, we should have said through the Bank of England. Our readers will not have forgotten that shortly before the contraction of the last Indian Five per Cent. Loan of £3,000,000, the public were surprised by the intimation that the amount of that stock then in existence was, not £5,000,000, as was generally believed, but £3,079,200. It transpired, on inquiry, that the extra £3,079,000 had been created by virtue of the Acts above referred to, viz., £1,953,000 in lieu of a similar amount of debentures; and £1,126,200 to pay off a similar amount of India Bonds, for which the holders demanded money, making a total of £3,079,200. It was matter of notoriety that a large portion of this £3,079,000 of stock was disposed of privately from time to time. It is certain that the ceaseless supply in the Stock Exchange attracted much attention. Nor is it at all inaccurate to say that by means of a continuation of these operations, the purchase by the Indian Council of the large amount of silver in the Bank has been facilitated.

Passing this matter by, the point in which the public and the holders of the Indian Five per Cent. Stock are chiefly interested is that the Indian Council has now exhausted the power vested in it by Act of Parliament, of creating Five per Cent. Stock, except as against Debentures and Bonds for which payment may be demanded by the present holders. There are now in existence, as above stated, £13,920,800 of Indian Debentures and Bonds (namely £13,047,000 of the former, and £5,873,800 of the latter), the whole of which will probably sooner or later be funded into the much more convenient form of Five per Cent. Stock. But the important feature is that the Indian Council has now exhausted the power conferred on it by Act of Parliament of issuing Five per Cent. Stock against unissued Debentures, and of cancelling the latter.

It will be seen from these particulars how important a stock the Indian Five per Cents. are likely to become. The nucleus of this stock was created only two years ago—namely, in 1859. There is already £11,079,200 of it in existence: there will soon, as already explained, be a total of £30,000,000, by the mere process of conversion, for which no fresh parliamentary powers are required. Nor can it be argued that the interests of the holders of the existing £11,079,200 will be in any way prejudiced by the operation, for it is a remarkable fact (as the Times justly observed in reproducing our paragraph of last week) that the larger the amount of any particular stock, the larger is the market for it, and the greater the facilities for dealing in it, whether in buying and selling. The perfect marketability of an article is a vast recommendation. It is the greatest recommendation of Consols, which are the most marketable of all securities, simply because, owing to the enormous amount of this stock, about two hundred members of the Stock Exchange are professed dealers in it. The larger the amount of the Indian Five per Cent. Stock, the more marketable will it also become. For the last two years, no security has met with so marked a degree of favour from the public. Hundreds of investments, principally for account of the small and most tenacious class of holders, have been made in it, and in numerous instances the money has been drawn from the English funds. The latter, it will be noticed, have ranged of late at an unusually low level, owing chiefly to the effect of competing securities, whilst the Indian Five per Cents. are maintained at a high premium as compared with the prices at which the two loans have been issued. Annuitants cannot help remarking that at one counter at the Bank they may receive 3 per cent., and at another 5 per cent. for their money. The terms and conditions of this Five per Cent. Stock have been framed by the Indian Council and its advisers with a degree of skill that has rarely been equalled. Great advantages are secured to the Government, whilst all the arrangements made have been eminently calculated to attract investors. It forms, indeed, as excellent and also as safe an investment as can be met with. We have not the least doubt that its absorption into bona fide hands will go on steadily, and that, in a short time, notwithstanding the fresh creations, no stock will be more firmly held. The Indian Council has no occasion to look further for the means of raising money in England. Whether a loan be needed for State or for railway purposes, the method is at hand, and the arrangements are perfectly easy. This is matter of congratulation, in the interest of Indian credit, as well as of England, which is deeply concerned in all that affects the progress of our Eastern Empire.

Last night's Bank return shows that the silver bullion has fallen from £390,858 to £713,452, the Indian Council having begun to despatch to India the silver which it has contracted to take from the Bank.

THE BUDGET.

We presume that the ministerial majority of eighteen on Thursday night in favour of the retention of the Tea Duties decides the fate of Mr. Gladstone's Budget, and that it may virtually be considered as carried; although a severe opposition is still threatened on the separate motion for abolishing the Paper Duty. We have had misgivings from the outset as to the prospect of the estimated surplus being realised, and every debate strengthens rather than diminishes them. A new doctrine seems to have started into life in the debates on the present Budget—viz., that when a minister assumes that there will be a surplus it is proper for the House of Commons to assume that his estimates are correct, and to legislate accordingly. This strange doctrine has been distinctly laid down by Mr. Disraeli, and by several other distinguished members of the House of Commons. Now, the grounds on which doubts are justly thrown on the policy of taking off taxes to the extent of £2,400,000 per annum, are, that it is most dangerous financial legislation to act in this way on an assumed and not a real surplus. This is the view taken by Mr. Baring, Mr. Hubbard, and others, who are practical men of business, and whose opinions have great weight in the commercial world.

Considering the decline which is occasioned in the incomes of the country by the deficiency in the last harvest, and by the contraction of trade, we have grave misgivings as to whether the revenue will turn out so large as Mr. Gladstone estimates. All experience proves that when a tax like that on paper is once repealed, there is no chance whatever of its being again reinstated. Therefore, although this tax, being an obnoxious one, is a most proper tax to be repealed if a surplus really exists, calm observers will be disposed to adhere to their first impression, that it would be safer to wait until the surplus is realised, than to repeal this kind of taxation on an estimated surplus which may prove delusive in the present circumstances of the country.

THE BOARD OF TRADE RETURNS—THE ADVERSE BALANCE OF TRADE.

THE fact, shown by the Board of Trade Returns (for which see another page), that the exports of our home produce and manufactures were larger by five per cent. in the month of March than in the corresponding month of last year, has naturally excited much satisfaction. It would be wrong to forget, however, that the export trade was exceptionally helped during the month of March by the anxiety of shippers to America to get their goods forward before the new Tariff could come into operation. There is ground to apprehend, now that this influence has ceased, and that our trade with America is greatly reduced, that future returns will exhibit less satisfactory results. What we would particularly point out is that, according to the official figures, the balance of foreign trade is still accumulating against us, owing chiefly to the large importations of corn. The value of the principal imports in February (the latest return rendered) was for the last three years:—

1859	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	£9,575,801
1860	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	10,715,751
1861	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	11,923,199

And for the first two months the imports have been—

1859	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	£13,455,049
1860	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	15,871,469
1861	..	..	..	..	..	..	..	18,246,537

We are still importing and consuming an increased amount of foreign commodities, whilst our exports this year are upon a smaller scale than in either of the two previous years.

The exports during the first quarter of the year were £27,669,249, against £30,431,907 in 1860, showing a decrease of £2,812,658, or 9½ per cent. The changes have been as follows:—

		Increase.		Decrease.
January	..	..	..	..
February	..	..	..	..
March...	..	£557,360	..	..

Compared with 1859, there is a falling off of £2,851,545, or 9¾ per cent.

THE TEMPTATION TO INVEST IN AMERICAN SECURITIES.

GREAT attention is directed at present to the excessive fall which the outbreak of civil war has occasioned in all kinds of American Securities, and the extent of which may be gathered from particulars given in our City Article. It is usually remarked that when an adverse event first bursts upon the public the effect upon prices is the greatest, and that a rebound frequently occurs after all the worst apprehensions have been actually realised. What is now taking place in American Securities has been observed here before in English Railway Stocks, in Mexican, Turkish, Russian, and other foreign bonds, and in many other securities. We cannot cite a more apt instance than the fall to £3 or £4 per share discount which took place on the outbreak of the Italian war in Lombardo-Venetian Railway shares, and which was soon followed by a recovery to par, and even a premium. Under the first impulse of panic, holders nearly always submit to immense sacrifices. From all that we can observe, we are convinced that there are a large number of English capitalists who are watching anxiously for the best opportunity of embarking largely in American Securities at low prices. There is little doubt that great profits will be realised in this way. Government and State Stocks, as being open to the prospect of a large creation, will probably be less sought after than the securities (both shares and bonds) of the American railways, which are comparatively little exposed to damage from the existing dissensions. Illinois Central Railway shares have fallen in London to 40 dols. discount, which is equal to a discount of 50 per cent. on the amount paid.

THE ACCOUNTS OF PUBLIC COMPANIES.

No. V.

THE LANCASHIRE AND YORKSHIRE RAILWAY COMPANY.

PURSUING the analysis of the accounts of our principal home railway companies, we will next take the Lancashire and Yorkshire. Like the Midland, this is unquestionably an improving property, although its progress is relatively less rapid. Both lines run through the heart of the manufacturing districts, and have participated largely in their prosperity. Any check to that prosperity would, of course, be felt by the railways, for traffic can hardly grow unless trade grows likewise, whilst the demands upon the general dividend fund are always increasing, with the increase in the capital. But experience encourages a hope that checks to trade will be only temporary, the general tendency of the commercial movement of the country being steadily onwards. Railway traffic nearly every year exceeds that of the previous one, the principal variation being in the amount of the increase. We are far from saying that there can be no such phenomenon as a decline in railway traffic, for it is possible that the events at this moment in progress in America may lead to that result; and we can readily imagine contingencies—such, for example, as a failure or withholding of the supply of cotton—which would strike at the very root of our manufacturing interest. Apart from these contingencies, a review of the finances and progress of most of our railways for a series of years shows that the tendency of this class of property is decidedly to improvement. This is what we propose to prove to-day, in the case of the Lancashire and Yorkshire Company. We will merely premise that our remarks are addressed, not to the mere speculator, but to the investor or bona fide holder. If an intending investor thinks that trade and traffic will fall off, and that there is a prospect of the Company's stock being obtainable some weeks or months hence at a reduction from the present price, he will probably do well to wait. If a holder is of the same opinion, he may reasonably sell, in order to come in again upon cheaper terms—that is to say, provided he can employ the money safely and with profit in some other channel in the interval. But we ask the attention rather of those permanent holders who are not always watching anxiously for the opportunity of making 2 or 3 per cent. by a market operation, and who have no desire to change their investment as long as they know that it is a safe and improving one—that it contains the germs of improvement both as regards the amount of the income derivable from it and the value of the capital embarked.

Our glance at the finances of the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway Company will extend over four years: that is to say, we will contrast the figures for the six months, ending Dec. 31, 1856, with those for the six months ending Dec. 31, 1860.

First with regard to the Company's revenue. The comparison in this respect is so strikingly favourable that it is sufficient in itself to inspire the strongest confidence. A magnificent revenue has grown up, owing to the immense industrial resources of the districts traversed by this railway; and the conviction is at once forced upon us that nothing but mismanagement or extravagance of a gross kind can prevent Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway stock from proving in the long run an excellent investment. The total six months' receipts on revenue account were as follows:—

Increase in 1860 .. .. .	398,080

A considerable portion of this great increase in the receipts has, of course, arisen from the extension of the original undertaking. Thus, for example, the East Lancashire Railway, a line 93 miles long, has in the interval been merged into the Lancashire and Yorkshire, the total mileage of which is now raised to 395½ miles, against 286½ at the end of 1856. But inquiry will show that the increase in the traffic has exceeded the ratio of the increase in the expenses, and in the amount of capital claiming dividend.

But we will not quit the revenue statement without examining the manner in which the increase of £398,080 in the receipts has been acquired. It is satisfactory to remark that the ratio of increase has been more rapid in passenger traffic (the best paying kind) than in goods traffic. The receipts from passengers, parcels, and mails were:—

December 31, 1856 .. .. .	£225,498
„ 31, 1860 .. .. .	404,157
Increase in 1860 .. .. .	£178,659

The increase is equal to 78 per cent.

The receipts from goods and live stock (agency expenses deducted) were:—

December 31, 1856 .. .. .	£360,328
„ 31, 1860 .. .. .	595,856
Increase in 1860 .. .. .	235,528

The increase is equal to 65 per cent.

A few miscellaneous items which appeared at the credit of revenue in 1856 do not appear there now, so that the aggregate receipts on revenue account in 1860 were, as before stated, £398,080 more than in 1856, although the two main items of revenue above cited (passenger and goods traffic), show of themselves an increase of larger amount. Let us now see, firstly, what portion of this sum of £398,080 went in the cost of earning it; and secondly, what portion was appropriated to meet the claims of the holders of new or added capital.

The working expenses—that sore point with many railways—appear, in the case of the Lancashire and Yorkshire Company to be kept within moderate limits, considering the great increase in the traffic. The comparison of the principal items of working expenses stands as follows for the two periods:—

	Dec. 31, 1856.	Dec. 31, 1860.	Increase.	Decrease.
Locomotive power .. .. .	£56,344	£86,163	£29,819	—
Coaching charges .. .. .	29,545	50,971	21,426	—
Merchandise charges .. .. .	77,762	150,158	72,396	—
Maintenance of way .. .. .	28,494	56,261	27,767	—
General charges .. .. .	9,725	24,171	14,446	—
Compensation .. .. .	2,816	7,407	4,591	—
Preston and Wyre Railway and Harbour .. .. .	23,033	13,989	—	9,044

Total of the above 7 items £227,719 .. £389,120 .. £161,401 .. —

Extending the comparison so as to embrace, in addition to the above, all other charges on revenue account, including rates and taxes and Government passenger duty, we arrive at the following figures:—

TOTAL CHARGES AGAINST REVENUE.
Dec. 31, 1856 .. .. .	£252,718
„ 1860 .. .. .	417,274
Increase in 1860 .. .. .	£164,556

Now, not being apologists of the Board, we will not undertake to say that this increased cost of working is absolutely necessary and cannot be avoided, even taking into account the large increase both in the traffic carried and in the mileage worked. But this we will say, that the Lancashire and Yorkshire Company has succeeded in doing what many other companies have not done—namely, it secures as increased net profit a large proportion of the increased gross receipts. This is shown by the following statement:—

DEC. 31, 1860, COMPARED WITH DEC. 31, 1856.
Increase in gross revenue .. .. .	£398,080
Increase in charges against revenue .. .. .	164,556
Increase in net profit .. .. .	£233,524

Again the same result is shown by the subjoined statement of the sum remaining available to meet interest and dividend of all kinds, after defraying all the working charges above enumerated:—

December 31, 1856 .. .. .	£380,832
„ 31, 1860 .. .. .	614,357
Increase in 1860 .. .. .	£233,525

This sum corresponds exactly with that already brought forward.

The first part of our task is completed. We have shown what the increase in the receipts was, and how much of that increase went in the cost of earning it. We have now to show how the net balance has been distributed amongst the holders of the various classes of the Company's securities, and what effect has been produced by the increase in the capital. It must be premised, however, that at Dec. 31, 1860, a sum of £39,033 was first of all taken from the net available balance for renewal of the permanent way, against £25,000 so appropriated at Dec. 31, 1856.

In 1856 the following charges had to be met before the holders of Lancashire and Yorkshire Consolidated Stock could touch their dividend:—

Interest on loans (£3,301,610) .. .. .	£68,921
Charges for leased lines, viz.:—
Preston and Wyre .. .. .	18,595
North Union .. .. .	21,219
Sheffield and Barnsley .. .. .	6,500
Guaranteed stock—£794,040, at 6 per cent. per annum .. .. .	23,821

Total of the above .. .. . £139,056

In 1860 the charges to be met before the holders of the Consolidated Stock became entitled to dividend were as under:—

Interest on Loans (£4,523,837) .. .. .	£94,256
Charges for Leased Lines, viz. :—
Preston and Wyre .. .. .	17,991
North Union .. .. .	21,610
Sheffield and Barnsley (£260,050) .. .. .	6,750
Blackburn Railway .. .. .	10,957
Guaranteed Stock—£794,040, at 6 per cent .. .. .	23,821
Preference Stock—£287,793, at 6 per cent. .. .. .	8,634
Do. Fifth Shares—£297,490, at 5 per cent. .. .. .	7,437
Do. Fifth Shares—£53,230, at 5 per cent. .. .. .	1,331
Do. Four-and-a-Half per Cents.—£90,780, at 6 per cent. .. .. .	2,723
Blackburn Railway Purchase Shares—£430,416, at 4½ per cent. .. .. .	7,263

Total of the above .. .. . £202,774

The increase in the loan and preferential charges between 1856 and 1860 is £63,718 (namely, from £139,056 to £202,774); but, as the available balance brought forward at December 31, 1860 was £587,589, being £220,043 more than at December 31, 1856 (when the available balance was £367,546), it follows that the net amount remaining for division amongst the holders of the ordinary stock, after meeting the preferential charges, was:—

" 1860 .. .. .	384,815
Increase in 1860 .. .. .	£156,326

But the amount of the ordinary capital had increased largely, being:—

At Dec. 31, 1856 .. .. .	£8,737,197
" 1860 .. .. .	12,093,594
Increase in 1860 .. .. .	£3,356,397

Accordingly, at the 31st December, 1856, the ordinary stock received a dividend at the rate of five per cent. per annum, which left a surplus of £10,059; and at the 31st December, 1860, it received a dividend at the rate of six per cent. per annum, which absorbed £362,808, and left a surplus of £22,008.

Such is the net result to the ordinary stockholders. Had the increase in the capital been less heavy, the increase in the dividend would, of course, have been larger. The aggregate capital expended by the Company was:—

" 1860 .. .. .	18,932,401
Increase in 4 years .. .. .	£5,862,750

In this increase, as already explained, is embraced all the extensions of the undertaking, and the entire capital of the East Lancashire Company, now completely merged into the Lancashire and Yorkshire.

Of the total capital, the mortgage debt represented at the two periods the following amounts:—

At Dec. 31, 1856 .. .. .	£3,301,609
" 1860 .. .. .	4,600,734
Increase in 4 years .. .. .	£1,299,125

The average amount of interest per cent. per annum paid on the mortgage debt was:—

At Dec. 31, 1856 .. .. .	£4 4 11½
" 1860 .. .. .	4 3 10½
Decrease in 1860 .. .. .	£0 1 1

There is fair ground to hope that as the credit of the Company rises, a saving may be effected under this head. The Midland Company pays on the average only 4 per cent. on its loans.

The feature in the Lancashire and Yorkshire Company's accounts that chiefly excites criticism is the increase which is constantly taking place in the expenditure on capital account. This takes place on the old, as well as on new lines. For the last six months the capital expenditure has been £251,542, of which £83,293 has been for additional rolling stock, £118,604 for the redemption of Blackburn shares, and £20,646 for enlargement of stations. It must be admitted that each of these items is perfectly defensible. As traffic increases, additional accommodation must be provided, and to provide it out of revenue would obviously be unjust to the existing holders of the ordinary stock, to whom by right belong the whole of the profits of the undertaking, after providing for all current charges appertaining to each half year. The estimate of capital expenditure for the present half-year, as submitted at the last meeting, was £132,000; but its application is again of a legitimate character, £52,000 being for new plant, and £80,000 for enlargement of stations and additional lands. Greatly though the policy of keeping railway capital accounts open may be abused, we cannot challenge items of this kind. We remark, however, that the Company is pushing forward projects for several new branches. Moreover, apart from these extensions of the undertaking, the directors are seeking authority "to enable the Company to raise an additional capital of £500,000 beyond the cost of the new railways, for the enlargement of stations, increase of rolling stock, and the doubling of portions of the railway now worked as single lines." We will merely advise the shareholders to keep a vigilant eye upon each proposed increase in the capital.

In conclusion we would observe that, although the progress of the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway in the estimation of the market has not been so rapid as that of the Midland, it is yet steady and satisfactory. Whilst the price of Midland ordinary stock has risen in the four years under review, from 83 to 124 per cent. (its present price), that of Lancashire and Yorkshire stock has risen from 102 to 111. The advance in the latter would have been much more decided had it not been for the issue of fresh amounts. And this brings us back to the conclusion, suggested by a general review of the Company's financial position, that, if anything impedes the improvement in Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway stock as a property, it will be (apart from any check to trade, from which all other interests as well as railway property would suffer) the enlargement of the capital. The grand object of the Company should be to spend no more money on capital account save what is absolutely required for the development of its traffic, and of its general system.

THE TENURE OF LAND IN INDIA—ITS GLARING EVILS.

WE have devoted some space lately to a discussion of the expediency of the Indian Government commuting the Land-tax, from which it now receives a revenue of £18,250,000 per annum. By taking a fixed payment, calculated upon the basis of a number of years' purchase, it would provide means for the reduction of the debt of India, or for the prosecution of public works; it would draw forth the hoarded wealth of India for investment in land, and it would give a vast impulse to energy and enterprise. If we are to judge by the experience of the past, the Indian Government will never take the initiative in this matter without an enormous amount of pressure from without. But how is that pressure to be obtained when it is notorious that if a member wants to empty the House of Commons he has only to commence an Indian debate? Such is the treatment which the British Legislature administers to the most magnificent dependency of the Empire, until it is startled into attention by a massacre, a mutiny, or a famine upon a scale which fills the mind with horror, or by a dispute as to the tenure or cultivation of land which deprives the indigo planters of their revenues, and causes the Government to quake for its rents. At present the two latter evils only are in operation. There is even now added a third momentous question, viz., how shall we obtain a sufficient supply of cotton in the event of the supply from America failing us?

Supposing that at this moment Manchester capitalists were willing to invest a few millions sterling in purchasing land to grow cotton in India, we should like to know how such a transaction could be effected. The question has never yet been satisfactorily answered as to who owns the land in India, and who could give a title to hold it in fee simple if purchasers could be found? All that is certain is that the Government obtains from the cultivators of the land, under the zemindary ryotwarry or village system, a revenue of £18,250,000 per annum. Now, how is this obtained. We propose to elucidate this question. Amongst other sources of information, reference may be made with advantage to a debate of a very instructive kind which took place in 1854 on the tenure of land in Madras.

The tenure of land varies in different portions of India. In Bengal a fixed sum is paid to the Treasury; in the North-West Provinces the village system is chiefly in operation; in Bombay the zemindary system; in Madras the ryotwarry system; and it is a moot question to this day whether the Land-tax in India is a Land-tax in the ordinary sense of the word, or whether it is merely a legitimate rent of the land. Really this appears to be a question that ought to be settled. But, be it tax or rent, it ought to be levied in such a manner as to be least onerous to the cultivator, most productive as regards the revenue, and, above all, most favourable to the operations of private industry. Now let us see how it is levied in Madras. According to the testimony of Sir Thomas Munro, Mr. Dykes, and Mr. Bourdillon:—

"The assessment of the best land in Madras is so high as actually to drive the landowners to cultivate poor lands at a moderate assessment, rather than face the difficulty of extracting from good soils crops sufficient to enable them to bear up against the enormous taxation with which it is burdened." Mr. Dykes and Mr. Bourdillon state that "there were many villages in various parts of the country in which large portions of cultivable land were permanently waste, because the assessment was so excessive that the crops would not cover it, and that a large amount of the most productive land in the country was permanently kept out of cultivation by the excessive demands of the Government."

Sir Charles Trevelyan, in his evidence, stated as a notorious fact that the Government imposes a tax on "the improvement of land," and affirmed that in the Madras presidency that tax operates far more effectually in discouraging the improvement of land than the old tithe system did in England.

Mr. Blackett, who brought forward a motion in 1854 for an inquiry into the tenure of land, stated "that the picture Mr. Bourdillon drew of the condition of the population under the ryotwarry system, and not merely that of the very wretchedest, but of what were deemed the favourably situated among them, was perfectly appalling."

Mr. Lowe testified that "the ryotwarry system pre-supposed an accurate survey of the land; and such a survey, as far as he could find, in Madras had never been made." In like manner the classification of the land had been attended to by untrustworthy persons. It was promised at that time by Mr. Lowe that the system should be reformed, and that instead of the plan adopted of annual assessment, the ryotwarry system of Bombay, which provides for giving leases for thirty years, should be adopted.

Mr. W. Danby Seymour said:—"Another great error in the existing system was that in reality no one knew to whom the land really belonged. The President of the Board of Control (Sir Charles Wood) has stated "that the land belonged to the Government, but it had been stated on authority equally high that the land really belonged to the proprietor, so that in reality it appears that no two persons were agreed as to whom the land belonged. He (Mr. Seymour) thought the land belonged to the Government. But what was the condition of the holder of that land? If a person held land he had to pay as much as two-thirds of the gross produce annually to Government. The consequence was that two-thirds of the best land was lying waste and untillied." Mr. Danby Seymour further observed—"It was not to be expected that English capital or English enterprise would ever be devoted to the cultivation of land in India while the tenure was such that a man did not know from year to year what he was to pay for the land."

Sir J. W. Hogg admitted that "there were evils attaching to the present system of tenure of land which ought to be remedied."

Mr. Bright said:—"It was generally admitted in Madras that large tracts of land were lying waste, while great numbers of the population were scarcely employed—were almost absolutely naked, and in a state of physical weakness, arising from the want of the common necessities of life. The land was not unfertile, but so heavily taxed, that there was scarcely any profit from the working it; and between the miserable pittance derived from it and the large revenue drawn from it by the State, the whole of the annual produce of the land was absorbed."

Sir Charles Wood then remarked—"They all knew what the ryotwarry system was; as long as a man paid a certain assessment he had his land. He admitted that, generally speaking the assessment was too high, but that did not alter the tenure of land, to which, so long as a man paid his assessment, he knew that he had an indefeasible right. Although he thought it would be impolitic and unwise to attempt to interfere with the tenure of land, he was far from thinking there were not many evils in the present system which it would be advisable to attempt to remedy, and among them, no doubt, was the assessment of land. He had always thought that the Executive Government might take such measures as would put that assessment upon a reasonable footing."

Mr. J. G. Phillimore said:—"It was a fact that under the present system of tenure of land in Madras, only one-fifth of the country was under cultivation, and that in consequence of the tenure of land, farming was such a wild speculation that no reasonable person would undertake it."

Mr. Henley remarked:—"Two important admissions had been made by the President of the Board of Control, first, that the rent was excessive; and secondly, that the time for consideration was past, and the time for action was come. The latter admission taken in connection with the first could only mean that the Government has resolved that the excessive rent shall be reduced. Whenever that was done a larger quantity of land would be brought into cultivation, and the revenue, instead of diminishing, would increase."

Discussions of this kind, by the best authorities available, point irresistibly to the following conclusions:—

1. That the land in India requires re-assessment.
2. That the present rate and mode of assessment are such that they prevent land from being brought into cultivation.
3. That if the assessment were lower more land would be brought under tillage, and the revenue and the condition of the cultivator would both be improved.
4. That there are vast tracts of good land uncultivated, of which the Government are clearly the owners, and which might be sold in fee-simple.
5. That no time ought to be lost in making a more satisfactory arrangement as to the land, for until that is done it is idle to suppose that capital will be invested in it.

Lastly, That the sooner the Government disposes of its interest in the land altogether, and with the proceeds extinguishes its debt and liabilities, or promotes public works, the sooner will good government and good laws be introduced into India; and that what is imperatively wanted is a good law between landlord and tenant, and an inexpensive mode of effecting the sale and transfer of land.

This discussion may perhaps be considered a dry one; it is certainly not very inviting, yet there are few subjects that concern us more intimately as administrators of India, and as answerable for all her financial shortcomings.

LONDON, CHATHAM, AND DOVER RAILWAY.—On Saturday last a number of workmen commenced pulling down and removing the building materials of the remaining block of warehouses at St. Anne's Wharf, Blackfriars, to clear the way for the operations of the "navvies" on the works of the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway. This railway, which progresses rapidly towards completion, will pass on arches along the west side of the Walworth-road, until nearly opposite Mr. Spurgeon's Tabernacle, crosses the New Kent-road, and Newington-causeway, which it reaches by a flat girder bridge, passes along the east side of Blackfriars-road and Rowland Hill's Chapel, and will then cross, nearly at right angles, the viaduct of the Charing-cross Railway. The trains will have to travel at an elevation of at least 40 feet above the level of the roadway.

BANK NOTES UNREPRESENTED BY GOLD. TO THE EDITOR OF THE "MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—When a ship is going to be launched, we have great rejoicing in the dockyard and the river. Some are directly interested in the tangible result of so much of materials, money, science, and labour; others after the fortunate issue are to partake of the festivities spread for the company; all feel elated and loudly cheer the stranger as she slips gracefully into her own element. He who dared at this moment to hold forth about winds and waves, the dangers of the sea, the shoals on which the good ship may run, the rocks on which she may founder, would be voted a bore, and if he persevered find himself elbowed out of the precincts of the joyous scene.

Would not this be the fate also of the unlucky wight who were to turn croaker at such times as the Bank shall deem fit for dispensing with an unhesitating hand her stores of manufactured paper? There is a reaction from a late panic—the lessons of adversity, favourable seasons, the honest toil of the people, have brought about what we call good times; confidence is established; money is lent freely and at moderate interest to safe and sound parties; people don't come to the Bank, for they get their reasonable wants supplied out of the hoards of the hard-working and saving classes. There never can be a want of real money for substantial and useful enterprise. This is the time when the fourteen millions hang fire and go a begging. They are not wanted at five per cent., nor at four neither. Now we have a kind of Dutch auction. Three-and-a-half is the rate on Thursday, three the next. Will no one have them? Not even at two-and-a-half? Down we come to two per cent., as in 1852! There is great rejoicing amongst the huge herd of adventurers and schemers. Speculation is set a going. The ship is happily launched—but it is a phantom ship, built without capital, science, or labour—the materials a few old petticoats. Of course the croaker's warning voice is a bore, the wrongs to careful and honest accumulation unheeded. Is not all the world doing immense business and spending money most lavishly? Does that not prove universal success and profits unlimited? The fourteen millions are all bespoken and fully employed; they work miracles and irresistibly testify to the ability and wisdom domiciliated in Threadneedle-street.

But it is one thing to launch this mass of paper into the world and another to keep it afloat. There is a reverse to this admirable picture—admirable not as drawn by my incapable hand, but as seen by a deluded and over-sanguine multitude. There is perchance a disastrous harvest and low exchanges in the United States, portending a drain of gold. That ever brings the fourteen millions, for which there is no metal, into unpleasant prominence. The rate of discount is rapidly raised—that is to say, the Bank interferes with two great and necessary branches of commerce, bullion and coin.

Endeavours to stem the natural current of the precious metals are, it is well known, as futile as King Alfred's attempt to command the flux of the tide. Acts of Parliament for that purpose were found insufficient in the early part of this century. The waters of Niagara tumble with no more certainty down the tremendous precipice than gold flows towards the shores where wanted. The Bank hopes to intercept the current by the addition to its rate of 2 per cent. per annum. New York remittances are at the usance of sixty days, and the additional 2 per cent. per annum is, therefore, an increased cost on every hundred pounds of one-third per cent.—that is to say, six and eightpence. Six shillings and eightpence for every hundred pounds was the mighty engine the Bank set to work to avoid the unpleasantness entailed on it by the fourteen millions of gold warrants for which there is no metal. That was a miscalculation and a mistake! It did not prevent a single sovereign from crossing the Atlantic. It is quite certain that no more gold would have gone with a discount of 5 or 6 than of 7 or 8 per cent. As much as was wanted has gone, must have gone, and ought to go. The six millions that went have cost the Yankees twenty thousand additional pounds. The ruin inflicted on the British people may be safely calculated at twenty millions. The Bank have got an extra hundred thousand for a bonus at the next dividend meeting. Such is the working of the bargain of the Government with that body.

Your printer last week forgot my signature, and substituted the first letter of the alphabet. I like to sign myself what I am.—Yours,
MERCATOR.

A RECTIFICATION.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—In the last number of your journal, with reference to a communication of mine to the Assurance Magazine on the subject of Mr. Finlaison's recent report on the Mortality of the Government Life Annuitants, you describe me as "actuary of the Alliance"—a title to which I have no claim. Mr. F. A. Engelbach has been, for many years past, the actuary and secretary of the office, in which I am the assistant actuary only.—I am, sir, your obedient servant,
H. W. PORTER.
Alliance Assurance Company, 29th April, 1861.

THE Manchester papers mention the death of Mr. John Leech, one of the largest and most wealthy cotton spinners in that city.

THE STATE OF TRADE.

(COMPILED FROM NUMEROUS LOCAL REPORTS.)

The accounts from Manchester describe the market as inactive in all departments. The inquiry for piece goods of every description has fallen off considerably. In the few cases where purchases of cloth are made, they are at lower rates than were current a week ago. This depression may be ascribed to the unfavourable accounts received a few days back from India and China. Owing to the hardening state of the cotton-market, quotations are nominally sustained, but the situation is one of embarrassment, for, while the raw material still rises in value, the present tendency of manufactured articles is to decline in price. Moreover, the rate of production has been too great for the demand, even during the extensive stoppage of mills for several weeks past. The market for yarns remains generally inanimate. Quotations have risen  $\frac{1}{4}$ d. per lb. again. At the present rates scarcely any business can be done for any quarter.

At Leeds the cloth-halls have not been attended by many buyers, though the tone of the market was moderately steady as to price. In the aggregate considerably less than an average business was done. In some of the outlying manufacturing villages there is great slackness of work. In Leeds itself, though there is short-time working, there is nothing like distress among the manufacturing operatives.

At Rochdale, notwithstanding the untoward news from America, the market, both for flannel and wool was as good as last week. Manufacturers are moderately active, and are not eager to take contracts for future delivery, except at the best rates demanded by them. Yorkshire goods are without change, the demand being rather quiet, but prices are firm.

At Leicester there is a tolerable amount of business doing in some descriptions of goods, but the trade generally is rather quiet. At Loughborough and the other country hosiery districts there is little, if any, improvement to notice, and many town and country hands remain unemployed.

At Huddersfield the market continues in a very languid state. Few buyers have been in the town, and operations have been on a very limited scale. Many of the mills are now working short time.

At Halifax there is no improvement in the demand for yarn for the home trade, but for export there is rather more doing, though spinners say at unsatisfactory prices. Most branches of the piece trade are exceedingly quiet.

At Nottingham the lace trade in most branches is very quiet; the dullness appears to be increasing. There is not much change in the hosiery trade. Most branches are quiet. Many framework knitters and lace-makers are still out of work. Stocks of both articles are light, and manufacturers produce with extreme caution.

The reports from Wolverhampton describe the state of trade as slightly improved. The manufacturers are rather better off for orders, the complaint being chiefly on the ground that they are small, and soon got out of hand in consequence. At Birmingham there are still a considerable number of the artisans who are not employed more than three or four days, and the stocks made up during the bad trade in the winter months have not been cleared off. The iron trade is characterised by rather more activity.

MERCANTILE EMBARRASSMENTS.

Yesterday (Friday) was announced the stoppage of Messrs. P. Hava and Co., an eminent London house in the Levant trade. The liabilities will probably range from £120,000 to £150,000. Many of the bills will be retired by third parties. It is fully believed that Messrs. Hava and Co. will ultimately show a large surplus.

The stoppage has been announced of Mr. Thomas Dowling, timber merchant, of Gresham-house, Old Broad-street, Rotherhithe, and Birmingham, with liabilities computed at £40,000 or £50,000.

A meeting of the creditors of Mr. J. Orlinton, Baltic merchant, of London and Dundee, will be held on Monday next.

A meeting of the creditors of Mr. Jonathan Ketley, of the Soho, near Birmingham, railway-carriage builder, was held in Birmingham last week. The statement showed liabilities to the amount of £18,600; assets, £5,490. A committee was appointed to examine the accounts, and the state of the concern generally, in order that it may be ascertained what Mr. Ketley is in a position to offer.

At a meeting on Tuesday of the creditors of Messrs. C. A. and T. Ferguson, mast, oar, and block manufacturers, of Millwall, the liabilities were stated by Mr. Turquand, the accountant, to amount to £21,684, and the net assets to £9,718. The failure has been principally occasioned by losses on the trading of the ship Herefordshire, belonging to Mr. C. A. Ferguson. Of the assets, £8,230 is represented by stock in trade, which can soon be realised. A resolution was passed in favour of winding up the estate under inspection.

At the adjourned meeting on Thursday of the creditors of Messrs. J. G. Behrends and Co., East India merchants, it was determined that the estate shall be wound up in the Court of Bankruptcy. The assets are mostly due from Messrs. Ogle and Co., the correspondents of the firm at Calcutta, and the unsatisfactory result of the negotiations with that house, from which the offer of a composition was expected, combined with the reckless character of the trading, is the cause of the step now decided upon. It was explained that the inspectors appointed at the previous meeting have carefully gone through the accounts, with a result similar to that previously arrived at by Mr. Quilter, the accountant.

In the Bankruptcy Court, on Wednesday, Mr. Commissioner Fane gave judgment in the case of Messrs. Hooper and Parkinson, leather factors. The debts are £57,858, and the assets £7,211. The bankrupts have dealt largely in accommodation paper, and gave a person £50 a-year to accept bills. This conduct the Commissioner stigmatised as "a shameful fraud." He awarded certificates of the lowest class, with twelve months' suspension, and intimated that if any creditor sends the bankrupts to prison they will be left there for three months.

In the Bankruptcy Court on Thursday Messrs. Smith and Sinclair, linen factors, of Pancras-lane, passed their examination. The assets are sufficient to pay a dividend of 5s. or 6s. in the pound.

The report by the West India mail of failures at Valparaiso (observes the Times) seems to have been a great exaggeration. The total was represented to be for £1,200,000, but the only large suspension mentioned in the private letters is that of the native house of M. Salus, for about £275,000.

SAVINGS-BANKS.—The annual return shows that on the 20th of November last there were 1,557,149 persons who had money deposited in savings-banks, and 28,629 charitable institutions and friendly societies, and the deposits amounted to no less than £41,258,368, an increase over the previous year of £79,002 in depositors, and £2,262,492 in deposits—signs of a prosperous year. 579 other friendly societies had accounts direct from the National Debt Commissioners, and their deposits amounted to £2,039,952—a further increase of £38,198. 6,680 annuities granted by savings-banks are being paid, amounting to £136,859 a-year. Since 1834 the sum of £229,300 has also been received for 2,006 deferred annuities, amounting to £39,730 a-year, of which £22,649 has fallen in, and about £50,000 of the principal money received was returned in consequence of death or default. The securities held by the National Debt Commissioners on the 20th of November would, if then sold, have realised £4,741,973 less than the amount due from them to the trustees of savings-banks, and this with Consols at 93 $\frac{1}{2}$ . In the course of the year securities of the value of £6,974,496 were purchased with savings-banks' money, and £4,735,000 sold or paid off; the chief dealing was in Exchequer bills and bonds, which were purchased to the amount of £6,833,100, and sold to the amount of £4,035,000.

RAILWAY DEBENTURES.—By the Stamp Act of 1853 transfers of bonds or mortgages given by public companies are exempt from stamp duty if the original bond or mortgage is stamped with four times its ad valorem duty. A Bill has now been brought into Parliament by Mr. Baxter, proposing to enact that in such cases bonds and mortgages granted by railway companies in Scotland shall be transferable by endorsement—"Pay to A. B., or order"—and without any need of registration in the company's books.

BOARD OF TRADE, WHITEHALL, APRIL 30.—The Right Honourable the Lords of the Committee of Privy Council for Trade have received from the Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, a copy of a despatch from her Majesty's consul at New York, enclosing a copy of a circular letter from the secretary to the United States treasury, to collectors of customs, with reference to the payment of duties under the new American tariff, which is published in yesterday's Gazette.

These movements point to a somewhat dearer money market. Bankers and others have found it necessary to withdraw their balances very largely, although the demand for money at the discount-office at the Bank did not begin to revive until yesterday (Thursday.) It will be noticed that as the Indian Council has begun to ship to India the silver which it has bought of the Bank, the silver bullion has declined from £890,858 to £713,452—a difference of £177,406. Hence, principally, the decline now shown in the Bank bullion.

THE MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 3.

There has been this week a rather decided change in the discount market. The demand has steadily increased, whilst a marked diminution has been observed in the amount of the bankers' balances. The tendency of the rates has accordingly been decidedly upwards. On last Friday good bills were discounted at  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. To-day the charge in Lombard-street was  $4\frac{3}{4}$  to 5 per cent. The demand may be partly in preparation for the 4th, but it is generally believed that the rate of money has for the present seen its lowest point.

In the Stock Exchange, early in the week, loans on English Government Securities were obtainable at the moderate rate of 3 per cent. The demand has steadily increased during the last two days, however, and to-day 5 per cent. was paid.

About £5,000 in gold was taken to the Bank to-day, and more is expected to follow, in the absence of any active inquiry for the Continent. The £126,000 by the Calliance will be delivered to-morrow. The arrival was announced to-day of the Empress of the Seas, from Melbourne, with £20,000.

There is now an aggregate of £633,000 in specie and bullion to be disposed of—viz., £487,000, nearly all silver, by the Seine, from the West Indies, and £146,000 in gold by the Calliance and Empress of the Seas, from Melbourne.

The demand for the East having become less active, the importation of silver from the Continent has slackened, and the amount required for the next Bombay packet will be met by the large supply just received from Mexico. It is probable, therefore, that the withdrawals of gold from the Bank on this account will diminish, and that some amount may even be sent into that establishment.

The latest quotation of exchange at New York is  $106\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$ . £16,000 in gold was sent on Wednesday by the Kangaroo from Liverpool, and it is probable that some further remittances of moderate amount may be made by succeeding packets.

The exact amount of specie to be shipped by the Pera, on the 4th inst., is £169,293, of which £132,790 is for Calcutta (including £103,990 in silver on Government account), £5,198 for Madras, £4,200 for Ceylon, £12,450 for Hong Kong, £12,255 for Shanghai, £1,200 for Singapore, and £1,200 for Alexandria. £156,995 is silver and £12,298 gold. The amount on mercantile account is very limited, as was anticipated.

The Tyne, from Brazil for Southampton, has left Lisbon, with £104,000 in specie.

It is reported that one of the objects for which the Commissioners of the Southern Confederate States are visiting this country is to endeavour to raise a loan. An application of this kind would assuredly meet with no response.

THE BULLION MARKET.

With reference to the movements in bullion and in the Indian Government paper, Messrs. Pixley, Abell, and Langley report as follows:—

GOLD.—As the demand for export still continues, further amounts of gold have been taken from the Bank, amounting to about £150,000. Since the date of our last circular, some considerable sums have arrived from Constantinople, and these have also been taken for abroad. Small amounts continue to be sent to America, the Africa having taken £2,300, and the Arago £16,000, to New York. The Seine has brought £19,500 from the West Indies; the Dane £2,000 from the Cape; and the Calliance has arrived from Melbourne with £126,000. As the wind has now changed, further arrivals from Australia may be hourly looked for, and all demands for the Continent will be, therefore, satisfied, without causing any withdrawals from the Bank.

SILVER.—The Seine has brought a large amount of silver specie, the total of bar silver and dollars being £467,000. The demand for silver during the past week has been but small, and prices have, therefore, declined.

MEXICAN DOLLARS.—The large amount of dollars brought by the Seine will not be deliverable until about the 4th inst.; the price has, however, declined, as the demand has been but small. We do not think any rate will be named for the above large amount for some few days, buyers preferring to wait the arrival of the next telegrams from China.

EXCHANGE for Bank's sixty days' sight Drafts on Bombay and Calcutta continues about the same—viz., for Calcutta, 1s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s. 0 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.; Bombay, 1s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s. 0 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.; Bills with Documents, 1s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. Madras Drafts by Banks, 1s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s.

INDIA GOVERNMENT LOAN NOTES are unchanged. We quote Five-and-a-Half per Cents. 100 to 100 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; and Five per Cents. 93 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 94 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; little or nothing doing.

The report of Messrs. Haggard and Co., dated this day, observes:—

Since our last circular our market has been more quiet, the demand for silver for the East having materially declined. There has again been a rather good demand for gold to the Continent, and in the absence of Australian supplies, a further sum of £132,000 has been withdrawn from the Bank of England; the amount of gold shipped to America is as yet very small. Bar Silver has been in less demand, and in consequence of the absence of inquiry for the Calcutta steamer of the 4th, the price has declined to 5s. 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. sellers. Mexican Dollars are also weaker, having been 5s. 0 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.; the large quantity by the Seine is still unsold.

THE EXCHANGES.

The Foreign Exchanges this week have been generally firmer. In most instances an improvement has occurred. The tendency this afternoon was still favourable, except as regards the Austrian exchange, which is more in favour of that country, in consequence of the improvement in the political situation. Subjoined is our usual list:—

Amsterdam.....	3 M. D. 11 18 $\frac{1}{2}$ 19 $\frac{1}{2}$	Madrid .....	3 M. D. 48 $\frac{1}{2}$ $\frac{3}{4}$
Ditto .....	3 D. S. 11 16 $\frac{1}{2}$ 17	Cadiz .....	48 $\frac{1}{2}$ 49

EXCHEQUER BILLS.

It is understood that the Government have completed all the arrangements requisite with regard to the new mode of issuing Exchequer bills. In June the new bills will be issued with half-yearly coupons for five years. These bills will each year be receivable for duties after six months from their date, and the holders, as at present, will have the power annually to claim payment.

THE PUBLIC DEBT OF ITALY.

The Minister of the Finances, Bastogi, in the sitting of the Italian Chamber on the 29th ult., presented bills for the consolidation of the public debts of all the former States of Italy into one great national debt. He stated that the deficit, which had been at a rough guess computed at 257,000,000fr., amounts in reality to 314,000,000fr. (£12,560,000). He next brought in a bill empowering the Government to open a loan of 500,000,000fr. (£20,000,000).

NEW GRANADA DEBT.

The annexed memorandum from the Committee of Spanish American Bondholders relates to the debt of New Granada:—"The Committee of Spanish American Bondholders have received advice from his Excellency Senor Martin, at Paris, that the Government of New Granada has appointed Senor Manuel Maria Mosquera to act as fiscal agent in everything relating to the arrangements necessary for carrying out the agreement of the 25th ult., and that this gentleman may be expected to arrive in London from Paris in the course of the present week."

THE TURKISH LOAN OF 1858.

The following letter is the medium of the important intelligence that the Turkish Government has promptly acceded to the prayer of the memorial lately addressed to it through its minister in London, by the holders of the Six per Cent. Loan of 1858. It will be seen that arrangements are decided upon and already in train providing for the punctual remittance, month by month, to the Commission which represents the bondholders at Constantinople, of the Customs revenues specially assigned to this Loan. All that will then be required is that the Commission remit the money, as fast as it reaches their hands, to London. The ready assent of the Ottoman Government to the representations of its creditors denotes an honesty of purpose which accords well with its conduct upon former occasions, and which will strengthen the hope that the present efforts of the English Government to reorganise the Turkish finances will be attended with success. The bondholders are much indebted to Mr. Meadows, and the other gentlemen who acted with him, for the trouble which they have taken in this matter. The announcement yesterday had a very beneficial effect on the price of the stock.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

Sir,—May I request the insertion of the following important communication, which I have this day received from his Excellency Musurus Bey, the Turkish ambassador, relative to the memorial signed by the holders of the Loan of 1858, which was presented to his Excellency on the 15th March (the object of which was to obtain the transmission to this country, month by month, of the proceeds of the Customs and other duties at Constantinople, specially pledged as guarantee for the payment of interest and sinking fund of the said loan):—

"The Turkish ambassador presents his compliments to Mr. Meadows, and in acknowledging the receipt of his letter of yesterday's date, has the pleasure to transmit to him the enclosed copy of a telegraphic despatch which he has just received from his Highness the Minister for Foreign Affairs at Constantinople, concerning the monthly remittance of the funds for the service of the Ottoman Loan of 1858, and promising the details by the post.

"In the meanwhile the Turkish ambassador requests Mr. Meadows to be kind enough to communicate the contents of this telegraphic despatch to the gentlemen who accompanied him to the embassy to present the memorial, as well as to those who signed it.

"Bryanston-square, May 1, 1861."

"TELEGRAPHIC DESPATCH.

"Constantinople, April 30, 1861.

"The monthly and direct remittance of the funds to the Syndicat appropriated to the service of the Loan of 1858 has been decided upon. All the necessary arrangements have been made.

"I authorise you to convey the foregoing to the knowledge of whom it may concern. Details by post.—I am, &c., "H. J. MEADOWS."

MEXICAN BONDS.

The following memorandum from the Committee of Mexican Bondholders was published on Tuesday:—

The Committee of Mexican Bondholders have received advices from Mr. Whitehead, dated 28th ult. Nothing was done about the 660,000 dols. yet. Don Miguel Lerdo de Tejada's death, on the 22nd March, has caused general grief, not to say consternation. Messrs. Virga Brothers, the agents in Vera Cruz, send bill of lading for 193,390 dols. 40c., being 194,477 dols. 21c. received from Mr. Whitehead less their commission of  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. on 217,361 dols. 94c. They had remitted to Mr. Whitehead two batches of together 22,917 dols. in duty bills on Mexico, received from the Vera Cruz Custom-house, as the amount of our assignments there since 1st January last.

DANISH THREE PER CENTS.

The particulars are published of Danish Three per Cent. Bonds to the amount of £65,800, which have been purchased and cancelled.

WAR RISKS.

On outward-bound vessels under the American flag to San Francisco £5. 5s. per cent. has been given at Lloyd's for risk of war and letters of marque. The rate on ships which have already sailed for the Northern ports of the United States was 20s.; and for vessels to sail 40s. was required.

THE FARINGDON AND WANTAGE BANK.

In the case of the Faringdon and Wantage Bank (Barnes, Medley, and Co.), which stopped payment on the 10th April, Messrs. Harding, Pulletin, and Co., have issued notices of the payment of the first dividend of 5s. in the pound. The dividend is payable to-morrow (4th inst.) at both the Faringdon and Wantage branches.

THE PRESTON OLD BANK.

A meeting took place on Saturday of the creditors of the Preston Old Bank. About 1,800 were present, principally of the tenant-farmer class. The estate shows about 17s. in the pound, the liabilities standing at £638,287, and the assets, inclusive of the surplus expected from the private estates of the late Mr. E. Pedder, and of the present partner, Mr. H. N. Pedder, at £541,373. It was mentioned that the cause of the stoppage was the enormous private expenditure of the partners, the debt of the two brothers to the bank representing no less than £200,000, of which £162,000 is due from Mr. E. Pedder, including £90,000 overdrawn on private account. The residue (£72,000) he expended upon his private estates. Mr. H. N. Pedder overdraw his private account to the extent of £40,000. There has been no balance-sheet for years, and the interest of the deposit notes has not been entered for a long period. It being generally considered that a resort to bankruptcy proceedings would be highly prejudicial to the interests of the creditors, it was resolved to wind up under inspection. It was explained that a dividend of 6s. 8d. in the pound will probably be paid in July, and another of 3s. 4d. at Christmas.

THE NATAL LAND COMPANY.

The share list of the Natal Land and Colonisation Company was closed on Saturday with applications to five times the number of shares to be allotted.

THE LONDON AND PROVINCIAL DISCOUNT COMPANY.

The prospectus of the London and Provincial Discount Company has been issued this week. This project differs in several respects from the undertakings of a similar character which have at various times been established in London. The head office is to be in the metropolis, but agencies are to be formed in some of the principal provincial towns, where no Joint-Stock Discount Company has yet carried on operations. It is also contended—and with justice—that the first requisites in a business of the kind are economy of management and scrupulous care; and the promoters and directors pledge themselves that neither of these requisites shall be wanting. Small trade bills are to meet with special attention. The capital is fixed at £250,000 in shares of £5 each.

PROPOSED THAMES RAILWAY AND SEWER.

Under this title Mr. J. Sewell, C.E., has introduced to public notice a project, which, both from its ingenuity and practical aims, deserves attention. He proposes, firstly, to provide a railway in close proximity with and parallel to the principal obstructed streets from the City to Westminster and Chelsea; secondly, to provide the northern Low Level Sewer from Chelsea Bridge to London Bridge; and thirdly, to improve and beautify the Thames. A very important feature of the project is, that it contemplates forming a connexion between all the great railways both north and south of the Thames. Some further details are given in another part of our paper.

RAILWAY TRAFFIC.

The Brighton Railway traffic return shows this week an increase of £1,789; the South-Eastern, an increase of £1,156; the London and North-Western, a decrease of £1,738; the Great Western, an increase of £399; the Great Northern, an increase of £492; the London and South-Western, an increase of £1,638; the Eastern Counties, a decrease of £1,782; the Midland, a decrease of £1,253; the Lancashire and Yorkshire, an increase of £1,514; the Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire, an increase of £1,176; and the North-Eastern, an increase of £8.

The traffic on the 1,004 miles of the South Austrian line of the Lombardo-Venetian Railway Company for the week ending April 22, was £48,073, being £19,207 more than in the corresponding week of 1860 on 687 miles; and that on the Lombardo-Venetian line £4,757, showing an increase of £1,051.

The traffic receipts of the Great Western Railway of Canada for the week ending April 12 were £11,167 sterling, being £1,472 more than in the corresponding week of last year.

RAILWAYS.

The East Indian Railway Company on Tuesday agreed to empower their board to raise £6,000,000 by debentures at 5 per cent., convertible into stock at the option of the holder. The sum positively required, however, is only £3,000,000, two-thirds of which will be raised this year and one-third next. The remaining £3,000,000 is contemplated for the Jubbulpore and Allahabad line, the construction of which is deferred.

The Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company on Tuesday paid to the Indian Treasury £279,900 on account of their capital.

The section of the Grand Russian Railways between Kowno and Dunaborg was opened for traffic on the 23rd of April.

A special meeting of the West Midland Railway Company is called for the 16th instant at Worcester, to consider various bills pending in Parliament.

The fifth call of £2 is to be paid on the shares in the Hereford, Hay, and Brecon Railway Company by the 21st of May.

The following is a statement (from Mr. Slaughter's Weekly List) of the railway calls falling due in the month of May. The total is made to appear considerable by the call of £2 on Lombardo-Venetian and South Austrian Railway shares; but, apart from the fact that there has to be deducted from this call the amount of the dividend recently declared, the bulk of this company's shares are held abroad:—

BANKS.

The annual meeting of proprietors of the National Bank is convened for the 28th instant.

ASSURANCE COMPANIES.

At the annual meeting of the Globe Insurance Company, held on the 25th April, (Mr. W. Chapman, chairman, Mr. Sheffield Neave, deputy-chairman), the accounts laid before the proprietors showed a considerable augmentation of the surplus of undivided profits over and above all liabilities. The usual dividend of 5 per cent. per annum (free of Income-tax) was declared, and Mr. Alexander Mackenzie, the retiring auditor, was re-elected.

At the extraordinary general meeting of the London and Provincial Law Assurance Society, held on the 20th April, the directors' report stated the results of the investigation into the society's operations during the past five years. The new premiums received in that period have amounted in all to £26,138. The total amount of profits now divisible is £42,785. 5s. 10d. According to the provisions of the deed of settlement, one-fifth, or £8,557. 1s. 2d., will be added to the proprietors' fund. This is equivalent to an addition of 9s. 4d. per share, which will make the amount considered as paid up in respect of each share £4. 1s. 10d. The remaining four-fifths of the divisible surplus, being the sum of £34,228. 4s. 8d., belong to the assured, and will be added in the form of equivalent reversionary bonuses to the policies entitled to participate in profits.

At a meeting of the Sovereign Life Assurance Society on Wednesday, the report stated the new premiums for 1860 at £5,619, assuring £167,259. The income for the year was £46,562, and £18,557 was added to the assets.

The Master of the Rolls has made a call of 10s. per share on the contributories of the Deposit and General Life Assurance Company, payable on the 8th inst.

OTHER PUBLIC COMPANIES.

At the meeting to-day (Friday) of the Assam (Tea) Company the directors' report, which announced a steady improvement in the affairs of the company, was unanimously adopted. The dividend declared was at the rate of 12 per cent., free of Income-tax.

Creditors of the Agriculturist Cattle Insurance Company are required to prove their claims before the Master of the Rolls, who has appointed the 22nd of May for adjudicating upon them. An official manager is to be appointed on the 8th of May.

The settlement of the list of contributories of the General Steam Printing and Publishing Company (Limited) is to be proceeded with in the Court of Bankruptcy on the 8th May.

THE PARIS BOURSE.

At Paris to-day (Friday) the Three per Cent. Rentes opened at 69.05, and closed at 69.15 both for money and the account, being the same as yesterday, and ½ per cent. higher than on last Friday.

THE STOCK AND SHARE MARKETS.

The news of the outbreak of civil war in America has had very little effect upon the funds. The extreme variation this week has scarcely exceeded ½ to ¾ per cent. Consols are principally supported by the anticipation of the deduction of the dividend. The firmness of the Paris Bourse, and the decided improvement which has occurred at Vienna, also produce a good effect. Consols closed to-day at 91¼ to ¾, both for money and the 9th instant, being ½ per cent. lower than yesterday, and also ½ per cent. lower than on last Friday. For the June account the last price to-day was 92 to ½. The supply of stock having increased, the "continuation" to June was to-day as much as ¼ to ¾ per cent.

The Stock Exchange Committee on Tuesday passed the following resolution:—"That all bargains for the June account in Consols be quoted with the dividend until and including the account day."

The Indian Five per Cent. Stock has been in less demand for investment since its late rise, yet is supported at 101½ to ¾.

The Five per Cent. Rupee Paper remains quoted 93¼ to 94¼; and the Five-and-a-Half per Cent., 100 to ½.

A decline of 2s. to 3s. has occurred in Exchequer Bills, which closed to-day at 6s. to 2s. dis.

The official list of to-day's actual business in the English Funds and Indian Government Securities, is annexed:—

Three per Cent. Consols, for money, 92, 91½, ¾; ditto for account, May 9, 91½; Three per Cents. Reduced, 90, ¼, 90; New Three per Cents., 90, ¼, 90; Bank Stock, 232½, 232; India Stock, 222; ditto Five per Cent. Stock, 101½, 102; ditto scrip, 101½; ditto Four per Cent. Debentures, 1858, 96½; Five-and-a-Half per Cent. Enforced Rupee Paper, 100½; and Exchequer Bills, 6s., 3s., 6s. dis.

In the Foreign Stock Market attention has been almost exclusively directed to Turkish bonds, which have experienced a great rise since the publication of the intelligence already referred to. The loan of 1858 touched 58 this morning, and, though closing at a partial relapse, is still 3 per cent. higher than on last Friday. The rise in the Loan of 1854 is 1½ per cent. Mexican Bonds have fallen ½ per cent.

Some purchases of the Turkish Loan of 1854 have been effected in anticipation of the drawing for the sinking fund, which will take place in July.

The sales recorded in the Foreign Stock Market to-day were as follows:—

Mexican Three per Cents., for account (May 17), 23½, ¼; Peruvian Uribarren Four-and-a-Half per Cents., 82½; Russian Four-and-a-Half per Cents., 91½; Spanish Three per Cents., 50½, ¾; ditto New Deferred Three per Cents., for account, 42½; ditto Passive, 17; Turkish Six per Cents., 1854, for account, 72, ¼, 71½; ditto Six per Cents., 1858, 57½; ditto, for account, 58, 57½, ¾, ½, 56½, 57; ditto £100 Bonds, 58½, 59, 61; ditto Guaranteed Four per Cents., 100½.

English Railway Stocks were but slightly prejudiced during the earlier part of the week, the settlement indicating that stock continues to be absorbed for investment. Owing to the scanty supply of stock, the rates of "continuation" were for the most part nominal, South Eastern forming the chief exception. Speculators, however, continue to operate for a fall, under the impression that civil war in America will yet affect trade and traffic. During the last two days the market has been generally weaker, the traffic returns of several lines presenting indications of a decline, whilst railway expenses are understood to be heavy.

The rise in Great Western Railway stock on Tuesday amounted to nearly 2 per cent., and in West Midland Oxford to 3½ per cent, an agreement for an amalgamation of the two undertakings having been signed on the previous day, by which the former is to receive 82½ per cent. of the net earnings of the amalgamated concern, and the latter the remaining 17½ per cent. All such agreements are good for railway property.

The following shows the closing prices of the principal British Railway Stocks this day, and the result of the week's variations. The share list in detail will be found in another column:—

Some political significance is attached to the rise in Lombardo-Venetian Railway shares, which have moved up from £2 discount to 5s. discount in a fortnight, although much of this may arise from the confidence which is inspired by the satisfactory progress of the traffic since the opening of the new mileage. The closing price to-day was ¼ to ½ dis.

The closing quotations for shares in new undertakings to-day were as follows:—Ocean Marine Insurance,  $3\frac{3}{4}$  to 4 prem.; Thames and Mersey Marine, 1 1-16 to 1 3-16 prem.; Universal Marine Insurance,  $\frac{7}{8}$  to 1 prem.; London and Provincial Marine,  $\frac{1}{8}$  dis. to  $\frac{1}{8}$  prem.; East India Irrigation,  $\frac{3}{8}$  to  $\frac{1}{8}$  dis.; and Natal Land,  $\frac{5}{8}$  to  $\frac{7}{8}$  prem.

There have been transactions in the shares of the London Ropery Company at 1 prem.

There have been inquiries for the shares of the United Kingdom Electric Telegraph Company, which are quoted  $\frac{1}{4}$  dis. to  $\frac{1}{4}$  prem.

The shares of the Great Southern of India Railway Company being now fully paid up, transfers ought henceforth to be made in stock.

The Stock Exchange Committee have ordered that accounts open for the settling day at the end of May, in shares and foreign stocks, may be made up on the 28th day of the month. This is in consideration of Epsom races.

The Stock Exchange was closed on Wednesday, the 1st of May, according to custom.

AMERICAN SECURITIES.

With reference to the market for American securities, Messrs. D. Bell, Son, and Co. report as follows:—

During the past week there has been an almost entire absence of business in American State securities in the London market. The various State stocks are well held and are not offered for sale, whilst the low quotations from New York have led to considerable orders for purchase in that market.

The report of Mr. E. F. Satterthwaite is annexed:—

The very serious complexion matters have now assumed in the United States, and the very reduced quotations for stocks received from New York have produced a great effect on the market in London for American securities. For States and Federal stocks there is no demand, except at what may be called absurd prices. A few parcels of Railroad Bonds have been taken, where a decline of any moment would be submitted to. Illinois Central shares have given way to 39 discount, and Erie to 19, at which prices the market has received support, both from the "bears," and from fresh buyers. New York Central shares have touched 63.

It will afford some idea of the depreciation which has occurred in the New York stock market if we state that Virginia Dollar Six per Cents., which about ten days ago were quoted 70, now come quoted 36. In London the price to-day was 43 to 47. The London prices are in nearly all instances much above those current at New York. The American quotations, for example, are equal to 46 dis. for Illinois Central shares, and  $16\frac{1}{2}$  for New York and Erie, whilst in London this afternoon the prices were respectively 40 to  $39\frac{1}{2}$  dis. and  $18\frac{1}{2}$  to 19. This difference is calculated to bring shares over.

In some quarters the apprehension is expressed that the English market may be deluged with American stocks. Should the Americans make up their minds to sacrifice them at low prices, English investors will probably absorb them, and wait for the result of the present conflict. A vast number of English buyers are watching for the best opportunity of operating.

The London agents of the Illinois Central Railway Company on Tuesday received the following despatch:—

Office of the Illinois Central Railroad Company,
New York, April 16, 1861.

Gentlemen,—We are advised of continuous rainy weather in Illinois, of nearly six millions of bushels of grain at Chicago awaiting the opening of lake navigation, and a dull business in traffic the first half of the month. To-day it is rumoured that the ice is clear at the strait of Mackinaw, and we hope to report a cessation of the blockade in a day or two. Grain lying all over the country will again pour into Chicago. In our land office the sales are increasing; nearly 100,000 dols. sold thus far this month, and four hundred letters of inquiry have been received from all parts of the country, indicating a large business a month or two hence.—Yours respectfully,
(Signed) THOMAS E. WALKER,
Chairman Ex. Committee.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Admiralty will receive tenders on the 16th inst. for the supply of 150 tons of cocoa, 100,000 lbs. of tea, and 200 tons of sugar.

The Waverley has arrived from China with 313,000 lbs. of tea.

SOUTHERN SECESSION AND THE TRADE WITH NEW ORLEANS.—The Liberal tariff adopted by the new confederacy of the Southern States of America has given an additional stimulus to those commercial enterprises, the want of which has long been felt by the trading community on both sides of the Atlantic. Among these is direct communication by steam between Liverpool and New Orleans, to supply which a comprehensive project, long matured under most experienced judges of the requirements of the case, is in fair progress towards realisation, entitled the British and American Southern Steamship Company (Limited). Before secession had been thought of, this scheme had been submitted to the Chamber of Commerce of New Orleans, reported upon most favourably by a committee of that body, and sufficient support promised by the leading mercantile firms in that great American cotton depot to enable the promoters to commence at once the preliminary arrangements. Two iron screw steamers were forthwith laid down by Messrs. Palmer and Co., of Newcastle-on-Tyne, and have since been launched; and two are fast approaching completion.

POST-OFFICE PACKET SERVICE.—The estimate for this service for the year is £994,956.

STREET RAILWAYS IN THE METROPOLIS.—A staff of surveyors and employes connected with the scheme of laying down railways in the thoroughfares of London have been engaged in taking measurements, and making the requisite arrangements, with the design of forming a line from Hackney to Shoreditch, which it is said will be commenced forthwith. A line from the upper part of Islington to St. Luke's, one from the Bank end of Moorgate-street towards Finsbury, and one along the Lambeth-road to Kennington-park, are also contemplated.

Mines.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 3.

A good general business was done to-day in the mining market. The principal feature was a rapid fall in East Wheal Grenville shares, owing to a report that the lode in the shaft is not looking so well. Wheal Unity, Lady Bertha, Kelly Bray, Budnick Consols, Ding Dong, Pednandrea, Wheal Grenville, Treloweth, Wheal Margaret, West Frances, Marke Valley, Wheal Moyle, and New Treleigh Consols shares met with attention.

In the mining market this week attention has again been principally monopolised with the movement in East Wheal Grenville shares. A further decided rise took place at one period, but there has since been a relapse. Attention has likewise been directed to shares in Wheal Unity, New Treleigh Consols, North Downs, Wheal Moyle, Wheal Grenville, Treloweth, East Caradon, East Wheal Alfred, West Frances, Great Wheal Fortune, and Wheal Margaret. The market generally, however, has not been active.

Camborne Vein,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to  $2\frac{1}{2}$ ; Copper Hill, 90 to 100; Cook's Kitchen, 19 to 21; East Basset, 95 to 100; East Caradon,  $19\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; East Grenville, 53s. to 59s.; East Russell,  $6\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; Great Wheal Fortune, 12 to 13; Herodsfoot, 38 to 39; Kingston Down, 2 to  $\frac{1}{4}$ ; Marke Valley,  $6\frac{3}{4}$  to  $7\frac{1}{2}$ ; New Seton, 50 to 52; New Treleigh, 40s. to 45s.; North Treskerby,  $22\frac{1}{2}$  to  $23\frac{1}{2}$ ; Providence Mines, 40 to 41; Rosewarne United, 22 to 23; South Frances, 130 to 135; Treloweth,  $3\frac{1}{2}$  to 4; Wendron Consols, 18 to 20; West Caradon, 66 to 68; West Frances, 19 to 20; West Rose Down, 11 to 12; Wheal Grenville,  $2\frac{3}{4}$  to 3; Wheal Kitty, Lelant, 10 to 11; Wheal Margaret, 52 to 54; Wheal Unity, 13s. to 15s.

United Mexican Mining shares have been in better demand. St. John del Rey have risen 10s. Colonial descriptions are generally steady. There are inquiries for the shares of the Great Northern Copper Mining Company of South Australia.

The shares of the Beariz Tin Streaming Company were quoted to-day  $\frac{1}{8}$  to  $\frac{1}{4}$  premium. We are requested to state that the list will be closed on Monday next.

The shares of the Labuan Coal Company were quoted to-day 3 to  $3\frac{1}{2}$  prem.

Seventy-eight tons of copper ore, received by the Great Northern Copper Mining Company of South Australia, are to be offered for sale at Swansea on the 14th instant. Private assays of samples have yielded about 30 per cent. of pure copper. This will be the first sale of this company's ore.

The United Mexican Mining Association on Monday received despatches from their commissioners, dated Guanajuato, March 25, as follows:—

MINE OF JESUS MARIA Y JOSE.—The state of this mine may be considered about the same as last reported. In the frente of La Trinidad the width of the ore, which is of a good quality, continues about 2 varas. San Pantaleon has about 3 varas of ore not so good as originally. San Roberto is excellent, as is La Providencia, but the ore not so wide as before. A pozo in the latter is also in very good ore; this is a recent work, not that to which I referred on the 14th December, and which sometime since communicated with San Telesforo, and now forms the roadway for the conveyance of the ore to the shaft. A pozo has been commenced also from the work of La Trinidad, and is in excellent ore. The level of San Andres has not yet reached the point at which it is hoped we shall meet with the cuerpo of rich ore, but spots of very good ore are appearing. The low level called San Rafael is being driven out of the vein, in order to get forward with the greater speed, and when sufficiently advanced a crosscut will readily discover what the vein contains. In four weeks the Buscone's sales have produced 8,597 dols.; those by day-miners, 20,808 dols., for 2,530 cargas (the best), sold out of 5,502 extracted—the difference sent to the Haciendas. The Raspa, concluded at the beginning of the present month, gives 16,052 dols. (the duties and expenses 748 dols. not deducted), which is very nearly 2 dols. per carga for the gold only, the ley of which is 2,004 grains per marc. The profit on the month of February reached 20,036 dols. La Trinidad: Nothing of importance has occurred. Remittance: A conducta is to leave the first week in April, by which I shall be enabled to remit to England from 45,000 dols. to 50,000 dols.

The manager of the Silver Vein Mining Company has issued a circular, in which he mentions that he has "just returned from Lostwithiel, and found everything progressing satisfactorily, both at the mine and the reduction works. Mr. Squire explained, that although a month had elapsed since he reported the commencement of work, he had not really been more than eight or ten days in active operation, as he found he had at first to determine the strength of fluxes, proportions of fuel, &c., necessary to be used according to the nature of the ores." Two reports from Mr. Squire are furnished. In the 1st, dated April 17, he says:—"I have now upwards of 20 tons of treated ores, a very large portion of which will yield a high percentage of silver. As soon as I can reduce a few tons sufficiently small to take samples therefrom for assay, I will do so. You, however, may depend, the ores as now treated in bulk will far exceed any analysis returned to you from small experiments previously made." In the second report, dated April 25, he further remarks that "I am happy to say, upon looking over the ores treated, I cannot fail in having some very high results of silver. I feel confident during the year I shall produce tons of ore worth from £500 to £1,000 per ton, and perhaps even more. I have nothing whatever to do with opinions now so freely expressed. I can only say, the objects for which the company was established are being legitimately carried out, and up to this time attended with success; and such is the general opinion of those in Cornwall who have inspected the ores, before and after treatment, at the works. I will give no results from private assays. I am determined, if possible, to avoid all error by giving the analysis of the yield of silver only from a very large quantity of finely crushed ore."

A call of 10s. per share was made. 9 tons, 6 cwt. 2 qrs. of tin stone, producing about 7½ cwt. of black tin (which shows that the quality of the work is good) were sold. The prospects are considered very cheering.

From West Devon Consols Mine Captain George Rowe reports (May 2nd):—

Our exertions in forking the water have been attended with success. The engine shaft will be drained to the present bottom by to-morrow morning, after which no time will be lost in cleaning up the shaft and the different levels, and getting each point into active operation.

From West Condurrow Mine Captain George Jewell writes (May 2):—

Since our last report we have sunk the engine shaft 6 feet below the 12-fathom level. The lode is 4 feet wide, composed of spar, pryan, and treach, with red flukau, and producing a little tin, and impregnated with copper ore. As soon as we are a little deeper we shall commence driving east and west at the 12-fathom level. The other bargains are much the same as when last reported on.

From Wheal Hearle the agents write (April 27):—

The following is the result of our survey to-day. The 100-fm. level to drive east by three men, at £6 per fm., to carry the end 12 feet high, lode producing tin, but not to value. The 100-fm. level, to drive west by three men, at 75s. per fm., lode worth £7 per fm. The 90-fm. level, to drive west by three men, at 30s. per fm., and 6s. 8d. in the pound, lode worth £10 per fm. The 80-fm. level, to drive west by two men, at 60s. per fm., lode worth £6 per fm.; this end, which is still in good tin-ground, is 12 fms. further west than the levels above. The 60-fm. level, to drive east by two men, at 130s. per fm., lode poor. The 50-crosscut to drive south by four men, at £11 per fm., ground still hard for driving. We have 9 tribute pitches working by twenty-eight men. Tributes varying from 6s. 8d. to 16s. in the pound at £60 per ton for tin. We have fixed the drawing lift to the 100-fm. level, and are calculating to fix the new pole to the 90-fm. level next month. We are glad to inform you that we find our tin-ground lengthening in depth, and our prospects are good.

At Redruth, on the 9th May, 3,143 tons of copper ore will be offered for sale, viz.:—West Basset, 424 tons; Par Consols, 311; Alfred Consols, &c., 271; Great Wheal Alfred, 261; Tolvadden, 235; Levant, 226; West Alfred, 183; Wheal Margery, 146; Copper Hill, 138; Wheal Buller, 124; North Basset, 120; East Alfred Consols, 92; Great South Tolcus, 90; East Rosewarne, 84; Wheal Anna, 70; South Crenver, 61; East Carn Brea, 56; Wheal Agar, 54; West Trevelyan, 41; Cuddra, 30; Boling Well, 25; Clijah and Wentworth, 25; Wheal Messer, 24; Wheal Maudlin, 20; Rosewarne Consols, 16; Wheal St. Andrew, 8; Pemberthy Crofts, 4; Trebarvah, 2; and Wheal Annie, 2 tons.

A PROTEST against the third reading of the Post-office Savings Bank Bill has been entered upon the journals of the House of Lords by Lord Montague.

FRANCE AND BELGIUM.—The Brussels Independence of the 1st says:—"We learn from a sure source that the Treaty of Commerce with France will be signed to-day at Paris. It is thought it will be before long submitted to the sanction of the legislature."

INSTITUTE OF ACTUARIES.

At the last meeting of the Institute of Actuaries a paper was read "On the Rate of Mortality prevailing in the Families of the Peerage during the Nineteenth Century," by Arthur Hutcheson Bailey and Archibald Day, Esqrs.

The paper referred to some investigations on the same subject by the late Mr. Farren, Mr. Edmonds, and Dr. Guy, pointing out certain defects in them, and remarking that some of the conclusions theretofore arrived at were not to be relied upon—the observations having been made on the ages at death only, without any regard to the numbers living. The present observations had been made on peers, sons and daughters of peers, and sons and daughters of peers' eldest sons; and, in order that the results might be compared with other modern tables of mortality, the time over which the observations extended had been limited to the present century. The number of cases brought under observation was 7,473,—4,221 being males, and 3,252 females; and tables were exhibited, showing the results for each sex separately, and for both combined. The results showed that the families of the peerage are an unusually long-lived class. Amongst the males, the mean duration of life, at all ages under 73, exceeds, not merely that of the general population, but even that of the selected lives of the Equitable Assurance Society. In old age it is rather less than that of the Government Annuitants, but coincides very nearly with both the former tables. With the females, the mean duration of life is throughout greater than that of the females of the general population, agreeing very closely with that of the Government Annuitants, at all ages under 55, but surpassing the latter in old age. In short, the female table indicated a more favourable mortality than any other table in ordinary use. Reference was then made to some characteristic features of particular periods of life. In infancy and childhood, the mortality is only about one-third of that prevailing among the general population; but this remarkable advantage is, to some extent, counteracted on arriving at the age at which the first introduction into society usually takes place. Amongst the males between 20 and 30, and the females a few years younger, the mortality exceeds that of the general population at corresponding ages: the excess is greater in the case of the males, but is distinctly marked in both sexes. Comparing the present with other observations on the comparative mortality of the sexes, reasons were given for arriving at the conclusion, that in early life and in old age the mortality of the female sex is less, and in middle life greater, than that of the male—the mean duration of life being at all ages greater for the female. The writers concluded by remarking on the importance of these results to Life Assurance and Reversionary Interest Societies, and by pointing out the practical application which might be made of them.

At the conclusion of the reading, a discussion arose on the subject of the paper, and great satisfaction was expressed at the very careful way in which the facts had been collected and at the conclusiveness of the reasoning upon them.

METROPOLITAN IMPROVEMENTS.

(From the Mining Journal.)

A Thames Railway from the Pimlico line, near Chelsea New Bridge, by the northern low-water line of the Thames to the City end of London-bridge, with a low-level sewer and an improved foreshore, has been submitted by Mr. John Sewell, for the consideration of the Royal Commissioners on the Thames Embankment, as a self-supporting scheme, requiring neither coal tax nor local rates to carry it out. Mr. Sewell was for many years connected with one of the principal metropolitan lines, and has also had considerable experience of what is required for the Thames and the interests connected therewith. He was also the originator of the Border Union Railway, in opposition to a previously-urged scheme; his plans were finally sanctioned by Parliament, and the line is now rapidly completing under the auspices of the North British Railway Company. The Border Union Railway, like the proposed Thames one, was an innovation upon the opinion of leading engineers; and if the Thames Railway is equally successful, the metropolis will have cause to thank Mr. Sewell for his timely plans.

To call in question the soundness of a generally-received opinion, and seek to establish a different one, is at all times an arduous task; more especially when, as in this case, leading authorities adopt the idea that the embanking of the Thames is the best means of relieving the over-crowded streets and providing a low-level sewer.

Ever since the late Sir F. French, in 1824, brought prominently forward his plan of embanking the Thames, the embankment idea has entered more or less into succeeding schemes, including those now before the House. It may, therefore, appear presumptuous to raise a doubt as to the soundness of that opinion, but further consideration may in this instance, as it has in many others, correct first impressions.

The claims of an embankment are, that it would provide a new street, or roadway, and a site for the low-level sewer. Its disadvantages are, injurious interference with the waterways to the wharves, materially lessening the tidal area of the river in the face of a growing traffic to be diverted to the river, limited accommodation, and its bad City terminus. It has also the serious disadvantages that it would be very costly, and possesses no element of self-support. From this cause the former schemes of the same class have fallen to the ground, and but for the proposed continuance of the obnoxious coal-tax of 9d. per ton the present one must share the same fate, since the national purse will not pay for it. Neither does it appear there is any necessity for either national or local taxation to pay for the embankment, since a railway connected with the main lines of the country is clearly far superior.

Briefly, these plans may be thus described:—1. A railway having two lines for goods and two for passengers, erected on columns, to allow for access to the wharves at all times of the tide.—2. A low-level sewer.—And, 3. An ample width of a regularly inclined foreshore between the railway and the wharves for barges, which foreshore would average from 140 to 150 feet in width between London Bridge and the Temple, the least width being 100 feet at Southwark Bridge, and the greatest width about 220 feet opposite St. Paul's.

At the Temple there would be about 3 acres and at Whitehall Gardens about 7 acres available for reclamation between the railway and the shore banks.

At Hungerford Bridge it is proposed to have a most extensive goods and coal station upon the 10 or 12 acres of spare mud bank there, fitted with all modern appliances for economically transferring goods between river, street and railway plant, which cannot fail to exercise a most beneficial influence in clearing the streets and in lessening the heavy costs for collection and delivery now borne by the Western and other railway companies of the metropolis.

It is noticeable how the proposers of the embankment not only seek to throw overboard the large question of compensation to wharfingers and others, but, on the contrary, they speculate upon those parties spending large sums of money on new premises to aid in carrying out an embankment. But the question of compensation cannot be ignored in this way, neither should the citizens of London look quietly on to see the Father of their greatness "cribbled, cabined, and confined" for "an idea" based on the continuance of an obnoxious tax, which ought to be taken off. Indeed, to propose only a common road accommodation from Westminster to Queenhithe or Blackfriars in 1861, when the vastly superior accommodation of two railways associated with the main lines of the country can be had, seems more mediæval than modern, more costly than useful, and more ideal than practical. It is, therefore, quite clear to all that if a self-paying railway can be substituted for the proposed non-paying embankment the public accommodation will be infinitely better served, both commercially and financially.

The Produce and other Markets.

COLONIAL PRODUCE.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 3.

Rather a quiet tone has pervaded the Colonial markets, and quotations have occasionally given way slightly during the week. Coffee has sold steadily, maintaining its previous value. Part of the recent arrivals of Trinidad Cocoa have found buyers at lower rates, for common to middling qualities. The Sugar market remains dull, and soft brown sorts are 6d. per cwt. cheaper. Molasses.—There is nothing of interest to report. Rice is in moderate request. Saltpetre has been firm, with partial inquiries for fine Bengal. Sago sold at a reduction of 6d. to 1s. per cwt. The quarterly Cinnamon sales on Monday went off at an advance of 1d. to 2d. per lb. Other Spices are inactive. Cassia Lignea sold upon slightly lower terms, and African Ginger at 2s. to 3s. per cwt. decline. Tea has been quiet, the trade and importers awaiting the settlement of the duty question. To-day the market is flat, partly attributable to the result of last night's debate. Rum.—The market has remained quiet, and the few transactions reported have been at easy rates. Nitrate of Soda is partially inquired for, at about former quotations. Greater activity has existed in the Cotton market this week, consequent on the warlike accounts from the United States, and 5,400 bales have changed hands, prices in most cases being fully  $\frac{1}{4}$  d. per lb. dearer.

THE TALLOW TRADE.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 3.

We have but little change to notice this week in the general aspect of the Tallow Market. The business transacted has again been chiefly for consumption; and the supplies of "sorts," which have been offered on liberal terms, have been rather freely taken by the trade, the deliveries exhibiting a very respectable figure for the time of year, prices in consequence have, upon the whole, been well maintained, the rather short supply of Town Tallow contributing in some measure to this result. With the steady decrease in the stock of "sorts," arrivals being light, an advance in prices would no doubt have taken place; but this has been materially checked by the supply of old Y.C. Tallow, which is now gradually but steadily finding its way into the general market, and is at present as cheap as any Tallow offering. As we have before stated, we do not think there is any cause likely to prevent this supply being continuous for some months, and it is not reasonable to expect higher prices during that period, especially as there is nothing in the character of present speculative operations likely to lead to such a result. These operations are again brought within a very narrow compass, owing to the general apathy on the subject, and the recent show of firmness has not been maintained, prices having given way in all positions, nor do we consider it either possible or desirable to restore to this now nearly worn-out speculation any measure of its former vitality.

To-day there has been an entire absence of any business in new first sort Y.C. Tallow, worthy of special notice. The quotations this evening are for ready delivery, and for May and June 58s. 3d., October to December delivery 55s. per cwt.; being a decline of 6d. to 9d. on last week's prices.

The arrivals for the week ending the 2nd instant, were 287 casks; deliveries, 1,687 casks; stock this day, 69,364 casks; showing a decrease of 1,400 casks.

Town Tallow has exhibited no particular feature during the week; the demand has been moderate, but the melt being somewhat scanty, sellers have been able to place their goods at the full net quotation, without much effort. To-day the latter price is 57s. 3d., or 54s. 9d. per cwt. nett cash. Fat, 2s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per stone of 8 lbs., being the same as last week.

The following are the particulars of the public sales of yesterday:—

Y.C.—157 casks of old tallow were offered, 30 casks of which were sold at 53s. per cwt., quality very fair; 75 casks of inferior unbracketed were not noticed, and were bought in at 52s.

Odessa.—85 casks were offered, none of it being fine. Fair sheep realised 55s. 3d. to 55s. 6d.; good mixed 53s. to 54s. 6d.; lower qualities 50s. to 52s. per cwt., about 60 casks were sold. Fine sheep tallow is 55s. 6d. to 56s. per cwt.; fine ox 53s.

South American.—142 casks, and 400 boxes were offered, but the demand was anything but active, only a few lots being disposed of; about 80 boxes and 40 casks. The former brought 52s. 3d. to 54s.; a good sound pure quality, a few rather veiny; the casks sold at 41s. to 42s. 6d. per cwt., grease being mixed with the tallow, some of which was rather old. 42 casks of ordinary description were bought in at 54s.; 55s. has been since obtained for best box tallow, and 54s. to 55s. per cwt. may be quoted for fine quality in pipes.

Australian.—We have heard of no business worth recording. The stock is very small. 52s. 6d. to 53s. per cwt. are the general quotations for fine ox. We hear of no sheep offering.

North American.—Supplies on hand are greatly reduced, but we have no alteration to report in prices. As general quotations for the best sorts, 53s. to 54s. per cwt. may be stated.

East India is not attracting much notice; the parcels recently submitted have not been of a character to command it. About 80 packages found buyers yesterday at auction, out of 183 cases and 43 hogsheds; 52s. 9d. to 53s. 6d. being paid for middling to fair quality, and 49s. 3d. to 50s. 6d. per cwt. for good brown; for inferior (wet) sorts, there were no buyers.

Continental, &c.—Very few parcels have lately been brought forward, and prices are irregular. 53s. to 53s. 6d. are quoted for some good Belgian. Fine French would bring 54s. to 54s. 6d. per cwt. 7 casks of country melted (English) tallow were offered yesterday, rather weak; a portion was sold at 52s. 3d. nett cash. 10 casks of Syrian tallow, firm and sweet, but veiny, brought 52s. per cwt.

Cocoa Nut Oil has again commanded a rather extensive business, several large parcels having been disposed of, chiefly for export, and at prices fully up to our last quotations. Yesterday 618 casks of Cochin and 296 casks of Ceylon were offered, of which about 280 casks were sold, being nearly all the Ceylon, at 46s. to 46s. 6d., some of it at short prompt. The Cochin oil was bought in at 47s. 6d. to 48s. per cwt., good to fine quality.

Palm Oil continues in good request, prices being steadily maintained, and the market during the week has been cleared of a rather large quantity. 46s. per cwt. is generally demanded for the finest sorts, 45s. 6d. to 45s. 9d. being readily paid. The latter prices were yesterday obtained at auction for fine Whydah and Lagos. 43s. to 44s. were paid for good oil, rather damaged, in ullage casks. 90 casks of rather dull quality were bought in at 43s. per cwt. About 100 casks found buyers, 323 casks being offered.

Palm Nut Oil.—The market is nearly bare of stock. 39s. has been paid for very fine quality, 38s. 6d. for good, and 36s. to 35s. per cwt. for middling to inferior sorts.

South American Horse Grease continues to realise 38s. per cwt. for best quality, but the business doing is limited to small purchases for consumption.—Furnished by Messrs. Culverwell, Brooks, & Co., Brokers.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET.

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 3.

The accounts received on Monday from the States were considered favourable to holders, and the market showed considerable firmness, but the sales did not exceed 10,000 bales. The sales on Tuesday were to a like extent, and also on Wednesday. The publication of the news yesterday of actual hostilities, embraced with the announcement that the Southern ports would be blockaded, caused excitement in this market, and prices improved fully  $\frac{1}{2}$  per lb., with sales to the amount of 25,000 bales. It is to be hoped that the tenor of the present intelligence will make our merchants turn their attention once more to India, where, if proper encouragement be given, cotton can be raised to almost any extent.

[BY ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.]

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY EVENING.

The market has been very firm to-day. The sales comprise 10,000 bales, including 7,000 on speculation and for exportation. The imports to-day are 6,965 bales. The sales of the week reach 89,860 bales, of which 23,350 were taken on speculation and 16,460 for exportation, and the imports 96,520 bales. The present stock is 990,800 bales.

The Corn Trade.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 3.

The weather in the United Kingdom has continued mostly cloudy throughout this week, but without much rain. The wind has been blowing principally from the north, turning eastward and westward, cool in day-time and frosty some nights. Vegetation has progressed slowly, and is generally backward compared with ordinary years at this season. The growing wheat crops have somewhat improved in appearance, but complaints are still frequent of defectiveness of the plants, and in several places a considerable acreage has had to be ploughed up, to be re-sown with barley or oats. The dry weather prevailing during nearly the whole of last month (April) has checked the growth of the recently sown Spring corn, and for these crops a moderate volume of warm rain would be very beneficial. Rarely has there been so fine a sowing season as during the last month. The peas and beans crop are still complained of as unpromising. Potatoe planting still makes progress.

IMPORTS.—The imports of foreign grain, though showing a slight increase over last week's returns, are still considerably below the weekly average of several months past. The quantity of wheat continues to bear the largest proportion amongst the imports—chiefly from the Baltic, from America, and a moderate quantity from the South of Europe. The imports of barley and oats are again smaller than in any of the preceding four weeks, while there is a slight increase in the quantity imported of maize.

The British Corn Trade has continued this week in a state of calm. Neither the greater facility of money accommodation at five per cent, nor the alarming news from the United States of America, has had the effect of stimulating the activity of the trade. The uninterrupted fine weather during the last four weeks, and the somewhat improved appearance of the growing crops, with the prospect of a continuance of large imports have tended to check the demand, and keep down prices. Wheat prices have receded in most markets 1s. or 2s. per qr. under last week's rates, except for superior sorts, which continue scarce and supported in value. The bulk of the imports consists of inferior grain. Flour has been in moderate demand this week, and prices are the turn in buyer's favour. Barley.—Last week's advance has been generally maintained, and superior sorts have further improved about 1s. per qr. owing to the absence of rain, which, it is feared, may prejudice the growing crops. Oats have also been held with greater firmness at fully last week's prices, in some instances 6d. dearer. Maize.—With a further falling off in the demand, last week's prices have been barely maintained. Beans are again quoted 1s. per qr. dearer. Peas—quiet.

In Mark-lane to-day the attendance of the trade was moderate, and the tone very quiet. Wheat—English, retail sale, at last Monday's prices. Foreign—In slow demand, at last Monday's rates. Flour—American, in quiet demand; quoted the same as last Monday; Norfolk, 38s. to 39s. per 280lbs. Barley—Held at last Monday's currency. Oats—Quiet, at last Monday's rates. Beans—Unaltered, at last Monday's prices. Peas—No change.

The trade of this country depends chiefly for its existence upon the facility given for the conversion into money of good Mercantile and Trade Bills. It is as indispensable to the progress of business that Commercial Bills can be discounted freely, as regularity in payments is essential to a continuance of confidence.

The facilities for discounts, however, have by no means kept pace with the growth of business.

The "Bill of Exchange" is absolutely necessary to commerce. It really represents the bank note, and if due care were exercised it would be an equally safe and more convenient medium of trade. But as it is not, like the note, immediately convertible, it must be discounted, and means for discounting must exist, either in the form of banks with the most inconvenient restrictions, or in that of discount houses adapted to the wants of the day.

The failure of some of the attempts recently made to establish such houses has led to the idea that they are bad in principle. The opposite of this is the fact. No branch of banking affords larger and more legitimate profits than the discounting of bills. The returns of the joint-stock banks show dividends from this source ranging from ten to upwards of twenty-five per cent., with every prospect of increase, and in a probability the private banks would exhibit much larger returns. The cause of failure in the cases referred to lay in the enormous preliminary and office expenses, and in the system on which so much of the business was conducted.

When preliminary expenses and salaries alone require a return of twenty per cent. upon the capital, the business must be fraught with risk. Either all the original capital must be absorbed within the first few years, or else the customer be charged such an exorbitant rate of interest as only improvident and desperate men will pay.

The vice of the system of which mention has been made was this. Appearances were so trusted to, that firms of imposing magnitude, even when hopelessly insolvent, could procure one hundred thousand pounds on bills which, in point of real value, were absolutely not worth the stamps they bore, while excellent bills of comparatively small amount were not considered sufficiently respectable. Men on the brink of ruin could dictate terms to a bank. It had taken too many of their bills to refuse accommodation, when there was no alternative but a serious loss or further risk to receive what had been imperilled; the circle of ruin widened as it went, and desperate adventurers easily procured credit for a quarter or half a million of money, while a business or professional man could not get a bona fide bill discounted, even when offering excellent collateral security; except, indeed, he paid some private individual a ruinous rate.

The Directors of the London and Provincial Discount Company will avoid these sources of danger. Properly conducted, a Discount House can only fail through culpable mismanagement. Thus, one large Discount Company now being wound up, after payment of admittedly large preliminary and office expenses, dividends of 5 per cent., and heavy losses in the leather trade, shows only a depreciation of 5 per cent. off the original capital, proving not only the soundness of the principle, but the large profits to be realized if carefully worked.

As the rate of discount in the provinces is higher on the best bills than in the capital, owing partly to the cumbersome and antiquated system of banking almost universally maintained, opposed as it is to the progressive policy of the day, the Directors confidently rely upon finding a legitimate source of large profit in their provincial business, and, with this view, contemplate opening Branches in Liverpool, Glasgow, Manchester, &c., as soon as circumstances justify them in doing so. An excellent branch has already been established at Brighton, and steps have been taken to form one at Birmingham.

The Provinces, where the manufactures and trade of the kingdom are mainly carried on, have not as yet one Joint-Stock Discount Company. A leading object of this Company is, in some measure, to supply this too long existing want.

The ordinary business of discounting will be conducted at the current rates of the day.

The most inviolable secrecy will be observed in all transactions with the Company.

Publicity in respect of the general accounts (which is perfectly compatible with the strictest confidence) will be a sufficient guarantee against misconduct in any department.

Money will be received on deposit at the Head Office and Branches of the Company, on which interest will be allowed, regulated by the rates of the market.

Applications for Shares in the annexed form, accompanied with a deposit of £1 per Share, may be made to the Secretary at the Offices of the Company, of whom, or of the Brokers, prospectuses can be obtained.

This Company has been formed for the purpose of settling a tract of land, situate near the centre of Canada West, and comprising about 450,000 acres, divided into townships, which has been purchased from the Canadian Government, at the rate of 2s. 1d. sterling per acre, with advantageous terms of settlement. The surveys already made of this locality show it to possess great fertility of soil, a good supply of water, and other essentials of an agricultural district, besides being of easy access. These townships will be fully surveyed and divided into smaller lots, to be sold or let to settlers upon terms not only convenient to the emigrant, but also remunerative to the Company.

Upwards of 12,000 shares have already been taken up in reply to private circulars, and, excluding those reserved for appropriation to applicants from Canada, there remain only 9,000 shares to be allotted, for which immediate application will be necessary.

Prospectuses, containing full particulars and forms of application for shares, may be had from the Brokers of the Company, or from the Secretary, at the Offices, 25, Old Broad-street, London.

Application for shares (as per annexed form) to be made to Messrs. T. Tinley and Sons, Sharebrokers, Liverpool.

Messrs. Shore and Kirk, Sharebrokers, Manchester.
Mr. John Perry, Sharebroker, Waterloo-street, Birmingham.

Long before the secession of the Confederate States it was a matter of surprise to the commercial world that, amongst the various lines of Atlantic steam communication, there should not have been one established between Liverpool and New Orleans, and that the extensive traffic in the produce of the great Mississippi Valley, carried on between the American ports of shipment and their European emporium, should be either still confined to sailing ships, or diverted into costly, circuitous, and inconvenient channels.

It is obvious that this extraordinary omission must have been injurious alike to the commerce of both the aforesaid ports.

Whilst New Orleans is undeniably the point to which shipments of manufactured goods, for the supply of the large and increasing markets in the great cities on the Mississippi and its tributaries, should be directed, it is also becoming the entrepot for Texas, Mexico, and other districts on the Mexican Gulf.

Notwithstanding these facts, however, and although there has long existed in the Southern States a strong desire to establish direct commercial relations with Europe, and thus become independent of the Northern importers and manufacturers, yet a large portion of this valuable traffic has been, through the absence of direct steam conveyance, driven to New York and Boston, at a great loss, both of time and money, to all parties interested.

The foregoing observations apply with even more force to the passenger traffic. Large numbers of passengers are compelled every year to traverse the Atlantic, to or from New York, at inclement seasons, and frequently at the cost of much suffering; whereas, in passing to or from New Orleans, smooth seas and summer weather may be relied on for at least three-fourths of the voyage.

Superadded to these important considerations, the secession of the Southern States, and their liberal tariff as compared with that of the Northern States, will now render a direct steam communication absolutely indispensable; and, from numerous inquiries that have been instituted in New Orleans, it has been satisfactorily ascertained that an efficient line of steamers would there be welcomed, and that it would be generally and liberally supported, not only by the importers and dealers in European goods, but by exporters of American produce and the planters in the interior.

Under these circumstances, therefore, and with a view to provide partial accommodation for this large trade already in existence, and which, it may with truth be affirmed, is capable of unlimited extension, it is proposed to establish, as soon as suitable vessels can be constructed, a Monthly Line of First-class Steamers between New Orleans and Liverpool, to be hereafter increased in number as circumstances may require.

A careful calculation of the estimated receipts and expenditure of the proposed Company has been made by gentlemen who are in every way conversant with the state of the existing traffic, and with the management of steam-vessels, and the result, after making a liberal allowance for interest of capital, wear and tear, and all the usual contingencies, shows a dividend of about 12 per cent. There is, therefore, no reason to doubt that, with due care, punctuality, and fidelity, the undertaking will yield a most satisfactory return to the shareholders.

N.B.—Coals of excellent quality are always obtainable at New Orleans at a moderate price.

MINES, RAILWAYS, BANK, STEAMSHIP, and INSURANCE SHARES BOUGHT, SOLD, or EXCHANGED.

Capitalists who seek safe and profitable investments, free from risk, should act only upon the soundest information; the market prices of the day are for the most part governed by the immediate supply and demand, together with the operations of speculators without reference to the bona fide merits of the property.

Mines afford a wider range for profit than any other public securities, and pay dividends bi-monthly, varying from 15 to 30 per cent. per annum. Instances frequently occur of young Mines rising in value 400 per cent. The undersigned devotes special attention to the above, and affords every information to capitalists, and effects purchases or sales upon the best possible terms.

MAY 6.—News from New York to April 24. The war feeling in the North continued unabated. The rolls were rapidly filling up, and preparations were making by the various regiments for an early departure for the seat of war. There is an account of the destruction of the Norfolk navy yard. Nothing positive was known as to the Secession forces supposed to be in the neighbourhood, but an early attack on Washington was apprehended. Exchange fallen to 106.

A despatch, dated Paris, May 8, says:—"In to-day's sitting of the Corps Legislatif several Government Bills were laid on the table, one of which was for opening a credit of 45 millions francs for great works of public utility, and another for issuing bonds, amounting to 104 million francs, repayable in thirty years."

MAY 10.—The Correspondencia Autografa, of Madrid, says:—"Spain has at present entered into no engagement in reference to the annexation of San Domingo. Slavery, however, is not to be introduced."

News from New York to April 27 breathes war, but reports no collision. An increased body of Federal troops had been thrown into Washington. Stocks better. Exchange lower again, at 105 to  $\frac{1}{4}$ .

THE RENEWED TIGHTNESS IN THE MONEY MARKET.

ALTHOUGH the Bank Return (which will be found in its usual place) exhibits no variation of importance either in the Bullion or Reserve—a circumstance which shows that the Directors acted wisely in abstaining from raising the rate of discount on Thursday last—the general tendency of the Bank accounts points to a somewhat dearer money market. The principal feature is the large increase—namely, £1,255,531—which has occurred in a single week in the amount of Private Securities taken in by the Bank. The active commercial demand indicated by these figures has continued on Thursday and Friday. When the commercial public are compelled to run to the Bank for so large an amount of accommodation at this comparatively early period of the quarter, it is generally remarked that, as the quarter advances, the Bank obtain an unusual degree of control over the market generally. To these considerations it must now be added that the exchange at New York has again fallen to 105, or a fraction over, and that a steady increase is taking place in the shipments of specie to America. These features naturally suggest the probability of a rise in the value of money at no distant period, but do not justify vague anxiety. Although the three-quarters of a million of silver lately contracted for by the Council of India, and now lying in the Bank, will doubtless be sent away gradually, account must be taken of the favourable movement which has just occurred in the Indian exchanges, and which, combined with the tighter condition of our money market, will probably give a check to the flow of silver to the East on mercantile account.

WHY ARE NOT THE BANK RETURNS PUBLISHED EARLIER?

WE are requested by several correspondents to again urge on the Bank of England the great boon that would be conferred on the banking and mercantile community if, immediately after the usual weekly meeting of the Directors on Thursday, they would cause the Bank Returns which are then laid before them to be publicly posted up either in the Hall of the Bank or in any other suitable place or places. The commercial classes would then be made acquainted with them either on Thursday afternoon or the first thing on Friday morning, instead of on Saturday morning. Such an arrangement would be very advantageous to the public, and could make no possible difference in the administration of the affairs of the Bank of England. There is no reason that we know of or can possibly conceive why this alteration could not be made. It is well known that the Returns are made up on Wednesday, and are known by many of the Directors on that day. Whatever action by the Bank takes place on them, takes place on Thursday. This object would, therefore, still be gained before they would be made known to the public. These Returns sometimes have considerable influence on the operations in the foreign exchanges, which take place on Friday; and it would be a great accommodation to merchants were the figures made known on Thursday afternoon or Friday morning, so that they might regulate their transactions accordingly.

We live in times of very rapid communication. It is, therefore, all the more important that the earliest possible information should be given respecting the position of the great establishment which principally rules the money market in England, and which greatly influences that of the world. That position, we repeat, is known to the whole Board of Directors, and although they, doubtless, guard the secret confided to them remarkably well, and do not abuse it for private ends, still it cannot be denied that their possession of the knowledge of the Bank Returns from Wednesday or Thursday, until after business hours on Friday, does give them a very great advantage over the rest of the public. Now, this is an advantage which no individual, or number of individuals, is entitled to. In these advanced days, the anomaly stands out in bolder relief than ever. It is generally recognised that in matters of commerce and finance everybody shall start as fair as may be. The system of exclusive information—a system which conduces to the amassing of large fortunes by the few at the cost of the many—is pretty well knocked on the head. The days of pigeon-expresses and swift-sailing ships are at an end. Steam, railways, and the electric telegraph are great levellers. Their operation is to put all men on a level in point of information, with this one important, but perfectly legitimate difference, that the prize of superior knowledge falls to the share of the shrewd, acute, thoughtful, or observant man, as distinguished from the dull and unenterprising one. These are days, we repeat, when it is not to be tolerated that because a man happens to be a Director of the Bank of England he shall be for two whole days the exclusive possessor of a secret which, it is no exaggeration to say, may, at certain times, be worth thousands of pounds. We may fairly urge the point with the more earnestness because we have already repudiated the insinuation that the Bank Directors make any improper use of their knowledge. But this very fact merely serves to place in a still more striking light the anomaly of the existing practice, for it goes to show that the Bank Directors withhold information which is of no advantage to them personally, but which would be of great advantage to the public. Surely there is in this something suggestive of the fable about the dog in the manger.

We do trust that the Bank Directors will speedily take this subject into consideration, and in the same spirit that has lately prompted them to accommodate the public by curtailing the time for the shutting of the transfer-books. All that is wanted is a publication of the Bank Returns on the Thursday afternoon. The figures should be posted up in the Bank and in the Stock Exchange, and there should be a "special supplement" of the London Gazette on Thursday evening. The few pounds that this would cost cannot stand in the way, for the public would subscribe sufficient for ten years' "supplements" in one hour. Where, then, is the obstacle? The public will do well to go on repeating the question until they get an answer, and commercial M.P.'s, unless, indeed, they think it too practical a one for the atmosphere of the House of Commons, would render a real service to their constituents by raising it in that body.

THE FALL IN THE RAILWAY SHARE MARKET—RAILWAY RECEIPTS AND EXPENSES.

THE past week has been marked by a considerable fall in the prices of British Railway Stocks. The market has been weaker than for some time past, and although the sales have apparently been for the most part of a character more or less speculative, they are believed to have included a not inconsiderable amount of pawned stock—i.e. of stock previously withdrawn from the market on borrowed money. It is certain that operations of this kind have been going on for some months past. A large amount of Midland, Lancashire and Yorkshire, and South-Eastern Stocks, which had been paid for, taken out of the Stock Exchange, and pledged with various bankers, chiefly in the North, has gradually found its way back into that establishment. In proportion as it has come back, there has been a decided reaction from the improved range of prices previously attained. The fall has also been aggravated by speculative operations "for the fall." Hence the recent collapse in prices, in face of the fact that investments in English railway stocks by the public and by present bond fide holders are still continued upon a fair scale, as is proved by the scanty floating supply of many descriptions in the Stock Exchange.

The supply of stock which has lately come on the market from pawned and other sources, and the speculative sales which have been pressed, originate, apart from the difficulty of holding stock on borrowed money in the present state of the money market, in a belief that, what with the American convulsion, its effects on the cotton trade, and other adverse causes, trade will slacken and the springs of railway traffic be affected. Railway traffic never responds suddenly to any unfavourable influence. When the trade of the country, home and foreign, is, so to speak, in full swing, it is not easily arrested. Old orders must be completed. Masses of goods, for the transport of which arrangements had already been virtually made, must be moved to and fro in due course. But a prolonged dulness of trade invariably affects railway traffic; and many good judges are of opinion that this is now beginning to show itself in the weekly traffic returns, which are unquestionably much less favourable than they were a few months ago.

Another consideration which prejudices the Railway Share Market, is a belief that railway expenses this half-year will prove to be very heavy. We have alluded to this subject before; and we hear the question asked—"Why should railway expenses be heavier now than at other periods? What is there to increase them?" We believe that little doubt is entertained in the best-informed quarters as to the fact; and some evidence may be gathered from a few paragraphs, caught up almost at random, from the railway intelligence—published from day to day in the press. Three of our English railway companies—namely, the Manchester and Sheffield, West Midland and South-Eastern, publish, from time to time, a statement of their expenditure as well as of their receipts. It is a practice which ought to be universally adopted. If these three companies can act upon it, others can. The last paragraph put forward by the Manchester and Sheffield Company observes:—"The total expenses of this Company's railways, including rents, tolls, duty, &c., from January 1st to April 28th, 1861, amounted to £109,478, as against £100,269 for the corresponding period of 1860." Our readers will remark that there is an increase of £9,209 in the expenses in four months. The receipts for the same period, we find, were £191,616, showing an increase of £4,636 as compared with the same period of last year.

The total traffic receipts of this company for the fortnight ending April 21, have been £13,912. 16s. 1d., and for the corresponding fortnight of 1860 they were £13,504. 17s. 6d. The expenditure amounts to £6,349. 2s. 9d., or at the rate of 45·63 per cent., whilst the expense for the corresponding fortnight of 1860 amounted to £5,629. 7s. 6d., or at the rate of 41·68 per cent. The aggregate receipts for the first seven fortnights and thirteen days of the half-year amount to £104,751. 5s. 6d., as against £101,998. 12s. 8d. for the corresponding eight fortnights and one day of the previous year. And the aggregate expenses for the first seven fortnights and thirteen days of the half year amount to £52,076. 6s. 9d., being at the rate of 49·71 per cent., as against £45,319. 1s. 8d. for the corresponding eight fortnights and one day of the previous year, or at the rate of 44·43 per cent.

Here, again, is an increase of £6,757 in the working expenditure in eight weeks of 1861, as compared with the corresponding eight weeks of 1860.

In the case of the South-Eastern Company, the statement furnished is deficient in the means of comparison with last year, but the expenses appear to have increased in a larger ratio than the receipts.

For the causes of this increased working expenditure we need not look far. The seasons have been particularly unfavourable. The past year was an extraordinarily wet one, and was followed by an extraordinarily severe winter. Both circumstances have had a very pernicious effect on railway works and permanent way; and we shall be surprised if this does not tell upon the working expenses of the majority of the lines. If, in addition, traffic falls off, the dividends may prove less favourable than has been expected. It is one favourable feature, however, as regards the next half-yearly dividends, that traffic generally has not suffered until the first four months of the current half-year have passed over.

THE BUDGET.

It is stated that there will be one more Parliamentary struggle with regard to Mr. Gladstone's Budget. An endeavour will be made on the part of the Opposition to divide into separate Bills the Bill for the reduction of the Income-tax, the abolition of the Paper Duties, and the continuance of the duties on Tea and Sugar, which Mr. Gladstone has introduced all in one. The argument of the Opposition will be that each ought to stand or fall on its own merits. Should the Government obtain a majority, which is fully expected—although the struggle may be fierce—the Parliamentary contest for the session may be considered as virtually at an end.

THE PROMOTION OF RAILWAY WORKS IN INDIA.

It is very satisfactory to learn from official lips that there is no chance of any stoppage in the construction of Railways in India. Sir Charles Wood, in reply to Sir M. Peto, has stated—"There is not the least intention of allowing the railway works now in progress in India to be stopped. These works were carried on last year to the full extent that could be executed, the whole expenditure incurred for them during that year having been £8,300,000, and of this sum there had been received from the shareholders £5,810,000. He (Sir C. Wood) believed it would be equally detrimental to the interests of the shareholders, of the Government, and of the public, if those works were suspended." In answer to a question from Mr. H. Seymour, as to whether it is intended to continue the branch of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway into the cotton districts, the Indian Secretary stated that "the works along the whole line, from the north of Bombay into the interior of the cotton-growing country, will be carried on as rapidly as possible."

This is a very satisfactory assurance. We are glad to be assured, too, that the Indian Council in this country is fully alive to the importance of completing these works. As it is principally a question of finance with the Indian Government, it must not be prevented by any light scruples from raising a loan in this country in aid of railways directly fresh funds are required. Looking at the contingency of the supply of cotton from America being curtailed, no British statesman should neglect any means in his power to supply the deficiency. We are glad to perceive indications that the native capitalists are beginning to take a new interest in railway enterprise in India. We shall not despair of seeing them hereafter embark a good deal of money in it. A few months ago there was witnessed the novel sight of native landholders and capitalists meeting in Oude, with a view to introduce railways into that province, to be made by means of native capital. More of this may be witnessed in the future. But the first burthen of the railway construction must fall upon our shoulders. These works are a commercial and political necessity. They are, too, the best investment in which the Indian Government can embark its money and its credit; for, with a complete system of railway and telegraphic communication, 10,000 troops become as efficient for the maintenance of order as 50,000 were in former days. If, therefore, the Indian Government raise a loan for railway purposes, it will be as judicious an investment as could be made.

THE CONFEDERATE STATES OF AMERICA AND DIRECT TRADE WITH ENGLAND.

It must not be forgotten that at the bottom of the present differences between the Federal Government and the Confederate States, there is one main commercial consideration. So long as the Union lasted the Southern States stood in precisely the same relation to the Northern States as the old American colonists stood to Great Britain. The North supplied the South with nearly everything upon which skilled labour had been employed, and the South paid for it in the slave-grown products of the soil. To the North this arrangement has been highly advantageous, inasmuch as it has secured a great home market for every kind of commodity that New England could produce, and for every article of merchandise that New York could import. To the South the arrangement has been very different. A highly protective American tariff has enhanced the price of everything received by the South in exchange for its raw products, and while the population of the North has increased enormously, and every branch of Northern industry has been developed in a still greater comparative ratio, the population of the South has practically remained unprogressive; and planters, tradesmen, and the population generally are as poor, as indolent, and as extravagant as they have always been. The highest occupations in which Southerners could engage, and the only purposes to which the comparatively limited disposable capital of the South could be applied were the growth and transport of cotton, to rice, and sugar from the interior to the seaboard, and the breeding, buying, selling, and working of an unfortunate race of human beings. Observation and reflection, as they could hardly fail to do, have long since convinced thoughtful Southern men that it was undesirable that such a state of things should be permanently maintained, and without secession no change whatever could be introduced. To the South the bonds of the Union have been as burdensome as the fetters to the negro, whom the South has kept in hopeless bondage; and if the sentiments of the educated and higher classes of Southern society could find expression we should be frankly told that in the emancipation of the South from dependence on the North, in the creation of diversity of employment for Southern capitalists and for the masses, and in the saving that would arise from direct Southern intercourse with Liverpool, Southampton and Havre, the day would not be distant when slavery itself would cease. When the war of the revolution severed the connection between England and the colonies, Massachusetts and New York were the South Carolina and Georgia of the time; and as the colonists began to supply themselves with the manufactured articles which England had before supplied, slavery in New England gradually expired. In our own day, and by much the same agency, we have seen slavery become unprofitable and a burden on the planters in the Border States. Why should the South be prevented from freeing itself from the curse of slavery, as each and all of the old States of the Union have long since done, and as the Border States are fast doing? and why should not the monopoly which the Northern States seek to fasten on the South in perpetuity be at once broken down? The question of secession is, therefore, one of humanity, and of freedom of trade.

According to the American census of last year the population of the Southern States was as follows:—

	Free.	Slave.	Total.
Alabama ... ..	520,444	435,473	955,917
Arkansas ... ..	331,710	109,065	440,775

	8,337,702	3,998,960	12,336,662

These States are all compactly nestled together to the south of the thirty-eighth parallel, and last year the exports of cotton coastwise and to foreign ports were the following:—

	Bales.
Mississippi from New Orleans...	2,139,425
Alabama from Mobile ... ..	843,012
Texas from Galveston ... ..	252,424
Florida from various ports ... ..	192,724
Georgia from Savannah ... ..	531,219
South Carolina from Charleston ... ..	510,100
North Carolina from coastwise ... ..	41,194
Virginia from various ports ... ..	56,987
Tennessee from various ports ... ..	108,676

Total cotton crop of last year ... .. 4,675,770

New Orleans is situated on the Mississippi river, 100 miles from the Gulf of Mexico, and is accessible for vessels drawing 18 feet of water. The value of the produce which reached New Orleans from the interior for the year ending the 31st August, 1860, was no less than 185,211,254 dols. (say £37,000,000 sterling), while the single article, cotton, represented an aggregate value of 109,389,228 dols. (say £22,000,000). The duties paid at the New Orleans Custom-house for the year ending 30th June, 1860, were 22,920,840 dols. against 18,349,516 dols. the previous year. The population of the town is 170,766. Mobile is situated on the Mobile river, thirty miles from the Gulf, and may be approached by vessels of the largest tonnage. For the year ending December, 1859, the duties paid at the Mobile Custom-house were 982,100 dols., while the exports were valued at 30,079,711 dols., and for the first six months of 1860 the duties paid were 617,280 dols., while the exports were valued at 25,908,820 dols. This shows great progress. Savannah may be approached by large vessels, and, besides being a great rice and cotton port, it connects with all the railways in the interior and on the coast. Charleston, like Savannah, is a great rice and cotton shipping port. Its railway communications with the interior and along the coast are also all that could be wished.

It is important that these details should be given, and for this reason—that should the civil war proceed, it is a fact not to be lost sight of that the ports from which we draw our supplies of cotton have large populations, and are well connected with each other by coast and interior railways. Should, therefore, a force be landed at any point, or an attack made on any cotton port, the presumption is that it would be at once repelled, particularly when it is considered that the Federal Government have no sufficient standing army to employ or to fall back upon. If a landing were attempted, the Southern telegraphs and railways would be at once set in motion, and a stronger force confronted to the Federal troops than could safely be contended with. For these reasons it would be premature to regard the cotton trade as ended, or even seriously interrupted, for if British ships do not venture to run the loose blockade which can only be established, the inducement of a high rate of freight will bring the large coasting vessels of the Cotton States into the trade, and of these vessels there are many.

The figures representing the imports and exports of the ports of New Orleans and Mobile set at rest the question of the importance of the establishment of direct trade, not only between Charleston and Liverpool, but also between New Orleans and Liverpool. What would be thought of sending French produce to the Baltic before it was sent to England, or of sending Australian vessels up the Mediterranean as far as Malta, before they proceeded to the Cape? Yet in this very shape has the trade of the Southern States hitherto been conducted. A large proportion of the manufactured goods consumed in the Southern and Western States, and particularly the more valuable descriptions of British and European production, have been imported into New York, Boston, and Philadelphia, and thence distributed to the Southern consumers charged with high profits and commission, duties, landing expenses and carriage. It is from this and like injustice that the Confederate States desire to be free. In this phase of their struggle they will have with them the sympathy of the business men of the United Kingdom. And we cannot help seeing an evidence of this sympathy in the efforts which are already being pressed forward under good commercial auspices, both in this country and in the Southern States, to establish direct steam communication between those States and Liverpool, between the great cotton shipping port and the great cotton receiving port. There is, indeed, a natural connexion between them.

WHAT IS THE OBJECT OF THE CIVIL WAR IN AMERICA?

THE outbreak of Civil War in the United States is, perhaps, the most deplorable event which either statesmen, philosopher, or philanthropist has ever had to contemplate. It almost makes one despair of the progress of the human race. This journal eschews politics, except as they affect commerce and finance. Now, there have been few events in modern times more likely to affect both than a protracted Civil War in America. We are as yet totally unprepared to measure its consequences. A great portion of our mercantile community clung to the hope that, however much Americans might talk and bluster, when it came to the push they would be too wise to cut each other's throats. But, when we take into consideration what has already occurred, we are driven to the painful conclusion that the destruction of property will soon be followed by the destruction of life; and when blood begins to flow, he must be a bold man who ventures to predict when it will cease.

What renders this Civil War additionally deplorable is that neither of the combatants has defined the principles on which it is waged. We have no doubt whatever as to the principle which will ultimately be made the war cry of the North—and that is Slavery. Such is virtually the great principle that has to be settled; and, until that banner is raised, the war is objectless. For the moment the struggle may be based on the principle of the North compelling the South to remain within the Union. It is convenient at present for both parties to pretend that the abstract question which is being fought for is that of Union or Secession. But it will soon be found that this is a mere pretence, and that the question to be settled is Slavery—or Freedom, and definite territorial limits for each. It is convenient to the South to proclaim its right to secede from the Union, because such a doctrine will find many adherents in the North—a circumstance which would tend to paralyse the efforts of the latter; but the North will soon see through this, and will in self-defence unfurl the banner of liberty against slavery;—and when this struggle really begins, we cannot at present pretend to say where it will end.

It is doubtless this difficulty which has prevented the Governments of France and England from offering their good offices to mediate. They have perceived the hollowness of the pretence which both parties have put forward. They have, therefore, been compelled to hold aloof, although their material interests will greatly suffer by the convulsion. Although all the sympathies of England are in favour of liberty, our material interests are so bound up with the supply of cotton that we fear we should almost become indifferent to the principles we profess if we could but see a termination to the civil strife, and a compromise effected. But it seems this is not to be, for the first thing we are compelled to do is to recognise the South as a belligerent. The recognised Law of Nations is that "the character of a belligerent is not so much a principle as a fact; and a certain degree of force and consistency acquired by any mass of population engaged in war entitles that population to be treated as a belligerent." Consequently, as appears from a recent debate in Parliament, the Law Officers of the Crown and our Government have "come to the opinion that the Southern Confederacy of America, according to those principles, which seem to them just principles, must be treated as a belligerent." Practically, this decision recognises the Southern Confederacy, and places us on the horns of this dilemma—that we are, without being able to help ourselves, obliged to recognise the South, which of course will cause great irritation in the North. The South thereby obtains the power of issuing letters of marque, which may inflict great injury on the North. Thus, although we abhor Slavery, we are compelled, and principally through the decision of the United States themselves, to treat the South as fair belligerents; although, if the principles laid down by the treaty of Paris (viz., to consider the crews of ships sailing with letters of marque as pirates) had been recognised by the United States, instead of being rejected by them, the power of resistance now possessed by the Southern Confederacy would have been materially impaired. The United States, by rejecting, for their own selfish purposes, the humane principles enunciated by the treaty of Paris, have unquestionably raised up the most effectual stumbling-block to the successful prosecution of coercive measures against the South.

There is a terrible moral attached to this state of things, which we trust may not be thrown away on nations; it is that "wrong never comes right." We are not going into the abstract question of Slavery, for we are not clean-handed in the matter, as we left that fatal legacy to the United States, but it is unquestionable that the real cause of the Civil War is the cursed institution of Slavery. And it is greatly to be feared that America will never know real peace until the great principle is recognised that the traffic in human flesh is abhorrent both to God and man.

There is but one way of putting an end for ever to this abhorred traffic, and that is for all the nations of Europe, as well as the Northern States of America, to declare solemnly that they will regard the Slave Trade as piracy. The next point would be for them to treat all vessels carrying letters of marque as pirates. Men-stealers and maritime burglars should have the same measure meted out to them. It would, we know, be difficult to establish such an accord amongst all civilised nations; but is it impossible? If it is not impossible, it is the duty of England, as the first maritime Power, and the one most deeply interested in maintaining an efficient maritime police, to take measures with this solemn and noble aim.

THE FAILURE OF MESSRS. PEDDER'S BANK AT PRESTON.

IN our impression of the 9th of March last, we drew attention to the failure of three or four private country banks, pointing out some of the anomalies of Peel's Act of 1844. This Act prohibited the Bank of England to issue notes unless they had in their coffers specie or bullion against them, but with this very important qualification—that, Government being indebted to the Bank to the extent of £14,000,000, the Bank might issue notes to that amount without having sovereigns to represent them; at the same time, the Act gave permission to country banks to issue notes, amounting, in the aggregate, to £8,000,000, without their being required by law to keep a single sovereign towards their discharge. While giving due credit to well-conducted country banks, we yet urged that the weak points of the existing system should not be overlooked.

There could not be a stronger instance in support of our argument than the recent failure of Messrs. Pedder and Co., of Preston. This Bank was established in 1775, and, consequently, was one of the oldest in existence. Until within the last ten years the firm was that of Pedder, Fleetwood, and Pedder. They did not issue notes, and for this reason—it has been a question of considerable doubt among the commercial body in the county of Lancaster whether any irresponsible persons should be permitted to issue paper money. The establishment of private banks of issue in that county has, accordingly, never met with much encouragement. According to a statement made at the meeting of the creditors of this bank, it appears that the two brothers received out of the profits of the establishment £20,000 per annum, yet £200,000 has gone out of the till. There does not appear to have been any want of confidence on the part of the depositors, but an enormous private expenditure on the part of the partners. Mr. Edward Pedder, whose recent death brought the bank to a standstill, has been living at the rate of £20,000 per annum. Capital the bank had none.

At a meeting of the creditors, held at Preston on the 27th ult., the statement submitted shows that the huge sum of £628,290 is due to customers and depositors, and that £433,500 is due to the Bank. This sum has been valued at £361,600. The only immediately available assets are £15,000 cash and £14,000 bills receivable. The most remarkable feature of the proceedings is the great anxiety which was shown to prevent the estate being wound up in bankruptcy. One of the speakers delivered his opinion that, "in the interest of the bank itself, it was not thought desirable that A, B, or C should be known to owe so much to the bank." This pleading on behalf of the debtors, whose debts amount in the gross to £433,500, was, somewhat singularly, approved of, and the affair is to be wound up "under inspection," when the creditors will be handled gently as well as the debtors. By this arrangement, the public will obtain no information as to the manner in which the bank has been conducted. That there has been a recklessness deserving of the severest censure is plain from the fact that, when a customer of the bank inquired for the last Christmas balance-sheet, he was told "there was none made out, neither had there been any for many years past," and, further, that even the interest on the deposit notes had not been entered for years. The Bankruptcy Court, badly as it is at present constituted, possesses considerable power to check reckless trading, and it is a great pity that its aid has not been called in upon this flagrant occasion.

THE OTTOMAN (SMYRNA AND AIDIN) RAILWAY.—THE INFLUENCE OF RAILWAY ENTERPRISE UPON THE DEVELOPMENT OF TURKEY.

WE have had forwarded to us from Constantinople a copy of a pamphlet just published in that city, comprising a variety of matter from an intelligently conducted periodical, the Levant Quarterly Review. It includes a valuable paper "On Cotton Growing in Turkey and Syria," by Mr. William Sandford, who earnestly calls the attention of home capitalists to the peculiar suitability of many localities in those regions to the cultivation of the plant by which Manchester exists. Mr. Sandford appropriately cites a despatch addressed to Lord Clarendon in May, 1857, by Mr. Consul-General Moore, who affirmed, as the result of experiments, that Syria and Palestine are as well adapted for the growth of cotton as the United States. A sample of the quality raised from American seed has been pronounced by competent English judges to be fully equal to that of American growth. Amongst the other contents there is quoted from the MONEY MARKET REVIEW one of the articles published in these columns some time back, on "The Failures amongst the Greeks, and their Influence upon the Money Market."

The most interesting portion of this Constantinople pamphlet is, however, a well and clearly written paper on "The Smyrna and Aidin Railway," by Mr. Hyde Clarke. The Ottoman Railway Company, by whom this work is being carried out, is, in many respects, one of the most interesting undertakings ever submitted to the public. This Company has been the pioneer of railway enterprise in Turkey. It has met with the fate of all pioneers, in having enormous difficulties to encounter. Most of those difficulties are now surmounted, and the aim for which it was projected is now coming more clearly into view. The concern is one of considerable magnitude, its capital being £1,200,000, of which £950,000 is in shares, and £250,000 in debentures. Of this capital the amount expended, up to the latest date, is upwards of £500,000. Though the capital enjoys a guarantee of 6 per cent. from the Ottoman Government, the Company's financial and other difficulties have depressed its shares to a point which many persons consider out of proportion to its intrinsic merits and prospective promise. The £20 shares, with £11 paid, stand now at £5. 10s. discount, although every authority who has studied the statistics of the probable revenue testifies unreservedly that the original estimates bid fair to be largely exceeded. It may be interesting, therefore, particularly to the shareholders, if we draw upon the matter now furnished for a sketch of the field open to this enterprise, which may fairly be regarded as the first of the kind in Turkey—a country which only requires to be irrigated with Western capital to yield even fabulous returns.

The responsible head of this undertaking, as is well known, is Sir Macdonald Stephenson, who attached himself to it from the outset, and whose reputation affords a guarantee that it will ultimately be made to realise all that was originally expected from it. A great portion of the Company's difficulties arose unquestionably from the necessity under which Mr. Jackson, the original contractor, found himself of abandoning the contract. This took place at a time when he had brought the works to an advanced state, and when an early opening was looked forward to with hope. In July, 1859, nearly three years from the date of the original concession, the directors were required to provide another large contractor, as a successor to Mr. Jackson, and a most valuable successor and ally they have found in Mr. T. R. Crampton. But a change of this kind always entails great difficulty. The whole affair had to be reorganised; new financial resources had to be provided; the ensuing winter was one of exceptional severity; and the works were injured by floods unexampled in the memory of the oldest inhabitants. The reconstruction of the works was, therefore, only effected in time for the opening of the first portion in the end of November. In the meantime the original term of four years for the completion of the works, defined by the concession, was about to expire, and a fresh authorisation was applied for to the Imperial Government, the negotiation of which was necessarily a work of time. This matter has since been settled in the most satisfactory manner, the Government, which is very anxious to push forward an enterprise of this kind, having done what any Government must do under similar circumstances—namely, granted the Company what it asked. It must be recorded to Mr. Crampton's great credit that he carried on the work during the intervening period—a year and a-half—provided the working stock and guaranteed the opening of the first section out of his own resources. Now, by the united action of the Government, the Company, and the contractor, the main difficulties have been overcome, and the undertaking has been brought into a vigorous state, so that a provisional opening to Turbalu junction at 29 miles from Smyrna being arranged to take place in November, 1860, the effective opening to Jelad Cahve, a total distance of 37 miles, can take place next spring, and the main line of Aidin traffic can then be reached; while by the opening to Turbalu the way is at once provided for carrying on a branch to Tireh, and opening up the rich valley of the Cayster, one of the finest and best cultivated valleys in the world.

Mr. Clarke passes lightly by the criticism to which the enterprise has occasionally been subjected, both at home and in Turkey. He regards local criticism as an encouraging proof of the deep interest taken in the undertaking. He contends that the Board could not be held responsible for the faults or shortcomings of subordinates in an untried field of enterprise like this. As it has been said, for example, that the station at Smyrna is too large and expensive, Mr. Clarke simply remarks that the value of land is rising so rapidly there that "in three years the land alone of the stations will be worth the whole present outlay for land and buildings." He bears fresh testimony to the "active sympathy" exhibited by the merchants of Smyrna and Constantinople on behalf of the work.

Mr. Clarke then goes into a variety of details descriptive of the country, the improvements that may be made, and its vast natural resources. In point of general interest, this is by far the most important portion of the pamphlet, and we propose to summarise some of the salient features. There are few fields which will attract more forcibly the attention of our enterprising merchants within the next few years.

As one preliminary to progress at Smyrna, it is important that the petition of the inhabitants should be acceded to by the Government and a municipality be established, as at Pera. This done, the progress of improvement will be rapid, and as the value of property will be improved, and rents will increase, the city can well afford to pay the necessary taxes. Smyrna with its large population will then be next to Constantinople, the finest city of the East, and the Queen of Anatolia. A measure from which the Government will derive greater profit will be the formation of bonded warehouses at the point, under the direction of the railway company, for which it will receive a large net revenue, and lay the foundation of a reform in the Customs administration of Smyrna, now large, but which under proper management would soon give £100,000 a-year more, and in time a larger increase. Under all circumstances the increased Customs revenue would pay the guaranteed interest on the railway if the line return no profit, though, observes Mr. Clarke, "all know better than to anticipate such a result."

Turbalu, as already mentioned, is the junction whence the branch railway will be taken to the valley of the Cayster, in the first instance to Tireh, twenty-four miles, making fifty-three miles from Smyrna, and passing within six miles of Baidir. As this branch is easy of construction, it is the desire of the Government and the directors, if the funds be provided, that it shall be proceeded with in the season of 1861. In the next season the line can be carried to Odemish, another eighteen miles, making the total length in the Cayster valley seventy-one miles of good traffic, besides the Baidir branch, and any extension beyond Odemish. This Tireh line is described as of itself sufficiently considerable to make a good paying line, but it presents this advantage, that besides its direct intercourse with Smyrna it affords a cross traffic between its own towns, and with the other fork and branches of the line to Aidin, the coal fields and Scalanova. The valley is full of large towns and villages, Tireh being reputed to have a population of above 30,000, Baidir and suburbs, 16,000, Odemish and suburbs, 18,000, Burgeh, 5,000, etc. Besides the great produce of the district, the towns have flour and oil mills, winepresses and tannaries, and Odemish is the great seat of the rope trade. The district is famous for silk cocoons and silk worms, grain, wheat, barley, sesame, beans, tobacco, oil, figs, grapes, raisins, wine, gallnuts, melons, fruits, wax, hemp, rope, cattle, poultry, wool, furs, hides, bark, timber, marble, etc.; but the traffic is susceptible of much greater extension when better means of transport are provided. At present produce is some times carried down by canal to Scalanova, and thence by sailing vessels to Smyrna. The Tireh district has the advantage of an industrious Turkish population, and its rich cultivation has attracted the admiration of travellers for a very long period, and is referred to in several works. It yields a large revenue to the Turkish Government, and is looked upon as one of the sheet anchors of the Ottoman Railway.

At these points wheel carriages are to be put on the roads. By employing horse waggons for the conveyance of heavy goods, the camels and pack animals (the present primitive mode of conveyance) will be liberated, and will be able to proceed further up the country, tapping fresh sources of traffic, now quite unavailable through the distance. Mr. Clarke justly remarks that the power of production in Anatolia is only restricted by the limit of carrying power. His Excellency, Mr. Alison, in his report for 1858, quoted by Sir M. Stephenson, shows that while in the United States grain can be carried about 200 miles for 8s. a quarter, it can only be carried in Turkey 48 miles. Thus the area of production is restricted to that distance. By railway transport the area of production can be transferred to 100 miles in the interior, allowing for ordinary conveyance for 24 miles round at the usual heavy rate of carriage. Grain in some instances could only be brought down to Smyrna upon asses which were driven for sale. The first effect of the railway will be to push on the pack or camel and mule stock up the country in advance of the railway, but at a very early period the pack stock will be pushed still further into the interior, beyond the line of carriage road. At this time a large force of pack stock is employed in each of the valleys of the Cayster and the Meander, but as wheel carriages can be employed for 80 miles in the Cayster valley, and in the Meander valley for 150 miles, besides branch routes, and with probable extension in the Meander valley to 200 miles, the pack stock can be made available in the interior even beyond those distances. It is vouched for as a remarkable fact that at 200 miles in the interior ordinary grain crops now remain on the spot for a couple of years without available transport, as the pack stock was much reduced during the war. The pack stock is particularly valuable, as it can traverse mountain passes and deserts, in which waggons and carts cannot be conveniently employed.

We might proceed to a considerable length with details of this character, which are well worthy the attention of the shareholders and of commercial men; but we have reached the limits of our space, and must reserve the rest for another opportunity. We will conclude with alluding to the evidence which is furnished of the vast superiority of Smyrna over all other ports in that region. Over the ports of the Black Sea Smyrna has the preference, because the navigation of that sea and of the Dardanelles is avoided; and over most of the ports of South Anatolia because they are neither so well sheltered, nor so healthy as Smyrna. Many circumstances tend to concentrate traffic in Smyrna, and the larger that traffic becomes the better will she be able to maintain her superiority over rival ports, when they likewise acquire railway communication. At a great port there is always the best market, for there are bankers, billbrokers, shipbrokers, and commercial facilities, while freight can always be obtained. The import trade, which is less bulky, is monopolised by such a port, as vessels can get return cargoes, and thereby again the export trade is beneficially reacted upon. All these points have an important bearing upon the future of the Ottoman Railway.

THE CIVIL SERVICE ESTIMATES FOR 1861-2 — THE PROGRESS OF WASTE IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

ACCORDING to the Estimates for the Civil Services, we observe that a sum of no less than £100,148 is required to defray the charge for postage of letters "On the Public Service" in the several departments. Now, at 1d. per letter, this sum represents the enormous number of 24,035,520 letters per annum. Who, after this, will ever venture to assert that the officials of modern days are not industrious correspondents. Perhaps, a more pertinent question is—Who is responsible for all this waste?

Talking about pens, Mr. McCulloch makes a very fierce onslaught on the immoral use of pens and penknives. As his report is published at the end of the estimate for the stationery office—whilst no other report is published connected with any other department, it is evidently intended for a hint to every department. It is said that there is a serious intention on the part of Mr. Gladstone to act upon the recommendation of making an allowance to each clerk of from 7s. 6d. to 10s. per annum, to provide for his pens, penknives, and pencils. Mr. McCulloch plainly avows that the present system is "as expensive as it is immoral," that "the merit of this scheme would be that it would at once make an end of a system that is essentially corrupt;" and, moreover, that all clerks and others entering the public service in time to come will be bound to provide themselves with these articles.

We have looked in vain over the Estimates to discover what these articles cost; but taking into consideration that 24,035,520 letters are evidently written every year by the Civil Departments, we can conceive the number of quills and penknives that must be used up in the operation, the more especially if the former are anything like the quills which the public have handed to them in public offices, and which are doubtless supplied by the Stationery Office. These notoriously require an amount of mending, before they can be coaxed to write, which would fully explain the apparent "immorality" denounced by Mr. McCulloch.

Passing from these two items and assuming that the one in a great measure explains the other, we come to the Estimate required to pay the Salaries and Expenses in the office of the "Comptroller-General of the Exchequer," whose salary amounts to £2,000 per annum, and whose department costs the country £6,640 besides. It was supposed that this department was by a late arrangement transferred to the Bank of England. It would be very desirable to know what the duties of a "Comptroller-General" are. Has he any control, for example, over Mr. Gladstone? Because, if he has not, he is surely of no use; and if he has, it would be very desirable to have the whole management of Exchequer Bills (now, apparently, in his province) transferred to the Bank of England. The public would then be spared the inconvenience of having to go to the West End to have the Bills examined before they can be paid in for duties.

The most correct definition of the Public Treasury is surely "a thing to be preyed upon." Straws show which way the wind blows, and the prodigious sum spent by the public offices in such trumpery items as postages, pens, and penknives, affords a significant idea of the wasteful system that prevails in every department. But for the fear that gentlemen in the public service would feel grossly insulted by the question, we should be tempted to ask—Do they pay the postage on their private correspondence out of their own pockets?

THE STATE OF TRADE.

(COMPILED FROM NUMEROUS LOCAL REPORTS.)

The accounts from Manchester state that the market both for yarns and for piece-goods has shown greater quietness than can be recollected in either department for a very long time back. In yarns buyers are holding aloof, mainly from the high prices asked by spinners, whose quotations are still rising since the end of last week, cotton being again dearer. Purchasers are quite indisposed to operate at the current rates. In the cloth market there is next to no business at all. Buyers will do nothing at present prices, and with the unfavourable accounts they receive from abroad; while, on the other hand, manufacturers seem almost equally unwilling to press their productions for sale. The advices report heavy losses both at Calcutta and Bombay, and no doubt these will have a tendency to make buyers more cautious than ever. The dearth of discounts has also to be taken into consideration. The tone of the market to-day is further affected by reports of new failures.

At Leeds there has been but a small attendance of buyers in the cloth-halls, and there was little disposition to purchase. Prices were a little easier for several of the lighter fabrics, manufacturers being willing to make some concession to meet the offers of purchasers; but the amount of business done in the public markets was small.

At Rochdale the flannel trade has been dull. The character of the American advices is such as to cause a suspension of nearly all business with that quarter of the world, but a fair business is doing for the Canadas. Exporters, however, generally continue to exercise great caution. For the season there is a moderate amount of business doing in the home trade, and machinery is kept in fair employ and the operatives are in something like full work. Stocks are pronounced to be in a reasonable compass, and prices keep steady.

The report from Bradford, dated Thursday, states that business in every department of trade is exceedingly limited. The business doing in worsted yarns is much below the average. The home houses are the principal customers. The continental houses continue very cautious in their operations. The piece department also is exceedingly dull. The American traders are doing nothing. The continental houses are operating to a limited extent. The home houses are also exceedingly limited in their operations. In the present aspect of the trade, the manufacturer will find security only in the further curtailment of production.

At Leicester in general hosiery there has not been much doing at the warehouses during the past few days, and business in most departments is decidedly quiet; in consequence of this numbers of workpeople continue out of employ. At Loughborough and the country districts the hosiery trade has not been so dull for a long period.

At Nottingham there has been very little doing in the lace trade. Few buyers come into the market, and purchases of a very limited nature are made. The American market is almost closed on account of the civil war. This has a most serious influence upon the Nottingham trade. The Germans are also doing very little, and the home trade is considerably more dull than it usually is at this period of the year. There are many hands out of employment. The hosiery trade is also extremely dull. Shipping orders are limited, and the home demand is very quiet.

The advices from Wolverhampton report no revival in the home trade. Some few of the manufacturers about the district are supplied with orders to a moderate extent, but the majority of the manufacturers are complaining of the paucity of business. The iron trade is flat; the works are not actually stopped, but orders come in so slowly that it is with difficulty they are kept going, so thoroughly indisposed are consumers to buy beyond their immediate requirements. For pig-iron the demand is on a corresponding scale.

From Birmingham we learn that the trade of the town and district continues in a very unsatisfactory state; anxiety and want of confidence as to the future prevail in every quarter.

The Persia, which brought tidings of so unfavourable a character from America, had also on board agents to purchase rifles, and since Monday most of those in stock in Birmingham have been bought up; the military gun trade, which has been in a languid state for some time, is looking up in consequence.

A QUESTION FOR THE REPRESENTATIVES OF THE PEOPLE.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—According to Mr. Gladstone we are spending £20,000,000 per annum more than we did in 1853-4. Has it ever struck the representatives of the people what might be done for the people in the shape of their social advancement if £20,000,000 per annum were devoted to that purpose for the next ten years? Let us imagine that sum applied to the buying up existing streets of wretched hovels in which still more wretched beings dwell, and building in lieu of them on the best models, dwellings in which the labouring classes and their families might reside in comfort and decency. Not, as is now the case, men, women and children huddled together in filth and rags; not young men and women, married and single, all mingling in common like brutes, till all sense of decency and self-respect is dead within them. In the present dwellings of the poor, children and the youth of both sexes, are reared without knowing what decency is, and yet respectable society, forsooth, is shocked at their ultimate depravity. But take up this question in a financial point of view: might not this £20,000,000 be judiciously laid out in buying wretched localities, and replacing them with model lodging-houses, plainly and substantially built and furnished, which would return, after providing for wear and tear, repairs and renewals, a clear 4 per cent. per annum?

If the lower orders were comfortably lodged—if they could but know and feel the comforts of home, be taught tidiness and cleanliness, and not habituated as they now are to immodesty from their cradles—would not self-respect follow as a matter of course? If these houses, which would probably be built large enough to contain a whole colony, were each to be supplied with a church, savings bank, library, lecture-room, school for the children, baths and wash-houses, can it be doubted that in the course of a few years we should see a marked improvement in the social and moral, as well as sanitary, condition of the people?

Such a scheme as this cannot be effected without enormous capital to commence with, but that capital might be supplied from the savings derived from the reduction of the present unproductive expenditure, and rich and poor would both be benefited.

Look at the advantages, in a sanitary point of view, possessed by such a plan as this. Is it not notorious that, from the present wretched dwellings are derived half the diseases with which poor wretched mortality is beset? Is it not also the case with crime? Is it not hatched and stimulated in these miserable abodes? In such a community as I would establish, the inhabitants would form their own police. They would soon learn to appreciate the value of good behaviour, order, and regularity. Besides, expenditure such as this would be reproductive in every sense of the word. We should soon require fewer police, and the poor-law expenditure would greatly diminish—a healthier, wealthier, and finer population would arise. There would be less occasion for midnight meetings for the redemption of wretched outcasts, because there would be more comfortable homes, and the modesty inculcated in childhood would bear its fruits in womanhood and manhood. All classes of society would be benefited in a financial point of view; and for every £20,000,000 outlay £300,000 per annum would be applicable to interest and sinking fund of the National Debt.

All this might be done for what Mr. Gladstone himself almost admits that we use up in unproductive expenditure. He certainly characterises it as absolute increase of expenditure since 1853-4. I ask—Why has it increased so enormously? And I contend that deep responsibility rests both upon the Parliament that sanctions, and the Government that proposes, such a terrific waste of money which might be applied with vast advantage in a thousand beneficial ways.

OBSERVER.

BANK NOTES UNREPRESENTED BY GOLD.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—The recent labours of the Bank to check the efflux of gold that threatened trouble to its fourteen millions of imaginary money, were futile. These labours may have increased the dividend fund, but on the country they inflicted enormous losses; which shall furnish matter for a future letter.

The first rise in the rate of discount was, however, not occasioned by the American exchanges, but had its origin in last year's disastrous harvest. Towards the middle of October the conviction became general that we had to choose between famine and an unprecedented import of foreign grain. It would now have been incumbent on every one, but more especially on bodies of men favoured with large, exclusive, and very profitable privileges, to facilitate, not to obstruct supplies; and I verily believe that the Bank, if not hampered by its fourteen millions of illusory money, would have been foremost in supporting those active and energetic people who toiled to fill up the immense vacuum in our stock of food. But, being in a false, and, therefore, believing itself in a dangerous position, the Bank pursued its usual, that is to say, the opposite course. Gold or famine? That was the question, and gold carried the day. Yet ought so calamitous a catastrophe to have been rather a motive for moderation than an occasion for extortion.

As in the case of bullion, there was here also miscalculation and mistake. In five short months, subsequent to the first step of the Bank in this matter, the importation of foreign grain amounted, according to official accounts, to upwards of eight million quarters, valued in money at near eighteen millions sterling. To believe that the operations of the Bank had any sensible influence on commercial enterprise of dimensions so unexampled, would be childish. Corn was wanted and fortunately existed; under these circumstances it would naturally be furnished. We do not know of any large quantities remaining unshipped, unless through the interference of the winter season. All that could be sent, was sent. The alarm of the Bank was large—its fears, because of its fourteen millions of paper money, assumed the gigantic proportion of eight per cent.; the effect on the importation of grain was imperceptible. Great efforts, issuing in trivial results, must be ranged in the category of miscalculations and mistakes. The mountain in labour has ever furnished food for ridicule. Eight per cent. is a panic rate; yet, had the Bank foreseen in March last year that the country in the course of the succeeding twelve months would import foreign grain to the amount of thirty-eight millions, as it has done, dismal visions of cash suspensions would probably have dictated ten or twelve per cent. as a safe measure for money throughout the year! Alas for the judgment of the wise, when crossed by such delusions as I verily believe this paper money to be!

A third motive for the stringent measures of the Bank may be suggested, that is to say, the apprehension of mighty commercial convulsions. If so, the Bank still acted under mistake. No large misfortunes have occurred. Of the smaller ones, half at least must be put to the account of the Bank's course of action. I speak of those publicly known. There is a heavy account in the more obscure recesses of commercial life, to be audited by me in due time. The subsequent and rapid reduction of the rate to five per cent. rises in testimony against the Bank, and proclaims its errors. Since the establishment of the lowest rate, involvements, greater than any that could or ought to have been formerly apprehended, have notoriously disclosed themselves. Did the Bank foresee these or did it not? Its present moderation or its former stringency must be called a mistake. I see no alternative.

Surely this great corporation—the Bank—this colossus that bestrides, as Shakespeare would say, "the world with its huge limbs"—alas! of paper—shaking as of an age-fit in apprehension about the fourteen millions, mistook its mission, miscalculated events, misapplied its power, missed its objects, unless these were solely, which charity forbids to believe, to extract by means of alarm and panic, under mischief incalculable and ruin irretrievable, a paltry addition to its dividend fund as a bonus to its shareholders. And yet, what other consistent motives can explain the course pursued by the Bank?

I write as I understand these matters; I may be wrong.—Yours,
MERCATOR.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—Your correspondent "Mercator" has more than once asserted that "bank notes unrepresented by gold" are composed of "old petticoats." Does he mean my old petticoats? because, if he does, I assure you my old stock was so exhausted in making one-pound notes, and the paper on which were printed the last dying speeches of those rascals who were hanged for forging them, that I have never been able to replace them. You know how particular I am in not allowing any one to issue "bank notes unrepresented by gold" but myself.

My old petticoats, indeed! Has "Mercator" any idea of the number of old petticoats it would take to manufacture £14,000,000 of notes that are "unrepresented by gold?" Allow me to hint that, if Mr. Gladstone were to insist on all notes being represented by gold, and by gold only, it would have a greater effect on the price of paper than his taking off the duty; for I greatly fear, and so does my favourite director, Mr. Hubbard, that his so doing—without having any "rest," as I have—will add to the number of notes "unrepresented by gold" which I am bound to issue. For example, if Government cannot make both ends meet, there must be notes issued against Deficiency Bills.

I hope that after this contradiction (which I expected to have seen occupying at least two columns in the windy City Article of my pompous old lady contemporary, the Morning Herald) I shall hear no more of bank notes being made of "old petticoats." Let me, finally, repeat to "Mercator" that the statement is as erroneous as his statement that "Alfred" had anything to do with arresting the flux of the tide.

Like "Mercator," I sign myself, what I am,

THE OLD LADY OF THREADNEEDLE-STREET.

ADAMI AND Co. have given security to the amount of six millions for the concession they have obtained of the Calabro-Sicilian Railway. De la Hante and Talabot have the concession of the other Neapolitan railways. It is believed that a Dutch house will take up the loan of five hundred millions required by our Government.—Daily News' Turin letter.

Notwithstanding the very heavy increase in the private securities, the reserve has also increased, a large addition having been made both to the public and private deposits. The shipments of gold to America have not yet caused the metallic stock to be trenced upon. The demand for money at the Bank has continued upon an active scale since the date to which this return extends.

THE MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 10.

The discount market is gradually becoming tighter. The supply of money in commercial channels this week has been scanty, whilst the demand has been stimulated by the arrangements for making increased shipments of specie to the United States. On Wednesday the market had become so difficult that an idea was entertained in some quarters that the Bank rate might be raised on Thursday. There was, accordingly, a great rush to the Bank for money, and the best bills could not be discounted in Lombard-street below  $5\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. Thursday having passed over without any alteration in the Bank minimum, the market has resumed a quieter appearance. It is still, however, tight, and the rate for choice bills to-day was maintained at 5 to  $5\frac{1}{2}$  per cent.

In the Stock Exchange there has been a fair supply of money at 4 to 5 per cent. on Government securities.

The final instalment of 30 per cent. fell due on the Indian Loan of £3,000,000 this day, and has contributed to keep the market tight.

The demand for gold for the Continent has subsided now that the exchanges have improved, and that the money market has become tighter. Such amounts as may be imported will probably be taken chiefly to the Bank of England. The £86,000 in Australian gold by the Southampton and has yet to be dealt with.

Increased amounts of specie are being sent to America. The Edinburgh, which left on Wednesday for New York, took £84,024, and the Persia on Saturday will probably take £200,000 or £250,000.

About £8,000 in gold was purchased by the Bank to-day, while 100,000 sovereigns were withdrawn for New York.

The latest quotation of exchange at New York is reported to be 105 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ , showing a fresh decline.

The Times states that policies of insurance are now being opened here for £1,000,000 of Californian bullion from Panama to London, these consignments being diverted from New York in consequence of the peril of capture. We are unable to find any confirmation of this statement.

The Ellora will take on the 12th inst. £94,544 in silver and £38,000 in gold for Bombay, and £9,500 in gold for Alexandria—making altogether £142,044. £50,474 of the silver is on Government account.

In the absence of demand for the East, partly on account of the stringency of the money market, it is anticipated that the large supplies of silver at present on the market will be sold for the Continent. To make this transaction profitable, however, a considerable reduction must take place in the price. As the Calcutta and China telegrams received to-day report a decline in the exchanges, the exportation of silver and dollars on mercantile account will probably be further checked.

THE BULLION MARKET.

With reference to the movements in bullion and in the Indian Government paper, Messrs. Pixley, Abell, and Langley report as follows:—

GOLD.—The Empress of the Seas has arrived from Melbourne with £20,000, and the Southampton with £86,000; the former amount has been taken for exportation, the latter remains to be dealt with; of the total now at sea, about £297,000 may be considered as fully due. Shipments have continued to America, the Europa having taken £25,199, and the Edinburgh £84,024, and the Persia, sailing on the 11th inst., is likely to take a considerable sum. The imports have, however, exceeded the demand for export, and about £120,000 has been sent into the Bank. The Tyne has brought £104,000 from the Brazils. The Athens takes 20,000 sovereigns to the Cape, the Tagus £3,022 to the Peninsula, and the Oneida £960 to the Brazils.

SILVER.—The large amount of silver brought by the Seine was not delivered until the 7th inst. We cannot yet quote any price, as the market is very quiet, and the buyers are scarcely doing anything. The shipments by the outgoing Bombay mail of the 12th inst. will be but small. The Oneida has taken £15,000 to the Brazils.

MEXICAN DOLLARS.—The dollars per Seine are not yet sold. The mail from China being so close at hand, we do not expect that any large amounts will be purchased until the delivery of the letters. The price is, therefore, quite nominal.

EXCHANGE for Drafts on India by Banks at 60 days' sight, remains as at the date of our last, viz.:—1s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s. 0 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. for Bombay, and 1s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s. 0 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. for Calcutta; Madras, 1s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s. Bills with Documents, Bombay and Calcutta, 1s. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.

INDIA GOVERNMENT LOAN NOTES are without much change, perhaps rather weaker. We quote Five-and-a-Half per Cents. 100 to 100 $\frac{1}{2}$ , and Five per Cents. 93 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 94 $\frac{1}{2}$ .

The report of Messrs. Haggard and Co., dated this day, observes:—

During the past week our market has been rather quiet, and prices have rather tended downwards, more especially as regards Bar Silver and Mexican Dollars. The imports, which have been moderate, include the Tyne from Brazils, with £104,000; the Southampton from Melbourne, with £87,000; and some moderate amounts of silver from the Continent, and gold from Constantinople. The exports comprise the Tagus to Lisbon, with £3,022 gold; the Athens to the Cape of Good Hope, with £20,000; the Europa to Boston, with £25,000 gold; the Oneida to the Brazils, with £15,000 silver and £960 gold; the Edinburgh to New York, with £84,000; and about £150,000 gold to the Continent. The demand for gold to the Continent has somewhat fallen off, but some amounts have been sent to America; and, owing to the fall in sterling exchange, some further considerable amounts are likely to be sent out. The Persia is expected to take about £200,000 gold. The amount of gold sold to the Bank of England is £113,000, and the amount withdrawn £40,000. Bar Silver has been almost entirely without demand and the price has receded to 5s. 1 $\frac{1}{2}$ d., with a downward tendency; that by the Atrato has not yet been sold. Dollars are also very dull, and in the absence of orders, the large quantity in the Atrato is likely to be sold at a considerable reduction from the last price.

THE EXCHANGES.

The Continental Exchanges this week have experienced, in most instances, a further improvement. The tendency this afternoon was still favourable.

FRENCH FINANCE.

At Paris there will shortly be an issue of £10,000,000 or £12,000,000 of new railway bonds.

NEW ZEALAND SIX PER CENT. LOAN.

Tenders will be received in London until the 20th instant for New Zealand Six per Cent. Bonds to the extent of £150,000. These bonds have thirty years to run, and are for £100 each. Both principal and interest will be payable in London. The money is wanted for the public service of the colony, and the loan is duly sanctioned by an Act of the General Assembly of New Zealand. The tenders will be publicly opened and read, on the 20th, at the Union Bank of Australia, a sealed minimum being previously laid on the table. A payment of 10 per cent. is to be made on the purchaser being declared, and the balance of the loan is to be paid at various dates up to the 21st October next.

EAST INDIAN RAILWAY LOAN.

The following important circular has been issued this evening by the directors of the East Indian Railway Company:—

East Indian Railway Company, Alderman's-walk, New Broad-street, London, E.C., 7th May, 1861.

SIR,—At the special general meeting held on the 30th ult., it was resolved that the capital of the company be increased from fourteen to twenty millions sterling. Of the six millions of additional capital thus created, it is intended to apply about three millions to the completion of the main line to Delhi, leaving the balance available for expenditure on the Jubbulpore line. With the view of limiting as much as possible the demand for capital for the purposes of Indian railways, the Secretary of State has determined, with the concurrence of the directors of the company, that the construction of the Jubbulpore line shall not be proceeded with for the present. The amount of capital which the Board have now to deal with is therefore £3,000,000, to be expended during the present and the following years. Of this they have determined to raise in the first instance £2,000,000—namely, £1,000,000 in debentures for five years renewable for a second term of five years at the option of the holder, and convertible into shares, upon giving one month's notice after the expiration of twelve months from their date of issue, and bearing interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, payable half-yearly by coupon at the Bank of England, under the guarantee of the Secretary of State for India, and—£1,000,000 in 50,000 shares of £20 each, also with a guarantee of interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, under the terms of the contract with the Secretary of State for India.

The debentures may be paid in full or by four equal instalments at intervals of three months. The debentures will be dated on the 1st April, 1861, and will bear interest from that date on all monies paid on or before the 31st May instant.

The 50,000 shares will in deference to the views expressed at the general meeting, be issued with a deposit of £2 per share, payable on allotment, and the remaining £18 per share will be called for in the smallest sums, and at the longest intervals which the exigencies of the company will admit of. Subscribers will at the same time have the option of paying the shares in full at any time, and of converting them into stock.

The Board of Directors will be obliged by your informing them through the accompanying forms on or before the 18th May instant, whether you are disposed to subscribe for any portion of either description of these securities, and to what extent. —I am, sir, your obedient servant, D. I. NOAD, Secretary.

THE BANK OF ENGLAND AND THE BULLION TRADE.

The large amount of specie by the West India packet which arrived at Southampton on the 28th ult. was delivered on Tuesday to the bullion brokers. The length of time occupied by the Bank of England in weighing the supplies of silver by the West India steamers is seriously complained of by the merchants, the loss of interest being considerable. A representation to the Bank, requesting that the bullion department may be kept open later than three o'clock when a supply of silver is there awaiting delivery to the bullion brokers, has already been signed by some of the most eminent houses in the City.

A BANKER'S HALF-HOLIDAY.

The Birmingham bankers have arranged for a half-holiday once a week, and the day fixed upon is Wednesday, as a leisure day in that town.

THE LEGALITY OF THE COUNTRY BANKERS' CLEARING.

A case of considerable importance to country bankers has just been decided by the Court of Common Pleas. The arrangement known under the name of the country clearing was commenced in November, 1859, and has been generally adopted by the country bankers. On Friday, the 10th of July, 1859, Mr. Hare paid into the bank of Messrs. Henty and Co., at Worthing, a check drawn on Messrs. Whitfield and Co., at Lewes. This check was remitted in the usual manner to Messrs. Lubbock and Co., and passed, in course, through the country clearing, reaching Lewes on the Monday, when it was returned unpaid. The question was whether Messrs. Henty and Co. were justified in so treating the check, or whether they were not bound to have sent it direct to Messrs. Whitfield and Co. by the post of Friday. The Court has now decided this point in favour of Messrs. Henty, and thus, as it would seem, established the legality of the country clearing.

THE CHINA AND JAPAN STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.

An undertaking of importance was announced this evening, under the title of the China and Japan (Coast and River) Steam Navigation Company (Limited). The object of this undertaking is to meet the growing demands of our expanding commerce in the Eastern seas, by establishing a regular and speedy communication along the extensive line of coast in China, and in the inner waters of that empire. At present the old China junks, or European sailing vessels, are alone known in the trade, with the exception of a small number of steamers owned by private firms. The Company proposes to construct a fleet of steamers. With proper caution it will begin, in the first instance, with six, and will increase the number as opportunity serves. It is also proposed ultimately to extend the company's operations, so as to embrace a service between China and Japan. The auspices under which the undertaking is brought forward are of a character to inspire confidence. Of the capital (£300,000) the first issue is to be £150,000, of which £25,000 will be reserved for China. Great support has already been secured.

THE CHINA MAILS.

The Post-office authorities have notified to-day that the second monthly mail to Penang, Singapore, and China, despatched on the 20th via Southampton, and on the 26th of the month via Marseilles, will be discontinued after June next. Beginning with July, therefore, the mails for the above-mentioned places will be forwarded by way of Southampton on the 4th, and by way of Marseilles on the 10th of each month.

TELEGRAPHIC ARRANGEMENTS.

The Submarine Telegraph Company have notified that, in addition to being able to send telegrams to Marseilles, Trieste, and Malta, to catch the outward mails to India, China, Australia, Egypt, &c., they can be sent to Corfu and Smyrna, as steamers leave the former place direct for Alexandria on the 13th and 29th of every month, and from the latter place every alternate Sunday in the month, commencing from the 12th inst.

BUENOS AYRES BONDS.

Buenos Ayres letters of the 29th March last bring the satisfactory news that Senor De la Riestra had resumed his old post of minister of finance. The present packet has a remittance of about £45,000 for account of the bondholders—say one half-year's interest and sinking fund on the original as well as the deferred stock, according to the agreement.

MEXICAN BONDS.

The following memorandum from the Committee of Mexican Bondholders was published on Tuesday. It has excited comment from the discouraging bias which it displays:—

The Committee of Mexican Bondholders have received advices from Mr. Whitehead, dated Mexico, the 4th ult. He had been unable to make any progress in anything, the Government being so entirely absorbed in the difficult task of finding means to get through the day as to be in no condition to attend to him. The Estafette of the 2nd ult. says:—"It is no longer penury, it is distress—it is no longer bankruptcy, it is hideous misery;" and the leading Government papers already begin to talk of another suspension of payment being a matter of necessity. Raising supplies by laying on taxes nobody seemed to think practicable under the present system of government, and the general opinion was that without foreign intervention, the country was in serious danger of falling asunder under such a state of the finances. All the duties in Colima up to November next had been anticipated to defray the expenses of the Tepic campaign, and this after the assurances of the Government so lately given of their having issued strict orders to all the collectors to comply scrupulously with the decree of the 23rd of January, 1857. In short, everything remained in a very unsettled state, and the Government appeared to be unable to put down the scattered reactionary bands under Megia, Marquez, Vecario, and others. Captain Aldham was going on as well as could be expected.

THE TURKISH GUARANTEED LOAN.

The numbers are published of the bonds, amounting to £54,000, of the Turkish Guaranteed Four per Cent. Loan which had been drawn for redemption, and will be paid off at the Bank of England on the 1st August.

WAR RISKS.

The extra rate given yesterday at Lloyd's on English vessels from the American Gulf ports to this country was 15s. per cent.; and the same premium was paid on American ships outward bound to English colonies. The war risk on vessels from Savannah is equal to about £6. 6s., with a return of £3. 3s. for neutrals, the special contingencies affecting ships under neutral flags being those of blockade and bombardment.

THE COLONIAL WOOL SALES.

The second series of Colonial Wool Sales commenced on Thursday. The catalogue comprised the following, viz.:—254 bales Sydney and Moreton Bay, 1,337 bales Port Philip, 776 Van Diemen's Land, 211 bales Adelaide, 20 bales New Zealand, 272 bales Cape—2,870 bales. The attendance of buyers, both home and foreign, is good; and there is no alteration in prices compared with those current at the last sales. The quantity arrived since the last sales is as follows:—Sydney, 12,611 bales; Victoria, 21,322; Van Diemen's Land, 4,554; Adelaide, 11,735; New Zealand, 1,052; Swan River, 1,000; Cape of Good Hope, 7,568—total, 59,842 bales.

RAILWAY TRAFFIC.

The South-Eastern Railway traffic return shows this week a decrease of £836; the Brighton an increase of £323; the London and North-Western, a decrease of £7,351, owing chiefly to Chester Races, which fall one week later this year; the Great Western, a decrease of £2,140; the Great Northern, a decrease of £1,966; the London and South-Western, an increase of £1,685; the Eastern Counties, an increase of £1,223; the Midland, a decrease of £1,420; the Lancashire and Yorkshire, an increase of £1,052; the Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire, a decrease of £59; and the North-Eastern, a decrease of £593.

The traffic receipts of the Great Western Railway of Canada for the week ending April 19 were £9,970 sterling, being £829 more than in the corresponding week of last year.

The traffic receipts of the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada for the week ending April 20 were £15,954 sterling, being £1,520 more than in the corresponding week of last year.

The traffic on the 1,004 miles of the South Austrian line of the Lombardo-Venetian Railway Company for the week ending April 29, was £43,271, being £17,087 more than in the corresponding week of 1860 on 687 miles; and that on the Lombardo-Venetian line £4,557, showing an increase of £1,184. The receipts on the Central Italy branch from Plaisance to Bologna, a distance of 91 miles, were £3,293, being £942 more than last year.

RAILWAYS.

The directors of the Ottoman (Smyrna to Aidin) Railway Company have issued a supplemental report, descriptive of the present position of the undertaking and of the progress which has been made. The line is open for twenty-seven miles from Smyrna, and trains are running regularly. It is intended to open an additional distance of four miles in the first week in May, and eight miles more in July, which will intercept the whole traffic of Aidin and of the Meander Valley. The original estimates, which showed a net profit of 12 per cent., irrespective of any passenger traffic, "have been confirmed by the highest mercantile authorities on the spot since the line was opened." The passenger traffic on the line of twenty-seven miles now in operation has been unexpectedly favourable. The capabilities of the country for producing wheat and cotton are very highly spoken of.

At a special meeting of the Ottoman Railway Company held to-day, the chairman stated that a communication has been made to the board to the effect that the Sublime Porte will be prepared to nominate one or two additional members to the council. In order that this desirable arrangement may be made, the meeting was adjourned, to give time for obtaining and sanctioning the nominations, of which due notice will be given.

The chairman of the Scinde Railway Company has received the following telegram from the agent, announcing the opening of the railway throughout. This is the first complete line in India. The rapidity with which the works have been pushed forward (observes the Daily News) reflects great credit upon Mr. Andrew and his colleagues at the Board:—"Kohu, April 8, 1861.—I have arrived here with the first train from Kurrachee to-day. Road in good order."

The following communication was addressed on Tuesday by the directors of the Pernambuco Railway Company to the railway department of the Stock Exchange:—

Recife and Sao Francisco Pernambuco Railway Company (Limited), May 7.

Dear Sir,—Referring to my letter to you of the 12th February last, I am directed to make known to you that late last evening the chairman of this Company was officially informed by his Excellency the Brazilian Minister, that his Government is now satisfied that the Company is entitled to make calls up to £20 per share, that the shareholders are bound to pay them as and when made, and that his Government is prepared so to pay the calls upon all shares acquired by it.

All restrictions, therefore, upon the transmission of shares to Brazil, for the purpose of being registered in that country, are, so far as this Company is concerned, now removed.—I am, &c., (Signed) W. H. BELLAMY, Secretary.

M. Slaughter, Esq., Railway Secretary, the Stock Exchange.

P.S.—I have further to mention that the chairman at the same time understood from his Excellency that his Government had decided to suspend the operation of the law of the 22nd August, 1860, authorising the conversion of railway shares into Brazilian stock—as respects all railway companies, whether in Brazil or in this country. W. H. B.

Mr. Frederick Gaussen has announced himself as a candidate for the vacant seat at the Board of the London and Blackwall Railway Company.

The directors of the Madras Railway Company have issued their eighteenth report, which was adopted at the meeting this day. It describes the progress of the works, the result of which, so far, is, that 257 miles are now open and at work, and the movement of the traffic, which is thought satisfactory, considering the prevalence of cholera and the partial failure of the crops. Throughout the half-year no accident of any kind has occurred. It is announced that the attention of the directors and their officers continues to be earnestly given to the means of increasing the traffic receipts and diminishing the working charges.

A special meeting of the Great Western Railway Company is called for the 17th inst., to approve thirteen Bills now pending in Parliament, some of which are of an important character.

An extraordinary meeting of the Caledonian Railway Company is called for the 21st inst., at Glasgow, to consider various Bills now pending in Parliament, some of which authorise the construction of branches by the Company.

A special meeting of the West Midland Railway Company is called for the 30th inst., to authorise a lease to the Great Western Railway Company "of all that portion of the undertaking of the West Midland Railway Company to which the powers of leasing under the existing Acts of Parliament apply." It is evident from this that Parliamentary sanction to this portion of the project is not to be applied for. Application is, however, to be made to Parliament "for any further powers which may be required for the amalgamation of the Great Western Railway Company and the West Midland Railway Company, and their undertakings, or for the lease or purchase of the whole undertaking of the West Midland Railway Company to or by the Great Western Railway Company."

An extraordinary meeting of the Tewkesbury and Malvern Railway Company is called for the 21st inst., to authorise the exercise of the Company's powers for borrowing upon mortgage or bond a sum of £48,000.

A general meeting of the Eastern Bengal Railway Company is convened for the 28th inst.

BANKS.

At the annual meeting on Thursday of the proprietors of the National Provincial Bank of England, the directors' report was agreed to. It recommended, in addition to the half-yearly dividend already paid, a bonus of 10 per cent., making the total distribution for the year 18 per cent., free of Income-tax.

The annual meeting of proprietors of the Bank of British North America is called for the 4th of June.

An extraordinary meeting of shareholders in the London Joint-Stock Bank is called for the 30th inst., to elect a director in the room of Alderman Sir G. Carroll, deceased. Mr. G. T. Brooking is a candidate.

The annual meeting of proprietors of the Ionian Bank is called for the 30th inst.

At a meeting of the shareholders of the Western Bank of Scotland, on the 3rd inst., a resolution to empower the liquidators to accept the compromise of £200,000 offered by certain of the directors was carried.

ASSURANCE COMPANIES.

At the twenty-seventh annual meeting of the Universal Life Assurance Society, held on Wednesday, a reduction of 45 per cent. on the premiums (being 5 per cent. more than last year) was declared. The outgoing directors—the Hon. James Byng, Mr. Serjeant Jones, and Sir Macdonald Stephenson—were re-elected, and the proceedings terminated with a cordial vote of thanks to the chairman and directors for their successful exertions.

At the thirtieth annual meeting, held on Tuesday, of the Scottish Equitable Life Assurance Office, the report showed that during the year ending the 1st of March last 402 policies were effected for an aggregate of £201,775, yielding £6,260 in annual premiums; that the amount of existing assurances is £5,404,759; of the accumulated fund, £1,330,085; and of the annual revenue, £196,802.

The annual general meeting of the Law Fire Insurance Society is called for the 28th inst.

The annual meeting of the United Kingdom Temperance and General Provident Institution is called for the 27th inst., when the bonus on the last five years' business will be announced.

Notice is given that the transfer books of the Reversionary Interest Society, will be closed on the 31st inst. and re-opened on the 6th of July next.

OTHER PUBLIC COMPANIES.

The fourth ordinary general meeting of the Madras Irrigation Company is called for the 30th inst.

The report of the directors of the Inter-Colonial Royal Mail Steam Packet Company recommends a dividend on the original and new shares at the rate of  $7\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. per annum, free of Income-tax, for the last half-year.

At the annual general meeting of the Peninsular and North African Steam Navigation Company, held on Wednesday, Capt. George Bayley (Elder Brother of the Trinity House) in the chair, the accounts submitted were unanimously adopted. The dividend declared was 4 per cent., payable on the 1st of June. A complimentary vote of thanks was given to the directors.

In the Bankruptcy Court on Tuesday a call of £3 per share was made in the case of the Cardiff and Caerphilly Iron Company (Limited). The shares in this undertaking were of £5 each. Only £1 per share has yet been paid on them.

THE STOCK AND SHARE MARKETS.

The English Funds have not experienced any fluctuations of striking importance this week, but the tendency has been slightly downwards, owing chiefly to the increased demand for money, combined with the events in America. On Friday last, Consols closed at  $91\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{7}{8}$  for cash, and 92 to  $\frac{1}{4}$  for the 6th June. To-day the final quotations were, respectively,  $91\frac{5}{8}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ , and  $91\frac{7}{8}$  to 92. The decline is, therefore,  $\frac{1}{8}$  per cent.

The "continuation" on Consols to the June account was 5-16 to  $\frac{3}{8}$  per cent. up to the close of the settlement yesterday.

The Indian Five per Cent. Stock was last quoted to-day  $101\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$  for the account, being dull, owing to rumours of a coming loan; the Five per Cent. Rupee Paper,  $93\frac{1}{2}$  to 94; the Five-and-a-Half per Cent.,  $99\frac{3}{4}$  to 100, being lower; and India Bonds, 22s. to 15s. dis., being still heavy.

Owing to the increased demand for money, a further decline of 3s. to 4s. has taken place in Exchequer Bills, which were quoted this afternoon, 10s. to 5s. dis.

The official list of to-day's actual business in the English Funds and Indian Government Securities, is annexed:—

Three per Cent. Consols, for money,  $91\frac{3}{8}$ ,  $\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{7}{8}$ ; ditto for account, June 6, 92; Three per Cents. Reduced,  $89\frac{3}{4}$ , 90,  $89\frac{1}{4}$ ; New Three per Cents., 90,  $82\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{7}{8}$ ; Five per Cent. The Foreign Stock Market has been rather heavy. A reaction of  $\frac{3}{4}$  to 1 per cent. has taken place in Turkish Bonds. A fall of like amount is observable in Mexican Bonds, which seem to be held to some extent on speculation in the Stock Exchange. Owing, however, to the satisfactory character of the financial intelligence from Buenos Ayres, the bonds of that State have improved to  $90\frac{1}{2}$  to  $91\frac{1}{2}$ . They are remarkably well held.

The market for English Railway Stocks this week has exhibited decided depression. Although several of the leading stocks are scarce for immediate transfer, speculative sales have been freely pressed on provincial account, owing to a belief that trade in the manufacturing districts will yet be prejudiced by the civil war in America. The unfavourable traffic return of the London and North-Western Railway has contributed to aggravate the fall. The downward movement continued until yesterday, when the speculators for the fall bought back, causing a sharp rally. To-day the market was again weaker.

The following shows the closing prices of the principal British Railway Stocks this day, and the result of the week's variations. The share list in detail will be found in another column:—

AMERICAN SECURITIES.

The report of Mr. E. F. Satterthwaite, dated Wednesday evening, is annexed:—

The market in London for American Securities continues very sensitive to the tenor of advices by each mail as it arrives. The serious character of those last received has produced a depressing effect on States Stocks and Railroad Bonds; the latter are more freely offered for sale without meeting buyers, although, in many cases, a price would be accepted which would leave a large margin on the last quotations received from New York. Illinois shares have been largely dealt in from 38 to 40 dis., closing 39 $\frac{1}{2}$  dis. exactly. Erie shares have ruled from 18 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 19 $\frac{1}{2}$ .

Recent American advices mention the declaration of the under-mentioned half-yearly railway dividends, viz., Cincinnati, Hamilton, and Dayton Three-and-a-Half per Cent., and Pennsylvania Central Three per Cent., both payable May 15.

The annual meeting of shareholders in the Illinois Central Railway Company will be held at Chicago on the 29th inst.

The London agents of the Illinois Central Railway Company on Monday received the following despatch, which affords an idea of the excitement now prevailing in every class of American society:—

Office of the Illinois Central Railroad Company,
New York, April 23, 1861.

Gentlemen,—We are on the eve of a revolution similar in character to that which convulsed England two centuries since. The aggressions of the South have been submitted to until forbearance ceases to be a virtue, and the public heart has been touched by the gross attack upon the feeble garrison at Fort Sumter. In ten days over 100,000 men have been hastily equipped, and are hurrying towards Washington and the frontier as rapidly as supplies can be sent with them. The general Government thus far has not proved equal to the emergency; the States and the people are ahead, and will carry the Government forward with irresistible force. The Northern States can place 500,000 men in the field in ninety days, if required.

Amidst the chaos of the present moment the value of all classes of property is nominal. In Southern stock securities the most extraordinary fluctuations have occurred. In railway shares we have had a declining, variable market; our shares touched 55, advanced to 62, and yesterday declined to 59. Should the war go on, Cairo is destined to become the most important military post in the interior—both the Ohio, Missouri, and Mississippi can be controlled from that point. We expect to hear to-day that it is occupied by United States troops. Our road is the only avenue to it, and we may be largely employed in conveying troops and munitions of war.

Our traffic the first two weeks decreased 7,097 dols. The Lake is now open, and we hope to gain in the next two weeks. The land sales the past two weeks were 92,458.89 dols.; the collections to 19th, 35,700 dols. Illinois currency based on State stock is so much depreciated that we prefer to make no effort to collect notes at this moment. With larger shipments of produce the difficulty will be obviated.—Yours respectfully, (Signed) THOMAS E. WALKER,

Messrs. Robert Benson and Co., London. Chairman Ex. Committee.

Mines.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 10.

A MODERATE amount of business has been done this week in home mining shares. In East Caradon and East Wheal Grenville there has occasionally been some animation, but the latter have declined during the last few days. Shares in Wheal Unity, Wheal Moyle, Marke Valley, and Lady Bertha have met with numerous transactions.

In the mining market to-day the feature of prominent interest was a rise in East Caradon shares to 24½ “buyers.” East Wheal Grenville were dull, and left off at 43s. to 45s. In other respects the alteration in prices was not of striking importance. There were inquiries for shares in Marke Valley, Lady Bertha, Wheal Unity, Wheal Trelawney, and Cook's Kitchen.

East Alfred, 2½; Copper Hill, 90 to 95; Cook's Kitchen, 21 to 22; East Basset, 95 to 100; East Caradon, 24 to ½; East Grenville, 38s. to 40s.; East Russell, 6½ to ¾; Herodsfoot, 38 to 39; Marke Valley, 7 to ¼; North Downs, 4 to ½; North Treskerby, 24 to 25; Providence Mines, 40 to 42; Rosewarne United, 20 to 22; South Frances, 125 to 135; Stray Park, 35 to 36; Treloweth, 3½ to 4½; West Caradon, 67 to 68; West Rose Down, 11 to 12; West Seton, 335 to 345; Wheal Grenville, 2½ to 3; Wheal Kitty, Lelant, 9 to ½; Wheal Margaret, 50 to 51; Wheal Moyle, 2½ to ½; Wheal Trelawney, 13½ to 14½; Wheal Unity, 19s. to 21s.

The shares of the Labuan Coal Company were quoted to-day 3 to 3½ prem.

St. John del Rey Mining shares have been in demand, and show an improvement. Copiapo and United Mexican Mining are quoted lower. In Colonial descriptions the principal transactions have been in Great Northern Copper (South Australia) which remain steady.

The only new Mining undertaking of which we have to record the introduction this week is the North Hafod Silver Mining Company (Limited). The mines which are to be developed are surrounded by some of the best known adventures in the district. The North Hafod Mine is described as situate upon the great Frongoch lode, a vein of thirty-three feet in width, containing courses of lead ore of excellent quality, nearly solid for an immense length, and from nine to ten feet in thickness. Large courses of ore are opened upon close to the boundary of the company's grant. For their development the most efficient and economical methods are to be adopted. The capital is to be £12,000, and it is anticipated that a good dividend will be realised upon an outlay of £3,000. A very favourable report is put forward from Captain Matthew Francis, whose verdict is always highly thought of.

A box of rich specimens from Great North Tolgus mine has arrived at the offices of the company. From this it is fairly inferred that the lode intersected some ten days or a fortnight since improves as the works are prosecuted.

The following report on Great North Tolgus Mine, dated May 10, has been received by Mr. T. Spargo, from Captains Wm. Toukin and C. Henwood:—“We are sinking the flat rod shaft upon Wheal Mary lode, with all despatch, by nine men. Since we cut the lode it has improved considerably, and contains more ore every time we take it down. It is at present about two feet wide, with a solid leader of copper ore eight or nine inches wide; the rest of the lode composed of spar, peach, mundie, lead, and copper. Its underlie is about 1½ feet per fathom. We are making preparations for flat rods, &c., as fast as possible.”

The following mining dividends have been declared during the month of April:—

MERCANTILE EMBARRASMENTS.

A considerable amount of Greek bills fell due on Thursday, and a good deal of anxiety was evinced with respect to them. The day was not unattended with difficulty; but the usual strenuous exertions having been made by the parties interested, only two stoppages were announced, and in each instance it would be more correct to say that payment is suspended. The firms referred to are Messrs. Lascaridi and Co., and Theodore Ralli, Sons, and Co., of Threadneedle-street. The latter must not be confounded with other firms of the same name. Both these houses are highly respectable. Their affairs have been looked into closely, and a considerable surplus is expected, particularly in the case of Messrs. Lascaridi. The liabilities of this house are estimated at £70,000 or £80,000, and those of Messrs. T. Ralli and Co. at £42,000. A few months ago the amounts involved were much larger, but in the interval there has been a great contraction of engagements throughout the Levant trade. The stoppage in each case is resorted to as a measure of prudence, and principally on account of the connection existing between the London firms and others abroad. Messrs. Lascaridi and Co. have carried on a very large business, and have establishments at Marseilles, Constantinople, Beyrout, and at various points in the Black Sea. Messrs. T. Ralli, Sons, and Co., have a branch at Marseilles.

Messrs. T. Ralli, Sons, and Co., have placed their affairs in the hands of Messrs. Coleman, Turquand, Youngs, and Co., the accountants, who will prepare a statement and convene a meeting as soon as possible.

M. Doyen, the sub-Governor of the Bank of France, has left Paris for Constantinople, accompanied by an accountant and M. Cousiniery, the Smyrna banker. The object of this mission is to come to an arrangement with the Greek houses involved by the late failures.

The following is the circular issued on Saturday last by Messrs. P. Hava and Co., whose suspension was mentioned in our last number:—

London, 7, Lothbury, E.C., May 4, 1861.

Gentlemen,—After mature deliberation and consultation with our several friends, we have been advised that we shall best advance the interests of our creditors by at once suspending payment; and, although such a step is most painful to our feelings, we have determined on adopting that course. We have accordingly requested Messrs. Coleman, Turquand, Youngs, and Co., in whose hands we have placed our affairs, to prepare a statement of them, to be submitted to a meeting of our creditors at as early a period as possible. Soliciting your kind forbearance, we remain, &c.,
P. HAVA & Co.

Messrs. Nicholson and Stone, warehousemen, of Cannon-street West, have stopped payment. The amount of their liabilities is not known, but is not supposed to be large.

The liabilities of Messrs. Nicholson and Stone, amount to about £40,000.

At a meeting on Monday of the creditors of Mr. James Crichton, Baltic merchant, of Dundee, a balance-sheet was presented by Mr. C. F. Kemp, the accountant, showing liabilities expected to rank upon the estate to the amount of £25,515, with net assets estimated at £8,520. The aggregate liabilities are upwards of £120,000, but security, consisting of hemp, jute, &c., has been given for a large portion of them. There are questions in dispute involving nice points of commercial law, and an issue unfavourable to Mr. Crichton would considerably reduce the assets. In order to allow Mr. Crichton time to offer a composition, it was determined to adjourn till Monday next, a liquidation in bankruptcy, although mooted, not being entertained.

A petition under the private arrangement clauses has been presented in the case of Messrs. Churchill, Macmillan, and Co., wood brokers, who recently suspended payment, with liabilities to the amount of about £35,000.

At an adjourned meeting of the creditors of Mr. Joseph Bull, of Ravensdale Iron-works, North Staffordshire, recently held, it was resolved to wind up the estate under the private arrangement clauses.

In the Bankruptcy Court on Tuesday, there were some proceedings of importance in the case of Messrs. Davies and Troughton, bankers, of Shoreditch. The further hearing was adjourned until next Tuesday.

A meeting of the creditors of Mr. Henry Walmsley, an extensive cotton spinner, of Firs Mills, Failsforth, was held on Monday. The balance-sheet shows a deficiency of no less than £104,383, the liabilities being £150,941, and the assets £46,558. After considerable discussion, it was resolved to appoint a committee of investigation, which is to report to an adjourned meeting.

The Manchester Guardian of Wednesday says:—"Several power-loom manufacturers in different parts of the district have stopped payment within a few days. To-day it has become known that George Moorhouse, near Burnley, working 1,100 looms, has failed. His debts are stated at £20,000." The same journal states that the circumstances connected with the failure of Mr. Henry Walmsley "have excited a great deal of criticism." His estate shows a deficiency of £104,383, as already mentioned.

A meeting took place on Tuesday, at Manchester, of the creditors of Mr. Joseph Sutcliffe, commission agent. According to an approximate statement, the liabilities reach £32,114, and the assets £13,513. A resolution was adopted appointing a committee of investigation, which is to report to another meeting.

In the Bankruptcy Court on Thursday a certificate of the highest class was awarded to Mr. Wm. Bateman, timber merchant, of Old Broad-street, and underwriter, of Lloyd's.

An adjourned meeting of the creditors of Mr. Jonathan Ketley, railway-carriage builder, was held at the Queen's Hotel, Birmingham, on the 2nd May. An offer was made to pay a composition of five shillings in the pound in four months, this to be guaranteed by a sufficient security; a further instalment of 1s. 6d. in twelve months; and another shilling in eighteen months; and a final shilling in two years. The committee appointed to inspect advised the acceptance of this offer, and creditors to a large amount agreed to do so, others declined; but it was understood the proposal under the Private Arrangement petition would be filed in accordance with the above.

THE IMPORTANCE OF CORRECT BOOK-KEEPING TO MERCHANTS AND TRADERS, WHOLESALE AND RETAIL; with Remarks on the General Employment of Professional Accountants. By Simmons and Elles, Accountants, 81, Basinghall-street, London.

THE object of this sensibly-written little pamphlet is apparent from its title. It is justly observed that although the importance of correct accounts is, by all men of business, universally conceded, the value of an efficient system of book-keeping, adapted to ensure correctness, and suitable to every class of traders, wholesale or retail, is scarcely understood. The writers draw attention to the notorious fact that in many of the largest houses accounts are but imperfectly kept; whilst tradesmen of humbler pretensions seldom make any attempt to register their daily transactions at all. They go on to argue, and with great justice, against the absurdity of the prejudice which exists against the employment of accountants whose assistance, in many cases, might be productive of great advantages. Amongst these advantages especial stress is laid upon the following, viz.:—

Were wholesale houses to give preference, in respect of credit, to those retail customers whose books were superintended and vouched for by an independent accountant, they would sustain far fewer losses than at present.

The deserving retail trader would by this course, to some extent, be protected from the unjust competition with which he now often has to contend, from some apparently thriving, but really insolvent neighbour, whose business is upheld solely by a system of unlimited credit.

The same tradesman when in temporary difficulties would have time and opportunity allowed him to realise his assets, and regain his former position; instead of being forced, as is now too frequently the case, into a course certain to end in insolvency.

In superintending the transactions of the counting-house, the services of the professional accountant would be of essential value, especially in establishments of magnitude, where various departments of business are conducted by different members of the firm. His practised eye would soon discover ill-remunerating branches, which, when once brought under review, would be immediately discontinued.

AMERICAN VESSELS.—LIVERPOOL, Thursday.—Several American vessels have changed hands here at very low rates.

THE WESTERN BANK.—At a meeting of shareholders in this unfortunate concern, held at Glasgow on the 3rd of May, the proposal of compromise made by the liquidators was unanimously adopted.

THE managers and directors of some of the provincial savings-banks have given notice that the banks will be open twice a week in future, instead of once.

PAUPERISM IN ENGLAND AND WALES.—Returns have been issued which show that the paupers in March, 1861, as compared with those in March, 1860, have increased 17,366, or 2.08 per cent.; but compared with 1859, they have decreased 3,516, or 0.41 per cent. The paupers in receipt of relief on the last day of the last week of March, were 856,496 in 1859; 835,614 in 1860; and 852,980 in 1861.

THE Toronto Globe states that the public accounts of Canada for the past year exhibit a deficit of 2,289,916 dols. Among the "items peculiar to the year" is the expense of receiving the Prince of Wales, amounting to 204,884 dols.

FOREIGN-OFFICE, MAY 6.—The Queen has been pleased to approve of Mr. Johann Friedrich Wilhelm Niebuhr as Consul at Rangoon for his Majesty the King of Prussia.

GALWAY, TUESDAY.—The Atlantic Royal Mail-steamer Parana sailed for Newfoundland and New York at three P.M. to-day, with four hundred and sixty-one passengers and the latest telegrams.

It results, from official returns made to the English, French, and Prussian Governments relative to the movement of passengers on railways, and the accidents which take place, that there is one death out of every 4,500,000 passengers, and one wounded out of every 381,000. These calculations are made, as regards England, on the passenger traffic from 1848 to 1853; for France, from 1835 to 1856; and Prussia, from 1851 to 1856. Similar calculations made for the traffic by the diligences, for 1846 to 1856, give one death for every 355,463 passengers, and one wounded for every 29,872. There is, therefore, more than twelve times more danger in travelling by coach than by rail.

The Produce and other Markets.

COLONIAL PRODUCE.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 10.

The Colonial Produce Markets have presented rather a quiet aspect, yet former quotations are, with some few exceptions, maintained. More enquiry prevails for Rice, owing to the great advance paid on Carolina. Quotations of East India close 3d. to 6d. higher, and extensive sales have taken place in cleaned. The Continental Grain crops are said to have sustained injury by frost. Coffee remains steady, coloury kinds of Ceylon finding ready buyers at full rates. Further parcels of Trinidad Cocoa have been sold at about last week's value, and a Government contract for 150 tons is advertised. The Sugar market remains flat, and where holders pressed sales a decline of about 6d. per cwt. has ensued. 62,500 baskets Java will be brought forward by the Netherlands Trading Company on the 28th inst. Fine grades of Bengal Saltpetre still attract attention, these obtaining a rise of 6d. per cwt. The business in Tea has been smaller than usual, and to-day the market is inactive. Rum is still purchased in only moderate quantities, at about previous rates. The transactions in Sago have been of trivial amount; small parcels have been sold privately at 16s. The Cotton market has again been buoyant, and the better qualities of Sawginned have been eagerly taken at an advance of 3d. per lb., while other kinds have risen only 1d. per lb.

THE TALLOW TRADE.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 10.

Since our report of last week, very little change has occurred in the Tallow Market. The business for consumption has been steady, but with a rather slackened demand, partly owing to the advance of the season, and also to the fact of the trade having bought rather freely during the previous week. The supply of "sorts" has been moderate, and new Y.C. being still firmly withheld from consumption by the monopolists, we might look for a possible advance in prices of the former were this not kept in check by the old Y.C. tallow, which holders now are of course anxious to dispose of, the character of this tallow, however, renders this a matter of difficulty, as in most instances, it is not adapted to the requirements of the trade at this season. As the bulk, however, of the entire stock of tallow in London will probably be released in a month or two from its present restricted position, and will be on the market (as old Y.C.) we may reasonably hope for a better demand, as a very large portion of it being of 1860-1 import, is, of course, still in sound condition, and adapted for all the ordinary purposes of the trade; and the quantity submitted will probably render it attainable at moderate prices, even though the existing monopoly be further maintained by the appropriation to that purpose of the next season's import. This latter contingency, however, is, to say the least, a rather doubtful matter, and but very few circumstances at present indicate its probable accomplishment.

To-day the speculative business has been very limited. The quotations are for new Y.C. Tallow 58s. 3d. ready delivery; 58s. May and June; and 55s. per cwt. October to December.

The arrivals for the week ending the 9th inst., were 62 casks; deliveries, 1,371 casks; stock, 68,035 casks; showing a decrease of 1,309 casks.

Town Tallow has steadily maintained its position of the former week, but the melters have had no difficulty in meeting the trade demand. To-day there is again no alteration, 57s. 3d. per cwt., or 54s. 9d. net cash, being the "letter price." Fat, 2s. 11 1/4d. per stone of 8 lbs.

The following are the particulars of to-day's public sales:—

Y.C.—10 casks of unbracketed were offered of middling quality, and were sold at 51s. to 51. 3d. per cwt.

Odesa.—Business in this article has been steady during the week; prices in general having been fully maintained, especially for best qualities. 385 casks were offered to-day, all of which were sold; good sheep at 54s. 6d. to 55s. 6d.; fine ox at 53s. to 53s. 3d.; second quality 52s. to 52s. 6d.; mixed descriptions 49s. to 52s. for a portion, rather old, and bleached; and 51s. 9d. to 53s. 9d. per cwt. for dark to fine quality.

South American has not attracted much notice, and the business transacted since our last has been small, 200 casks and 358 boxes were offered to-day. Fine box tallow brought 54s. 3d. to 55s.; second quality 52s. 3d., good body, but rather brown; 54s. 6d. was paid for good quality in pipes; 51s. and 53s. 9d. for dark to fair, sound descriptions; and 50s. 3d. to 50s. 9d. for tallow mixed with grease, but of fair body and colour. About 90 casks were sold, and nearly all the boxes.

Australian.—Supplies have continued very short, and we have heard of no transactions until to-day, when 134 casks were offered for sale by auction, of which one half were sold. Good to fine ox tallow at 51s. 9d. to 52s. 9d. per cwt.; lower mixed qualities being neglected. There is no sheep tallow in the market.

East India.—90 cases were offered of fair colour and body, but not quite free from water. They were bought in at 50s. per cwt., 49s. bid.

Ibrail.—15 skins were offered—5 fine sheep, 10 fine ox; 5 of the latter were sold at 53s. per cwt.

Cocoa Nut Oil.—A steady business has been transacted during the week, but the demand has been rather less active, and the quantity offered being large, prices in some instances have been barely maintained. 500 casks Cochins, 175 casks Ceylon, and 531 casks and 9 tanks of Sydney were brought forward to-day. 17 casks of middling Cochins were sold at 46s. 3d. to 46s. 6d., all the superior oil being bought in at 47s. 6d. 50 casks of Ceylon found buyers at 46s. to 46s. 3d. The whole of the Sydney was disposed of (the tanks excepted) at 43s. to 45s. for middling to good sorts, and 46s. to 47s. 3d. per cwt. for fine to extra qualities, some of it being very superior.

Palm Oil has continued in moderate demand, and prices have maintained the quotations of last week. At auction to-day 455 casks were offered. Fine Whydah and good Lagos brought 45s. 6d.; inferior to middling sorts showed a rather wide range of prices—say from 41s. 9d. to 44s. per cwt. for dark dull oil to fair red qualities. About 200 casks were disposed of.

Palm Nut Oil. Small parcels have been disposed of at former prices. 119 casks were offered to-day, mostly of good quality. It was nearly all sold at 37s. 3d. to 39s. per cwt.

South American Horse Grease has been steady, the demand being limited. 97 cases were submitted for public competition, but they were bought in at 38s., there being no offers.—Furnished by Messrs. Culverwell, Brooks, and Co., Brokers.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET.

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 10.

On Monday, on the receipt of news from America, a very active demand sprang up for cotton, and the sales amounted to 20,000 bales. Prices of some descriptions of American, compared with the previous Friday, showed an improvement of 1/4d., and those of Surat 1/4d. to 1/2d. per lb. Although this improvement is maintained, the market has since been less animated, owing to the unfavourable position of the Manchester Market, and the probability of short time being more generally resorted to, in order to reduce the rate of consumption, as well as to enable the prices of yarns and goods to keep pace with the upward movement in the value of the raw material. Our utter dependence upon America for cotton supplies is again viewed with anxiety, and it is to be hoped that this feeling will tempt merchants to afford encouragement for the growth of cotton in India and elsewhere. Meanwhile, however, only high prices can adjust the balance between demand and supply.

[BY ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.]

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY EVENING.

No change has occurred to-day; 10,000 bales were sold, including 3,000 on speculation and for exportation. The imports to-day comprise 6,570 bales. Fair Upland is now quoted 8 1/4d.; Orleans, 8 1/2d.; and Mobile, 8 1/4d. The sales of the week amount to 93,930 bales, of which 20,950 were taken on speculation, and 15,440 for exportation, and the imports to 67,189 bales. The stock now stands at 969,600 bales.

The Corn Trade.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 10.

During the last week the weather in the United Kingdom has continued most cloudy, but on the whole, rainless—except passing rain and snow-showers. Two days ago snow fell six inches deep in several parts of England. The wind blew principally from the north-east, which kept the temperature of the air unseasonably cold in day-time and frosty at night. Vegetation is unusually backward for the time of the year. The wheat crop has somewhat improved in appearance in some parts of the country, but most accounts complain that the fields have lost plant in the fen as well as on chalky soils, and even upon strong clay lands. Spring wheat, or rather autumn wheat sown in February shows on the whole, a full and healthy plant; but all things considered, even with the best of weather, there is no prospect of a good wheat crop in the United Kingdom this year. Respecting the state of the spring crops the accounts vary. Some of the early-sown crops look pretty well, but the plants of the later-sown seed have come up slowly, and there are many failures, which may be partly owing to a want of germinating powers in the seed.

A genial temperature, with warm showers, would probably improve the appearance of the crops generally. Barley and oats sowing is now fully completed, excepting partial instances.

The Peas plants have come up pretty thickly, better than expected, but the Beans crop is set down as a failure from the inferior quality of the seed.

Potatoe planting is far advanced. The breaking up of the land for Turnips is in progress.

The supply of home-grown wheat has been more plentiful this week than in the preceding week, but the delivery of Barley and Oats has somewhat fallen off. The latest official weekly returns of the quantity of grain sold in England and Wales are stated as follows:—Wheat, 75,885 qrs. at 55s. 4d.; barley, 18,454 qrs. at 36s. 10d.; oats, 8,872 qrs. at 24s. 7d. per qr.

IMPORTS.—The importation of foreign grain has been considerably larger this week than in the preceding fortnight, but still below the weekly returns of three weeks ago. The quantity of wheat continues to preponderate over every other kind of grain, principally from America, and the Baltic, and the South of Europe. The imports of barley and oats have slightly increased, compared with the preceding week, and the quantity of maize shows also a slight excess over preceding returns.

THE BRITISH CORN TRADE.—Early this week a certain degree of heaviness encumbered the trade, but during the last few days a more confident feeling has been gaining ground, in consequence of the injurious effect upon the growing grain crops from the protracted dry and cold weather, and the serious complaints heard also from France in reference to the growing grain crops in that country, with similar advices from Germany, especially from the Baltic shores. The warlike news from America tended also to create increased apprehensions of a probable falling off in the large grain imports from that quarter. These causes combined to impart an improved tone to the trade generally. Wheat.—The demand was, on the whole, quiet. For superior sorts last week's prices were readily obtained, but inferior parcels could not be easily disposed of, unless at a reduction of from 1s. to 2s. per qr. Flour.—Bakers continued to buy sparingly from hand to mouth; the trade was, therefore, quiet, at about last week's rates—rather cheaper. Barley.—With a moderate demand fine sorts were held at fully last week's prices; inferior sorts, quiet. Oats held steadily at previous rates. Maize.—Early this week buyers appeared reluctant to operate, even at a decline of 1s. per qr., but during the last few days a better feeling has been gaining ground, and prices have recovered part of the depression noticed a week ago. Beans continue firmly maintained in price. Peas quiet, and unaltered in value.

What effect the troubles in America will ultimately have upon the corn trade of this country does not appear at present quite clear. No immediate serious falling off in the grain imports from the United States seems at present apprehended. But, if the civil war between the Northern and Southern States should continue for a considerable time a diminution in the important imports from that quarter may naturally be expected, and concurrently its obvious influence upon prices.

In Mark-lane to-day the attendance of the trade was full, with a good many country buyers. The tone quiet. Wheat—English, in improved demand, at last Monday's prices. Foreign—Ready sale, at last Monday's rates. Flour—American, quoted the same as last Monday; Norfolk, 37s. to 38s. per 280lbs. Barley—Steady, at last Monday's currency. Oats—Firm, at last Monday's rates. Beans—Firm, at last Monday's prices. Peas—Unaltered.

Imports of foreign grain and flour into London since Monday last:—14,130 qrs. wheat; 1,730 qrs. barley; flour 400 sks.; oats 11,340 qrs.

[BY ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.]

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY EVENING.

There was an average attendance of millers. Wheat in active demand, at an advance of 1d. per cental. Flour—Steady, at full prices. Oats and Oatmeal unaltered in value. Maize—Fully as dear. Beans—Firm.

LIVERPOOL and NEW ORLEANS STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY (Limited).
Capital £200,000, in 4,000 Shares of £50 each,
With power to increase to £500,000, should it hereafter be deemed desirable.

Deposit £5 per Share, to accompany the application, to be returned in full if the Company is not established; a Call of £10 per Share to be made about three months subsequently. No Call to exceed £10, and a period of at least three months to elapse between each Call.

About one-third of the capital requisite to start the undertaking is already subscribed; and, amongst other firms of the highest respectability, the following gentlemen have agreed to take stock, and assist in the management of the Company:—

Messrs. Joshua Scholfield, Sons, and Goodman, Birmingham.
Charles Holland, Esq., Deputy Chairman of St. Helens Canal and Railway Company, Director of Demerara Railway Company.
Messrs. Hoghton, Rankin, and Co., New Orleans.
Charles Robertson, Esq., Merchant, Liverpool.
Francis Boulton, Esq. (Boulton, English, and Brandon), Liverpool.

HONORARY SECRETARY (pro tem.)

James Samuelson, Esq., 18, Dale-street, Liverpool.

BANKERS.

Liverpool—Union Bank.

London—Messrs. Barnett, Hoares, and Co.

SOLICITORS.

Liverpool—Messrs. J. and E. Whitley and Thompson.

With a view to provide partial accommodation for this large trade already in existence, and which, it may with truth be affirmed, is capable of unlimited extension, it is proposed to establish, as soon as suitable vessels can be constructed, a Monthly Line of First-class Steamers between New Orleans and Liverpool, to be hereafter increased in number as circumstances may require.

A careful calculation of the estimated receipts and expenditure of the proposed Company has been made by gentlemen who are in every way conversant with the state of the existing traffic and with the management of steam-vessels, and the result, after making a liberal allowance for interest of capital, wear and tear, and all the usual contingencies, shows a dividend of about 12 per cent. There is, therefore, no reason to doubt that, with due care, punctuality, and fidelity, the undertaking will yield a most satisfactory return to the shareholders.

Application for shares to be made to Messrs. T. Tinley and Sons, Sharebrokers, Liverpool.
Messrs. Huggins and Rowell, Sharebrokers, 1, Threadneedle-street, London.
Messrs. Shore and Kirk, Sharebrokers, Manchester.
Mr. John Perry, Sharebroker, Waterloo-street, Birmingham.

THE NORTH HAFOD SILVER-LEAD MINING COMPANY (Limited.)

Incorporated in virtue of the 19th and 20th Vict., c. 47, and 20th and 21st Vict., c. 14.

Capital £12,000, in 6,000 shares of £2 each. Deposit, 10s. per share. And the balance, if required, to be paid by instalments of 5s. each, at intervals of not less than three months.

SECRETARY—Mr. Thomas Spargo.

CONSULTING ENGINEER—Captain Matthew Francis.

OFFICES—224 and 225, Gresham House, Old Broad-street, London.

The North Hafod Silver-Lead Mining Company has been formed for the purchase and development of a rich and productive Silver-Lead Mine, situate two miles from Devil's Bridge, thirteen miles to the east of Aberystwith, and about a mile from the projected Manchester and Milford Haven Railway.

The grant upon which the Company is founded embraces an extensive tract of ground, subject to the very moderate royalty of 1-20th.

The North Hafod Mines are immediately adjoining to, and surrounded by, some of the richest and best paying mines in the district—Cwmystwith, Ffrongoch, and Nant-y-Cresau. Ffrongoch is now giving profits to the extent of £1,000 per month, Cwmystwith of £600 per month, and Nant-y-Cresau £1,800 per month.

The county of Cardigan has for several centuries been distinguished as one of the richest lead-producing districts in the kingdom, and second only to the celebrated Altendale, Wensdale, and Derwent Mines, in the counties of Northumberland and Durham.

A beneficent Providence has been prodigal in the bestowal of mineral treasures upon this favoured county (Cardigan), and they have been successfully wrought for centuries. Numerous large fortunes have been realised by the adventurers in its mines; and a distinguished instance is established in the case of the celebrated Sir Hugh Myddleton, who derived £2,000 per month from one of them, with which he prosecuted his great work—the formation of the New River from Ware to Islington, to supply the inhabitants of the metropolis with pure water.

The North Hafod Mine is situate upon the great Ffrongoch lode, a vein of 33 ft. in width, containing courses of lead ore of excellent quality, nearly solid for an immense length, and from 9 to 10 ft. in thickness, the masses of ore lying in gossan or divisions of congealed striated lode stone.

Large courses of ore are opened upon close to the boundary of the Company's grant, and it is intended to adopt the most efficient and economical method of opening the lodes, by driving a cross-cut to intersect them at a low level, where immense deposits of ore are known to exist.

The necessity for the construction of a steam-engine, and the heavy expenses attendant upon working one will be averted by the adoption of water-power, which is immediately available to an unusual extent.

And it is confidently expected by the most competent authorities that the realised profit, upon an outlay of £3,000 of the capital the promoters have provided for, will enable the Company to pay a liberal dividend to its shareholders; whilst intersecting the lodes at various points, by cross-cut adits, will guarantee the certainty of producing immense profits to the shareholders.

The important position of the North Hafod Mines, and the intrinsic value of the various lodes which run the extreme length of the sett, will be fully appreciated upon a perusal of the report of the Consulting Engineer of the Company, Capt. Matthew Francis, which accompanies this prospectus.

The advance of modern science, and the progress of enlightenment, are now introducing the railway system towards and amongst the Cardiganshire mountains, where their rich silver-lead mines abound, and in a brief time those fastnesses will participate in the facilities of transport afforded to the more favoured districts of England, when the nature of the mining property of this singularly favoured province (Cardigan) will be largely enhanced.

The mining operations of the Company will be under, and subject to, the immediate supervision of the eminent Engineer, Captain Matthew Francis, to whose report reference has been made.

The promoters of the undertaking, fully impressed with the great value of the North Hafod Mine, and the profitable results which must accrue from its efficient working, offer the remaining shares to the public, with a conviction that such an opportunity for the investment of capital is rarely presented for consideration.

The capital of the Company is to be £12,000, divided into 6,000 shares of £2 each, whereon 10s. per share is to be paid at the time of subscribing, and the remainder, or balance of £1.10s. per share, to be called for by instalments of 5s. per share each, at intervals of three months, of all of which calls twenty-one days' clear notice is to be given.

The undertaking to be under the immediate direction of a Board of Directors, to consist of not less than three or more than seven members, each of whom shall be required to qualify for office by subscribing for, and holding, fifty shares at the least in the capital of the Company.

The Company to be incorporated under the 19th and 20th Vict., cap. 47, and 20th and 21st Vict., cap. 14, to limit the liability of the shareholders to the amount of their respective subscriptions to the capital thereof; and the Articles of Association to define the system of management under which the Company is to be conducted, and to contain provisions to secure and maintain a true and proper system of check and counter-check in its financial transactions, and in the issue and transfer of shares; and to secure power to the Board of Directors to commence the operations of the Company, and to carry out and conduct the business thereof before the whole of the capital be subscribed, and when in its discretion it shall deem expedient.

Prospectuses, with plans and sections of the property, can be had on application to the Secretary.

REPORT ON WEST BODCALL MINE.

APRIL 15, 1861.—The Bodcall Mine is situate two miles to the east of Devil's Bridge, in Cardiganshire, and about thirteen miles to the east of Aberystwith, and about a mile from the projected Manchester and Milford Haven Railway. The lode is a very fine gossan lode, presenting occasionally stones of lead embedded in the gossan, close to the surface. It is the same lode as that of the great Ffrongoch, and runs 50 degs. of magnetic east, which in that mine is 33 ft. wide, containing courses of nearly solid ore from 9 to 10 ft. in width. The Bodcall Mine is situate just in the centre of the three dividend-paying mines of Ffrongoch, Nant-y-Cresau, and Cwmystwith. Ffrongoch is giving profits to the extent of £1,000 per month; Cwmystwith of £600 per month, and Nant-y-Cresau of £1,800 per annum. An adit level has been driven eastward upon the lode in the old Bodcall Mine, on the Crown property, which has yielded a large quantity of lead, and shows ore close to the boundary. I have no doubt when the lode is opened in depth, which it can by either cross adits or adits along the vein, that very large bodies of ore will be discovered; in fact, it is all but demonstrated that the good course of ore discovered close to the boundary will be found at a little lower level to exist in this grant, as this is the usual inclination or dip of the bodies of ore in this part of the country. I have had considerable experience of these mines, so much so that £7,500 invested under my superintendence in the immediate neighbourhood, within the last 27 years, produces a profit this year of upwards of £40,000. The trials in this country or district are very light as to the expenditure, the work is moderate hardness, averaging for levels about £5 per fm., and the water contained in it may be usually drained by means of 6-in. pitwork, and generally the ore is found by adit level, mining at a small comparative outlay. At Goginan, the small sum of £500 laid out under my directions laid open £216,000 worth of ore in the back of the adit, which made a profit of £60,000; and at Logylas, for even smaller expenditure, a discovery of lead was made in back of the adit which yielded £180,000 in ore money, and £50,000 in profit from above the adit. These facts speak more of the nature and character of the lodes of this part of Cardiganshire and their produce than any speculative arguments would do. They testify to their value and the great fortunes to be made by scientifically exploring them. I will add, as to the permanency of the mines of this district, that the Lishwre Mines, which adjoin this property, were opened under my practical agency, twenty-seven years ago, with a working capital of £2,500. I then holding myself an interest in them, which I have since disposed of, but I understand from good authority that the profits will not be less than £10,000, or 400 per cent. upon the working capital. If it were necessary, I could multiply evidence of the riches of the veins of this district, but I think what I have stated is sufficient to give a fair notion of the general value of the lodes. Geologically speaking, the veins are embedded in the most ancient of the slates called the Cambrian series of measures, and they extend to a depth of upwards of 3,000 fms., and are scarcely in any instance yet brought as low as the level of the sea. The Bodcall sett is on the western side of the great ridge of hills extending from Snowdon to the peaks of Brecon, called the Snowdonian range; at this point the elevation is about 1,500 feet above the sea level, and affords excellent facilities for adit level mining and water-power. The River Mynach is capable of being diverted to the most feasible sites for the mouths of the levels of mine, and the reduction of the ores, and the drainage under such arrangements as may be easily made, will call almost nothing in comparison with the outlay, when these expensive operations have to be effected by steam-power. Nothing can be more favourable than the tenure of the ground, which is by a lease from Mr. Chambers, of Hafod, for a royalty of 1-20th of the produce of the ore, and for a term of forty years. And, in conclusion, I do not know that it is possible to find a piece of ground possessing so many points of interest, such good prospects, and held so favourably anywhere besides, and I advise you to lose no time in laying the lode open, by means of facilities at your disposal; and I have no doubt but that you will soon find yourselves possessed of a very good mine at Bodcall, for a comparatively trifling outlay.

OFFICES—5, Warrford-court, Throgmorton-street, City.

The object of this Company is to work the Glan-y-Pwll Slate Quarries, situated in the parish of Festiniog, in the county of Merioneth, North Wales, and on the same mountain range as those magnificent quarries owned by Lord Palmerston, Messrs. Huddart and Mathews, and Mr. Holland. This sett adjoins their boundary, is a direct continuation of their seam, and consequently produces slate rock of precisely the same character and quality.

From the position of this sett it is, perhaps, unequalled in Wales in natural facilities. The workings are about 250 yards from the level, and the slate rock crops out from the top of the mountain. From the works an incline, at a comparatively small cost, may be laid down for the conveyance of slates in railway trucks direct to the main line, running within 100 yards of the mountain, to the quay at Port Madoc. The carriage is about 3s. 6d. per ton. Another very important advantage is the space afforded for the deposit of waste or debris sufficient for an unlimited period. The water-power is at all seasons ample for any work that may be required. A considerable portion of the capital has been already subscribed.

Plans of the quarry, together with reports and samples of the slates, may be seen at the Office of the Company.

Applications for the remaining shares to be made to the Bankers, Solicitors, Brokers, and the Manager, at the Office of the Company, where prospectuses and forms of applications may be obtained. Applications received until the 25th inst.

"Gentlemen.—A few nights since the whole hock of new buildings in Bedford-street was completely destroyed by fire, and our offices and warehouses among them. The fire did not originate in our premises, but seeing it was likely to be a very large one, we had time to remove all our books, which were deposited in one of your fire-resisting Safes, to a place of safety, but, in the confusion which necessarily occurs, we neglected to remove the contents of the drawers. SECRETARY—J. Spencer Price, Esq.

Offices—No. 12, Old Broad-street, London, E.C.

This Company is formed for the purpose of supplying what has long been urgently required, and which, from the increased, and constantly increasing, growth of our commerce, is daily becoming more and more necessary, viz., regular, speedy, and safe communication along the extensive line of coast and in the inner waters of China.

For conducting an immense coasting trade the Chinese possess nothing but unwieldy junks, which are unable to perform their voyages except with a favourable monsoon, while European commerce in the China waters is carried on in sailing vessels, with the addition recently, of a very limited number of steamers owned by private firms; the postal and general passenger traffic being confined to the semi-monthly service of the Peninsular and Oriental Company between Hong Kong and Shanghai.

To meet the necessities of both Foreign and Native trade it is proposed to construct a fleet of steamers, which shall be the means of establishing regular communication between the ports and places to which foreigners will have access, and of providing for the conveyance of passengers, mails, and general merchandise.

It is intended to commence with the construction of Six Steam-vessels, as the Directors propose to limit the operations of the Company until experience has proved in what way they can be best extended with advantage to the Shareholders.

Power (under the control of the Shareholders in General Meeting) will be taken by the Deed for a future increase of capital; and provision will be made for extension of the Company's operations between China and Japan, as found expedient.

The extent of the trade already existing—its certain expansion—and the manifest necessity for the use of steam—warrant the conclusion that the Company may rely upon being able to find ready employment for their vessels at a scale of charges that will make the profits ample.

Forms of application for Shares addressed to the Directors may be obtained from the Secretary, at 12, Old Broad-street, London, E.C.; or from the Brokers of the Company; but no application will be considered, unless a deposit of 5s. for each Share applied for shall have been previously made with the Bankers of the Company.

AT a MEETING of the LANDHOLDERS and COMMERCIAL ASSOCIATION of BRITISH INDIA, held at the Office of the Association, 8, Craig's-court, Charing-cross, on the 27th of April inst.,

D. MACKINLAY, Esq., in the Chair,

It was resolved:—

That it is the anxious desire of this Association that some public opportunity be afforded to the independent British settlers in India to refute the unfounded and injurious charges made against them by Mr. Laidar in a recent speech.

That the policy of the Government of Bengal, approved of by the Secretary of State for India, is destroying capital, discouraging industry, and leading to the expulsion of European settlers from the country, and the impoverishment of the natives.

That the Lieutenant-Governor's interference with the judicial officers of Bengal has already been most mischievous, and that the power of so interfering is one that ought to be restrained; that one of the most important subjects, and one deserving of immediate attention, is the thorough reform of, and suppression of corruption in, the courts and police throughout India; and the establishment of Small Cause Courts with judges, who, by being independent of dictation from superior authority, may administer equal justice to both natives and Europeans.

That the Association approves of the answer to the minute of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, dated the 17th December, 1860 (now submitted to the meeting), and that the Chairman be requested to sign and forward this document to the Secretary of State for India.

W. V. EDDIS, Secretary.
Office of the Landholders and Commercial Association of British India, 8, Craig's-court, Charing-cross,
April 27, 1861.

BRITISH MINE SHARES pay 25 per cent. per annum in dividends, and often advance 1,000 per cent. on outlay. (Thirteen Mines, on an outlay of £56,316, paid in dividends £3,747,035.) Capitalists should act only on sound advice and reliable information, which can be obtained of H.Y. GOULD SHARP, Share dealer, 32, Poultry, London, E.C. N.B. The Capitalist's Guide and Share List gratis and post free.

BRITISH AND FOREIGN INVESTMENT.

MR. THOMAS SPARGO, of Nos. 224 and 225, GRESHAM HOUSE, OLD BROAD-STREET, LONDON, E.C., TRANSACTS every description of BUSINESS in the PURCHASE and SALE of SHARES in BANKS, CANALS, RAILWAYS, BRIDGES, INSURANCES, and all other BRITISH and FOREIGN STOCK.

MR. SPARGO has FOR SALE SHARES in ENGLISH MINES paying from 20 to 25 per cent. upon the present price in bi-monthly and quarterly Dividends, as also a number of Shares in good progressive Mines, some of which he specially recommends to the public as sound investments.

MR. SPARGO GIVES ADVICE and ACCURATE INFORMATION as to the position and prospects of all mining undertakings upon application, either personally or by letter, and has published the following, from which those unacquainted with mining can enlighten themselves thereon, viz.:—Statistics and Observations upon the Mines of Devon and Cornwall, for 1859, price 2s. 6d.; ditto for 1860, 2s. 6d.; Physical, Geological, and Parish Map of Cornwall, 10s. 6d.; Geological Maps of various Mining Districts of Cornwall, showing Boundary Lines of every Mine, with the Lodes, Cross-courses, and Elvans traversing each, 2s. 6d. each; and a Relief Model Map of Cornwall, price £5. 5s.

Dividends received, Calls paid, and all orders negotiated on a Commission of 2½ per cent.

MINES, RAILWAYS, BANK, STEAMSHIP, and INSURANCE SHARES BOUGHT, SOLD, or EXCHANGED.

Capitalists who seek safe and profitable investments, free from risk, should act only upon the soundest information; the market prices of the day are for the most part governed by the immediate supply and demand, together with the operations of speculators without reference to the bona fide merits of the property.

Mines afford a wider range for profit than any other public securities, and pay dividends bi-monthly, varying from 15 to 30 per cent. per annum. Instances frequently occur of young Mines rising in value 400 to 500 per cent. The undersigned devotes special attention to the above, and affords every information to capitalists, and effects purchases or sales upon the best possible terms.

THE RISE IN THE VALUE OF MONEY.

On Thursday the Bank of England raised their rate of discount from 5 per cent. to 6. Since the 11th of April, when the reverse movement—namely, a reduction from 6 to 5 per cent.—was adopted, the coin and bullion have declined from £13,122,432 to (according to last night's return) £12,382,446, showing a loss of £739,986. During the same period the reserve of notes and coin has declined from £7,439,092 to £6,814,656—a difference of £624,436. We suppose it will be said by some that the draught upon the Bank's resources indicated by these figures warrants the step just adopted. We will not stop to argue this point, but we are desirous of calling the especial attention of our readers to the increased indications of timidity and anxiety observable in the discount market. There is a feeling amongst bankers that, in the event of the American exchange coming quoted still lower than 104 (the latest reliable price received), the Bank of England will put up their rate to 7 per cent. As long as an impression exists that this step may be adopted even without the usual weekly court day being awaited, there can be neither ease nor confidence in Lombard-street. The policy pursued by the money-dealers of turning away business to the Bank may precipitate the step referred to. At the same time, looking at the general position of the Bank accounts, at the favourable movement in the continental exchanges, which will soon bring gold back, and at the check given to shipments of silver to the East, alarm would be quite out of place.

THE MONSTROUS SCALE OF THE PUBLIC EXPENDITURE.

WE have more than once called attention to the vast unproductive expenditure which is going on—not only on the Continent but in this country. It is sapping the foundations of material prosperity, and, if continued only for two or three years longer, will bring about an amount of discontent which a wise Government would do well to avert by timely retrenchment. The amount of taxation raised in this country is something monstrous, and, if we mistake not, is more in the aggregate than the public have any idea of. By an official paper we perceive that there were in the Banks of England and Ireland—

Exchequer Cash Balances on 31st March, 1860, amounting to ...	£7,983,360

The cash balances on 31st March, 1861, standing to the credit of the Exchequer, were £6,675,329; consequently, the actual expenditure for the year 1860-1 was £74,922,920. Thus, the expenditure of the year 1860-1 amounted to the huge sum of £1,422,000 per week. That expenditure is still going on, and yet people wonder at money being scarce! The fact is, capital is being absorbed far too largely by the expenses of the State. This is further proved if, as Mr. Gladstone recently observed, we are spending £20,000,000 per annum more than we did a few years ago. Surely, as the people of England and France are about to enter into closer commercial relations, it is high time that the two Governments should come to some definite understanding with regard to reducing their respective armaments, and, as a consequence, their expenditure. How else is commerce to be extended? The troubles which have broken out in America render it the more imperative that the most cordial and intimate understanding should exist between England and France. It seems to us that England ought not to look with jealousy upon the amount (short of a really excessive amount) of land force which France may deem it necessary to maintain, but she has every reason to be jealous and watchful as regards the increase in the French navy. Surely some arrangement might be arrived at between the two Governments on these points.

As daily witnesses of the anxieties of those concerned in commerce, we are not merely serving the cause of our constituents in advocating retrenchment, but that of good government and peace. There is a general and bitter complaint of the state of trade, and of the limited amount of expenditure that is going on among private individuals, as compared with ordinary times. The shopkeeping class especially suffer, and, through them, the wholesale houses. The scale of the national expenditure fully accounts for this. No one but those who dive beneath the surface can, perhaps, appreciate the effect of an additional ten or twenty millions per annum being abstracted from the pockets of the people for unproductive expenditure. It is precisely this active money which, spent by the public at home in comforts (or luxuries if you will) would cause activity in our home trade, and vivify commerce.

The mere working of the machine of Government is absorbing a far larger amount of capital than can be spared by the money market, or by our internal or foreign trade. Individuals are obliged to spend less, because the State spends more. In all ages this has been accounted a lamentable symptom. It is a system which cannot be permanent, because in the end it must exhaust the country, and then be corrected. But is it not better to correct the evil before the process of exhaustion is completed? We must say we are surprised at the lukewarmness displayed in this vital matter by the representatives of commercial constituencies in the House of Commons. Rarely is anything heard when millions are being voted away, save a feeble remonstrance. As to rival cabinets, the race between Whig and Tory seems to be as to which can spend money the faster, or pile up the higher the already vast figures in the annual balance sheet. The Chancellor of the Exchequer simultaneously deprecates the present scale of public expenditure, and sanctions it; whilst Lord Palmerston, a mocking master of the situation, is applauded vigorously by the official claqueurs, when he turns aside by some poor jest remonstrances which swell up from the very heart of the nation.

THE INDIAN BUDGET.

NOTWITHSTANDING the dreadful famine in the North-Western provinces of India, we believe that, according to the best calculations that can be made, the estimated deficit for the year 1861-2 will not exceed £2,000,000. This must be regarded as satisfactory when it is considered that in this deficit is included £1,850,000 for interest on Railway Guarantees. The nett receipts from railway traffic will go in aid of that amount, but the loss on the exchange will fully equal the receipts from that source. Whenever the railways are completed this annual charge against revenue will not only cease, but it is to be hoped that the Government will have returned to it all the interest which it has advanced pending the construction of the lines, and which will be available for other reproductive works and for the extinction of debt.

It appears certain that the Indian Government will require a loan in the course of this year, but the amount will entirely depend on the sum the Indian railway companies pay into the Indian Treasury.

It must be remembered that the outlay on Indian railways, which it would be alike ruinous and impolitic to stop, is going on this year in England at the rate of £8,000,000 per annum. Consequently either the Government or the companies must raise this amount—practically, it does not matter which; but we venture to suggest that both ought not to be borrowers in the market simultaneously. Such amount of this £8,000,000 as the companies are unable to provide, the Government must raise in a 5 per cent. stock, in addition to the £2,000,000 already spoken of.

THE AMERICAN GRAIN MOVEMENT—ITS EFFECT UPON THE EXCHANGE AND UPON THE SPECIE CURRENT.

At a moment when our money-market is once more pressed upon by the results of the American grain movement of the past season, amongst which are comprised a balance due from this country to America, a depressed exchange and a renewed efflux of specie, it becomes particularly interesting to glance at the probable consequences of the approaching re-opening of the grain trade. The subject is surrounded with a good deal of uncertainty and difficulty, in consequence of the political convulsion in America; but we will endeavour to arrange the various points pro and con in such a manner as to enable a fair inference to be drawn. One thing is certain—this matter is full of importance to our money-market.

Our readers are of course aware that from the end of November until the 1st of May there is an entire suspension of the interior American grain trade from Chicago and the upper Lake-ports to New York, Montreal, and the other ocean shipping ports. The reason of this is twofold; firstly, the severity of the winter, which freezes up the channels of communication, and, secondly, the long railway distance, exceeding a thousand miles, which renders it unprofitable to carry such a bulky article as cereals by railway. Thus the American grain movement, now that the Erie Canal and the Lakes are once more released from the iron grasp of winter, is on the point of being resumed, and the figures which we give below will enable those interested in the subject to estimate, with some degree of certainty, the probable extent of the exportations to this country during the summer months. The figures were carefully compiled last year by the Committee of the New York Corn Exchange, and are reliable. The receipts at New York during the season which extended over thirty-four weeks, namely, from the 1st May to the 24th December, were as follows:—

Flour.	Wheat.	Corn.
3,363,900 barls. ...	18,544,400 bushels ...	11,845,000 bushels.

The total exports from New York for the same period were:—

Flour.	Wheat.	Corn.
1,609,700 barls. ...	13,038,000 bushels ...	3,111,300 bushels.

Estimating these exports in round numbers, at the average price of last year, and leaving the exports from Montreal, Boston, Philadelphia, Baltimore, and other ports to the United Kingdom to represent that proportion of the exports from New York which went to places not within the United Kingdom, our grain imports from the United States for the next seven months, assuming that they will not be in excess of last year, will raise a balance against us in New York of no less than £6,000,000, or, in round numbers, £860,000 per month.

Whether the imports from America will be in excess or fall short of those of last year is, of course, an open question. So far the comparative receipts at the Lake-ports for the present year are something like twenty-five per cent. in excess of the receipts at the same time last year; but, should the civil war proceed, it is not improbable that the shipments from the Lake-ports may show even a greater comparative falling off. It must, however, be borne in mind that the West, the district of the Lakes, and the State of New York, through which the Erie Canal passes, are far removed from the probable seat of war. This favours the presumption that the grain movement of the season will go on without any very great disturbance. One great inducement for its doing so will be the abundant supply of unemployed American tonnage at New York, which, it is to be presumed, will run the risk of the Southern privateers. On the other hand, a great obstacle to grain shipments to the United Kingdom from New York, and a great consequent discouragement to grain shipments from the up Lake-ports, is involved in the low rate at which bills on England will meet with buyers in New York. Finally, we would remark that much will depend on the character of the coming Western harvest, the wheat portion of which will be ready for the sickle in about six weeks from the present date. Should the harvest be as abundant as that of last year we infer that a very large quantity will be sent forward—no matter to what point the New York exchange on this country may decline; for during last winter large additions were made to the Lake tonnage, and the quantity of last season's crop still in the hands of Western farmers and others is believed to be unprecedented.

THE INFLUENCE OF THE MORRILL TARIFF IN EMBITTERING THE ENMITY BETWEEN THE NORTH AND SOUTH.

OF all the manifestations of the secret working of American institutions by which the European world has been astonished of late years, and the faith of old believers in democracy overthrown, surely the strangest, the most utterly unaccountable on any rational principle, is the sudden enactment of the prohibitory Morrill Tariff immediately upon the withdrawal from Washington of the Southern Representatives. Will any duly-qualified observer tell us the motive which influenced the majorities in the Representatives and in the Senate? Was it rage and vindictiveness against the South? Was it blind greediness and avarice? Was it dense economical ignorance and contempt of experience? That any popularly elected assembly could seriously believe it to be for the interest of their constituents to tax them enormously, rich and poor alike, to enable a few manufacturers in Massachusetts and Pennsylvania to sell goods at thirty or fifty per cent. above what would otherwise be their value, is hardly credible. That a Government greatly in need of money should be ignorant that protective duties inevitably destroy the revenue to benefit the smuggler, is scarcely more so. That "free and enlightened citizens" should submit to have one of the worst evils of the Middle Ages revived, and allow their country to be scourged with monopolies; that, while professing a desire to conciliate the revolted South, the North should not only perpetuate the South's standing grievance, but insult those whom they professedly regarded as their Southern fellow-citizens by an enormous aggravation of that grievance; or that a Government in the agonies of civil conflict and revolution should virtually proclaim against all Europe, and against England in particular, a war of tariffs, pass in effect a Non-intercourse Act, do what in them lies to impede commerce, and thus destroy the interest and chill the sympathies of foreigners, is a proceeding which the world may well gaze in wonder at.

Upon the great question of slavery it is not our purpose to enter. All Englishmen are agreed upon it; all consider it an unmitigated evil; all desire its speedy abolition; but rational Englishmen agree almost as unanimously that foreign interference can only exasperate the planter, injure the slave's condition, and protract the evil. A most complicated and difficult social problem is not to be settled by lectures at Exeter Hall, or by any quantity of cheap and easy platform declamation. The "institution," as it is styled, must be allowed to work and wear itself out, which, if let alone, it will not be long in doing, by the means hinted at in our last impression, if not otherwise. Let England abstain from meddling; she has more than enough of pressing business of her own.

But the fiscal policy of those States with which she has constant and extensive commercial intercourse is England's business. It affects the property and welfare of her people at every point, and in this respect the policy of the South stands in most favourable contrast with that of the North. Their Tariff, though sufficiently burdensome, and, like all tariffs, a nuisance and a pest, will at least allow much good business to be done, and gives commerce some scope for development. Let the Confederate States persevere in this course, and advance boldly in the safe and easy path to prosperity, of open ports and free trade, and they will find their speedy reward. Not only will their citizens enjoy, at the cheapest rate, all the results of European manufacturing skill, but they will find capital seeking their port; foreigners with money, flocking numerously where no tariffs forbid them to buy and sell; New Orleans and Mobile, becoming the entrepôts for Mexico and Cuba (as, indeed, they have already begun to be), and the head quarters of the traders who, by some means, will supply the luxuries and comforts of life to the people of the Western and Northern States, in spite of revenue cruisers and artificial restrictions. We are no advocates for evasion of even blind and unjust fiscal laws, but their natural consequence is to provoke evasion. And, instead of one line of projected steamers between Liverpool and the Mississippi, the Crescent City will see daily arrivals of the products of European looms and factories, to be distributed and consumed throughout the vast regions watered by or accessible through the great father of rivers, and his numerous tributaries. Not that the English public would counsel, even under such a temptation as this, any interference, direct or indirect, on the part of Great Britain in the quarrel now unhappily distracting the American Continent. On the contrary, the most strict and rigid neutrality must be observed in word and deed. We would merely point out that the day is past when England's commercial interests could be safely disregarded by her statesmen as things too common for their sublime consideration. Slavery is not the only crime against civilisation and the comity of nations; prohibitive tariffs and restrictions on commerce, the great civiliser of the world, are in their way and sphere, almost as bad. It must be admitted that, though maintaining slavery for the negro, the new Southern Republic offers to the rest of the world comparative freedom of industry and traffic. In this quarter there may be found a vast and profitable field for the employment of capital, offering inducements too important and solid to be lightly neglected.

FINANCIAL REFORMS IN TURKEY.

A VERY important debate relative to the position of Turkey took place last week in both branches of our Legislature. It must be confessed, however, that the public are not very favourably impressed with the manner in which their representatives behave whenever a debate takes place in connection with two countries in the political and financial position of which England has a very great interest—we mean Turkey and India. Whenever a topic occurs relating to either country the House of Commons becomes empty. For example, on the occasion of the Turkish debate on Friday, the 10th inst., the Times reports the following little incident:—"At this time there were twenty-two or twenty-three members present, and, the fact having been notified to the Speaker, the sand-glass was turned preparatory to the House being counted. Immediately some thirty members came in, and, as soon as the Speaker had pronounced that there were forty present the majority of them retired." This is the way in which business is attended to in the House of Commons when very material interests are under discussion. Out of 658 members only 22 or 23 are to be found present; although, if any personal or party matter is to come forward, members will flock to the House by hundreds. Yet Turkey has just cost us £80,000,000 of hard cash in war expenditure, to say nothing of £15,000,000 additional in the shape of loans; a vast amount of commercial capital is at present in jeopardy; and on the well-being of Turkey depends the welfare of many important interests in this country.

During the debate referred to, one or two important facts transpired which tend to elucidate the present and future financial position of Turkey. Lord Stratford de Redcliffe, who, from his position, knows more of Turkey than any other living statesman, went so far as to bring forward, among others, the following resolution:—"That this House considers the late calamitous events in Syria as not to be attributed to causes exclusively local, but also and chiefly to the general state of the Turkish empire, more especially in point of revenue and administration." Lord Stratford de Redcliffe declared that this country is bound, if Turkey will but vigorously reform herself, to afford her both moral and pecuniary assistance. But the fact is, that Turkey, as was admitted by all parties, is not wanting either in good intentions or in good laws, but the difficulty is to find persons to carry those good laws into effect. Lord Wodehouse, the Under Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, confirmed the news that the British Government has taken one of the most effectual means of assisting Turkey by sending out two competent persons to advise the Porte as to fiscal affairs. The resources of Turkey are acknowledged to be ample, but their administration is so faulty and so corrupt that, from pure maladministration, the stability and financial integrity of the empire are endangered. Take as a sample the glaring abuse mentioned by Lord Redcliffe—namely, that the Turkish army counts 150,000 men on paper, but in reality does not amount to more than 50,000 or 60,000, although the Turkish Government pays for 150,000. And such is the system of corruption throughout. Another great financial evil consists in the system of farming the revenue and consuming it by anticipation. Singularly enough, this practice has proved ruinous not only to the Turkish Government but likewise to those who have embarked in it and in personal advances to the Sultan. At least this inference may be drawn from the present pecuniary embarrassments of the houses which have carried on the system of advances through means of borrowed capital.

We have no doubt the debates in the British Legislature will have due weight with the Turkish Government. It is plain that if the Porte wishes to preserve its territory from chronic occupation by foreign troops, it must adopt administrative reforms, and arrest that administrative corruption which has brought it to its present state of financial embarrassment. The following quotation from Lord Wodehouse's speech will give a clue to what is now going on in Turkey. His lordship said:—

He feared they were rather prone sometimes to exaggerate the danger of that empire; and the reports from the consuls, which were exceedingly interesting, exhibited a picture of the Turkish empire somewhat different from that which was usually drawn. Nearly all the consuls agreed that some improvements had taken place, and they pointed out that it was not so much the laws which were defective as the power of administering them. One of those gentlemen used a phrase which was very apt, and, at the same time, truly described the condition of the country, when he said it was easier to frame laws in Turkey than to find persons to carry them into operation. (Hear, hear.) In point of fact the Turkish empire was in many respects in the possession of good laws; it enjoyed a measure of toleration larger than existed in some civilised States, while liberty of trade, as far as laws were concerned, was not greatly hampered or restricted. But there was so much corruption among the higher officials, and such a want of knowledge in the administration of these laws, that they were never fully and efficiently carried out. His noble friend, who was desirous at all times to urge on the Porte the adoption of reforms, was anxious to find a remedy for these evils, but, for his own part, he thought the British Government could scarcely adopt any other course than they had hitherto pursued—namely, to advise the Porte to adopt wise and sensible measures, and to give her such support as was essential when she was in difficulties. (Hear, hear.) One of the most important points in which reform could be introduced in Turkey was with regard to finance, and her Majesty's Government, feeling how vital this question was to the existence of the empire, had recently sent out two gentlemen to advise the Porte with respect to fiscal affairs. If the Porte would listen to the advice of those gentlemen, and would really carry out some systematic reform of the ordinary administration of the State, as regarded the expenditure of the different departments and the accounts which those departments had to render, much greater benefits would be secured to the country than by taking up more sounding names. (Hear, hear.)

In spite of all the despondency which has been expressed, and which is strongly reflected in the prices of her securities, we cannot help entertaining hopes of Turkey. She is honest and well-intentioned, wishes to reform, and has immense undeveloped resources. Surely, possessing these important requisites, it would be premature to despair of her future. Although Turkish investments have hitherto been attended with nothing but loss, not a single holder of her bonds has been kept waiting for his dividend one day. In the despatch of a financial commission to Turkey by our Government; in the recent decree, remodelling the Turkish Tariff; and in the prompt assent of the Porte to the proposed transmission of the Customs' revenues of Constantinople month by month to the hands of the bondholders' agents, it is impossible not to recognise hopeful indications. Turkey may still have a long and trying financial ordeal to pass through, but we believe she has honesty of intention at the bottom of all, and the same cannot be said of some highly professing Christian Governments.

A PLAN FOR PROVIDING CAPITAL, PARTLY ON THE SPOT, FOR REPRODUCTIVE PUBLIC WORKS IN INDIA.—THE PROBABLE PROFITS OF WORKS OF IRRIGATION.

WE beg to invite the attention of the Indian Government, and of all interested in Indian progress, to a plan (which has been tested and checked by thoroughly practical men of business) for providing capital for those reproductive works which are necessary for the development of the resources of India. Sir Charles Wood has, in a despatch dated the 30th November, 1860, and addressed to the Governor-General of India, not only admitted that her Majesty's Government recognise the importance of proceeding as rapidly as the exigencies of the State will admit with works of public improvement of a remunerative character, but in the same despatch has positively desired "that no steps may be taken for opening a loan in India, either for public works or on any other account, without the previous sanction of the Home Government." Moreover, in reply to a question put in the House of Commons, Sir Charles Wood has declared that "there is not the least intention of allowing the railway works, now in progress in India, to be stopped." It is evident, therefore, that Sir Charles must calculate on raising funds in this country either directly by Government or through Companies. After this assurance we may calculate with some confidence upon having the great railway lines completed without much delay. When they are completed India will possess several grand trunk routes of communication from the interior of the country to the seaboard.

What is more particularly wanted, in the next place, for furthering the development of the internal resources of India, appears to be a ramification of branch lines, and of works of irrigation, combined with canals. These latter works are, perhaps, the most important to which the attention of Government and the public can at the present moment be directed.

Canals can be constructed at about one-third of the cost of railways; and it is reported, on competent authority, that the most complete works, for the purpose of irrigation, can be constructed, on a large scale, at a cost equal to less than £1 per acre of the land irrigated.

In this view of the case canals might be constructed which would serve the double purpose of being parts of a general plan of irrigation, and of being also a medium for the transport of the produce of the soil from those districts, over the surface of which they would distribute the water requisite to make it fertile.

If such works of irrigation were in existence in the North-Western Provinces of India, its inhabitants would have been saved from that dire calamity—the famine which now prevails; and if such works had been constructed in the cotton-growing districts of India, Manchester might look with the less alarm upon the political convulsion now witnessed in the United States.

In the introduction of the railway system the East India Company took an active and commendable part; although, had they come forward sooner with a guarantee, they might have obtained twice the amount of capital, and the present lines at least would have been long since completed. Be this as it may, the same course must be pursued with regard to those further works of internal improvement which are absolutely required. What is wanted is not simply to attract European capital as well as enterprise to India, but to draw forth the latent energies and wealth of the country itself. The European must, in the first instance, be the pioneer; but if the objects in view are to be accomplished on the scale which India requires, India as well as England must provide the capital.

These views will hardly be disputed. It is also admitted that works of internal improvement will pay not only an adequate, but in some cases a very large return upon the outlay. Unless they will pay such a return, neither the Government nor the public can be expected to provide funds for their construction. As regards works of irrigation in particular, it is universally recognised that they will not only contribute largely to the prosperity of the districts where they exist, but that they are in themselves highly remunerative.

Let it be assumed, for the moment, that the Indian Government has matured some general plan for works of irrigation, embracing canals of sufficient dimensions to serve as a medium for the conveyance of produce; and that it is prepared to call in the aid of the public for their construction in all places where it can be shown that these works will produce a nett income upon the outlay of at least  $7\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. per annum. It is suggested that concessions might be granted to public companies on the following basis and principles:—

1. That the concession should be, for say fifty years from the date of completion—the term for completion being duly estimated and fixed—after which period the works should become the property of the Government.

2. That the rates chargeable by the Company, and subsequently by the Government, should in the outset be fixed, subject to periodical revision; and that whenever the nett annual profits of the undertaking exceed, say 15 per cent., upon its cost, the price charged for irrigation is to be lowered to the landholder.

3. That with the view of providing a portion of the capital in India for the outlay on these works, the Indian Government should, from time to time, sell to the cultivators, to the Company, or to others, all its rights in the soil to be benefited by the works, at say twenty-five years' purchase of the present rental of cultivated lands; and, at some fair valuation, its interest and rights in lands not at present under cultivation.

4. That the Indian Government should lend to the Company the amounts so to be received, to be appropriated towards defraying the cost of the works of the undertaking, in the proportion of, say not exceeding four-fifths of their cost; the remaining one-fifth to be provided independently by the Company from its own resources. The principle here indicated is similar to that adopted by the French Government in the construction of its railways, that Government finding, in many cases, the capital for the land, earthworks, cuttings, &c., and the Company the funds for the superstructure, and rolling stock, &c. The one capital represents the heavy expenditure, and the other that which may be termed the more perishable, including in it also, interest at say 5 per cent. upon the expenditure during construction.

5. That (due provision being made for the maintenance of the works) after payment of working expenses and current disbursements, the nett receipts shall be appropriated as follows, viz.:—

1. Interest at the rate of 5 per cent. upon the capital found by the Company.
2. A sinking fund, at the rate of  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. per annum on the whole cost of the undertaking, for the purpose of reducing it at the termination of the concession.
3. Interest at the rate of 5 per cent. upon the capital found by the Government, and lent to the Company.
4. The surplus profits to be appropriated to the Company.
6. The organisation of the Company to be as is usual under such circumstances, provision being made for control by the Government during construction, and, after completion of the works, for an audit and inspection on the part of Government.
7. Suppose a Company to be organised, under such a concession, and upon such basis and principles as are above described, for the purpose of constructing works of irrigation, estimated to cost, say £1,000,000, upon which a nett income of at least  $7\frac{1}{2}$  per cent will be derivable. Then the

Amount to be provided by the Company would be .....	£200,000
And to be provided by the Indian Government .....	800,000
	£1,000,000

In order to find the above capital on the part of Government, let it be supposed that its rights in land, bringing in a rental of, say 5s. per acre, are disposed of at twenty-five years' purchase. Thus—

128,000 acres + 5s. per acre, at 25 years..... £800,000

The result of the proceedings to the Government and to the Company, would be as follows:—

TO THE GOVERNMENT.
Present income from 128,000 acres, at 5s. ....	£32,000
Less say cost of collection, at 10 per cent. ....	3,200
Present net income, say .....	£28,800

If capitalised and invested as above described, the income would be on £800,000, at 5 per cent., £40,000, or a gain of £11,200 per annum, or nearly 30 per cent. Moreover, at the end of the concession of fifty years, the whole capital would be restored, and the net receipts of the undertaking, assumed to be  $7\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. upon £1,000,000, or £72,500 per annum, would be appropriated by the Government:—

TO THE COMPANY.
Net proceeds at $7\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. upon .....	£1,000,000 .. £75,000
Less Sinking Fund of $\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. ....	5,000
Less interest at 5 per cent. to Government upon £800,000 .....	40,000 ..
	45,000
Leaves .....	£30,000

Or upon a capital of £200,000 equal to a dividend of 15 per cent.; and at the end of the concession of fifty years, the capital would be restored also.

If the undertaking were to pay 15 per cent., the dividend to the company would be £105,000, or at the rate of no less than  $52\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. per annum upon the Company's own capital, and the capital would be restored at the end of fifty years also,

We think our readers will find these particulars worthy of attentive examination and study. They may be open to modification in various details, but the plan, as a whole, coincides with the principle which the authorities in India appear to stickle for greatly—namely, the resumption of the works by the Government after a given period, and the power of Government to control the works, and to fix the rates at which the water is to be supplied. By the method suggested, native as well as foreign capital would be encouraged to be invested in land, while the Government would be provided with the capital arising from the sale of land to invest in productive works, which would bring them in a larger revenue than the land they sell. All parties would thus be benefited, and the material prosperity of India would be immensely advanced, without that drain on British capital which is now going on, and which threatens to become inconvenient. At least a portion of the capital required must be sought on the spot, and the sale of land will bring it forth, whilst the profits of works of irrigation will probably be on a scale which will prove an ample attraction to shareholders.

THE ASSAM TEA COMPANY.—THE BENEFICIAL RESULT OF ENCOURAGING PRIVATE ENTERPRISE IN INDIA.

THE rise and progress of the Assam Tea Company illustrate in a remarkable manner the benefits that would accrue to India if the Indian Government would encourage rather than impede investments in land. Tea has become to us as much a necessary as cotton. It is a proverb in China, that without tea the outer barbarians would die. Years ago, when the fear arose that through some squabble with China our supply of tea would be cut off, it was happily discovered by the East India Company that some portions of India were quite as capable of producing good tea as China if they were but cultivated. This discovery led the East India Company to establish a Tea Garden in Assam. Their efforts ended as is usual in such cases. In the year 1840 they made over their Tea Gardens to the Assam Company, and the result has been that, whereas in 1841, the first year after the Assam Company took possession, they sent 80,000 lbs. of tea to London, in the year 1860 their crop yielded no less than 880,000 lbs.; and the crop of 1861 is estimated to produce but little under 1,000,000 lbs.

Instead, therefore, of tea-growing in Assam resulting in a miserable failure, as it did under the paternal management of the East India Company, it has now become a great success under the judicious management of a private company. The success will be still greater should the Company succeed in purchasing the fee-simple of the land which they clear and cultivate. It is greatly to be hoped that the Indian Government will, by the liberal terms on which they sell land to the Assam Company, prove that they are really desirous of encouraging the investment of capital in land in fee-simple, with a view to form a sinking fund for the extinction of the debt of India.

The lesson to be derived from the progress of the Assam Company is a very important one. All the efforts of the East India Company resulted in an abortion which would have withered and died had not the fortunate idea occurred of putting it out to be fostered by proper care, and by judicious rearing; the result is a degree of vigour in the enterprise which produces the successful nurses 12 per cent., besides enabling them to devote a portion of their earnings to bring into cultivation more land which would otherwise have lain waste. With an outlay of £193,337. 10s., and by devoting a portion of the current income to clearing more land, the present value of the Assam Company's plantations, and other property in India and England, is estimated at £485,243. 18s. 4d.

It may be said by the Indian officials why should we sell land which is capable of producing such results? The answer is—"In order to make it produce them. Sell your land, extinguish or reduce your debt; and let the power of India to bear taxation be vastly increased, in proportion to the growth of enterprise and of wealth. Encourage private enterprise by your liberality, so that millions of additional acres may be brought into cultivation, and do not present to the world the dog-in-the-manger policy of keeping millions of acres of productive land lying waste, or so overtaxed that it cannot be profitably cultivated while you have millions of people starving."

The success of the Assam Tea Company is quite sufficient to prove to the Indian Council what might be done for India by an administration of progress. But the impulse must come from this country. It is vain to imagine that the officials in India will take the initiative. How can they be expected to initiate anything which will give them trouble, with the thermometer at 98 in the shade—if there is such a thing as shade in India? No! the impetus must be given from this side. The grand object of the officials in India has been to maintain everything in statu quo, and to get as much revenue as possible out of the existing arrangements. Old times, however, have passed away, and a new era is dawning. With electric telegraphs and railways, new ideas of progress will arise. To be whisked through the country at the rate of twenty-five miles an hour is something very different from what an Indian official or a native has been used to. India, we expect and hope, will make more progress in the next 20 years than in the last 500. We expect to see a huge crash of old dogmas and difficulties. We feel assured that India is capable of growing as much cotton and tea as would make us independent of both China and America, if the Government will be wise enough to afford an enlightened encouragement. And one of the first steps in the path of progress will be for them to permit land to be purchased in fee simple. It is capital that is wanted, and this is the best way to attract it, not from the home market, which is already sufficiently pressed upon, but from the hoards of the natives themselves. They will buy land eagerly, if the opportunity be given them of obtaining it for their own, whilst the most florid assurances from the financial department will fail to induce them to touch Government securities.

THE OTTOMAN (SMYRNA AND AIDIN) RAILWAY.—THE INFLUENCE OF RAILWAY ENTERPRISE UPON THE DEVELOPMENT OF TURKEY.

IN our last impression we gave a variety of very interesting details, principally collated from a valuable article in the Levant (Constantinople) Quarterly Review by Mr. Hyde Clarke, respecting the condition and vast undeveloped resources of those fine districts of Asia Minor which are about to be traversed by the Smyrna and Aidin Railway. We cannot do better than make a further draught upon the same store of information, which will be acceptable not only to the shareholders in this undertaking and in the Ottoman Bank, but to all who are interested in the progress of Turkey.

The more the position and natural advantages of Smyrna are examined, the more plain does it appear that that city will, year by year, assume a higher rank amongst the emporia of Eastern commerce. Its progress of late years has been surprising. Already Smyrna is so thickly covered with houses, that most of the fine old gardens have been built over, and land is of the highest value, so that it is now only in the neighbouring villages that the taste for gardens can be indulged in, and there many beautiful seats are to be formed, with the comforts of northern Europe, and the luxurious fruits and vegetation of the south. The beautifully-planted hills, with their park-like rides, drives, and walks, have, however, great attractions. The mountain districts, instead of being regarded as barren or destitute of resources, will afford a great extent of products to the railway, exclusive of their raw minerals. These ranges afford fine quarries of marble, building stone, and limestone, all of which are in demand in the cities. In these there is a growing disposition to substitute stone buildings for those of wood and sun-burnt bricks or dried mud. Thus the great part of the Frank city of Smyrna has, after the successive fires which removed the wooden buildings, been restored in stone, and this process is going on actively. At Aidin, after the devastation of the bazaar by fire, stone was employed for the new buildings erected in 1859 and 1860. In the course of the next ten years, an enormous supply of timber, joinery, stone, marble, paving, brick, tiles, piping, pottery, gypsum, lime, sand, terrace stuff, Santorin earth, nails, zinc, lead, iron shutters, iron doors, ironmongery, guttering, stoves, and workmen's tools will be required for the additional buildings and renewals in Smyrna, Aidin, Tireh, Baidir, Odemish, Scalanova, Boojah, Burgeh, Bessame, Seidekeui, and for the new stations, villages, mills, factories, residences, and farms which will spring up with the development of the Railway. This is a class of traffic not enumerated in previous estimates, but surely to be calculated upon. Already limeworks, brick and tile fields, quarries, sand and gravel pits have been opened along the line.

The resources of the country, agricultural and mineral, are very great. From the hills much of the country is supplied with timber and fuel, and charcoal is burnt on all the mountains. Valonea, gallnuts, gums, scammony, bark, honey and wax, are other forest products. All of these will be much more developed, and other branches of traffic be opened, when the great markets can be readily reached. Among the additional products there available, will be milk, cream, fresh butter, meat, poultry, eggs, game, sawn timber, apples, pears, quinces, strawberries, dry and green fodder, vegetables, potatoes, chesnuts, nuts, various woods of better scantling, and cabinet woods.

Various details are afforded respecting the enlightened encouragement which has been given by the Company to enterprise. It naturally becomes the policy of the directors to encourage such enterprise by granting a favourable tariff. In the case of a contemplated brick and tile work the Company offered to place a siding on the works, so that the produce could there be loaded and supplies delivered, to carry all the coals at a low tariff for two years, and to allow yards for the sale of the manufactures to be established at the stations on the line. Encouragement in such form can be given by the Company very easily, and is a very valuable aid to new enterprises, as it diminishes the capital which would otherwise be required for their establishment and early working. This is only one of the many modes in which the railway company will be found a powerful agent for the improvement of the country. The mere capability of carrying heavy machinery for the establishment of factories in the interior, enables the railway to assist such undertakings, but in a country where capital is scarce, the railway company can and will do more than it would be called upon to do in Europe, for it is worth while to carry up at a low rate all machinery, which will be employed in reproduction, all fuel, and all raw materials at low cost. In some cases the Company can afford to grant free passes to engineers, mining surveyors, miners and mechanics engaged in new investigations or the formation of new works. It is in the beginning of such undertakings that capital is wanting, and encouragement is precious, while such assistance brings its own reward in the annuity or yearly income of revenue created for the Company. Mechanics, masons, carpenters and labourers are conveyed daily to and from Smyrna, sometimes a distance of twenty miles out.

The iron and steel manufactures are likely to become of great importance, as the metal is of the very best quality, and Mr. Crampton has given an opinion that it is worth while shipping it to England for use in the Sheffield steel works. The demand for iron in the country is considerable, as, besides other uses, it is found convenient in these hot countries to use iron doors and shutters where they can be afforded. When, however, good iron can be freely and cheaply conveyed and obtained, there can be but little doubt there will be a large consumption for agricultural purposes. The railway, which employs so many native navvies, has shown the value of good tools, and has taught the use of the shovel, pick, crow, and wheelbarrow, while stray and stolen tools have wandered into the interior, and have eagerly been purchased. It is, however, in the plains of Boojah, Seidekeui, Develekeui, the Cayster and the Meander, that improved agricultural machinery can be employed. On those fine levels, drills and sowing machines, ploughs, scarifiers, reaping machines, and threshing machines can be advantageously employed. Mr. C. S. Hanson has very successfully introduced the English plough on his farm near Constantinople, and Mr. Frederick Whittall has employed improved machinery on his property at Kizilja Avlee, near Tireh. At the present moment the province of Smyrna contains a large body of enterprising proprietors, who in individual instances have opened roads and carried out other improvements, and the moment the railway is in full work there are many whose co-operation may be relied upon. At the present moment the agricultural operations are in many places of the rudest character, and executed with wooden ploughs, and the like instruments, the grain being threshed out by oxen and horses, as it was twenty-five centuries ago. In these rude operations hand labour is wasted, and the stock of labour is of course found insufficient. For this state of affairs the railway will afford immediate alleviation, for improved machinery will be cheaply conveyed, and the people can afford to buy it, because their crops will be conveyed to market at a cheaper rate, while they will conduct their harvesting, and other operations, under the most economical conditions. It will probably become desirable for the railway company to convey the labourers at a very low rate, as in some parts of England, putting them in a stand-up waggon at a halfpenny per head per mile. This system of conveyance has worked well on the Egyptian railway, where thousands of labourers are so conveyed. It is by such sober means, observes Mr. Clarke, that the progress of the country will be worked out. The proprietors referred to have been chiefly induced to purchase their estates since the railway was projected, and their early operations are an indication of the general disposition to profit by the opportunities offered.

With regard to the interesting subject of cotton growing in Anatolia, we find some valuable matter. Smyrna was, it is well known, in the last century what New Orleans is in the present, the great seat of the cotton trade. Smyrna cotton has always held a good position in the market for quality. Formerly Smyrna drew cotton from far in the interior, but now she cannot do so, because the price of cotton is not so high as in the last century, while the cost of carriage is higher. Mr. Sandford proposes to favour the growth of cotton by exempting it from tithe and export duties, which are nominally 22 per cent., and in reality, from the mode of levy, much more. He proposes, as a compensation, to increase the import duties on cotton goods from 5 per cent., the present rate, to 10 per cent., and this proposition has been very favourably received. The Smyrna and Aidin Railway will, however, considerably promote cotton cultivation, and the more so if it is carried further into the country. In the first place, it will reduce the price of transport, and enable cotton to be drawn from districts now remote. In the next place, it will enable the merchants and agents of Smyrna to penetrate more readily into the interior, and thereby to deal better with the article.

It is one of the greatest advantages that the only competition with which the Ottoman Railway will have to contend will be that of camel or pack carriage. It would be absurd to suppose for a moment, therefore, that there can be any competition whatever. By camel carriage many articles are seriously damaged, and the bags are taken off every night, and in some cases get wetted; some bags of produce are damaged for some inches inside; bags are broken by camels or mules, and, in some instances, loss of produce is sustained. In coasting voyages the damage is considerable.

Loss of time, which is loss of interest of money, is another element to be considered. By the railway certain conveyance is insured within fixed time; by the camels weeks may be lost, as there are certain seasons at which they do not travel, and even when on the journey rains may come on, so that the rivers cannot be used as roads, nor can they be forded, and in the few places where bridges exist they are too dangerous to be used during the rains. It is to be observed, likewise, that the pack camels must be sent out to grass, as well as the horses. The railway works throughout the year, and works, too, at night.

An idea of the disadvantages under which trade in these regions now labours, and which will be entirely obviated by the establishment of the railway, may be gathered from the computation that on produce worth £1,000 coming from Naslu or Aidin a merchant may gain as follows, on its conveyance by railway:—In freight, £100 to £500; in damage, £50; in interest, £1. 10s. to £15. None but the merchant who has had experience can tell the value of the railway and telegraph working together, and the Smyrna merchant will appreciate their superiority over the existing system.

The Meander district from the moment it is reached will afford a large traffic like the Cayster district, while it is so favourable for the construction of a railway that shortly after the opening of Aidin an extension to Naslu and afterwards to Kuyudjo and so up the valley, will take place. The Meander traffic is of a double class, local and through. The local traffic can furnish wheat, dari, barley, haricot beans, flour, sesame, grapes, raisins, pekmez, wine, spirits, figs, walnuts, nuts, oranges, lemons, citrons, apples, pears, sweetmeats, timber, bark, gallnuts, gums, valonea, madder, liquorice, melons, vegetables, olives, oil, cotton, hemp, opium, rags, cattle, meat, poultry, tallow, cheese, hides, skins, furs, wool, hair, bones, horns, hoofs, wax, honey, silk-worm products, stone, coal, ironstone, &c. The whole valley, like that of the Cayster, is a garden of cultivation, inhabited by an industrious Turkish population, the lanes running between hedges and hedge-rows, the gardens, olive and melon grounds, fig orchards, vineyards and fields, being fenced in.

Surely, after so bounteous an enumeration, we shall hear nothing more about the traffic of these neglected districts not being sufficient to maintain a railway.

We remark, as an interesting fact, that the number of English mechanics regularly employed on the Smyrna and Aidin works at present is very small, being one carpenter and three smiths, with the chief men in the locomotive department. The body of the workmen are now natives, as they will all be in time. There are a few foreigners, immigrants or wanderers, who work on the same terms as the natives. Where English and other foreigners at present find employment, is in the superior appointments on the engineer's and contractor's staff, and as sub-contractors, and as foremen or conductors of new departments. The result of the organisation is, that now in that district any class of public work can be carried on. Thus the staff has been obtained for pushing on the great system of public works which Turkey demands, and of which a very few years will see the accomplishment. The railway company is now engaged in teaching a new lesson to the country, and that is, how to manage railway traffic. For a time, and to a certain extent, Englishmen must be employed; but, before long, there will be a body of native station-masters, booking-clerks, engine-drivers, stokers, pointsmen, porters, and carriage-cleaners, who will train up new hands, and work branch after branch, and extension after extension.

In quitting the subject of Mr. Clarke's pamphlet, we cannot help echoing the wish that (to use his own eloquent words), in "opening the gates of commerce for the wealth of Anatolia to flow more prosperously through the port of Smyrna," the Ottoman Railway Company may reap a reward for its enterprise rich enough to prove to the world how vast are the riches to be extracted from the neglected soil of the Turkish empire.

We will not conclude, however, without reciting the latest official accounts of the progress of the works, as described in a report issued only a few days ago by the directors:—The line is now actually open for twenty-seven miles from Smyrna, and trains are running regularly. It is intended to open an additional four miles the first week in May, and eight miles more in July (which will intercept the whole traffic of Aidin and of the Meander Valley), and up to Ephesus (50 miles) in January next. The traffic in and out of Smyrna has been ascertained to be no less than 869,380 tons yearly, and involves a present cost, by the employment of camels for transport of the portion between Smyrna and Aidin alone, of £400,000. The original estimates showed a net profit of 12 per cent. upon the ascertained traffic in produce and merchandise only, and without including passengers, or calculating on a further development of traffic. These estimates, it is mentioned, have since been confirmed by the highest mercantile authorities on the spot since the line was opened. The working of the short section to Trianda (27 miles) was an experiment made by the directors to ascertain what local traffic existed, and the result has been most surprising in the passenger traffic.

"There is one especial advantage," observes the Directors, "attaching to the Ottoman Railway, which is possessed by scarcely any other foreign line at the outset, namely—the formation of roads—usually necessary to open up the internal communication—is not required in this case. The traffic is exclusively carried on by camels, and tracks for them exist throughout the country for hundreds of miles. By the opening of this railway it is estimated that upwards of 20,000 camels employed in the through-journey from Aidin to Smyrna will be disposable as feeders for conveying the produce from outlying districts to the railway for transport to Smyrna. The actual estimates upon which the enterprise was based in the original prospectus were for a through-goods-traffic, and it was not contemplated that this could be brought on to the line until the completion of the first forty miles, but it is now fully expected that a very considerable portion of the produce, if not the whole, of the Tireh and Baidir districts, may be secured at the thirty miles point, which will be opened in a few days, and at which time proper sheds and conveniences for the camels and camel-drivers will be provided for transferring the produce to the railway. All reports received from Smyrna demonstrate the great capabilities of the country for producing wheat and cotton, and the line now in course of construction cannot fail to stimulate their production."

THE STATE OF TRADE.

(COMPILED FROM NUMEROUS LOCAL REPORTS.)

TRADE in the manufacturing districts does not appear to be worse this week, but neither is it better. The confidence inspired by the marked improvement in the weather is counteracted by the anxiety which prevails with regard to affairs in America. Caution is the prominent characteristic of trade at present.

At Manchester the cloth-market has become quieter, and the value of all descriptions is now somewhat lower. There is only a very trifling business going on for any quarter. There is more inquiry for 40-inch shirtings suited to China, but it leads to very little business, and the prices are those of last week. In some quarters the commercial advices from both India and China are looked upon as most unfavourable, those from the latter country especially, where the sales reported are both small and unremunerative. In the yarn-market there seems to have been more disposition to purchase for China at last week's prices. There is no great activity in any direction, yet the market for yarns generally shows more steadiness.

At Leeds the woollen cloth trade continues to wear a quiet aspect. The markets in the cloth-halls have been attended by but a small number of buyers, and they purchased very sparingly, so that the whole transactions in the halls fell below an average. The clothiers in the outlying towns and villages complain of slackness of work, and of orders for the future being small.

At Rochdale there is no improvement in the flannel trade. There has been a fair attendance of buyers, but they operated with great caution, the purchases being a good deal confined to lots for which manufacturers have made some concession in price. The manufacturers continue in nearly full work.

The report from Bradford, dated Thursday, states that the spinners are still doing a very limited amount of business, and curtailing production to the utmost of their power. The home consumption is exceedingly scanty. The market for goods is equally quiet. Plain goods are not in demand, by either the home or the continental merchants. The dullness in the American trade, however, has been greatly relieved by a brisk demand for buntings and blankets for the army of the Northern States, the buntings being required to tear up for stars and stripes.

RAILWAYS.

A special meeting of the London and South-Western Railway Company is called for the 30th inst., to consider the expediency of amalgamating with or purchasing the Wimbledon to Epsom line of the Wimbledon and Dorking Company, and also the undertaking of the Chard Railway Company.

The Stock Exchange Committee have just agreed to allow the ordinary and preference shares of the Shrewsbury and Welshpool Railway to be marked on the official list. This line is worked by the London and North-Western Company, under an agreement approved by the Board of Trade, by which the latter company provide, by a percentage of traffic and a rebate on through traffic, to pay  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. on all the share capital. The improving traffic on the recently opened Welsh lines must be very satisfactory to the shareholders. The Llanidloes and Newtown line, at present quite isolated, has paid a dividend of 5 per cent., and is earning more. The Newtown and Oswestry is earning £21 per mile per week, which will pay 5 per cent.; and the Minsterley branch (nine miles) of the Shrewsbury and Welshpool Railway is already earning more than 5 per cent. upon its cost.

A special meeting of the London and South-Western Railway Company is called for the 30th inst., to consider six Bills now pending in Parliament affecting this company's interest, but promoted by other companies or parties.

A call of £5 is to be paid on the preference shares in the Salisbury and Yeovil Railway Company by the 1st of June.

A call of £1 is to be paid on the new shares (1860) in the London and Blackwall Railway Company by the 15th of June.

THE GREAT SHIP COMPANY.

A preliminary meeting of the shareholders in the Great Ship Company was held yesterday. The chairman, Mr. W. Baker, announced that as the attempts of the board to raise money, after the recent legal decision, have been unavailing, they were obliged to appeal to Mr. John Scott Russell to allow the ship to go to sea. The directors eventually raised £8,000 amongst themselves for immediate payment to that gentleman, leaving the remainder of his claim, £11,300, to be provided for by a second mortgage on the ship. It was proposed to meet the present difficulty by raising £35,000, at a rate of interest sufficient to ensure the money. £26,000 of this has already been promised. The chairman added that there is now a chance of the vessel being disposed of, if not to our own Government, to a foreign one.

Total Reserve (Notes and Coin) in Banking Department .. .. .	6,814,656	..	Decrease	359,278

The decrease in the bullion and reserve prompted the rise in the rate of discount to 6 per cent. The changes presented are of an unfavourable character at every point. The demand for money has raised the amount of private securities and drawn down the private deposits.

THE MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 17.

THE Money Market is once more disturbed. The directors of the Bank of England, at their weekly court on Thursday, raised their minimum rate of discount from 5 to 6 per cent. Their deliberations were very short. The reverse movement—namely, a reduction from 6 to 5—took place on the 11th April.

The present measure had been very generally anticipated, since the setting in of the renewed drain of gold to America. It will not arrest the demand for specie for that quarter; but it is calculated to give a further favourable turn to the continental exchanges, and to throw fresh impediments in the way of mercantile remittances of silver to the East. There is thus every prospect that such gold as comes in from Australia and other quarters will be retained here, thereby forming at least a partial set-off against the American requirements. Upon the extent of the latter will depend the answer to the question as to whether the rise in the value of money will proceed further.

In Lombard-street to-day the market was unsettled. There was no disposition to do business unless at a rather decided advance over the Bank minimum:  $6\frac{1}{2}$  to  $6\frac{3}{4}$  per cent. was freely asked on good bills. In the fear of a fresh rise at the Bank, business is turned away to that establishment by other money-dealers; the demand at the Bank to-day was therefore heavy. Monday's packet from America is looked for with much anxiety.

In the Stock Exchange to-day money was in very active demand, and the rate rose to 5 per cent. and upwards on Government Securities.

In consequence of the movement at the Bank of England the Joint-Stock Banks have raised their rates for deposits from 4 to  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent.

The London and Westminster Bank, as usual, give 1 per cent. less for sums below £500. The discount establishments have also announced that their terms will henceforward be  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. (instead of 4) for money "at call," and 5 (instead of  $4\frac{1}{4}$ ) at seven days' notice.

About £5,000 was bought by the Bank yesterday, while 30,000 sovereigns were withdrawn for America. To-day £40,000 was bought by the Bank; and no sovereigns were withdrawn from the Head Office for exportation. Shippers from Liverpool will have recourse to the branch there. There is still no inquiry for gold for the Continent, and the £104,000 by the Kent is expected to be taken to the Bank after being refined. With the present favourable wind some of the overdue Australian gold (about £300,000) may be looked for.

The latest despatches from New York bring the exchange at the lowest point touched since the present fall set in—namely, 104.

The exact amount of specie shipped for New York by the Persia on Saturday last was £236,000.

The total amount of specie shipped for New York by the steamer Etna on Wednesday was no less than £298,746. The America tomorrow (Saturday) will take a considerable sum.

The Ceylon will take on the 20th inst. £247,081 in specie, the whole of which is silver except £9,987 in gold. Of the amount for Calcutta, £100,289 is on Government account. Subjoined are the particulars, namely—For Calcutta, £179,728; Madras, £3,987; Shanghai, £34,147; Hong Kong, £17,619; Foo-chow-Foo, £5,600; Alexandria, £4,000; and for Ceylon, £2,000. £500 will also be sent to Sydney.

THE BULLION MARKET.

With reference to the movements in bullion and in the Indian Government paper, Messrs. Pixley, Abell, and Langley report as follows:—

GOLD.—The Kent has brought £104,000 from Melbourne, and this amount, together with the £86,000 per Southampton, has been taken partly for refining and partly for America, to which quarter shipments of gold to a large extent have been resumed—the Persia having taken £236,000, the New York £13,500, and the Etna £298,746. The steamer leaving on the 18th will also take a considerable amount. Some small parcels of gold have been sold to the Bank during the week, making in all about £30,000. The Ellora has taken £47,500 to Alexandria and Bombay; the La Plata has brought £16,000 from the West Indies; and the Armenian £6,000 from Africa.

SILVER.—The silver ex Seine has been sold at 60½d. per oz. standard, being a considerable reduction from the rate previously obtained; the slight demand for India and the large amount for sale on the market, have contributed to this fall. The La Plata has brought £60,000 from the West Indies, and the Alhambra £3,818 from the Peninsula. We quote the price as 60½d. per oz. standard.

MEXICAN DOLLARS.—The dollars ex Seine have been sold at 4s. 11½d. per oz.; this is also a much lower rate than the last, but it was difficult to place the very large amount on hand, without making the price as above stated.

EXCHANGE ON INDIA for Banks' Drafts at 60 days' sight is with a lower tendency; we quote the rate on Bombay, 1s. 11½d. to 2s.; Calcutta, 1s. 11½d. to 2s. Bills with Documents, 1s. 11½d. to 2s.; Banks' 60 days' sight Drafts on Madras, 1s. 11½d. to 2s.

INDIA GOVERNMENT LOAN NOTES continue at the quotations of last week; Five per Cents. are 94, and Five-and-a-Half per Cents. 100.

The report of Messrs. Haggard and Co., dated this day, observes:—

Since our last circular our market has been very dull, and prices have again tended downwards. The principal feature of interest is the shipment of a further large quantity of sovereigns to America. The Imports include the Kent from Melbourne, with £104,000; the La Plata from the West Indies, with £60,000 silver and £16,000 gold; the Armenian from the West Coast of Africa, with £6,000 gold; about £50,000 gold from Constantinople; and some small amounts of silver and gold from the Peninsula. The Exports include the Ellora to Bombay, with £142,000—of which £94,544 gold, and the rest silver (Government remit £50,000 by this steamer); the Persia with £236,000, and the Etna with £298,000—both to New York; and a small amount of gold to the Continent. The demand for gold to the Continent has almost ceased, but large sums are still likely to be sent to New York—the principal part of the shipments consist of sovereigns—while the Bank receive the greater portion of the Australian and other gold. The amount purchased by the Bank since our last is £107,000. Bar Silver is very quiet, and in the absence of orders, the price has receded to 5s. 0½d., at which price the bars by the West India steamer have been sold. Mexican Dollars have fallen to 4s. 11½d., owing to the absence of demand for China; those by the Atrato were sold at this price, partly for the Continent.

THE EXCHANGES.

The Continental Exchanges this week have experienced an important rise, owing to the state of the money market. Gold will soon begin to flow to this country. The exception is in the Austrian exchanges, which have fallen considerably, owing to a partial revival of confidence at Vienna. To-day's rates are shown below:—

Amsterdam.....	3 M. D. 12 $\frac{1}{2}$	Madrid .....	3 M. D. 48 $\frac{1}{2}$

THE BANK OF FRANCE.

The monthly return of the Bank of France, as made up to Thursday, the 9th of May, shows the following results (the exchange taken at 25f. to the pound):—

Coin and bullion ... ..	Increase	£600,000
Bills discounted ... ..	Increase	1,780,000
Notes in circulation ... ..	Increase	580,000
Private deposits ... ..	Increase	70,000
Advances on public securities ... ..	Increase	400,000

The increase in the coin and bullion is a favourable feature. The large increase in the bills discounted suggests the idea of some revival of trade in France, but this is hardly confirmed by the tenor of the private accounts.

THE NEW ZEALAND LOAN.

Monday next is the last day for receiving tenders for the £150,000 of New Zealand Six per Cent. Bonds.

EXCHEQUER BILLS.

The official notice relative to the renewal of the June Exchequer Bills will be issued in a few days, and a hope is expressed that the Chancellor of the Exchequer will perceive the advisability of allowing a rate of interest more in accordance with that current in the market.

STOPPAGE OF A PRIVATE BANK.

Messrs. Yorke and Co., private bankers, of Peterborough and Oundle, have stopped payment. This is a small establishment, whose credit has not stood high. The amount of liabilities is not known, but is believed to be rather limited. The cause of the stoppage is stated to be the withdrawals of farmers' balances, in consequence of the straitened condition of the agricultural interest. Messrs. Yorke and Co. issue their own notes, the amount of which is limited by law to £12,545. The actual circulation has ranged latterly at about £10,000. This firm has no connexion with that of Messrs. Yorke and Eland, of Thrapston and Kettering.

MEXICAN BONDS.

The following memorandum has reached us this (Friday) afternoon from the Committee of Mexican Bondholders:—

The Committee of Mexican Bondholders have this afternoon received advices from Mr. Whitehead, dated Mexico, the 18th ult. On the 5th the Ministry was dissolved, including not only the Minister of Finance (Senor Prieto), but also his Under Secretary (Senor Iglisuis). Senor Mata, who had left the city on his way to England, has been named for this office, but it is not expected that he will accept it. In the meanwhile, this, of course, puts a stop to all progress in the matter Mr. Whitehead was treating about. The Congress ought to be installed on the 21st of April, but this will depend on circumstances. The agents in Tampico report, under date of April the 2nd, that in spite of Captain Oldham's Convention, they have no prospect of receiving a single dollar, unless one of our ships be sent to that port; and from none of the other ports of the Republic had Mr. Whitehead received advices of anything having as yet been received for the dividend fund. Mr. Whitehead had addressed Mr. Mathew on the subject, but his answer was very far from encouraging.

THE PERUVIAN GUANO CONTRACTS.

The Peruvian Government invites tenders for the contracts for the supply of guano to the United Kingdom, and the countries bordering upon the Baltic Sea, as well as to Australia, and each of the other British Colonies.

TELEGRAPHIC COMMUNICATION WITH INDIA.

As the telegraphic wires from Constantinople to Bagdad have at length been nearly completed, the Calcutta Chamber of Commerce have requested the Indian Government to take advantage of the first steamer leaving Bombay for the Persian Gulf to test the speed with which a message to England can be transmitted by that route.

THE MALTA AND ALEXANDRIA TELEGRAPH.

A telegram, dated Malta, the 15th inst., states that "the screw steamer Malacca has arrived here, all well, and proceeds to lay the first section of the Malta and Alexandria telegraph cable at once."

THE AUSTRALIAN MAIL SERVICE.

The letters by the Australian mail were delivered on Monday morning, being the very day on which the mail was due by the terms of the contract, although the distance is 12,000 miles, and there are repeated transshipments. This is another instance of the regularity with which the service is performed under the present arrangements of the Peninsular and Oriental Company. The Australian steamer arrived at Point de Galle three days before her time.

SETTLING DAYS.

The Stock Exchange Committee on Monday last appointed Monday, the 20th inst., a special settling day in the shares of the Portuguese Railways Royal Company, and the Great Kanawha Company (Limited.) In neither case are the shares to be quoted officially; and as regards the Portuguese undertaking, it is provided that without the order of the committee no shares are to be "bought in" against persons failing to deliver them.

THE INDIGO SALES.

The quarterly sales of East India indigo commenced on Tuesday, and terminated this day. An advance of 6d. per lb. over the prices paid in February was generally given.

INTEREST AND DIVIDENDS.

Messrs. Rothschild have advertised the dividends due the 1st proximo on the Brazilian Loans.

Messrs. J. H. Schroder and Co. announce the half-yearly interest on Cienfuegos and Villa Clara (Cuba) Railroad Seven per Cent. Bonds.

Messrs. Baring Brothers and Co. announce the dividend due the 1st June on the Chilean Four-and-a-Half per Cent. Loan.

RAILWAY TRAFFIC.

The Brighton Railway traffic return shows this week an increase of £384; the South-Eastern, a decrease of £820; the London and North-Western, an increase of £1,654—a result which has caused disappointment, inasmuch as an ordinary week this year is compared with Chester Race week of last year; the Great Western, an increase of £1,905; the Great Northern, a decrease of £2,054; the London and South-Western, an increase of £721; the Eastern Counties, an increase of £312; the Midland, a decrease of £2,388; the Lancashire and Yorkshire, an increase of £1,096; the Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire, an increase of £33; and the North-Eastern, a decrease of £868.

The traffic receipts of the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada for the week ending April 27 were £15,013 sterling, being £1,296 more than in the corresponding week of last year.

BANKS.

The progress of the winding-up of the Western Bank of London is shown in the annexed circular:—

Sir,—I am desired by the liquidators of the Western Bank of London to inform you that a further dividend of £3 per share will be payable on and after Monday, the 3rd day of June next. The liquidators had hoped, by postponing this dividend until the annual meeting in July next, to have been then able to divide a larger sum; but in this they have been disappointed. They fear that there can be no larger dividend than £3 per share declared for many months to come, and they therefore place this sum (representing £12,000), at the shareholder's disposal.

I am, sir, &c.,

FRED. MAYNARD, Public Accountant.

19, Bread-street, London, May.

THE CHINA AND JAPAN STEAM COMPANY.

Mr. Philip Shore Fletcher, of the firm of Alexander Fletcher and Co., has joined the Board of the China and Japan Steam Navigation Company. There have been a considerable number of transactions in the shares of this Company, which were quoted to-day  $\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{5}{8}$  premium. A large portion of the capital will be subscribed for privately.

ASSURANCE COMPANIES.

The Annual General Court of Proprietors of the Rock Life Office is called for the 30th inst.

Mr. Henry Croysdill has been appointed by the Master of the Rolls official manager of the Agriculturist Cattle Insurance Company.

An official manager of the Professional Life Assurance Company is to be appointed by the Master of the Rolls on the 21st inst. Creditors are required to prove their claims.

Vice-Chancellor Kindersley has appointed Mr. William Turquand official manager of the British Provident Life and Fire Assurance Society.

Mr. R. P. Harding (of the firm of Harding, Pulletin, and Co.) has been appointed interim manager of the Professional Life Assurance Company, in which matter a winding-up order has been made by the Master of the Rolls.

OTHER PUBLIC COMPANIES.

A special meeting of the Submarine Telegraph Company was held on Monday—Sir J. Carmichael in the chair—to elect three directors, and "to consider certain anonymous charges lately brought against the management." A shareholder having suggested that the latter question should have the priority, the point was at once conceded, the chairman stating that the directors courted the fullest investigation. A long and miscellaneous discussion ensued, in the course of which a motion was made for a committee of investigation. Upon this an amendment was proposed, postponing the discussion upon the question of the charges until after the 30th of June, which was at length carried by a show of hands. By this decision it is intended to postpone all action until the new French concession to the company for a line between Beachy-head and Dieppe shall have been completed.

The directors of the Oriental Inland Steam Company have made a fifth call of £2 on the A, B, and new issue shares, payable by the 15th July.

The extraordinary meeting of the Atlantic Royal Mail Steam Navigation Company, called for last Saturday, to confirm the resolutions passed at a previous meeting, was adjourned for a week, a sufficient number of shareholders not being present.

The Madras Government has decided that only such works of the Irrigation and Canal Company shall be proceeded with at present as are not likely to exceed the guaranteed capital of one million.

An extraordinary general meeting of the shareholders in the London Discount Company (Limited) is called for the 27th inst., to consider the resolution passed on the 20th November, reserving an amount equal to one year's salary to the company's officers.

The annual report of the directors of the Oriental Gas Company, to be submitted at the meeting on the 20th instant, recommends a dividend at the rate of  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. for the year, free of Income-tax.

The first ordinary general meeting of the Muswell Hill Land Company (Limited) is called for the 31st instant, and will be made special, to consider the propriety of exercising the company's option as to purchasing the Tottenham-wood estate, and to authorise the directors to borrow money.

The allotment of shares in the Brighton Hotel Company will take place on the 4th of June.

We are requested to state that the share list of the Canadian Land and Emigration Company (Limited) will be closed on Saturday next.

THE PARIS BOURSE.

At Paris to-day (Friday) the Three per Cent. Rentes opened at 69.45, and closed at 69.35 for money, and 69.45 for the account, being  $\frac{1}{8}$  per cent. lower than yesterday, and  $\frac{1}{8}$  per cent. lower than on last Friday.

THE STOCK AND SHARE MARKETS.

The English Funds have been naturally prejudiced to some extent by the rise in the value of money. The market, however, retained considerable steadiness until this day, when a bad effect was produced by a supply of stock being thrown on the market by the broker who acts for the Bank of England. Consols closed at  $91\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$  for money, and  $91\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{7}{8}$  for the 6th June, being  $\frac{1}{8}$  per cent. lower than yesterday, and  $\frac{1}{4}$  per cent. lower than on last Friday. A supply of stock from so important a source as the Bank of England always has considerable effect.

The Indian Five per Cent. Stock was quoted to-day at  $101\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{3}{8}$ , being lower; the Five per Cent. Rupee Paper,  $93\frac{1}{2}$  to  $94$ ; the Five-and-a-Half per Cent.,  $99\frac{3}{4}$  to  $100\frac{1}{2}$ ; India Bonds, 20s. to 16s. dis.; and Exchequer Bills, 7s. to 3s. dis.

The official list of to-day's actual business in the English Funds and Indian Government Securities, is annexed:—

Three per Cent. Consols, for money,  $91\frac{1}{2}$ ,  $\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; ditto for account, (June 6),  $92$ ,  $91\frac{3}{4}$ ; Three per Cents. Reduced,  $89\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; New Three per Cents.,  $89\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Thirty Years' Annuities, 1855,  $15\frac{1}{2}$ ; Bank Stock, 232; India Five per Cent. Stock,  $101\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{1}{4}$ ,  $\frac{3}{8}$ ; ditto for account,  $101\frac{1}{2}$ ; ditto Four per Cent. Debentures, 1858,  $96\frac{1}{2}$ ; ditto 1859,  $96$ ; Five per Cent. Enfaced Rupee Paper,  $94$ ; and Exchequer Bills, 6s. dis.

In Foreign Stocks the chief transactions have been in Turkish, which, after improving, have closed to-day the same as on last Friday, namely, at  $70\frac{1}{2}$  to  $71$  for the loan of 1854, and  $55\frac{1}{2}$  to  $56$  for that of 1858. Mexican Bonds have advanced  $\frac{1}{8}$  to  $\frac{1}{4}$  per cent. on the week, closing to-day at  $22\frac{3}{4}$  to  $23\frac{1}{8}$ . Other foreign stocks are generally quiet, at former prices.

Brazilian Old Five per Cents.,  $98\frac{1}{2}$ ; ditto Four-and-a-Half per Cents., 1860,  $88\frac{1}{2}$ ; Buenos Ayres Six per Cents.,  $90\frac{1}{2}$ ; ditto Deferred,  $28\frac{1}{2}$ ; Chilean Six per Cents.,  $100$ ,  $101\frac{1}{2}$ ; Dutch Four per Cent. Certificates,  $100$ ,  $99\frac{1}{2}$ ; Mexican Three per Cents.,  $22\frac{3}{4}$ ; ditto for account,  $23$ ; New Grenada Deferred,  $5\frac{1}{2}$ ; Portuguese Three per Cents., 1853,  $47\frac{3}{4}$ ; Russian Four-and-a-Half per Cents.,  $91\frac{3}{4}$ ; Spanish Three per Cents.,  $51\frac{3}{4}$ ; ditto for account,  $51$ ; ditto New Deferred Three per Cents., for account,  $42\frac{3}{4}$ ; ditto Passive,  $16\frac{1}{2}$ ; Turkish Six per Cents., 1854, for account,  $71\frac{1}{2}$ ; ditto Six per Cents., 1858,  $55\frac{3}{4}$ ; ditto, for account,  $55\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{1}{4}$ .

British Railway Stocks this week, though subjected to repeated fluctuations, have, on the whole, been steadier than last week. In most cases, however, the tendency of prices has been downwards. Midland and Lancashire and Yorkshire stocks have suffered chiefly, being pressed for sale by operators in the manufacturing districts, who are supposed to be best acquainted with the probable course of trade and of traffic. South-Eastern Stock is likewise heavy. At the settlement this week the supply of most kinds of stock was limited.

The following shows the closing prices of the principal British Railway Stocks this day, and the result of the week's variations. The share list in detail will be found in another column:—

Lombardo-Venetian Railway shares, after touching  $\frac{3}{8}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  premium this week, closed to-day at  $\frac{1}{8}$  dis. to par. Illinois Central shares left off to-day at  $38\frac{3}{4}$  to  $38\frac{1}{4}$  dis., and Erie at  $21\frac{1}{2}$  to  $22$ , being better than last week.

The closing quotations for shares in new undertakings to-day were as follows:—Ocean Marine Insurance,  $3\frac{3}{8}$  to  $\frac{7}{8}$  prem.; Thames and Mersey Marine, 15-16 to 11-16 prem.; Universal Marine Insurance,  $\frac{3}{8}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  prem., being lower; London and Provincial Marine,  $\frac{1}{2}$  dis. to par; and Natal Land,  $\frac{3}{8}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  prem.

AMERICAN SECURITIES.

The position of the market for American securities is noticed as follows by Messrs. D. Bell, Son, and Co.:—

There has been, during the last week, a brisk speculative business in American Securities, especially in Virginia Six per Cent. and Pennsylvania Five per Cent. Bonds, the former at prices varying from 47 to 49, the latter from 68 to 70. There has also been some activity in the market for Railroad Securities generally.

The report of Mr. E. F. Satterthwaite, dated Wednesday evening, is annexed:—

We have had during the past week an improving market in London for American securities; there are buyers of Federal and State stocks at present quotations, whilst holders are indisposed to sell. For Railroad Bonds there has been an active demand, and the market is cleared of all offering at late rates. In Railroad Shares we have to note a good inquiry for Erie, the price of which has advanced 2 per cent. since our last. In Illinois shares a large business has been done from  $38\frac{3}{4}$  to  $37\frac{1}{2}$  discount, but the tendency to improvement in them has been checked by importations from New York, and they close, not strong, at  $38\frac{1}{2}$  discount sellers.

From New York it is announced that an assessment of  $2\frac{1}{2}$  dols. per share has been made on New York and Erie Railway shares. These shares, although fully paid up, became liable to an additional assessment when the holders assented to the proposed re-organisation of the company. The call is confined to the shares.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Admiralty will receive tenders on the 22nd instant for the supply of 3,000 quarters of wheat, 800 quarters of split peas, 300 quarters of oats, and 150 tons of soap.

BANK NOTES UNREPRESENTED BY GOLD.—THE MANAGEMENT OF THE BANK OF ENGLAND.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—On a fine day in May last year—to wit, the twenty-fourth—the Old Lady of Threadneedle-street, having started with  $2\frac{1}{2}$  per cent., fixed the rate of discount, after five alterations in as many months, at 4 per cent., and then went to the seaside, leaving the monetary world in peace throughout the summer and during half the autumn. Returning in November from Margate (I believe), she found, of course, everything out of order, and had to put everything to rights; in fact, she was, as they will be at such times, in a great bustle. The rate of discount, not having been moved for five long months, had got dusty, and required a good shaking; so it was lifted out of its quiescent position of 4 per cent.

To  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. on the 8th November.
To 5 " " 13th "
To 6 " " 15th "

But, as she was not quite pleased with these improvements, the previous position was again tried, and 5 per cent. on the 29th November seemed the right thing. But no! a rise

To 6 per cent. on the 31st December (the last day of the year);
To 7 " " 7th January, 1861;
To 8 " " 14th February, 1861, was found more suitable, though from this high pitch the rate was afterwards tuned down with three sudden jerks by the 9th April to 5 per cent. To-day it has been fixed—if fixing we may call it—at 6 per cent.

But for having been solemnly assured that the Old Lady is Chairwoman of the Total Abstinence Society, I would decidedly suspect a pretty considerable departure from strict sobriety to have been the cause of these gyrations. They are inconsistent with the gravity and importance of an institution like the Bank of England. The figures recapitulated do not smack of financial foresight, sagacity, or wisdom. We have here, in five short months, the unprecedented number of ten variations, mostly of a violent, often of a sudden kind, as if meant to create panic.

But the advocates of this institution, of this system, of these unstable doings and astounding aberrations, may say that the Bank has a right to do as it likes with its own, and to use every means at its command to increase its income; that the London and Westminster Bank and others would, if they could, do the same; that people need not come, if they can suit themselves elsewhere on cheaper terms. Common-place arguments these, of which a hundred might be easily advanced. Let those who choose bring them forward; they will be found of little value.

The case stands thus:—The Bank of England is a privileged body—largely privileged. It may eat its pudding, and have it too. It has lent its capital to Government, and is authorised to use it a second time by means of the issue of the same amount in paper—say fourteen millions. It makes silk purses out of base materials. It wields an instrument as precarious and dangerous as gunpowder. Gross delusions will often sway mankind for a long time. Tradition, ancient respect, custom, large dividends, the favour of Government, and the handling of the fourteen millions, the remnant of a former more gigantic and more pernicious circulation, have clothed the Bank with enormous influence and power, with authority almost without restraint; have, in fact, placed it on the highest financial pinnacle. It has become the leader of the money world.

Such a position implies corresponding duties. When Jove shakes his head, Olympus trembles. When the Bank moves, we believe, and are justified in believing, that there is mischief in the wind. When the value of money increases fifty per cent. in a week, as between the 8th and 15th November, or doubles, as it did by the 14th February, being above threefold its value some thirteen months previously, the trading community is frightened into confusion, dismay, and suspense. The suddenness of its action would seem to proclaim that the Bank had been taken by surprise; the magnitude of the alterations, that the earthquake of which as yet it alone had notice would soon burst with corresponding fury on an amazed and frightened world; but it is amongst the duties of the Bank not to be taken by surprise, as it is also amongst them not to commit mistakes. Mistakes in this case become sad realities. They do not prevent the export of bullion or the import of corn, but involve trade and commerce in ruinous confusion.

We are unacquainted with the motives that rule at the Bank. The ten alterations in the rate may or may not have had their origin in surprise, but they seem to ordinary minds to have been as many mistakes of the kind to which the Bank will ever be liable under the burthen and fears inflicted on it by its fourteen millions of notes. Unhappily, such mistakes spread alarm and ruin over the land, and affect with fatal celerity all, even the most distant, parts of the commercial world.

I am, sir, yours,

MERCATOR.

May 16, 1861.

MERCANTILE EMBARRASSMENTS.

The Greek payments due on Thursday caused the suspension of another respectable firm, that of Messrs. Alexiadi Delta and Co. The house has been making great sacrifices for some time past to maintain its position, but has at last been forced to succumb, although its outstanding engagements have been materially reduced. The total of the direct liabilities is estimated at £70,000 or £80,000. The assets, as usual in these cases, are for the most part due from the Turkish Government, and assuming that they are recovered, the firm expect to be able to discharge all claims in full and to have a considerable surplus.

The interests of the several Greek firms who have suspended payment being so much identified with each other, more particularly in respect of the claims on and connected with the Turkish Government, and of the other assets to be realised in Turkey, it appears that the concentration of all these matters into one directing point has been deemed desirable, and the affairs of Messrs. Alexiadi Delta and Co. have also been placed in the hands of Messrs. Coleman, Turquand, Youngs, and Co., with the view of submitting a statement to the creditors.

Messrs. Lascaridi and Co. have placed their affairs in the hands of Messrs. Coleman, Turquand, Youngs, and Co., for the purpose of submitting a statement to their creditors.

A failure of a somewhat serious character was announced on Wednesday in connection with the iron trade of the Birmingham district. Mr. George Thompson, of the Crookhay Iron Works, has filed his petition for private arrangement in the Bankruptcy Court. His liabilities are estimated at between fifty and sixty thousand pounds.

At a meeting, on Thursday, of creditors of Mr. T. Dowling, timber-merchant, who suspended about a month ago, a balance-sheet was presented by Messrs. Quilter and Co., accountants, showing liabilities expected to come upon the estate, £38,794, with assets estimated to yield £14,917. Mr. Dowling offered a composition of 6s. in the pound, which was referred to a committee, who are to investigate the accounts and to report to a future meeting.

The accountant employed in the case of Mr. Crichton, Baltic merchant, has issued the following circular:—

RE J. CRICHTON.—Since the general meeting of creditors, held here on Monday last, Mr. Crichton has been trying to carry out an offer of composition, and, with this object, is now in Dundee endeavouring to effect an arrangement with the banks there. As, however, no definite proposal can be made by Monday next, on which day the adjourned meeting was to be held, I have consulted with some of the principal creditors, who concur with me in the desirability of a further postponement until Monday, the 20th inst., when the meeting will take place here at two o'clock precisely. — I am, &c.,
CHARLES F. KEMP.
7, Greham-street, London, May 11.

Mr. Robert Dixon, coal merchant, of the Pier Wharf, Wandsworth, has made an assignment of his estate for the benefit of his creditors, but the liabilities are small. The accountant employed is Mr. F. M. Mullaly.

A meeting took place on the 10th inst. of the creditors of Mr. Chas. Cook, shoe manufacturer, of Northampton and London. In July last, when Mr. Cook stopped payment, his liabilities were about £53,000, but they have now been reduced, according to the balance-sheet presented by Messrs. Edwards and James, the accountants, to £39,405, the creditors having received 4s. in the pound, while payments have been made to this estate on account of the acceptors of the bills. The present net assets are £9,073. The proposal made is to pay 4s. in the pound, in instalments of two, four, six, and eight months, the last to be secured. This was agreed to, so that the total payment on the aggregate liabilities is 8s.

A meeting was held on Wednesday of the creditors of Messrs. Nicholson and Stone, warehousemen, who failed on the 4th inst. Mr. Chatteris, the accountant, computes the liabilities at £34,926, and the net assets at £22,519, showing about 12s. 11d. in the pound. The proximate cause of the stoppage was the recent repayment of money originally lent to the firm of Nicholson, Pascall, and Stone, combined with the loss on the trading. The accountant mentioned that the stock, which at cost price is estimated to be worth £11,824, is the worst he ever saw, and must be sold at a great reduction. A resolution for winding up in bankruptcy was adopted.

In the Bankruptcy Court on Wednesday, immediate certificates of the second class were awarded to Messrs. Skcen and Freeman, timber brokers, of Old Broad-street. The prospects as regards dividend are very poor.

The advices from Sydney mention the failure of Messrs. James Mort and Co., wine merchants and squatters' agents, with £23,000 of unsecured liabilities, and assets estimated at £9,000. Messrs. Garland and Bingham, merchants, and Mr. J. A. Portus, miller, had also stopped. The liabilities in the latter case were about £15,000.

A meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Raymond and Co., connected with the squatting interest, has been held at Sydney. The liabilities exceed £80,000, and the assets will not yield a large dividend. It was expected that the estate would be administered in the Insolvent Court.

Mines.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 17.

In the Mining Market this week attention has been again chiefly directed to East Caradon and East Wheal Grenville shares, the late rise in which is well supported, although the fluctuations have been incessant. The other business has been principally in East Alfred, Marke Valley, Providence, Wheal Trelawney, Wheal Moyle, Wheal Unity, and West Caradon. The four last-mentioned mines have risen.

In the mining market to-day, at the settlement, East Wheal Grenville shares proved scarcer than had been anticipated, and commanded a higher price for money than for the new account. The price may be quoted 46s. to 47s. for cash, and 43s. to 45s. for time. East Caradon shares showed considerable steadiness, being quoted 25 to 26. In other respects the market presented no feature of interest, business being principally confined to the settlement.

Alfred Consols,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to 2; Copper Hill, 95 to 100; Cook's Kitchen,  $22\frac{1}{2}$  to 23; East Basset, 100 to 105; East Caradon, 25 to  $25\frac{1}{2}$ ; East Carn Brea,  $7\frac{1}{2}$  to 8; East Grenville, 44s. to 45s.; Great Wheal Fortune, 12 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Herodsfoot,  $39\frac{1}{2}$  to 40; Marke Valley,  $8\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; North Downs, 4 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; North Treskerby,  $23\frac{1}{2}$  to  $24\frac{1}{2}$ ; Providence Mines, 40 to 41; Stray Park,  $35\frac{1}{2}$  to  $36\frac{1}{2}$ ; West Caradon, 70 to 72; West Rose Down,  $11\frac{1}{2}$  to  $12\frac{1}{2}$ ; West Seton, 340 to 345; Wheal Margaret, 50 to 52; Wheal Trelawney,  $16\frac{1}{2}$  to  $17\frac{1}{2}$ .

The shares of the Labuan Coal Company were quoted to-day 3 to  $3\frac{1}{2}$  prem.

St. John del Rey Mining shares are in considerable demand, and have risen about £2. United Mexican were more inquired for to-day. Colonial descriptions remain very steady.

We are requested to state that all applications for the remaining shares in the Lower Yaldrws Slate Company, Limited, must be lodged by the 6th of June.

The letters of allotment of shares in the Beariz Tin Streaming Company (Limited) have been issued.

The Great Northern Mining Company of South Australia sold at Swansea, on Tuesday, their first consignment of copper ore. There were four parcels, making together 78 tons, which sold for the large sum of £2,118. 0s. 6d. The produce was very high, ranging from 30 up to 40 per cent. of pure copper.

The 4th ordinary general meeting of the Great Barrier, Land, Harbour, and Mining Company is called for the 31st inst.

An extraordinary general meeting of the East Kongsberg Silver Mining Company of Norway is called for the 27th inst.

The Master of the Rolls has made a call of £50 per share on the contributories of the Risca Coal and Iron Company.

The seventeenth annual meeting of the shareholders of the Devonshire Great Consolidated Copper Mining Company was held at the office, in Gresham-house, on Tuesday, when the directors' report was read, and the accounts for the past year presented. By the latter it appeared that the company sold 21,833 tons 5 cwt. 2 qrs. of copper ores in 1860, realising the sum of £108,455. 11s. 10d., out of which dividends to the amount of £47,104 were paid. In addition, Exchequer Bills for £2,000 have been added to the reserved fund, leaving a balance in hand of cash and on bills amounting to £17,258. 7s. 9d. The general balance-sheet showed a balance of assets over liabilities of £97,648. 5s. 7d. The stock of ore in reserve in the mines amounts to 61,176 tons. Resolutions were passed receiving and adopting the report, and re-electing the retiring directors and auditors.

A despatch was received on Wednesday afternoon from the agents of East Wheal Grenville, stating that a fair sample of the lode in the shaft had been assayed, and gave a produce of  $4\frac{1}{4}$  per cent. for copper, and that the lode in the shaft will yield from  $4\frac{1}{2}$  to 5 tons of copper ore per fathom for the length of the shaft, and £10 for tin. It will be recollected that the former produce was  $3\frac{3}{8}$  per cent. There is, therefore, a gradual improvement in depth.

At South Buller and West Penstruthal Mine meeting on Thursday, the accounts showed a debit balance of £145. 7s. 10d. A call of 1s. per share was made.

The Old Tolgus United Mines accounts presented at the meeting on Thursday showed a balance of liabilities over assets of £1,241. A call of £2 per share was made.

At Cuddra Mine meeting on Tuesday, the accounts showed a balance of liabilities over assets of £1,624. 3s. 1d. A call of 6s. per share was made.

The Wheal Grenville accounts, presented at the meeting on Tuesday, showed a balance of liabilities over assets of £1,349. 8s. 7d. A call of 6s. per share was made.

At Grambler and St. Aubyn Mines meeting, on the 7th inst., the accounts showed a debit balance of £75. 5s. 4d. A call of £1 per share was made.

The Trevoole Mine accounts, presented at the meeting on the 7th inst., showed a debit balance of £1,320. 1s. 5d. A call of £1. 5s. 10d. per share was made.

At Cook's Kitchen Mine meeting, on the 7th inst., the accounts showed a credit balance of £1,049. 0s. 4d. The profit on the four months' working was £1,066. 15s. 10d. A dividend of 8s. per share (£980) was declared.

The Praed Consols accounts, presented at the meeting on the 6th inst., showed a credit balance of £439. 18s. 8d. A call of 10s. per share was made.

From the Lower Taldrws Slate Quarry, Mr. G. L. Fuller, C.E., reports as follows, under date of May 9:—

I was at the quarry last week. The engine-lift is at work satisfactorily, and the first depth of workable slate rock is being opened out by it; at the same time removing top rock (unbearing or ridding, as it is sometimes called) is being proceeded with by means of a tramway laid over the draining level now covered in. Slates of excellent quality are being made at the present depth, and though the yield in proportion to the debris is, as might be expected so near the surface, at present uncertain, the greatest depth yet opened being but little over twelve yards, there is every indication of the next depth being as productive as can well be found. As there is still delay with regard to the supply of water for pumping-power, arrangements are in progress for temporarily pumping by the lift-engine. This will, I think, enable a lower depth to be opened so soon as sufficient of the upper shall have been uncovered and removed to make doing so practicable. Though not equal to the progress I had hoped ere this, when reporting on your quarry in September of last year, the unprecedentedly unfavourable weather of the autumn and winter considered, you are in as forward a state as should, perhaps, be expected, and the ultimate prospects of the quarry are, I think, incontrovertible.

From Penderaig United Lead Mine Captain Roberts reports (May 16):—

Operations at this mine are progressing satisfactorily. We are preparing a considerable quantity of ore for market, which will be shortly ready for sale.

From the West Devon Consols Mine Captain George Rowe reports (May 16):—

The sinking of the engine-shaft is progressing in a very satisfactory manner, the ground is considerably improved for sinking, and very congenial for the production of copper ore. We are opening on the lode in the back of the 30 fm. level east, where it is four feet wide, composed of quartz, mundic, and peach, impregnated with good quality yellow copper ore. Judging from its improved character and kindly appearance at the present shallow depth, we have every reason to expect very satisfactory results at a deeper level.

The Central American Mining Company have received letters from Alopeque, dated April 2. The superintendent says:—

Notwithstanding numerous difficulties it is to me a source of very great satisfaction to find that the first reduction operations have been attended with considerable success. Seven silver bars, weighing  $320\frac{1}{2}$  lbs. avoirdupois, are now in my possession, and three more will be ready on the 5th inst., when I intend to leave for the city of Guatemala, and convey all the bars ready to the mint. The total weight will not be much under 1,000 marcs (500 lbs.). The mines continue to present the same favourable appearance. 51 tons of ore were raised and dressed in the month, assaying on the average 170 ounces of silver in the ton. 147 tons of poor ore were sent to the Hacienda in March. 70 tons of ore were reduced.

Ninety-four bags (6 tons) of rich ore have arrived at Southampton.

The following reports are from Australian mining companies:—

SCOTTISH AUSTRALIAN.—The directors have a communication, dated Sydney, the 21st of March, with report from the Good Hope mine, dated the 14th, together with a special report thereon, from Mr. J. P. Christoe, of the Carangara Copper Works, Guyong, New South Wales. Mr. Christoe reports as follows:—"I have pleasure in telling you that I was agreeably surprised with your prospects, which I think will, when proved, nearly equal the most sanguine expectations you can have formed of the mine. Looking at the run of the strata and the most extraordinary convulsion of nature which must at one time have taken place in the neighbourhood of the mine, I can arrive at but one conclusion, that the lodes known as Nos. 1, 2, and 3 are identically the same; the southern portion appears of a much more settled character, and its composition and underlie very good. I think you have every reason to expect that when the engine shaft cuts the lode, whether at the 30-fathom by driving, or at the 40-fathom by sinking, it will be found very productive in ore, though most probably of low percentage. I think you have but little reason to expect much from the No. 2, but from the No. 1 portion you will probably raise many tons of ore, some tons of which will produce as high as 40 per cent., and the rest, much of which would require stamping, will average from 12 to 15 per cent. The southern is most undoubtedly the rich part of the mine; the country appears of a much more settled character, and lies better, though probably you will make many valuable discoveries in the northern."

NORTH RHINE.—The directors have advices dated March 26th. Captain Barker reports:—"The south end is now 47½ fathoms south of Cope's engine shaft. The lode looks very well in the end at present. It is 5 feet wide, with occasional squats of good solid black ore in it, the remainder of the lode having gray ore throughout. It will yield 6 tons per fathom, and as soon as we have 20 tons we will ascertain the value by calcining it, mundic being the only weed, and the ore itself of good quality. It will concentrate easily, or rather the mundic will be easily driven off. Although the lode was poorer a few fathoms back during the fore part of the month, it is now steadily improving, and I feel confident we shall win a first-rate mine."

GREAT NORTHERN.—The advices from the local committee are dated March 26th. They state:—"We have much pleasure in at length sending you Captain Pascoe's report on the various mines of the company, and we feel the London Board must be gratified to find his opinion so favourably expressed of the value of the company's properties; his opinion and remarks are confirmatory of what has been advanced by Mr. Finke and Captain Phillips; the committee can but think that the evidence that has now been sent to the London Board is of a nature to remove all doubts that may have been created as to the company's operation. It will be gratifying to you to learn from the enclosed reports that the Nuccaleena Mine continues to maintain the high character that has always been advanced respecting that mine, and that the ore ground now opened and proved will admit and enable the large quantity of ore named by Captain Pascoe to be raised speedily at a moderate expense. The committee have received advices of the following further shipments of ore from Port Augusta—viz., per Firefly and Walrus, together, 52 tons 9 cwt. Captain Pascoe's report, dated Ruccaleena, February 28, is as follows:—"The lode in the back of the middle adit is ten feet wide of copper ore and iron; no wall south as yet. The lode in the winze sinking below the deep adit continues as last reported on; we have here a good run of ore ground to take away. The new shaft sinking from the surface is down two fathoms; the lode is large; we have only part of it in the shaft. We can now take away the ore standing in the back of the deep adit. We have sent about 40 tons of ore to the port since the 17th inst., and have now 80 tons ready to send away, and about 100 tons at the surface to clean up; we can now raise hundreds of tons per month from this mine. The returns will increase as our operations are carried on. We have no doubt of opening up two or three other good mines shortly."

PORT PHILIP.—The directors have received advices, dated Melbourne, the 22nd of March last. The quantity of quartz crushed in February was 2,677 tons, yielding 1,675 oz. of gold. The receipts on Clunes account were £3,219, and the expenditure £1,696, leaving a profit of £1,623. The machinery was all in good order, and working well. At the mine the new engine and boilers had arrived on the ground, and were in course of erection. A remittance of £1,500 has been received by this mail.

BON ACCORD.—The directors have communications dated March 25. The chairman of the committee writes as follows, viz.:—"By the contrivance of the dam the water is now kept entirely under control, and the engine is not in the slightest degree taxed to keep the mine clear. Having our old enemy now under control, we are carrying on operations as at first intended—namely, endeavouring to attain depth. When I last visited the mine the country in the bottom of the engine shaft at the 40 had undergone a complete change, and we are now preparing to renew the sinking. The winze lode just under the 30 was very strongly stained with copper. I had hoped by this time to have cut it at the 40, but the ground, after leaving the shaft, has been much harder, consequently the delay. Telegram to-day notes an improvement, and I trust by next mail to be able to give a good report of the lode cut at the 40. We are studying economy in every respect, and are anxious to confine our operations to those workings which give more immediate hopes of success."

ENGLISH AND AUSTRALIAN COPPER.—The directors have advices dated Adelaide, March 25. There were nine furnaces and two refineries at work. The quantity of coal at the works was 4,214 tons; of firewood, 5,065 tons. The quantity of coal at Kapunda was 1,327 tons. The smelting operations and ore and copper shipments were proceeding satisfactorily.

KAPUNDA.—The directors have advices to the 25th of March. The shaftmen that were at work at the back of the 60-fathom level in the Buhl shaft had effected a communication with Bagot's engine shaft at the 50-fathom level, and had cut a large lode 3 feet wide, containing rich black ore, and which is supposed to be part of the main lode. The workings are well secured, and all was going on steadily towards the full development of the lodes at the former level. The January ores proved to be 280 tons of 16·560 per cent. average; and the yield for February was 266 tons of high percentage. Since the date of the last advices (the 22nd of February) 51 tons of copper had been shipped, per Agincourt, from Melbourne to London, and 30 tons forwarded per Oscar, to Melbourne, for transhipment. The smelting operations were going on steadily, and the supply of fuel continued sufficient.

WORTHING.—The company have received advices dated March 18th. "We have taken the shaftmen from the crosscut, and have made a commencement to sink the engine-shaft. I am happy to say that we have a good lode of ore in the shaft, giving about ten tons to the fathom. 33-fathom level south is improved in quality, and the ground is something better than it was last month. We have driven during the month 9 feet: 33-fathom crosscut is more favourable for driving than ever it was, and the small branch still continues to run parallel with the cross course, with a large quantity of water, which gives every indication that there is a powerful lode before us. We drove last month 6 fathoms or better and at that rate we shall cut Boundy's lode in four months or less. 23-fathom level south of Hocking's shaft we have a very good lode in the back and bottom as far as we have driven, with the exception of a few feet back from the present end, which will turn out a great number of tons of good ore when we begin to stoep. We began to sink Hocking's shaft in the latter part of the last month. 12 fathoms north of old whin shaft we sunk No. 2 winze last month 3 fathoms 3 feet in a very good lode, giving from 7 to 9 tons per fathom of good quality, and lode looking better than I ever saw it before. No 1 winze gives about 10 tons of ore to the fathom of 20 per cent. When we communicate this part of the mine at the 23-fathom level we shall be in a position to raise any quantity of ore we may require. We sampled during the month 21 tons carbonates, and have several tons not yet weighed. Dressing operations going on well; we have hundreds of tons of ore spalled waiting for the crusher. Smelting operations going on well, and wood coming in much more rapidly. We have about 35 tons regulus at the port, which is arranged to be shipped via Melbourne, and will leave next week; also 12 tons at the mine ready for carting. Ore and regulus on hand equal to 39 tons of copper, besides several hundred tons of dredge ore waiting for the crusher."

DUN MOUNTAIN.—Report from the committee of management of the Dun Mountain Company, dated Nelson, New Zealand, March 9:—"The railway is now in course of construction. We accepted on the 25th ult. three tenders for a length of three miles 53 chains, and 50 men are rapidly proceeding with the work. Mr. FitzGibbon is setting out the second portion of the line from the Wairoa Saddle to Brook-street, and in a week's time we shall invite tenders for the construction of this portion of the line. We can already see that Mr. Doynce's estimate of cost will be considerably reduced. During the cutting for the railway another chrome reef has been discovered about three feet thick, with considerable appearance of lateral extension, and it is being opened upon. Mr. Hacket reports that the south-west iron and copper lode has been driven three feet; the iron ore is two feet wide, of very superior quality, and there are traces of copper ore on the foot wall of the lode under the iron, and with a considerable angle to the west, which is encouraging. We have shipped 15 tons more chrome, and shall continue to supply you from time to time with small parcels; in fact, everything looks well just now, abundance of ore, and the railway going on. By this time next year we trust you will be in possession of bills of lading which will enable you to talk of dividends to your shareholders."

The Produce and other Markets.

THE TALLOW TRADE.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 17.

The course of operations in the Tallow Market during the past week has exhibited no feature of special interest. Business has maintained a steady footing, and its character upon the whole has been satisfactory. The quantity of Tallow taken for consumption has continued at a full average, and in the absence of any arrivals of consequence, stocks have been reduced to an extent which, were it not for the ample supply still on hand (double or treble the average amount), would ere this have been most perceptibly felt in its effect on prices. The parcels of old Y. C. Tallow offering meet with a fair share of attention; but, owing to its generally inferior character, it cannot command an extensive sale. This article, however, and Odessa (now rather scarce), continue chiefly to supply the demand for consumption. New Y. C. Tallow is still held by the Russian monopolists at prices which place it out of the reach of consumers. The operations of the former have now for some time exhibited the very singular and apparently anomalous feature of goods being deliberately withheld from what might have been a good market, and only being brought forward when their quality is so deteriorated that, on this account alone, a heavy loss is experienced by the owners. This fact deserves a place among the curiosities of mercantile experience. It must, however, be expected that the course of events arising from a scheme so wholly artificial as this monopoly will be attended with many circumstances of a remarkable character, and its final issue must be a subject of painful interest to its somewhat greedy projectors.

To-day there has been no feature in the speculative market worthy of special notice. The quotations for 1st sort new Y. C. Tallow are 58s. for ready delivery and for May and June; 55s. per cwt. for delivery October to December.

The arrivals for the week ending the 16th instant, were 132 casks; deliveries, 1,542 casks; Stock, 66,625 casks; showing a decrease of 1,410 casks.

Town Tallow has been in moderate request during the past week, and the full nett quotation has generally been obtained; but, in some instances, an increased discount has been allowed. This evening the "Letter price" is 56s. 6d., or 54s. per cwt. nett cash. Fat, 2s. 11d. per stone of 8 lbs.

The results of the Public Sales of this day were as follows:—

Odessa.—The stock is now getting low, the demand from the trade having steadily and somewhat rapidly reduced it, as it has formed the bulk of the tallow taken for consumption for some weeks past. 257 casks were offered to-day, nearly all of which were sold. Good Sheep at 54s. 6d. to 54s. 9d.; good to fine mixed, 52s. 6d. to 53s. 3d.; a portion rather old and bleached brought 50s. to 50s. 6d., and a few repackers 44s. 3d. to 49s. 6d. per cwt. Ox tallow is scarce at 52s. 6d. to 53s.

South American has met with a rather limited demand, but we look for more inquiry with warmer weather, especially for the best descriptions. 104 casks and 387 boxes were offered. Fine quality, in boxes, brought 54s. to 55s.; very good, rather off colour, 52s. 6d. Good pure tallow, in pipes, fair body, 53s.; and 53s. 6d. for a firmer description. 51s. per cwt. was accepted for a few casks of dull colour and middling body. About 200 packages found buyers.

Australian continues scarce, but it is not much inquired for. Only 13 casks of rather inferior ox tallow were offered to-day, and were bought in at 51s. and 52s. per cwt. We are still without supplies of sheep tallow.

North American.—Very few parcels have lately appeared in the market. We have heard of no transactions worth noticing. 43 casks were brought forward to-day, 8 casks of which were sold at 52s., of middling colour and body; 15 casks, very greasy, were bought in at 48s. per cwt.

East India.—There has been a dearth of good and fine sorts; and middling and inferior qualities are not easy of disposal. 152 cases were offered to-day, 52s. 3d. being paid for a few cases of sound quality, fair colour, but very dreggy, and 46s. to 48s. 6d. per cwt. for 100 cases of low quality, wet and greasy. 140 cases were disposed of.

Cocoa Nut Oil.—The market has continued well supplied, but very fair quantities have been taken at our last quotations, the demand for export especially having been again rather active. To-day 980 casks of Cochin, 968 casks Ceylon, and 9 tanks of Sydney were brought forward. This large quantity had some effect on prices, and a decline of about 6d. to 1s. per cwt. was generally submitted to. Good to fine Cochin, selling at 46s. to 46s. 9d., and good Ceylon, at 45s. to 45s. 3d.; two of the tanks of Sydney, of fair quality, were sold at 52s. 3d. per cwt. About 500 casks were disposed of, and later in the day some further sales were effected.

Palm Oil.—A steady business has been done since our last, and at the prices then quoted. To-day at auction 316 casks were offered. Good Lagos sold at 45s.; fine being held for 45s. 6d., the same with respect to fine Whydah. Inferior descriptions are not in demand, and were not competed for to-day. In all, only about 30 casks were sold. The market appears rather to favour the buyer.

Palm Nut Oil continues scarce, but prices have remained at our last figures. Only 3 casks were offered to-day, of fair quality, and were sold at 38s. 6d. per cwt.

South American Horse Grease has maintained its price, but the business of the week has been of small amount. There were 200 cases and 3 casks offered to-day; the former were bought in at 38s.; and 35s. per cwt. was taken for the casks, the latter of middling quality.—Furnished by Messrs. Culverwell, Brooks, and Co., Brokers.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET.

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 17.

The less anxious character of the news from America, combined with the rise in the value of money has caused considerable dulness in this market. The transactions have consequently been very limited, and prices, compared with those of Friday last,

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY EVENING.

The market has been steady to-day, with sales amounting to 8,000 bales, including 2,000 on speculation and for exportation. The imports to-day comprise 60,112 bales. The closing quotation for Upland is 8 $\frac{1}{4}$  d.; Mobile, 8 $\frac{1}{4}$  d.; and for New Orleans, 8 $\frac{1}{4}$  d. The sales of the week have reached only 47,150 bales, of which 9,390 were taken on speculation, and 9,860 for exportation. The imports of the week are 107,916 bales. The present stock is 1,049,700 bales, showing a considerable increase over that of last week.

The Corn Trade.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 17.

The change in the weather, which took place a week ago, brought copious rain in most parts of the country, and has since been followed by a much milder temperature, almost summer-like, under the powerful influence of the sun.

Vegetation generally has progressed very slowly till within the last few days. The appearance of the growing Wheat crops is said to have somewhat improved—but even under the most favourable circumstances there is no prospect of a full wheat crop in the United Kingdom this year. A large importation therefore appears indispensable to meet the wants of a numerous bread-eating population.

The spring Corn crops have slowly progressed till the recent rain set in. With a continuance of fine weather a good crop of this kind of grain (Barley and Oats) may be expected. The Beans crop is in several districts a confirmed failure. The growing Pease crop is more favourably spoken of.

The young Potatoe-plants have suffered in some localities to a great extent by the late frost. The Grass has been backward in growth for want of warmth and moisture till within this week. Artificial cattle food has been in active demand this spring.

IMPORTS.—The returns of this week show again a smaller importation than in the preceding eight days, though slightly larger than the weekly returns of a fortnight ago. Wheat continues at the head of the list of imports—principally from America, the Baltic, and the Black Sea. The imports of Barley, Oats, Beans, and Pease continue small, and moderate of Maize.

Considering our own pressing wants, arising from the deficiency of our last harvest, and the unfavourable prospects of the next Wheat harvest in Great Britain, it is probable that we shall require every bushel of foreign grain that other countries can spare this year. France appears to have also large wants to satisfy, and no surplus left for export in the shape of grain. There, too, the prospects of the coming harvest are doubtful. In Germany also the growing Rye crops are complained of. All these points tend to show that current prices are not likely to fall much lower, but that an improvement upon present rates is rather probable.

The British Corn Trade ruled firm at the commencement of this week, but under the influence of the recent favourable change in the weather, buyers showed less anxiety to operate, and holders appeared more inclined to yield, though strengthened somewhat in maintaining the late advance by the warlike attitude of the Americans, and the prospect of a curtailment of imports from the United States. The rise in the rate of discount to 6 per cent. will to some extent interfere with business, but as bread is an article of first necessity, the question of money becomes a secondary consideration. Wheat was in good demand at the commencement of this week, and in some markets prices advanced 1s. to 2s. per qr. over last week's rates, but during the last few days purchases could be made on easier terms. Flour, being scarce and much wanted, fetched 6d. to 1s. per sack more than last week, with a large business doing in American barrels, the supply of which is likely to fall off. Barley: The Malting season being nearly over, the demand was limited this week at previous prices, but grinding sorts continued inquired after at full rates. Oats are still scarce, and actively inquired after. Several cargoes have been bought this week for export to France, and prices have advanced in most British markets 6d. to 1s. per qr. Maize: The recent reduction in price has stimulated the demand for feeding and with a fair amount of business, prices have again slightly improved upon last week's advance. Beans continue firmly supported in price. Peas quiet in demand, and unaltered in value.

In Mark-lane to-day the attendance of the trade was moderate, and the tone quiet. Wheat—English, in retail demand, at last Monday's advance; Foreign—Unaltered, at last Monday's rates. Flour—American, held at last Monday's advance; Norfolk, 37s. to 39s. per 280lbs. Barley—Quiet, at last Monday's currency. Oats—Ready sale, at fully last Monday's quotations. Beans—Firm, at last Monday's prices. Peas—Unaltered.

[BY ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.]

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY EVENING.

There was a good attendance at to-day's market. Both Wheat and Flour had a fair sale at last Tuesday's rates. Maize in good request, but the large arrivals enable buyers to supply their wants at 3d. per quarter under last Tuesday's prices. Oats and Oatmeal without alteration in value.

Levi and Co., it is stated that "Trade continues to improve, and an increased firmness is manifested for most articles of import. There is a fair market for the disposal of shipments selected with care and with due attention to quality." The whole of the harvest had been gathered, and the yield was most satisfactory. The pastoral and mining interests of the province are represented as being in a most encouraging condition. The price of copper was £95 per ton. Burra Burra shares, £130. The banks issued drafts on London at 60 days' sight at 1 per cent. premium, and bought bills at 1 per cent. discount.

On Saturday last seventy pages of correspondence respecting British claims on Mexico, were issued from the Parliamentary printing-office.

NOTICE.—GUSTAVE AIMARD was the adopted son of one of the most powerful Indian tribes, with whom he lived for more than fifteen years, in the heart of the prairies, sharing their dangers and their combats, and accompanying them everywhere, rifle in one hand and tomahawk in the other. In turn squatter, hunter, trapper, warrior, and miner, Gustave Aimard has traversed America from the highest peaks of the Cordilleras to the ocean shores, living from hand to mouth, happy for the day, careless of the morrow. Hence it is that Gustave Aimard only describes his own life. The Indians of whom he speaks he has known—the manners he depicts were his own. Most truly it is affirmed that English literature does not afford a more interesting and instructive series of books, for all classes and all ages, than Gustave Aimard's "Tales of Indian Life and Adventure."

In bringing the London and Provincial Discount Company (Limited) under the notice of the public, the Directors wish particularly to call attention to the distinctive principles on which they are determined to conduct business—viz., to avoid heavy preliminary and working expenses, to limit the amount of discount of even the best bills, and to offer facilities to trade and professional bills, for which there is at present no opening, and, lastly, to establish branches in the large provincial towns, which as yet have not one Joint-Stock Discount Company, and where the rate of discount rules higher than in London.

Acting upon these principles, there can be no doubt of success. Prospectuses, with full particulars, may be obtained at the Offices, 46 and 47, Cornhill, E.C.; and applications for shares, accompanied by £1 deposit, may be sent to the Bankers' Brokers or Secretary of the Company.

Offices—No. 12, Old Broad-street, London, E.C.

This Company is formed for the purpose of supplying what has long been urgently required, and which, from the increased, and constantly increasing, growth of our commerce, is daily becoming more and more necessary, viz., regular, speedy, and safe communication along the extensive line of coast and in the inner waters of China.

To meet the necessities of both Foreign and Native trade it is proposed to construct a fleet of steamers, which shall be the means of establishing regular communication between the ports and places to which foreigners will have access, and of providing for the conveyance of passengers, mails, and general merchandise.

It is intended to commence with the construction of Six Steam-vessels, as the Directors propose to limit the operations of the Company until experience has proved in what way they can be best extended with advantage to the Shareholders.

Forms of application for Shares addressed to the Directors may be obtained from the Secretary, at 12, Old Broad-street, London, E.C.; or from the Brokers of the Company; but no application will be considered, unless a deposit of 5s. for each Share applied for shall have been previously made with the Bankers of the Company.

THE MONEY MARKET—THE RECOVERY IN THE AMERICAN EXCHANGE.

It is satisfactory to be able to remark some improvement in the immediate prospects of the money market. When we last wrote the Bank of England rate of discount had just been raised from 5 to 6 per cent.; and the low range of the New York exchange, namely, 104 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ , induced an apprehension in many quarters that money would shortly become still dearer. With the recovery in the American exchange to 106 $\frac{1}{2}$ , just announced, this fear has subsided. The commercial public have, accordingly, desisted from pressing heavily upon the Bank for accommodation, and money lenders generally evince less indisposition to employ the funds at their disposal. On the other hand, it will not be overlooked that the drain of specie to America is as yet scarcely checked, and that it has drawn down the total of coin and bullion in the Bank of England somewhat below twelve millions sterling, as shown in the return in another column. This is a smaller amount than has been held by the Bank for a considerable time past. Their "reserve" is likewise small. It would be unsafe, too, to rely implicitly upon the permanence of the somewhat spasmodic rally in the American exchange, for it is very probable that, in the present disorganised condition of affairs, the New York exchange market will experience numerous oscillations. Nevertheless, upon a general review, the aspect of the money market has, unquestionably, become somewhat more encouraging during the last week, and it is the more important to record the fact because trade has already quite sufficient difficulty to contend against.

THE "TIMES" ON AMERICAN FINANCE.

We propose to call attention to-day to a subject which, though it has long excited remark in commercial circles throughout the kingdom, has as yet scarcely met with any notice in the press. We allude to the remarkably erroneous views, with regard to American finance, which have been disseminated and persevered in by the Times for months together in the face of facts, the bearing of which was really too plain to be misunderstood. Why the matter has hitherto been eschewed by the press may be explained by several considerations. In the first place, journalists, as a rule, are indulgent to each other's shortcomings. In the next, few newspapers are sufficiently independent to venture upon antagonism to the great journal, for they know well that from that hour their existence will be ignored by it, whilst increased prominence will be given to quotations and extracts from their rivals. The few really independent journals amongst us refrain from such discussions in the fear that they would savour of the "shop," or, in other words, of self-laudation, in the opinion of the public. For our own part, no series of mere blunders on the part of the Times, or any other journal, would induce us to challenge them, for we are all—and public writers, perhaps, the most of any—liable to mistakes. But the articles in the Times are characterised by features worse than those of mere error. In the financial columns of the Times, a view, no matter how crotchety, once taken up, is never abandoned. From that moment let not the public look to the great journal for an impartial record of facts. They will see one side, and one side only. We ask—with perfect confidence as to the reply—do not these remarks reflect closely what every man actively engaged in commerce has often felt, and what he has heard at some time or other, in every place of commercial resort? Is it not precisely this adherence to a one-sided system which has lowered the commercial reputation of the Times to a point inconsistent with the immense influence and vast circulation of that journal? These are simple truths. Granted, they are of a kind that do not usually appear in print, but why should they not? The manner in which English journalism is conducted is surely a matter of interest to Englishmen. Whilst admitting frankly and fully that errors of the class into which any one of us may fall ought not to be made the occasion of ill-natured comment, we contend that every sentence that appears in a public journal is common property by the mere fact of its publication, and that any writer who chooses to offend public opinion, either by misrepresenting or by glossing over facts, lays himself perfectly open to criticism. More: we maintain that the more unsparingly this criticism is applied, the better is the public interest promoted. The public want the truth, and nothing but the truth; they want to have facts—financial, social, and political—laid before them in their nakedness, that they may form their own independent judgment upon them. They want no sophistry, no glossing, no dressing up or twisting of facts, designed to support individual theories. It would be well, we think, were the Times to be criticised a little oftener. Possibly the public might then suffer in a less degree from a species of despotism which is more injurious than they are aware of—we mean the despotism of a journal, which, in the popular estimation, has much more power than conscience.

We have been requested by several respected correspondents to recapitulate the remarks published by the Times with regard to American finance during the last six months. We will do so, because the review furnishes a useful illustration of what has been said above. If we err not, the public will say that upon no ordinary theory of mere mistake can the course taken by the great journal be justified.

Although the New York exchange had been falling for some time, and the movement had attracted the watchful attention of the mercantile community connected with America, and of the principal English newspapers, it was not until the 24th of November last—four days before the shipments of gold to New York commenced—that the Times deigned to allude to the subject. On the 24th November the following paragraph appeared:—"The stock quotations from New York show an average fall of about 2 $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. during the two days previous to the departure of the steamer. This was attributable entirely to the apprehension of the secession of South Carolina and other slave States from the Union, but the impression, from past experience is, that the excitement will prove of short duration." This "impression" has proved a sad error, but it is one into which many persons have fallen, besides the Times; so let it pass.

On the 27th November, when news had been received of a sudden fall in the exchange to 106 $\frac{1}{2}$ , the Times attributed the movement solely to the fact of "the agitation for disunion having caused a great amount of Southern bills to be suddenly thrown on the New York market, for which gold has been taken, thus causing a sharp pressure for money." The explanation was, no doubt, partly correct. Our contemporary went on, with somewhat too much of confidence, to remark:—"The effect of such operations can be but temporary, and should cause no uneasiness, especially as within the next few weeks there must be numerous remittances from New York to London, not only on account of interest due on investments, but for a large amount of Ohio stock falling due belonging to English capitalists." There is nothing here open to objection.

On the 29th November, in chronicling the first shipment of 10,000 sovereigns to New York, the Times, with characteristic haste, committed itself to the following paragraph:—"The advices telegraphed by this packet tend to confirm the impression that any specie remittances that may be made to America in consequence of the exchange and discount quotations received on Monday will be likely to result in loss." It must be confessed that more caution would have been advisable. There would still, however, have been ample time to take a correct view, had the writer merely been content to let events speak for themselves. But the Times had now committed itself to a view, and all its subsequent remarks were framed accordingly.

On the following day—the 30th November—when the Bank of England had just announced a delusive reduction in their rate from 6 to 5 per cent., in face of a constant fall in the American exchanges, the Times wrote:—"The measure is perfectly in accordance with the indications furnished in the last Gazette return, and, although the heavy character of our grain importations, and the prospect of some temporary confusion\* in the commerce and finances of the United States from political panic, preclude the probability of any early abundance in the supply of money, there is every reason for confidence that the market will for the next few months be free from inconvenient pressure or violent fluctuations." In strange contrast with this, the same article on the same day mentioned a total fall of 20 per cent. in Illinois Central Railway shares at New York within a fortnight, and a fall in the exchange to 104 $\frac{1}{2}$ . But the Times adhered to its text, remarking: "There is no ground, however, to suppose that, even if the rate at New York for bankers' bills shall be found to have descended to 104 $\frac{1}{2}$ , any considerable amounts of gold will be sent hence. The sudden nature of the fluctuations already reported shows the uncertainty that would attend any such operations, and it is unquestionable that the receipt of a very small sum from England, coupled with the constant arrivals from California, would almost immediately change the whole character of the market, even if it were not found that the panic had already fully subsided. On this point some remarkable experience was obtained during the panic of 1857. . . . The whole affair is entirely political, and the operation of merely political influences on the money market is usually of short duration."

On the 1st December our contemporary, after referring to the demand for gold for the Bank of France, alluded slightly to the "equally abnormal, though relatively unimportant, demand for America;" countenanced "the probability of an early reaction" in the exchange "in proportion to the violence of the recent movement;" and, whilst admitting that "the money panic" at New York "had at length reached a stage resembling some of the worst days of 1857," affirmed that "all the leading commercial people seemed to be aware of its utter groundlessness."

On the 4th December, after describing the species of coalition amongst the New York banks for mutual defence, our contemporary observed:—

"In any case the affair is not likely to have a very important influence on our market, while the effect of the arrival in New York of £200,000 or £300,000 from this side, coupled with the steady receipts from California, may be estimated, not only by the experience of 1857, but by the fact that the drain from the North to the South, which has caused all the present confusion, is believed not to have greatly exceeded half a million sterling. With regard to the political question, there had been no material change, but the probability is that, before the close of the year, the people in both sections of the country will be looking for new sources of excitement, and eager to get rid of the present difficulty by any dexterous compromise that may be offered."

The writer's tenacity is remarkable.

On the 8th December, on the eve of a shipment of specie to the enormous extent of £600,000 by the Persia, the Times, from its exclusive stores of knowledge and experience, favoured its readers with the following homily and warning:—

"Under these circumstances many persons express surprise at the shipments now being made by the merchants of London and Liverpool, especially as the experience of 1857 must be fresh in their minds. The news of that panic arrived here about the middle of October. £72,600 was forthwith sent out by the Baltic steamer, the Persia took about £200,000, and these sums were followed by a few others. On the 16th of November—that is to say, within a month, we had advices that 20,000 of the sovereigns sent out by the Baltic had been sent back by the next return steamer, and from that time we continued steadily to receive large sums until, in the middle of December, we imported from America, in one week alone, a total of more than £860,000."

Still our obstinate merchants continued to ship gold. On the 24th December, a week before the Bank rate was raised again from 5 to 6 per cent., the Times, in reporting the despatch of £170,000 by the Australasian, observed:—"These shipments create no uneasiness, since, like those lately made to Paris for the Bank of France, they are in great part exceptional."

On the 1st January, when the Bank rate had just been raised, our contemporary in his annual review, observed luminously:—

"The money market, therefore, cannot be considered to present any serious threatenings of disturbance. Thus secure in our home position, we turn to estimate our external prospects. First as regards the United States. The conflict going on there can, after the first confusion shall have subsided, have no injurious influence on commerce. If, as few in this country are disposed to anticipate, a dissolution of the Union should take place in March, it may be expected to include among its results the opening of the ports of all the Southern States to free trade, a step which the North would infallibly soon find itself compelled to imitate. On the other hand, if the Union be preserved by a compromise, a lowering of the general tariff is likely to be one of its features, while in any case a pacific settlement would be so thankfully received as to indispose the people of the entire country, for a time at least, to continue waiting in party rancour the energies upon which the progress of the land depends. . . . Thus, on the whole, there has never been a date at which a more happy view of our position could be taken. But its full realisation depends upon peace, and it is even possible that within a few hours some short sentence may be uttered at the Tuileries to dissipate much of its value."

The mischief has not come from the Tuileries this time.

On the 11th January the Times undertook to prove that the tightness in the money market was a national advantage. It said:—

"The absence of inconvenience with money at 7 per cent. is a subject of remark on all sides; but it would be hard for any one to point out a reason why the existing rates should be regarded as an evil. There is no country in which money abounds to the same extent as in England, and yet whenever the value of this commodity experiences an increase there are always persons ready to cry out that it must check commerce and produce disaster. Happily the ignorance that produces this tendency is daily diminishing, and the experience of last year went far to convince the public that sudden changes and high rates of discount may be consistent with the preservation of credit and a smooth and highly prosperous course of business. . . . Hence on no ground can the existing state of the London money market be viewed as a sign of hard times."

The best comment upon this is the pre-ent slackening of enterprise and industry, and the almost universal prevalence of complaint.

On the 23rd January the Times came out in right dogmatic style. Self-praise is usually accounted no laudation, but our contemporary imagined that the moment had arrived for him to pluck his laurels. "At the commencement of the gold shipments to America," it observed, "the public were warned of the consequences: these have now been experienced." It then went on:—

"It was pointed out that it would be a fatal mistake to suppose that the New York market could receive any very extraordinary influx without a most disappointing effect being produced, so far as regarded the sanguine views of those who expected that a great opportunity for large profits had occurred, and the experience was cited of 1857, when some heavy remittances, suddenly made, were actually returned to us in the identical state in which they had been despatched. On the present occasion the probable course of affairs was so palpable that there was little difference of opinion on either side of the Atlantic, except that at New York the anticipations as to any continued profit being made by those who might send gold from London were even less strong than among ourselves, one writer, than whom none could be in a better position to express the view of the leading bankers, having stated his belief that every pound that might come out would be almost instantly returned. The impression here was that, looking at the different circumstances of the balance of trade now, compared with 1857, about a quarter or half a million might possibly be remitted with safety, and the estimate was subsequently increased to a moderate extent on the occurrence of a rapid and renewed rise in our wheat market. All the principal houses connected with America acted upon this cautious and limited view, and the correctness of their course has been confirmed."

After this, might not the public be excused if they imagined that the Bank of England must be issuing falsified returns, and keeping stored away in some secret corner the two or three millions which had been sent to America, and which must surely have come back again, if the Times were right? But our contemporary had not done with the shippers of gold. He observed in continuation of the foregoing remarks:—

"Some persons imperfectly acquainted with subjects of this nature, however, will perhaps exclaim that the contrary has been the case. 'The public,' they will say, 'were warned that, owing to the limited capacity of the New York market, any extraordinary amount sent out to buy bills of exchange would produce such an effect that it would soon be found cheaper to return the money forthwith. Yet £3,000,000 has been despatched, and even the latest quotations show that, if operators were disposed to incur a little risk by taking ordinary mercantile instead of bankers' bills, they might still realise a handsome gain!' To financial minds the fallacy of this remark would be at once apparent, but the general public are always apt to accept any delusive statement on money questions that will save them the trouble of thinking for themselves."

Accordingly, the Times proceeded to think for them, and to explain the whole affair in a manner quite astonishing to the firms engaged in the business, who had fancied that they understood it:—

"It must, therefore, be explained that of the remittances of three millions sterling to New York only a very insignificant portion was for the purpose of buying bills of exchange. If they had been entirely for that purpose, although the result would inevitably have been as predicted, it would, as it now turns out, have been well for the English public. We should then have had our gold back, with the comparatively trifling loss of freight, insurance, &c. A much greater absurdity has been witnessed. The principal mass of the remittances has been for the purchase of stocks, railway shares, &c., which have been bought on terms that have caused a rise of 20 or 30 per cent. in the New York market, and unfortunately these, and not our gold, are being poured upon us, while our own share-lists show that in many cases their value on this side is 10 or 15 per cent. below the prices given for them. Happy would the senders of the gold be if they could get it back at any moderate sacrifice. The folly displayed in the whole affair seems perfectly incredible."

This is a style of writing which justly and deeply offends the commercial world. Does the Times suppose that it enjoys a monopoly of information, and of commercial intelligence? Are "absurdity" and "perfectly incredible folly" fit terms to apply to merchants who were quietly engaged in profitably carrying out a class of business to which they had been bred? Or is such a style of comment insulting?

On the 24th January, the Times contented itself with a passing allusion to the "comparatively limited capacity of the New York market," which, it said, had been "unfortunately lost sight of by our impatient shippers of gold."

On the 29th January it was stated, with very insufficient warranty, that "The New York commercial advices this morning show that gold shipments from this country were resulting in loss, and that about £1,300,000 still remained to arrive out."

On the 4th February, the Times expressed its continued wonder in the following terms:—"Persons continue to ship gold to America, although, according to the last advices, it would be scarcely less unreasonable to send wheat or cotton. The Africa this morning took out £13,338. The total despatched since the end of November has been £3,100,000."

On the 7th February, our contemporary endorsed the view that "each future packet" from New York to England "would carry back some parcels of sovereigns."

On the 11th February it was remarked:—"Strange as it may seem, under the present facilities for commercial operations, to see persons exporting commodities to a country where the quotations are, and must continue to be, lower than on this side, the shipments of gold to America are continued upon a not inconsiderable scale. The America to-day, for Boston, took out £34,566 in gold, although the loss upon its realisation at New York is, even under the most favourable circumstances, not likely to be less than from 1 to 1½ per cent."

But enough of these extracts for the present. Six months after the date at which the shipments of gold to America set in, the Times is as tenacious of its view as it was before they commenced. Since the date when the last extract above given appeared, the amount of gold despatched to America has been raised from three millions to more than six millions? Where is the stream of sovereigns that was to flow back? Where are the wails of the impoverished shippers, justly punished for their "increased folly?"

It is not too much to say that public opinion severely and justly condemns exhibitions of this kind on the part of "the leading journal." Do the members of the commercial community understand the business in which they have been educated, and which is their daily study? Or is it necessary that some "impetuous" and dogmatic journalist should rush forward from time to time and dictatorially set them right? The mercantile public feel that the Times—and not now for the first time—has overstepped all limits, and provoked rebuke. Temperate discussion, no matter how wide or free its range, is to the English public as necessary as light and air; but there is no disposition to tolerate a despotism on the part of the press, any more than on that of any other estate of the realm. When public writers persist obstinately in ignoring or distorting the most palpable facts, in refusing to observe and to learn, and in casting abuse upon the commercial community, who are themselves under the necessity both of observing and of learning, it is high time that the relative positions of the public and of the journalist should be reversed—that the critic should be criticised, and the reviewer reviewed.

TURKISH FINANCE.—THE POSITION OF THE HOLDERS OF THE LOAN OF 1858.

It has been a grateful task to us to call attention occasionally to certain points in Turkish finance which, in spite of all the gloom surrounding the subject, are calculated to warn the bondholders and others interested in the progress of Turkey not to despair. During the present week further occasion for encouragement has been presented through the publication, by the Turkish Minister in London, of a letter, received by him from the Imperial Minister for Foreign Affairs. This correspondence will be found in our City Article. It results from the independent action which has been taken by Mr. H. J. Meadows, of the Stock Exchange, in conjunction with numerous holders of the Loan of 1858, that an important alteration has been effected in the arrangements for dealing with the Constantinople Customs and other revenues, specially hypothecated to meeting the interest and sinking fund on this loan. Instructions have been issued by the Porte that these revenues shall in future be transmitted, month by month, as fast as they are collected, direct to the Syndicate or Financial Commission established at Constantinople. The old system of delays is abolished, and the direct and proper relation is established between the Constantinople Custom-house, where these revenues are gathered, and the Bank of England, whence they are distributed amongst the English bondholders.

Thus much is to be gathered from the correspondence alluded to. But, as the result of inquiries which we have been enabled to prosecute in the best-informed quarters, we gather a variety of new particulars relating to Turkish finance, which, both from their authenticity and from their encouraging bearing, may be commended to attention. In the first place, the instructions which have been given by the Porte to the Constantinople Custom-house are to be put into immediate execution. The well-accredited medium through which the money will come direct to the Bank of England, is that of the Ottoman Bank. There is an impression here that the Customs revenues will reach the hands of the Syndicate in the shape of paper, and partly in that of "promises to pay," from various parties. In former times this was so, but an important change has been made. The bondholders will be glad to learn that the money reaches the Syndicate in specie. By the new arrangements which have been established, the Constantinople Customs duties assigned to the loan will always be paid in this tangible form. As the mode in which the funds are to be passed on has already been fixed, the first monthly remittance will be made to London almost immediately. It may be added that the amount of the Constantinople and other Customs revenues, specially assigned for the purpose, is considerably more than sufficient to meet the entire charge for interest and sinking fund on the Loan of 1858.

Now, considering the complete adequacy of these revenues, their absolute hypothecation to the purpose, the very important fact that this hypothecation has always been acknowledged and is scrupulously acted upon by the Turkish Government, and also the arrangements which have now been made for preventing any hitch or delay in the transmission of the money to the hands of the persons in England entitled to it, it may well be thought strange that the price of the Turkish Six per Cent. Loan of 1858 should remain as low as 57 in the London market. At this price it yields 10½ per cent. per annum to a purchaser, besides the advantage which arises from the periodical application of the sinking fund by annual drawings at par (100). Turkey may well, we think, complain that her securities are so hardly dealt with. Communities possessing more acuteness and less scruple might, perhaps, almost be tempted to doubt whether it were worth their while to remain honest under similar circumstances. Even should the embarrassments of the Turkish Government force it hereafter to offer another loan in England, the present loan ought not to be prejudiced, inasmuch as its holders will retain the exclusive right to the produce of the Constantinople Customs. Any new loan must be secured upon some other branch of revenue. Surely there is sufficient in these considerations to give encouragement to the bondholders, whether regard be had to the probability of a punctual payment of their interest, or of a recovery in the market value of their principal.

It may be interesting to the bondholders to know that the Syndicate or Commission referred to is composed, rightly, of four members, two of whom, in accordance with the provisions of the contract for the Loan of 1858, are appointed by Messrs. Dent, Palmer, and Co., the contractors, and the other two by the Turkish Government. The duty of this Commission was originally to see that the proceeds of the loan were applied to the stipulated purposes, namely, the extinction of the old Kaimés, or paper money. Their present duty is to see generally that the arrangements connected with the loan and with the transmission of the revenues specially assigned to it, are correctly managed. The Honorary President of the Syndicate is the Minister of Finance for the time being, but this functionary can hardly be regarded as a fifth member. It is not satisfactory to learn, however, that the place of one of the Commissioners representing the English bondholders has remained vacant since the death of Mr. Falconnet, late manager of the Ottoman Bank at Constantinople. The appointment to the vacancy rests in the hands of the contractors, on behalf of the bondholders, and it is highly desirable that the right should be exercised without delay, instead of being allowed to lapse. There is no idea of any objection whatever being raised on the part of the Turkish Government, who have acted through the whole affair in good faith.

THE NECESSITY OF AN EARLIER PUBLICATION OF THE BANK RETURNS.

An amount of pressure is being brought to bear on the Bank of England relative to an earlier publication of the Bank Returns, which is usually the precursor of a change. It is perfectly evident that the Bank Directors cannot retain much longer the monopoly involved in their being in possession of the Bank Returns on Thursday, which are not known to the public until Saturday morning. Considering how much depends on the figures contained in these Returns, the banking and commercial public will not tolerate much longer the present system, and we have too high an opinion of the wisdom of the Bank Directors to believe that they would wish to retain it. Either this knowledge is of value or it is not. If it is, no body of men in this commercial community ought to be in possession of a secret which gives them such an advantage over others, and if it is of no value there can be no reason why the rest of the world should not know it as well as the Directors of the Bank. When we first alluded to the subject in these columns, we expressly guarded ourselves against being supposed to insinuate that the Bank Directors make use of the knowledge they possess for their own private advantage. But this merely proves that there can be no possible object in delaying the publication of the Bank Returns after the Court have deliberated on them on Thursday. Nothing would be so easy as then to post them up outside the Bank or in the Hall. This duty would not occupy any one of their clerks five minutes. The rest would be done through the usual sources of communication. Within a few minutes after the publication of the figures they would be known by telegraph at all the great marts of commerce throughout England, and the public would be enabled to regulate their transactions accordingly. It cannot be denied that such knowledge is of essential service to the commercial world. Why, then, is it withheld? We have heard it objected, that the fault does not rest with the Bank Directors but with the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes. If our readers marvel what those functionaries can have to do with the matter, let them turn to the Bank Charter Act, and there they will find the following clause:—"An account of the amount of Bank of England notes issued by the issue department of the Bank of England, and of gold coin and of gold and silver bullion respectively, and of securities in the said issue department, and also an account of the capital stock and the deposits, and of the money and securities belonging to the said Governor and Company in the banking department of the Bank of England, on some day in every week to be fixed by the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, shall be transmitted by the said Governor and Company weekly to the said Commissioners in the form (they now appear), and shall be published by the said Commissioners in the next succeeding London Gazette, in which the same may be conveniently inserted."

Now, really to attempt to place the sin of the omission on the shoulders of the already heavily burdened Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, does seem rather unjust. We should like to know the exact time at which they receive the Returns. No doubt it is on Thursday, the day on which they are known to every Bank Director. But the figures are only sent to the Commissioners for the purpose of being inserted officially in the next Gazette. There is nothing whatever in the clause in the Act to prevent the Bank Directors from giving publicity to the Returns immediately after their usual meeting on Thursday. It is, therefore, a mere subterfuge to lay the blame of their non-publication on the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes.

But if the Directors and officers of the Bank of England would stand aghast at the idea of so radical an innovation as that involved in posting up the Returns in the building itself on Thursday afternoon (although we see no reason at all why this should not be done), and if they prefer to pass them through the medium of the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes, as heretofore, the kernel of the matter may be seized in the question—Which is “the next succeeding London Gazette” in which the Returns “may be conveniently inserted?” Because the next ordinary publication of the Gazette is on Friday evening, which is, for all practical purposes of public information, Saturday morning, are the public to be kept waiting for the Returns? It would scarcely be possible to imagine so frivolous an objection to a proposed public improvement. A supplement to the London Gazette is issued promptly enough if despatches arrive recounting a desperate struggle before a New Zealand pah, in which two men are wounded and none killed. Why may not a half-sheet be produced on Thursday afternoon to communicate the Bank Returns to an expecting public? Who will presume to stand in the way? Is it that high and mighty functionary the printer of the London Gazette? Is it the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes? Or can it be that, before the affair can move, the impulse must come from the Bank of England—a corporation the slowest to move of any in the kingdom?

THE AMENDED LAW RELATIVE TO EXCHEQUER BILLS.

As the Exchequer Bills falling due in June are about to be called in, and new ones issued in lieu of them, it may be well to consider for a moment the main provisions of the new Act, under which all Supply Bills will in future be issued. The changes are of considerable importance. In the first place, Exchequer Bills will be limited under the new Act to an amount not exceeding £13,230,000. That sum cannot be exceeded without the express authority of an Act of Parliament to be passed for the purpose. The rate of interest which Exchequer Bills are to bear is never to exceed  $5\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. per annum, and this interest is to be payable half-yearly at the Bank of England. Fourteen days prior to the expiration of each twelve months from the respective dates of Exchequer Bills, they can be paid off, both as regards principal and interest, if the holders desire; but if payment be not claimed, then they are to have legal currency for the following twelve months, and so on from year to year until they are paid off. That is to say, if the holder of an Exchequer Bill which falls due in June, neglect to claim the principal at the time when it falls due, he cannot claim payment for it until the June of the next year. But at any time in the last six months of every year from the day of the date of the Exchequer Bill, or in other words, during the last six months of its currency, it may be received and taken as cash with the interest thereon by every receiver or collector of Customs, Excise, or any revenue, supply, aid, or tax whatsoever, provided it has been examined and verified by the Comptroller-General of the Exchequer. It would appear by the Act that Exchequer Bills may be issued for a term not exceeding five years, and be renewed from time to time for a similar period.

We would here observe, that as Exchequer Bills are to be made out with coupons attached to them, which are to be presented to the Bank for payment as the half-yearly interest falls due, some difficulty will occur if they are to carry a varying rate of interest. For instance, an Exchequer Bill for £100 is issued bearing 3 per cent. interest, with coupons attached to it, for the same rate of interest. Supposing that the interest is raised to 4 per cent., the holder presents his coupon for £1. 10s.; but how is he to be paid the difference? The document will bear one rate of interest on the face of it, but may virtually bear a greater or a less rate. How this is to be arranged has not yet been explained.

By clause 20 of the Act it is lawful for the Bank of England to make advances to the Government to the extent of the whole of the £13,230,000 of Exchequer Bills. This appears to be a very large power.

The arrangement allowing Exchequer Bills which have only six months longer to run to be paid in for taxes and revenue, will tend greatly to relieve the present limited market for these securities, and to raise them in public estimation as a temporary investment; but it must be borne in mind that, in proportion as the holders may be benefited, the Government and the Bank of England may be embarrassed should any large amount of bills be paid in. We pointed this out at the time when the Bill was under discussion. We would again suggest to the Chancellor of the Exchequer the propriety of dividing the whole amount of Exchequer Bills into four equal portions, falling due respectively in March, June, September, and December, instead of only in March and June as at present. As the Act now stands the option is given to holders of paying in the whole £13,230,000 for duties between January and March; whereas, if they fell due every three months in equal proportions, only half that amount could by any possibility have the option of being paid in during a period of six months. It is very well to say that the danger apprehended is chimerical, but in a time of panic or monetary pressure, considering that Exchequer Bills are mostly held by bankers, it is very possible that the Government and the Bank of England might be subjected to great inconvenience should any large amount be paid in. It must be borne in mind that, at times of pressure, for the holders to deal with them in this way would be the most certain means of relieving the money market. As already stated, the whole of the Bills are at present dated in March and June; consequently, the March Bills, supposing them to be dated the 15th March, could not be paid in before the 15th September, nor the June Bills before the 15th January; but the whole £13,230,000 would be by law receivable for duties between January and March. The object of all parties must be to let the public derive every possible advantage from holding Exchequer Bills as regards their convertibility, and also to prevent the Government and the Bank of England from being inconvenienced by too large a number being paid in for duties. Of course, the Government may at any time prevent this by raising the rate of interest, but this resource is costly, and Mr. Gladstone seems to be particularly averse to it.

After all, it seems to us that a great deal of useless machinery might be got rid of by taking the earliest opportunity of funding the Exchequer Bill Debt. It is a perpetual source of trouble and vexation to the Government, and, we may add, it furnishes the pretext for an immense amount of “hocus pocus” work between the Government and the Bank of England. Some people suspect that this is the real reason why the system of issuing Exchequer Bills is kept up. It may also be an object to give the “Comptroller-General of the Exchequer” something to do for the £3,000 per annum which his office unnecessarily costs the country.

[At a late hour, since the foregoing was put into type, we have received the official notification embodying the new arrangements respecting Exchequer Bills. It will be found in our City Article.]

THE OFFICIAL REPORT ON RAILWAYS IN INDIA.

THE annual report of Mr. Juland Danvers, the Secretary of the Railway Department, is, as usual, able and lucid. We shall avail ourselves of it in order to place before our readers, in as condensed a form as possible, the present position of Indian Railways. It would appear that the extent of lines now in course of execution is 2,932½ miles, of which 1,353½ miles will probably be opened during the present year. In 1862 almost all the rest will, it is expected, be finished, including the Grand Trunk Line from Calcutta to Delhi. To show how greatly Indian Railways are likely to benefit the natives of India, it is stated that 17,532 are employed in various ways, and that 3,112,500 persons have been carried on the portions of the East Indian, Madras, and Great Indian Peninsula Railways now open for traffic.

Up to the close of 1860, the total sum raised for Indian Railways amounted to £32,845,747, and the expenditure to £31,171,353. At the close of the official year, viz., on the 30th April, 1861, £34,396,445 had been raised, and £34,042,128 expended. The amount which can be raised by calls on shares is £1,360,700, and by debentures (or, failing this means, to be advanced by Government), £6,546,139.

The estimated future expenditure is as follows:—

				England.		Ind'ia.
In 1861-2	...	£8,000,000	...	...	£2,000,000	...	£6,000,000
1862-3	...	4,000,000	...	...	750,000	...	3,250,000
1863-4	...	1,500,000	...	...	300,000	...	1,200,000
1864-5	...	500,000	...	...	100,000	...	400,000

This sum (which some of the Companies deem excessive) is to complete the railways which have been sanctioned, but is exclusive of the £7,000,000 or £8,000,000 required ultimately for works that have been suspended.

The interest paid by the Indian Government up to the close of 1860, amounted to £5,299,709, from which sum, however, must be deducted £880,331 received up to the 30th June last as the nett profits to that date. The annual charge for interest, which now amounts to nearly £1,800,000, will, it is to be hoped, disappear altogether when the railways are in working order, whilst the arrears, it may be hoped, will soon be met from half the excess of profits beyond 5 per cent.

The total number of proprietors in England amounts to 17,118, and in India to 679, but the native proprietors are only 336 in number. This proves that the natives do not embark their hoarded wealth either in Government Stocks or Indian Railways, and that some means must be devised, such as selling them land in fee simple to raise the sums necessary to complete not only railways, but works of irrigation and other reproductive undertakings required for the development of India.

Mr. Danvers concludes his report by stating that the only impediment to the development of the railway system in India, is the apprehended difficulty in supplying funds. The physical and engineering obstacles which presented themselves, if they have not been entirely overcome, are in a fair way of being so. Rivers of great width and depth are being spanned by bridges which will stand as monuments of the scientific skill of the present age; mountains will be crossed by means of works, which, of their kind, will be unrivalled; swamps and jungles have been drained and cleared, and hills have been pierced. All this has been done by British capital, but its flow has, for a time, received a check, not only by the mutinies, but by the state of the money market.

We beg particular attention to the following statement of Mr. Danvers, as confirming the views we have repeatedly advanced:—"If the expenditure is more rapid than the rate at which capital can be raised by debentures and shares it may be necessary to have recourse to Government aid in the shape of advances. The charge upon the State involved in this arrangement will not be more than it now is, and the risk to the Government will not be greater as the conditions of the contract remain unaffected by it. There can be no doubt that the best policy to be pursued under existing circumstances is that which has been decided on, viz., to proceed steadily with the works which are in progress, and to raise the funds as required, if the Companies fail to do so, through the direct agency of Government; to postpone, but only temporarily, works which have not been commenced; and to guarantee no further projects until the lines already sanctioned have been completed." Mr. Danvers concludes by stating that the early completion of the main lines which have been sanctioned appears to be a matter of paramount importance, and to admit of no delay.

We cannot conclude our notice of this report without mentioning the very satisfactory terms in which the Governor-general of India speaks of the good management and the right spirit that pervade the dealings of the officers of the East Indian Railway Company with the native population. The result is, that the labourers come in freely to work. Lord Canning thinks that these circumstances should be brought prominently to the notice of her Majesty's Government as being most creditable to the officers of the East Indian Railway Company.

With regard to raising the capital to complete these works, we cannot but think that the most judicious plan would be to give the companies a certain time to dispose of their debentures, and if the money needed be not raised in that time, for the Indian Government to raise a loan for the purpose. There can be but little doubt that Indian Railway Securities will continue favourite investments with the public, first, because under any circumstances they are a first-class security, paying a high rate of interest as a minimum, and, secondly, because that rate of interest will most probably greatly increase when the lines are finished and the traffic becomes developed. That they will greatly add to the prosperity, and, we may add, security of India, admits of no doubt whatever. This report is especially valuable as intimating that if the public do not take up the debentures which are offered, the Government will itself make advances to the railway companies, so that no doubt whatever exists of the lines being completed from one source or the other.

We may add that, by the latest advices, the financial position of the Indian Government has taken a favourable turn, and it is confidently expected that the present will be the last year of chronic deficits.

THE DANGERS OF THE MORRILL TARIFF TO THE UNITED STATES.

IN our last impression various considerations were enumerated illustrating the influence of the Morrill Tariff in embittering the enmity between the North and the South. But that Tariff is also full of danger to the United States themselves. It introduces a wedge which may yet split the Northern Confederation asunder. It is in this sense that it is condemned by the most enlightened commercial authorities in the North itself. The United States Economist, for example, pronounces "the Morrill Tariff the most revolutionary instrument of modern times." "It is no use disguising the fact," observes that journal, "that among the mercantile community of New York there is a strong feeling growing up in favour of making the city a free port, in the event of the protective party persisting in the permanent imposition of higher duties than those of the Tariff of 1857. Men whose devotion to the Union has always been unswerving have had their faith in Federal legislation so severely shaken by the madness that passed the Tariff law, that they begin to say, 'if we cannot save our trade in the Union, we must try to save it out of the Union.'" Not less significant are the following excellent passages, which will be read with great interest in this country:—"The thoughts of the people are beginning to shape themselves into such awkward questions as these—Is it right that a petty minority of States should control the commercial policy of the whole Union? Is it not giving too much for the advantages of union that we should have to pay a premium amounting to hundreds of millions annually on the incompetency of our own manufacturers to produce as cheaply as those of other countries? Are we not sacrificing our own interests when, by allowing the building up of an exclusive system of commerce, we are preventing foreigners from buying from us our immense annual exports of natural produce? Is not a section of the manufacturing interest building up for itself a monopoly oppressive to all the other interests of the country? Can we afford to be everlastingly paying 30 per cent. more than is necessary for all we wear, all we drink, much of what we eat, and, in short, for everything for which our money is given in exchange? Is it not clear that a union imposing upon the people such heavy burdens has to some extent failed to realise those purposes of substantial interest for the securing of which it was first formed? These are some of the ominous thoughts naturally suggested by the present condition of the country and by the recent Tariff legislation. The bonds that unite the several States to each other are loosened; and under such circumstances those sections naturally classed together by similarity of interests are beginning to ask themselves the grave question, whether they would not prosper better if freed from the heavy imposts levied by the manufacturing interests of the country. The fact that there is in the country a knot of Protectionists powerful enough to pass such an oppressive Act as Morrill's Tariff gives them no assurance that in the future these burthens are likely to be lessened; whilst the fact that seven States are now gone from the Union whose opposition has always kept the Protectionists in check gives promise of their increased power. This aspect of affairs is unquestionably prompting the various sections to balance the question of—interest in the Union, and interest out of it. Such facts as the foregoing cannot fail to tell upon their fealty to the Union if the Protectionist party should press too heavily upon them."

THE STATE OF TRADE.

(COMPILED FROM NUMEROUS LOCAL REPORTS.)

THE accounts from the manufacturing districts this week report continued dullness. A cloud is evidently hanging over trade; and the dearthness of money and the crisis in America have produced a degree of stagnation of enterprise such as has not been experienced since 1858.

The advices from Manchester state that owing to the unfavourable accounts from India, and the continued tightness in the money market, all descriptions of goods suited for our Eastern dependencies are lower in price this week. The market for piece-goods generally is more depressed; prices are tending to a further reduction. In the yarn market there is no particular change to report. The tone is not worse, though there is but little business going on. The chief movement is in water-twist taken by German houses, at rates which are tolerably steady. Quotations of yarns have become very irregular, but are rather firmly held, considering the quiet state of the market, and that there is no longer any inquiry for India. Yarns for the home trade are also neglected, with some decline in price.

At Leeds there has been but a thin attendance of buyers in the cloth-halls. The amount of business was restricted by the Whitsuntide holidays, which, notwithstanding the undoubted slackness of trade, have been celebrated with a good deal of festive observance, scarcely anything like want apparently existing among the working classes.

At Rochdale little business has been done either in wool or flannels. Manufacturers are moderately well employed, and, as the time is advancing for the purchase for the fall trade, a better state of things is anticipated before long.

The report from Bradford, dated Thursday, describes a partial cessation of business during this week of holidays. The supply of yarns greatly exceeds the demand. Sales are effected at ruinous prices. This time last year yarns were  $12\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. dearer than now, and the fall in wool is comparatively very slight. The demand for pieces has been of the most retail character. The principal topic of conversation has been the failure of Mr. R. Hargreaves, with considerable liabilities.

At Huddersfield there is no improvement to notice; some few buyers have been about the Cloth Hall and the warehouses, but their transactions have been on the usual limited scale to which we have now been accustomed for so long a period. The mills are now working short time generally, and altogether the prospect for the next two or three months is anything but cheering.

At Leicester most branches of the hosiery trade remain in a very dull state. In the country hosiery districts trade is extremely depressed and there is no immediate prospect of a change.

At Nottingham there has not been much doing this week in the lace trade. It is thought the fineness of the weather will have some little influence on the demand. Very little is doing for export. The home trade also continues depressed for the time of the year. There is no change in the hosiery trade; all classes of goods are a dull sale, shipping orders being scarce, and the home demand flat. Numbers of framework knitters and lacemakers are out of work.

As regards the state of the manufacturing trades of Wolverhampton and its neighbourhood, the reports are scarcely more favourable than of late; some few of the factors are doing rather more business, but others still complain of the smallness of orders and of the complete inactivity of the home trade. At Willenhall the lock trade is bad; and the staple branch of Walsall is not much more favourably placed, the home as well as the foreign orders being on the most limited scale.

At Birmingham rather more animation has been observable in some few trades; amongst them may be noted the military gun trade, the edge-tool manufacture, and the tube trade. Most of the principal firms in these branches are busy; but for all kinds of plated wares, braziers, and in the light steel-toy branches, the orders come in slowly, and are small. The jewellers are not doing more than half the usual trade. Many of the artisans who work at home have not more than half a week's work.

The tone of the reports relative to the Midland iron trade are unvaried; business is as dull as possible, and the rumours as to the probability of fresh failures have a very bad effect.

THE VOLUNTEER MOVEMENT—THE METROPOLITAN RIFLE RANGE COMPANY.

THE establishment of the volunteer system as a permanent institution of the country has induced a number of noblemen and gentlemen closely identified with the movement, to organise a company which proposes to construct a permanent practice ground in the neighbourhood of London. The title of the project is the Metropolitan Rifle Range Company, (Limited). Amongst the honorary directors we notice the names of the Duke of Wellington, the Earl Grosvenor, Viscount Ranelagh, Major-General Lord F. Paulet, Lord Radstock, Major-General the Hon. Sir J. Y. Scarlett, Sir Duncan McDougall, &c. It is apparently proposed to give the project as much of a national character as possible. The practice ground is to have great facilities of access from every part; and, with this view, a suitable piece of land has been secured at Kensal-green. The arrangements are to be upon a sufficiently large scale to accommodate all the metropolitan rifle corps; and it is stated that assurances of ample support have already been obtained from many influential quarters. The capital is to be £60,000, in shares of £5 each.

MERCANTILE EMBARRASSMENTS.

The stoppage was announced on Thursday of Mr. A. Psichari, a small but respectable house in the Levant trade. The amount of the direct liabilities probably does not exceed £25,000 or £30,000.

Mr. Psichari has, we are informed, placed his affairs in the hands of Messrs. Coleman, Turquand, Youngs, and Co.

Meetings of the creditors of Messrs. T. Ralli, Sons, and Co., and of Messrs. P. Hava and Co., both Greek firms, are called for Tuesday and Thursday respectively.

At the meeting on Thursday of the creditors of Messrs. Ede and Co., Levant merchants, it was resolved, after hearing the explanations of Mr. Kemp, the accountant, to accept 20s. in the pound, payable in instalments extending over twelve months, with interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum, as previously agreed to at a meeting at Constantinople.

The affairs of Mr. Robert Dixon, coal merchant, have been arranged with full release at 7s. 6d. in the pound. Mr. F. M. Mullaly is the accountant in the matter.

A meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Richard Clarke and Sons, cotton spinners, was held at Manchester on Tuesday. The liabilities amount to £33,000, and the assets to between £6,000 and £7,000. It was proposed to pay a composition of 2s. 6d. in the pound, and this, it is understood, will be accepted.

The committee appointed at the recent meeting of the creditors of Mr. Thomas Dowling, timber merchant, having gone through the accounts, recommend the creditors to accept the composition offered—viz., 6s. in the pound, payable in instalments at two, four, and six months.

In the Bankruptcy Court on Thursday immediate certificates of the second class were awarded to Messrs. Davies and Troughton, bankers, of Shoreditch.

In the Bankruptcy Court yesterday (Friday), there was a dividend sitting under the separate estate of Messrs. Davies and Troughton, bankers, of Shoreditch. It was stated that the dividend will be 20s. in the pound, with a considerable surplus applicable to the joint estate.

The following circular was issued on Monday by Messrs. Ede and Co. (not Francis Ede, Son, and Co.), Levant merchants, who failed some time back:—

16, George-street, Mansion-house, London, E.C., May 20, 1861.

We beg to apprise you that we have this morning received a telegram, informing us that a meeting of our creditors was held at Constantinople on Friday last, and the following settlement unhesitatingly agreed to, viz.: 5s. in the pound in cash, ditto at six months, ditto at nine months, ditto at twelve months, with interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum. As this proposal has been made on the assumption that our creditors on this side will grant us the same indulgence, we have to request your attendance at a general meeting of those interested in our affairs, which will be held at the offices of Mr. C. F. Kemp, accountant, 7, Gresham street, on Thursday next, the 23rd instant, at 12 o'clock precisely, when your assent to this arrangement will be solicited. The additional complications that have arisen in the Levant trade and Turkish finance since our circular of April 12 compel us, with extreme reluctance, to ask this further extension of time. Should we, however, realise our assets sooner than can now be foreseen, we beg to assure you of our intention to liquidate our engagements before the dates above-mentioned. Those creditors who have already sent out their bills to Constantinople will have their claims arranged by our house there.—We are, &c., EDE AND CO.

With reference to the affairs of Mr. E. Vitalis, Greek merchant, who suspended in February, the following circular was issued yesterday (Friday):—

Since my circular of April 25th, announcing the pro forma adjournment of the meeting of creditors of this estate until May 27th, Mr. Vitalis has returned to London with the information that the two principal debtors to his estate (Messrs. Schneider and E. Glavany) have effected arrangements in Constantinople to pay a composition of 12s. in the pound as follows, viz.:—

Messrs. Schneider and Co.—5s. in the pound on the collection of the sum of £15,000 due to them by H. M. the Sultan, (expected to be paid forthwith); 3s. on 31st August 1861, and 4s. on 30th April, 1862, guaranteed by the private property of Mrs. Schneider.

Messrs. E. Glavany and Co.:—4s. at 5 months from 1st April, 1861; 4s. at 10 months from 1st April, 1861; and 4s. at 16 months from 1st April, 1861.

These settlements have however been made conditionally, that a release be given to Mr. E. Vitalis on all bills bearing either his acceptance or endorsement. Messrs. G. P. Vitalis and Sons have likewise arranged to pay in full in four equal instalments at 3, 6, 9, and 12 months date. The liabilities of this estate having all matured in sufficient time for the bills to be sent back on Constantinople, it is presumed that few, if any, remain outstanding on this side. Any holders of bills upon which this estate is liable will be pleased to forward me their assent to this arrangement forthwith. It is but right that I should add that the firms of Messrs. Schneider and Glavany have both pledged themselves to pay, if possible, the remaining 8s. in the pound, so that prospectively it may be hoped no ultimate loss will accrue.—I am, yours faithfully,

CHARLES F. KEMP, Public Accountant.

JAMAICA COTTON.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—May we request you to find space for the removal of a misapprehension which the West Indian correspondent of one of your contemporaries has fallen into as to the extent of our movements in regard to cotton growing in Jamaica? It is no part of our plan to grow ourselves thousands of acres of cotton, but rather to present an example of skilful, and, we hope, successful cultivation, which may induce hundreds, and even thousands, of proprietors in that country to turn their attention to the cultivation of their now abandoned estates in cotton and provisions. We are firmly convinced that better cotton may be thus obtained than that now so profitably grown in the Southern States of America, and that the cost of labour in Jamaica at this moment is less than half that of slaves in America.

The extent to which our experiments will be carried on must depend on the number of our shareholders. Up to this moment we have only ventured to put in cultivation a few hundred acres of land, although we are well convinced that Jamaica alone could, if capital and energy were provided, furnish our Lancashire manufacturers with at least a million bales of cotton before March next.—We are, &c.,

STEPHEN BOURNE, } Secretaries to the Jamaica
WILLIAM BRAMSTON, } Cotton Company (Limited).

THE PACKET SERVICE BETWEEN GALWAY AND AMERICA.—The Atlantic Royal Mail Steam Navigation Company having failed to fulfil the stipulations of the contract for the conveyance of mails between Galway and America, the Postmaster-General, with the approval of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, has declared that contract at an end. No mails for Newfoundland or the United States will, therefore, be despatched from Galway on Tuesday next, the 21st inst., or on any succeeding Tuesday. All letters, &c., for Newfoundland will henceforth be forwarded via Halifax.—By command of the Postmaster-General, ROWLAND HILL, Secretary.—[We remark, however, that the company are practically testifying their intention of strengthening their resources for the mail service, and the directors express confidence that, as soon as they can show that they are in a position to comply with the requirements of Government, the subsidy will be restored to them.—ED. M. M. R.]

TWESBURY AND MALVERN RAILWAY.—An extraordinary meeting of shareholders was held on Tuesday at the offices, Bridge-street, for the purpose of authorising the exercise of the powers conferred upon the company, for borrowing upon mortgage or bond any sums not exceeding in the whole £48,000. A resolution in conformity with the object for which the meeting was called was adopted unanimously; the money to be raised by debentures at 5 per cent., and payable at periods of three, five, and seven years.

Notes in Reserve .. .. .	5,820,380	Decrease	157,815
Total Reserve (Notes and Coin) in Banking Department .. .. .	6,655,541	Decrease	159,115

The principal feature is the further decline of £387,345 in the coin and bullion, by which the total is reduced to £11,995,101. The draw of specie to America is, of course, the cause of this. The reserve has also declined, owing to the withdrawals of private deposits. There has, however, been no addition to the aggregate of the commercial securities under discount in the Bank.

THE MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 24.

THE discount market this week has shown indications of comparative ease, notwithstanding the demand to ship gold to America. More confidence is inspired by the recovery in the American exchange, and the market generally exhibits a settled appearance compared with that presented last week. At the Bank of England the demand for money, which on Saturday last was considerable, has since been upon a quiet scale. In Lombard-street the rates for the best bills were 6 to 6½ per cent. until yesterday, when transactions occurred at 5¾. To-day the market was quiet.

In the Stock Exchange to-day there was a fair supply of money at 4 to 4½ per cent. on Government Securities.

Since our last report, £506,000 in specie has been despatched to America, making an aggregate of £6,047,000 since the 28th of November.

Eight thousand pounds in gold was sent into the Bank on Thursday, and 60,000 sovereigns were withdrawn for transmission to New York on Saturday by the Australasian. The operations to-day comprised a purchase by the Bank of £16,000, and a withdrawal of 35,000 sovereigns for New York. The aggregate by the Australasian is expected to be £150,000 or £200,000.

Nearly the whole of the £205,000 in gold by the Copenhagen will probably be taken to the Bank, after being refined.

To-day's packet from America brings the exchange at 106½. This is a very satisfactory feature, although it is partly due to the large shipments of gold from this country.

The Sultan will take on the 27th instant £160,880 in silver, and £28,011 in gold for Bombay, besides £3,000 in gold for Alexandria, making in all £191,891. Of the silver, £50,129 is on Government account.

THE BULLION MARKET.

With reference to the movements in bullion and in the Indian Government paper, Messrs. Pixley, Abell, and Langley report as follows:—

GOLD.—The Copenhagen, with £205,000, has arrived from Melbourne, but as there is not much demand for bar gold for export, the greater part of the amount will be retained here. Sovereigns, however, continue to be sent to America in considerable quantities, the America having taken £258,724; the City of Washington, £207,000; and the Borussia, £30,000—making a total of £6,037,000 since Nov. last year, and further sums are likely to be sent. The other exports comprise 19,987 per Ceylon to India and China, and £25,000 per Peninsula, to Cadiz. A considerable amount of gold coin has been received from Turkey, and we may now daily look for further arrivals from Australia. In addition to the vessels mentioned in our last as being on the way from Melbourne may be added the Norfolk, which was to sail on the 13th April, and would probably bring a considerable amount. The total of gold sent into the Bank during the week has been about £70,000.

SILVER.—The silver, ex La Plata, has been sold at a fractional improvement in price, and we quote the price at 60½d. per oz. standard. There is, however, but little doing, and the market is quiet. The Ceylon has taken £237,094 in silver specie to India and China, and the Shannon £5,000 to the West Indies.

MEXICAN DOLLARS.—Although the price is slightly firmer, the market is very quiet, and there is scarcely any business to be reported.

EXCHANGE on India for Drafts by Banks at 60 days' sight, Bombay and Calcutta, continues 1s. 11½d. to 2s.; Madras 1s. 11½d. to 2s.; Bills with Documents, Bombay and Calcutta, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11½d.

INDIA GOVERNMENT LOAN NOTES.—The quotations for these securities are quite nominal; Five-and-a-Half per Cents. are about par, and Five per Cents. about 94.

The report of Messrs. Haggard and Co., dated this day, observes:—

During the past week our market has been rather active, and prices have in most instances tended upwards. The principal feature has again been the shipment of large amounts of gold to America. There is scarcely any demand for gold to the Continent, but some considerable amounts have been sent to New York, and it is expected that the Asia, on Saturday, will take a further large amount. Bar silver has been rather firmer, owing to the short supply on hand, and the price has advanced to 60½d. The Market is now again quiet. The bars by the La Plata were sold at the above price. Mexican dollars have also improved ¼d. per oz., being now quoted 4s. 11½d.

THE EXCHANGES.

The Continental exchanges this week have been generally steady. The late improvement is fairly supported. The principal variation has been a considerable movement in the Vienna exchange in a sense adverse to Austria.

INTEREST AND DIVIDENDS.

The half-yearly dividend is advertised on the Swedish Provincial Mortgage Loan.

AUSTRALIAN GOLD.

The amount of Australian gold known to be still at sea is £556,000, of which £176,000 is fully due. Annexed are the particulars:

IMPORTANT NOTICE RESPECTING EXCHEQUER BILLS.

The following important official announcement relating to Exchequer Bills appears in the London Gazette of this (Friday) evening. It is the first announcement of the kind that has embodied the new arrangements just sanctioned by the Legislature. It will be noticed that the interest on the June Bills is raised from 2d. per £100 per day, or £3. 0s. 10d. per cent. per annum, to £3. 15s. per cent. per annum. Exchequer Bills will now compete more powerfully with the Funds:—

N.B.—This being the first issue of Exchequer Bills under the Act of the present year, the attention of Holders is specially called to the following particulars:—Office of Her Majesty's Postmaster-General, Whitehall, May 24, 1861.

The Exchequer Bills, dated in the month of June, 1860, per Act 23 Vict., cap. 20, anno 1860), with the interest due thereon, will be paid off on the 11th June, 1861, when the interest will cease. Such bills will be received at this office daily, from half-past ten till three o'clock, until the 4th day of June, 1861, inclusive.

Printed forms, containing instructions for the preparation of the lists and the arrangement of the bills may be obtained on application at this office.

The holders must write or stamp their names on the face of each Bill, and they must insert their names and addresses, in each list; but where the names of holders are inserted in the body of the bills, the indorsements of such holders must be obtained previously to their lists, and bills being left for examination.

New Bills, prepared in accordance with the provisions of the Act 24 Vict., cap. 5, dated the 11th day of June, 1861, may be obtained in payment of the principal of the whole, or part, of the Exchequer Bills advertised for payment, on the claimants specifying in their lists the amount of new bills required by them.

The interest of the said bills will be payable by coupons half-yearly, on the 12th December and 12th June, at the Bank of England. The rate of interest will be advertised from time to time in the London Gazette. Such rate for the half-year to the 11th day of December, 1861, will be 13. 15s. 0d. per cent. per annum.

The bills will be current, from year to year, for the period of five years, commencing on the 11th June, 1861, at the option of the holders; and they will be payable for duties, aids, and taxes, at any time during the last six months of every year, viz.: between the 11th December in each year and the 11th June following.

The new bills, together with the interest on the bills left on or before the said 4th day of June for exchange, will be issued on the 12th day of June, 1861, when the claimants must attend at this office to sign receipts for the payment of principal and interest.

Notice will be given yearly of the days on which holders of the new Exchequer Bills, who may be desirous of being paid the principal moneys, must send their bills to the Bank of England for examination and payment.

Payment in money may be obtained at this office for any Exchequer Bills, which have been advertised for payment, upon the claimants leaving the bills for examination one day prior to that on which such payment is desired.

N.B. — All Exchequer Bills dated prior to June, 1860, have been previously advertised to be paid off.

THE NEW ZEALAND LOAN.

Monday was the day fixed for the adjudication of the New Zealand Six per Cent. Loan for £150,000. The number of tenders sent in to the Union Bank of Australia, up to two o'clock, the hour fixed for them to be opened, was forty-eight, representing £84,000. Of this amount only £18,400 was tendered for at and above the sealed minimum, which proved to be £101. 15s. This amount was accordingly accepted. In the tenders lodged there was a very wide variation in the prices offered. Some of the accepted bids were at £102. 10s. and £103, and one at £104, whilst of those which were rejected there were many at par (including two of £10,000 each), others ranging down as low as £87. 10s. How it could be imagined that a colonial 6 per cent. bond could be obtained at such a price is difficult to understand. There seems to have been a great want of precision in the biddings, as if the persons who made them had no very clear notion of the value of the article under negotiation. Considering the favour which is extended to the securities of other British colonies, a New Zealand 6 per cent. stock ought to command a good price.

Some additional amounts of the Loan have been taken during the last few days. The list remains open at the Union Bank of Australia at £101. 15s. per cent.

CAPE OF GOOD HOPE LOAN.

The Agents-General for the Crown Colonies invite tenders until the 27th instant, for a further amount of £25,000 of Cape of Good Hope Government Six per Cent. Debentures. These bonds are for sums of £100 each, and will be redeemed in London in twenty years hence. These securities have latterly become a favourite investment in the London market.

THE FRENCH RAILWAY LOAN.

The official notification issued by the Bank of France with regard to the subscription opened by that establishment for Bonds of the Eastern, Ardennes, Paris, Lyons, and Mediterranean, Southern, Orleans, and Western Railway Companies shows that the total number of Bonds of 500f., or £20, now offered, is 786,000, representing a nominal capital of £15,720,000. The price of issue varies from 291f. 25c. to 293f. 75c., so that the sum payable in cash will be about £9,400,000. The first instalment, payable by the 28th of June, is to be of such amount as to leave 200f., or £8, to be paid in two moieties on the 10th October and 10th December respectively. The annual interest is 15f. per bond, and the capital is redeemable at 500f. (£20) by annual drawings. The subscription is to be open in Paris from the 21st to the 28th inst. Lists will be kept open at the French agency offices, 38, Throgmorton-street, until the 27th.

THE TURKISH LOAN OF 1858.

The following very satisfactory correspondence, relating to the Turkish Loan of 1858, has been published this week. It fully confirms the telegram given in the MONEY MARKET REVIEW of the 4th inst. :—

Bryanstone-square, May 20, 1861.

Gentlemen,—Referring to my letter to you of the 1st inst., on the subject of the decision concerning the monthly remittance of the funds for the service of the Ottoman Loan of 1858, I have the honour to send you enclosed herewith a copy of an official despatch, dated the 1st inst., from his Highness Aali Pacha, the minister for Foreign Affairs, which, as announced by his Highness's telegram of the 20th ult., confirms the adoption of this decision.—I have the honour to be, &c.,

(Signed)

C. MUSURUS.

Messrs. Dent, Palmer, and Co.

(TRANSLATION.)

Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Sublime Porte, May 1, 1861.

Monsieur l'Ambassadeur,—I have received your despatch, dated the 18th of April, No. 1,163, enclosing the copy of a letter addressed to your Excellency by Messrs. Dent, Palmer, and Co., relative to the request which they had previously lodged for the monthly remittance of the funds destined for the payment of the interest and sinking fund of the Loan of 1858.

The Imperial Ministry of Finance, to which I had communicated in due course your despatch of the 24th of January, No. 1,128, together with the enclosures containing that request, having only recently communicated to me its decisions that henceforward the Customs revenues of Constantinople and the other funds applicable to the said Loan, shall be remitted, month by month, direct to the Treasury of the Syndicate of the Loan, I hastened to inform you of it by my telegram, dated April 30.

This decision will apply likewise to the service of the Loan for the current year; and the necessary orders have already been given to this effect in the proper quarter.

I beg you to communicate the foregoing to Messrs. Dent, Palmer, and Co., and, if you think it necessary, to the bondholders.

I would fain hope that the decision, which you will be so good as to inform them of, followed quickly by its practical application, will produce the desired effect of satisfying all the interests concerned.

I beg you, Monsieur l'Ambassadeur, to receive, &c., &c., (Signed) AALI.

Upon the same subject we have received the annexed letter from Mr. Meadows, to whose independent exertions the satisfactory progress of this affair is principally due :—

TO THE EDITOR OF THE MONEY MARKET REVIEW.

SIR,—His Excellency the Turkish Ambassador has this morning kindly favoured me with a communication stating that he had just received a despatch from Constantinople (dated May 1), for Messrs. Dent, Palmer, and Co., the contractors of the Loan of 1858, which I have read, the despatch having been politely shown to me by Messrs. Dent and Co., at the request of his Excellency. It fully confirms the telegram from Constantinople on the 30th ult., received here on the 1st inst., and a copy of which appeared in the Money Market Review on the 4th inst. The holders of the Loan of 1858 will see that the Ottoman Government have promptly consented to the request made in the memorial presented to his Excellency on the 15th March last, and by him transmitted to his Government. This shows the sincere desire of the Turkish Government to consult the wishes of the bondholders, and will inspire great confidence, as it most undoubtedly places the financial conditions of this Loan on a far more secure foundation.

Permit me also to add that the fact of the British Government having despatched two commissioners from the Board of Trade to Constantinople, in conjunction with the French Government, to assist in re-organising the financial position of the Turkish Empire, must also give great satisfaction to all interested in the welfare of that country. When we consider that the whole debt of Turkey does not amount to more than 30 millions, and that the revenue, which 30 years ago was only four millions, amounted last year to £11,382,812. 16s. 4d., with every prospect of increasing to 14 or 15 millions in the course of the next three years, surely these facts, and the honest and faithful manner in which the Turkish Government have always hitherto treated their creditors, must tend to place the credit of the Ottoman empire in that position which a country so important ought to enjoy. Thanking you for your kind insertion of my previous communications—I am, &c., 20, Throgmorton-street, London, May 21.

H. J. MEADOWS.

OTTOMAN RAILWAY LOAN.

Applications are invited by the Ottoman (Smyrna to Aidin) Railway Company, through Messrs. Hutchinson and Son, and Knight and Coleman for Six per Cent. Debentures, offered at a price which will pay 8 per cent. to the purchaser. These debentures are issued under the authority of the general meeting of the shareholders, and have been sanctioned by the Imperial Government. Holders will have the option, until November, 1865 (being six months before the debenture is paid off), to convert them into the ordinary shares of the company at par. It is mentioned that the debentures (the aggregate interest of which is £15,000 per annum), independent of being the first charge on the entire share capital and property of the company, have also the first lien on the £72,000 per annum guarantee of the Government. The security is, therefore, of a character to command confidence.

THE FAILURE OF MESSRS. YORKE.

At a meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Yorke, of the Peterborough and Oundle Bank, just held at Peterborough, the liabilities were computed at £163,606, and the assets at £53,625, exclusive of the value of the furniture, plate, &c. The chairman expressed a belief that the creditors will eventually get 5s. in the pound. It was resolved to wind up the estate under a deed of assignment, a resort to the Court of Bankruptcy being strongly deprecated. Mr. Ball, of the firm of Quilter and Co., is to be associated with a committee previously appointed.

The Parsees and other traders at Tattah, on the Indus, are already forming branch establishments at the Joongshaei station, and the collector of the district is laying out the surrounding ground for building purposes. This Company was established in 1847, with a capital of £250,000, and its liabilities are now roughly computed at £100,000. There are nearly 1,200 shareholders, who hold about 40,000 shares.

OTHER PUBLIC COMPANIES.

At the meeting on last Saturday of the Atlantic Royal Mail Steam Navigation Company, the resolutions passed at previous meetings in favour of increasing the capital from £500,000 to £1,100,000, by the issue of preference shares, and authorising the directors to borrow money, were confirmed.

At the meeting on Monday of the Oriental Gas Company, the directors' report, which recommended a dividend at the rate of 4½ per cent. for the year, free of Income-tax, was adopted. The undertaking was described as continuing to make steady progress.

The second ordinary general meeting of the East India Steam Navigation Company is called for the 30th inst., when resolutions will be submitted for increasing the capital to £500,000, and providing that the directors shall be paid, in lieu of fees, by a per centage upon the net profits.

The third half-yearly meeting of the London Flour Company (Limited) was held on the 15th inst. The directors' report congratulated the shareholders on the progress of the company. A dividend of 13 per cent. per annum, free of Income-tax, was declared, from the profits of the half-year ending the 10th ult. In addition to setting aside a further sum towards the liquidation of preliminary expenses, in respect of which a balance of only £292 now remains to be met, it was resolved to carry over to the next half-year's profit and loss account the surplus profits remaining after such payments, amounting to 6 per cent. on the paid-up capital. The report further alluded to the arrangements which have been completed for carrying on a more extended business. The directors have accordingly resolved on issuing a portion of the remaining shares at par. The report was unanimously adopted, and thanks were voted to the management.

The directors of the Anglo-Mexican Mint Company announce a dividend as payable on the 3rd of June.

THE PARIS BOURSE.

At Paris to-day (Friday) the Three per Cent. Rentes opened at 69.40, and closed at 69.25 for money, and 69.40 for the account, being nearly the same as yesterday, and also the same as on last Friday.

THE STOCK AND SHARE MARKETS.

The English Funds have been dull throughout the week. There has been a steady supply of stock, partly from the broker who acts for the Bank of England and for Government. The banking interest seem to be sellers of stock, whilst the investments by the public are diverted into securities which yield a higher rate of interest than the funds. Consols closed to-day precisely the same as on last Friday—namely, at 91½ to 5 for money, and 91½ to 5 for the 6th of June.

Exchequer Bills have risen this afternoon to 5s. dis. to par, owing to a rumour that the rate of interest would be raised.

The Indian Five per Cent. Stock was quoted to-day 101½ to 3, being dull; the Five per Cent. Rupee Paper, 93½ to 94; the Five-and-a-Half per Cent., 99½ to 100; and India Bonds, 22s. to 16s. dis.

The official list of to-day's actual business in the English Funds and Indian Government Securities, is annexed:—

Three per Cent. Consols, for money, 91½, ½, ¾; ditto for account (June 6), 91½, ¾; Three per Cents. Reduced, 89½, ½, ¾; New Three per Cents., 89½, ½, ¾; Five per Cent. Annuities, 108½; Thirty Years' Annuities, 1885, 15½; Bank Stock, 233½, 232; India Stock, 226½, 228; ditto Five per Cent. Stock, 101½, ¾; ditto Four per Cent. Debentures, 1858, 96½; ditto Bonds, 22s. dis.; Five per Cent. Enfacred Rupee Paper, 93½; ditto Five-and-a-Half per Cent., 100; and Exchequer Bills, 6s. dis., par.

In the Foreign Stock Market there has again been an active demand for Turkish Bonds, which have risen ¾ to 1 per cent. The impulse rests with the successful result of the independent exertions lately made to secure the punctual remittance of the dividend on the Loan of 1858. The Bonds of 1854 closed to-day at 71½ to ¾, and those of 1858 at 56½ to 57. Mexican Bonds are flat at 22½ to ¾.

In the market for English Railway Stocks, the tendency, on the whole, has been better, particularly during the last two or three days. It will be seen by the statement given below that prices, in most instances, have closed to-day rather better than on last Friday. The principal advance has been in Midland and Great Western stocks. The supply of stock generally is scanty; and the traffic returns, aided by the fine weather and by the holiday movement, are more favourable than had been anticipated.

The following shows the closing prices of the principal British Railway Stocks this day, and the result of the week's variations. The share list in detail will be found in another column:—

The principal business on the Stock Exchange has been in American securities, which have fallen. Large consignments of these securities continue to come forward by nearly every packet. They are believed to consist chiefly of stock bought in America at low prices on English account. The principal fluctuations occurred to-day. This morning, before the news by the Adriatic was known, Illinois Central shares fell to 41½ dis., and Erie to 19½. In the afternoon, owing chiefly to the rise announced from New York, there was a rally to 40 dis., and 20½ to 21, respectively, these being the closing prices.

Great Ship shares have risen to 6s. 3d. to 6s. 9d., owing to the statement from New York that the Federal Government is in treaty for employing the Great Eastern as a transport. Yesterday the price was better.

The closing quotations for shares in new undertakings to-day were as follows:—Ocean Marine Insurance,  $3\frac{5}{8}$  to  $\frac{7}{8}$  prem.; Thames and Mersey Marine,  $\frac{7}{8}$  to 1 prem.; Universal Marine Insurance, 9-16 to 11-16 prem.; London and Provincial Marine,  $\frac{1}{2}$  dis. to par; Natal Land,  $\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{3}{8}$  prem., and China and Japan Steam,  $\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{8}$  prem.

AMERICAN SECURITIES.

The report of Mr. E. F. Satterthwaite, dated Wednesday evening, is annexed:—

The market in London for American securities has, since our last, been firmly supported. There continues to be a good inquiry for Federal and States Stocks, and Railroad Bonds.

A considerable business has been done in Illinois Central, and in Erie shares, quotations for which have touched  $37\frac{1}{2}$  discount, and  $22\frac{1}{2}$  respectively; but at the close the market is weaker in tone, chiefly caused by fears of worse political news coming by the mails shortly due.

The London agents of the Illinois Central Railway Company on Tuesday received the following report from New York:—

Office of the Illinois Central Railroad Company,
New York, May 7.

Gentlemen,—The call for forces by the Government, made on the 15th ult., has been responded to with such alacrity, that entire confidence is felt that the administration will be fully able to cope with the rebellion. It will not treat with parties who attempt a war upon it, with means taken forcibly from the general property of the country. The overwhelming force and unanimity of the North must give it increasing strength; yet we cannot anticipate that the leaders of this conspiracy will yield without a stubborn resistance, although they labour under great disadvantage in procuring money and supplies. The South is destitute of cash, capital, and of manufactures. It has always relied upon the Mississippi Valley for large supplies of pork, corn, flour, hay, and other provisions. The State of Illinois has placed three regiments at Cairo, and our road has been used for transporting their troops and munitions. Apprehensions were entertained that we should suffer damage from hostile sentiment in Southern Illinois, which is largely settled by parties who moved from Tennessee. These fears appear groundless. We are sensibly suffering from the difficulties with the currency based on State stocks, which are very much depreciated. The land sales in April were 147,833 dols. 64c.; the cash collections 50,594 dols. 52c.; and the traffic, 206,118 dols. 86c., a gain of 22,361 dols. 7c. for the month.—1 am, &c.,

(Signed)

THOMAS E. WALKER,
Chairman Ex. Committee.

Messrs. Robert Benson and Co., London.

The Stock Exchange Committee last week passed the following resolution with regard to transactions in New York and Erie Railway shares:—

That all bargains in Erie shares, unless upon special contract, must be settled by delivery of assented and unassented shares indiscriminately, and this resolution is to remain in force up to and for the account of the middle of June, after which all bargains, unless specially made, will be considered to be in assented shares, and must be so quoted in the Official Lists.—May 17.

THE WINE TRADE.

With regard to the wine trade, Mr. F. W. Cosens' circular for Australia has the following:—

Since I had the pleasure to address you by the April mail there has been considerable excitement in the brandy market, induced by unfavourable advices from Cognac. It is reported that severe frosts had caused so much damage to the vines that but little hope existed of the vintage 1861 yielding more than half an average crop. It would appear that there must be some foundation for these reports, as Messrs. Martell, Hennessy, and the United Vineyard Proprietors' Company have instructed their London agents to decline all orders for the present. The trade in wines for home consumption continues considerable; the export, on the other hand, shows a reduction of about 33 per cent., the figures for the first three months of the present year being 407,462 gallons against 616,801 in 1860. The Board of Trade returns for the quarter ending 31st March have been issued, and show a largely increased consumption of wine, the result of the reduction of the duty to the minimum rate.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Calcutta and China mails, via Marseilles, will be delivered in London on Monday morning.

The James Paton has arrived from China with 502,200lbs. of tea, and the Oithona with 909,000lbs.

It was also announced this day that the Pruth has arrived from China with 351,400 lbs. of tea.

Mining.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 24.

THERE has not been a good general business this week in the home mining stock market. The chief transactions have again been in East Wheal Grenville and East Caradon shares, in which the late rise has, on the whole, been well supported. Cook's Kitchen, Marke Valley, North Downs and West Polmear shares have also met with attention, and have improved. Most other adventurers have been quiet.

The amount of business in the mining market to-day was only moderate. In some instances, including shares in East Caradon, East Wheal Grenville, and Rosewarne United, prices were quoted lower. There were inquiries for East Alfred Consols, West Polmear, Marke Valley, North Downs, Cook's Kitchen, and Providence. Bryn Gwion, Wheal Moyle, and Birch Tor and Vitifer shares also attracted some attention.

Alfred Consols,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to  $2\frac{1}{2}$ ; Camborn Vean,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to 2; Cook's Kitchen, 26 to 28; Devon Great Consols,  $35\frac{1}{2}$  to  $36\frac{1}{2}$ ; East Caradon, 25 to  $25\frac{1}{2}$ ; East Carn Brea,  $7\frac{1}{2}$  to 8; East Grenville, 43s. 6d. to 44s. 6d.; East Devon Great Consols,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to  $2\frac{1}{2}$ ; Great Fortune, 12 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Herodsfoot,  $39\frac{1}{2}$  to  $40\frac{1}{2}$ ; Marke Valley,  $8\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; New Seton, 53 to 55; North Downs,  $4\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; North Treskerby,  $22\frac{1}{2}$  to  $23\frac{1}{2}$ ; South Carn Brea,  $3\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; South Caradon,  $30\frac{1}{2}$  to  $30\frac{1}{2}$ ; Stray Park,  $35\frac{1}{2}$  to 36; Treloweth,  $3\frac{1}{2}$  to 4; West Rose Down, 11 to 12; West Polmear, 19s. to 21s.; Wheal Ludecott,  $3\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Wheal Margaret, 49 to 51.

St. John del Rey Mining shares have met with considerable business this week, and have shown firmness at the late advance. United Mexican, though not maintaining the best point of the week, present a rise of about 10s. Colonial Mining Securities are inactive, but steady.

The shares of the Labuan Coal Company remain quoted 3 to  $3\frac{1}{2}$  prem.

We are requested to state that the share list of the Glau-y-Pwll Slate Company will be closed on the 25th inst., except as regards applications from the country, which will be received until the 30th.

The United Mexican Mining Association have received, via the United States, advices from their commissioners, dated Guanajuato, April 13, as follows:—

MINE OF JESUS MARIA Y JOSE.—The important works which furnish all the ore extracted, except that by Buscones, are as follows:—San Roberto, the width of the ore which is good, has increased, and is now from four to five veras. La Trinidad has very much improved, especially in the quality of the ore, which is three veras wide. San Pantaleon also much improved, has good ore about the same width. La Providencia, the frente and pozo have fallen off in yield. In the level of San Andres, which is of so much interest, the vein is getting very broad and daily improving in appearance. San Rafael is still being carried forward out of the vein, but a crosscut has not yet been given. Numerous holidays have interfered with the extraction of ore, which has been in two weeks, 1,650 cargas by regular miners and 800 cargas by Buscones; the sales of the latter in the same time have been 3,086 dols., and the mine sales 5,078 dols., together 6,616 dols. on account of the mine. Nearly 800 cargas are beneficiated weekly at the Haciendas. The mine profits on the three months to end of March have amounted to 57,184 dols., of which 12,711 dols. go to the owners. In the other mines there has been no change of interest. Remittance to England—49,723 dols. have been expended on this account—viz., duties, freights, and charges, 4,723 dols., and 45,000 dols., clear of charges, consigned to Messrs. Stewart L. Jolly and Co., of Tampico, to be shipped from thence to England, of which they will give you due advice. The conducta started from this town on the 6th inst., and will, it is expected, reach Tampico in time for the May packet.

The following resolution was unanimously passed by the members of the Mining Exchange on the 22nd inst.:—"That thirty guineas be presented to Mr. Lelean, in recognition of his services in the formation of the Mining Exchange of 1859-60."

From West Devon Consols Mine (May 23), Captain G. Rowe states :

The ground in the engine shaft still continues of a very congenial character, and good progress in sinking is being made. The lode in the back of the 30 east is laid open about 8 feet high, where it is of the most flattering appearance, being 4 feet wide, composed of quartz, prisms, capel blende, and mundic, intermixed with stones of good quality and yellow copper ore, looking exceedingly kindly. The engine and pit work are in excellent working condition, and are progressing most favourably.

The directors of the Devonshire Great Consolidated Mining Company have this day declared a dividend of £7,168, being £7 per share. There remains in hand a balance of £20,706. 8s. 7d. in cash, ore, bills, &c.

At Alfred Consols Mine meeting on the 20th inst., the accounts showed a debit balance of £218. 14s. 5d., which was carried to the credit of the next account.

At North Roskear Mine meeting, on the 14th inst., the accounts showed a debit balance of £498. 15s. 4d.

The South Wheal Crofty accounts, presented at the meeting on the 13th inst., showed a debit balance of £362. 9s. 1d. A call of 10s. per share was made.

At Rosewarne United Mines meeting, on the 13th inst., the accounts showed a debit balance of £1,699. 13s. A call of £3. 6s. 4d. per share was made.

At East Rosewarne Mine meeting, on Wednesday, the accounts showed a credit balance of £418. 13s. 10d.

At Rosewarne Consols meeting, on Tuesday, the accounts showed a debit balance of £203. 12s. A call of 2s. 6d. per share was made.

The Charlotte United Mines accounts presented at the meeting on the 16th inst. showed a debit balance of £1,919. 1s. 4d. A call of 7s. per share was made on the 5,140 shares, and a call of 2s. 6d. per share on the 860 shares, free of call, to the extent of 4s. 6d.

At Wheal Harriet meeting on Thursday the accounts showed a credit balance of £569. 6s. 7d.

The Great Caradon Mines accounts, presented at the meeting on Thursday, showed a debit balance of £33. 1s. A call of 2s. per share was made.

At Phoenix Mines meeting, the accounts showed a balance in hand of £7,057. 4s. 4d. A dividend and bonus amounting to £7,000 were declared, leaving £57. 4s. 4d. to the next account.

The Dyliffe Mine sold, on the 14th inst., 38 tons of lead ore, at £12. 16s. 6d. per ton.

The West Basset accounts, presented at the meeting on the 22nd inst., showed a credit balance of £3,805. 0s. 9d. A dividend of 8s. per share was declared.

At South Carn Brea Mine meeting on the 21st inst., the accounts showed a debit balance of £2,759. 12s. 7d. A call of 6s. per share was made.

At a general meeting of the shareholders in Sortridge Consols Mine, held on Thursday, the accounts showed a balance of £185. 9s. 2d. against the mine. A call of 2s. per share was made, and the committee re-elected.

At the quarterly meeting on Thursday of the adventurers in New Birch Tor and Vintler Consols Mines, the accounts showed a net profit of £1,152. 3s. 9d. Out of this sum the previous balance against the mine has been met, and a dividend of 2s. 6d. per share (£750) is now declared.

From West Condurrow Mine (May 23) the agents report :—

The lode in the engine shaft is from 3 to 4 feet wide, and has a very promising appearance, producing some good stones of tin, and impregnated with copper ore. We have also branches dropping in from the North, which we think will make an improvement in the lode by a little further sinking. The shaftmen are now busily engaged in fixing the lift, which we hope to complete in four or five days; after this is done we shall be enabled to sink the shaft with all speed. In the 12 fm. level east of the engine-shaft the lode is three feet wide, producing good stones of tin, and impregnated with copper ore, but not sufficient yet to value. In the 24 fm. level west of Purser's shaft the lode is two feet wide, with a very promising appearance, producing a little tin, but not sufficient to value. The other parts of the mine are the same as when last reported on.

From Devon Union Mine (May 23) Captain J. Donnel writes :—

The lode in the shaft is still looking very promising, producing good stones of yellow copper ore of rich quality. The lode in the 23 west is a little improved in appearance, producing mundic, quartz, green carbonate of copper, and stones of yellow copper ore. The appearance of the mine, generally, is most promising.

It is announced that the sale of Banca tin by the Dutch Trading Company will be held on the 26th of June, in Amsterdam, and consist of 138,453 slabs. Adding 20,000 if they arrive in time, the conditions will be the same as last year.

THE Pneumatic Despatch Company are proceeding rapidly with their trial works. The pneumatic pipes and the greater portions of the machinery are on the ground and in course of fixing, and the whole will be in operation in about a fortnight. The site selected for the experimental essay is on the bank of the river, closely adjoining the new railway bridge at Chelsea, the temporary use of the ground having been granted by the Southwark and Vauxhall Waterworks Company and the London and Brighton Railway Company. The pipes are of the tunnel form, thirty inches in height, and the length now in course of erection is one-quarter of a mile. As soon as their operation has been inspected by the public they will be removed, and permanently fixed between the General Post office and Bloomsbury.

THE CENSUS.—MANCHESTER.—The total population is now pretty closely ascertained as follows: Manchester (city), 357,614; Salford (parliamentary borough), 102,414; total, 460,028. Increase since 1851, in Manchester and Salford together, 57,965.

COTTON, AND EMIGRATION TO QUEENSLAND.

A lecture was delivered on the 13th inst. at the Polytechnic, Regent-street, descriptive of the new Australian Colony of Queensland, as a Field for Emigration, and as peculiarly adapted for the Production of Cotton, by Henry Jordan, Esq., Queensland Emigration Commissioner, T. Bazley, Esq., M.P. for Manchester, in the chair; M. H. Marsh, Esq., M.P. for Salisbury, sat on the right of the chairman. The Lecturing Theatre was well filled by a highly respectable audience of both sexes, and several eminent merchants and gentlemen connected with the cotton manufacturing interests were present.

Mr. Bazley commenced by some very appropriate remarks on the great importance of the subject to be brought before them by the lecturer, whom he introduced as commissioned by the Queensland Government, and as having come to this country with the highest testimonials of ability and character, and upon whose statements, therefore, his audience might confidently rely.

Mr. Jordan first asked the indulgence of the audience for his physical unfitness to address them, consequent on a severe cold under which he was suffering. He then commenced his lecture by some good remarks about the value to England of her vast colonial possessions, alluding particularly to the importance of the Australian colonies. The idea had long obtained that the great island-continent of Australia, with comparatively few great rivers to open up its vast interior, was only habitable on a mere fringe of its coast-line, the vast interior being a vast desert of sand. The lecturer spoke eloquently of the brilliant discoveries of John McDoual Stuart, who had recently discovered the centre and planted the British standard on a hill in the very heart of Australia, and in the midst of a finely grassed and well-watered country. Mr. Jordan then proceeded graphically and artistically to describe the new colony of Queensland, its boundaries, extent (upwards of a million of square miles), its beautiful bays, navigable rivers, magnificent scrubs, wide-spreading plains, lofty mountains, dismal swamps (few, and far between), the fertility of its soil, the beauty of its climate, were thrown out upon the canvas, bright, distinct, and beautiful. The lecturer then directed attention especially to the singular agricultural capabilities of the colony, showing that the peculiar productions of countries most widely separated by many degrees of latitude, were produced in the different portions of this widely-extended colony in the greatest perfection. It was, however, on the rivers and bays of the extended eastern sea board where that description of agriculture would be carried on which was destined, at no distant period, to raise this colony to a position second to none of the colonies of the British empire, to add even to the commerce and wealth of the mother country, and to give profitable employment to hundreds of thousands of her surplus population; he alluded to the cultivation of cotton. Mr. Jordan dwelt forcibly, and with great clearness, upon the question of the cotton supply, showing that the facts put forth by the American report of cotton sales for 1860 was a plain warning to us to look elsewhere; that without alluding to the present disagreement between the Slave and Free States of the Union, there were facts which pointed to the certain future decline and constant precariousness of the supply of cotton from America. He wished just to remind his audience of these things in connection with certain other facts of which he had to inform them in connection with the new colony of Queensland as a great cotton-producing country. India and Africa produced cotton, and the time would perhaps come when the Manchester market would be supplied with large quantities of cotton from those countries, raised by English enterprise and capital in connection with Indian and African labour. Meanwhile, he had a plan to propose to them for raising cotton in an English colony, and by British labour, which he was confident must commend itself to every Englishman—cotton-growing in Queensland. The lecturer then went minutely into a detail of facts and figures, proving that cotton had been grown now for several years in the new colony of an average value of 1s. 4d. per lb.; that this could be continued to any extent over millions of acres on the shores of the bays and banks of navigable rivers; that the yield was considerably larger than the American yield, while the value was more than double; that the labour of gathering the cotton was no difficulty, and that the labour of one man and a boy was quite sufficient to cultivate 10 acres of this valuable textile, and would yield an average at least of 4,000 lbs. of clean cotton, which would produce by sale to the merchant the sum of £250. Besides this there was a bonus given by the Queensland Government amounting in value to 8d. per lb. more, so that the value of one year's crop from 10 acres of cotton, cultivated exclusively by one man and a boy, would be £383. Additional expense there was none, because the land, the best agricultural land in the colony, was given away to any one who would go out, taking their labour with them to engage in agriculture. Mr. Jordan then detailed the very Liberal Land and Emigration Scheme, passed during the first session of the Queensland Parliament, showing the singular facilities it offers to all classes to emigrate. Among other cases put familiarly by way of illustration, we give one, the case of a man with a wife and ten children of certain ages, who can raise enough money to pay his own passage to the colony, about £153. By the system of grants in the form of land orders, laid out on the agricultural reserves, this man would find himself in the possession, on landing in Queensland, of a farm of 160 acres of the best agricultural land, close to a town or a navigable river, a fourth part of it paid for, with credit for the remainder for five years, and with £200 in his pocket, the proceeds of the surplus portion of his land orders turned into money, as a capital with which to commence farming. The following statement is too important to omit. Suppose, for example, to put the matter on a very small scale, a company with a capital of £10,000. Forty families are taken out, averaging 5 for each family, 3 adults and 2 children (between the ages of 4 and 14 years). Expenses may be thus safely stated :—

Passage-money at £17 per head each adult and half-price for children, counting 160 adults at £17	£2,720 0 0
Passage-money, 2 superintendents	100 0 0
Implement, including bullocks and dray	500 0 0
Wages—10 men at £10, and 40 boys at £20 a-year	2,400 0 0
Rations—2 for each family, at 8s. each, per week	1,664 0 0
2 superintendents, 1 at £100 and 1 at £300	700 0 0

The Company would then be entitled to 160 £18 Land Orders. This would certainly purchase at the very least—

2,000 acres of the best land. Supposing that 10 acres for each family are cropped; that is—
400 acres of land will produce at least an average of 400 lbs. clean cotton to the acre, that is, 160,000 lbs. weight of cotton, at 1s. 3d. per lb., allowing 1d. for freight, realises for the sale of the first crop	£10,000 0 0
Government bonus as a premium for production for three years in land orders, value 8d. per lb. (to be continued for half the amount for the two succeeding years)	5,333 6 8

The expense of the conveyance of the labour to the colony would be saved after the first year.

* This yield supposes the plantation in full working, with the above number of English labourers. It is likely that one third this quantity would be produced the first year, within twelve months of the landing of the Company's agents in the colony.

"I never had an instance," says Dr. Leichardt, "of working men suffering by heat in this country. I myself, not accustomed to hard work, have been occupied for days and weeks in felling trees, in making fatiguing excursions, and carrying heavy loads, without any bad effect. To this could be added the testimony of a great number of persons long resident in the colony, who are best competent to give an opinion, including medical men, farmers, and labourers."

Mr. Jordan dwelt particularly upon the idea that has so generally obtained, that the heat of the climate would be an impediment to the successful cultivation of cotton in Queensland by European labour, proving, on undoubted testimony, the utter fallacy of this opinion. The picking season, when the greatest amount of out-door labour was required, extended over three months, May, June, and July, winter months in Queensland, when, to quote the words of the pamphlet, published by authority of the Local Government, "The weather was eminently serene and salubrious." Persons engaged in farming occupations, even in the summer months, suffered no injury from exposure to the heat. The mean maximum heat of summer was 77 deg., and, though the thermometer sometimes rose to 85 deg., or even occasionally to 90 deg., the heat was not oppressive, the atmosphere being very dry and singularly transparent and beautiful.

During an interval in the lecture, the chairman, Mr. Bazley, as well as Mr. Marsh, addressed the audience with great force and appropriateness on the subject of the lecture. These gentlemen were then obliged to leave, their presence being required in the House, and the chair was occupied by — Platt, Esq., of Manchester.

The concluding portion of Mr. Jordan's lecture consisted of sound, practical advice to persons intending to emigrate, delivered in a very pleasing and entertaining form. Directions were given for pioneer farming, selection of land, change of crops, cultivation of cotton. Much very interesting information was given on the state of society in the colony, progress of religion, establishment of schools, all of the most satisfactory nature. The form of Government, freedom of political institutions and almost entire absence of taxation were also dwelt upon. Mr. Jordan concluded his able and most interesting lecture amidst much cheering, and a desire is strongly expressed that it should be repeated in other parts of the city, to which we have ascertained Mr. Jordan intends to accede. We predict for Mr. Jordan great success in his mission to England.

The Produce and other Markets.

COLONIAL PRODUCE.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 24.

The Colonial Produce Markets remain quiet. Sugar has been in moderate demand, and the increased supplies brought forward at public sale to day went off without animation, prices occasionally ruling 6d. lower for the week. Grocery Porto Rico was sold at quite 1s. per cwt. reduction, and floating cargoes of foreign are also cheaper. The Coffee market is firm, Plantation Ceylon fully supporting the recent advance, at which the various parcels offered by auction chiefly found purchasers. Good white Bengal Rice obtained full quotations to-day. Spice does not present any material change to notice. Pimento is firmer, and White Pepper has sold upon slightly easier terms. Saltpetre is dull, and 6d. per cwt. lower. The Tea market has been inactive by private contract, but the public sales have gone off at steady prices for Assam. Canton Gunpowder scarcely supported its previous value. Holders of foreign Cocoa having met the market, business of some importance has been done. The Rum market has been very inactive since our last, but the few sales effected have been at full prices. In public sale, 845 boxes small Pearl Sago met a moderate competition, and were realised, but at rather easier prices. From the great activity prevailing in the Liverpool market, there has been more demand here of late for Cotton, and prices have slightly advanced.

THE TALLOW TRADE.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 24.

The Tallow Market has again during the past week maintained a very steady appearance, and we have no alteration in prices of any importance to report. There has been an almost entire absence of speculative feeling, and we have heard of no transactions for future delivery worthy of particular attention. The stock of "sorts" has now been greatly reduced, and there are very few parcels on the market available for general purposes, with the exception of a moderate quantity of fine South American. Odessa Tallow and old Y.C. have hitherto fairly supplied the trade demand, but of the former the quantity now on hand is very small, and it is chiefly to the latter that consumers will have to look for their supplies. An improvement in the quantity of our home mel ed Tallow has, however, afforded some relief to buyers in what might have been a rather dangerously dependent position on the monopolists, who still maintain their hold on nearly the entire stock of Russian (Y.C.) Tallow, and who, were it not for sundry wholesome checks of the nature of that just mentioned, would of course carry on their operations regardless of the mere interests of trade. It is, however, consolatory to bear in mind that these schemes have ever carried within them the elements of their own destruction; and it is not to be imagined that the monopoly in question will escape the consequences of this law.

To-day the speculative transactions have been small, the market exhibiting some weakness. New Y.C. is offering at 57s. 6d. for ready delivery and to 30th June; and 54s. 6d. per cwt. would be accepted for October to December.

The arrivals for the week ending the 23rd instant, were 799 casks; deliveries, 1,139 casks; Stock, 6628½ casks; showing a decrease of 340 casks.

Tow. Tallow has been in moderate request. The melt has rather improved in quantity, and some extension of the usual discount has been generally allowed. This evening the Letter price is 55s. or 52s. 6d. nett cash, being a fall of 1s. 6d. per cwt. Fat, 2s. 10d. per stone of 8 lbs.

The results of to-day's public sales were as follows:—

Odessa has been scarce, a few parcels have been disposed of during the week at full quotations. Sheep Tallow is in demand, but there is next to nothing offering. 54s. to 55s. is quoted for good to fine sheep, 52s. 6d. to 54s. for mixed, and 52s. to 52s. 6d. per cwt. for ox. There was no Odessa offered to-day at auction.

South American has maintained our last quotations, but the business done has not been large; the bulk of the Tallow sold has been of the mixed greasy description. To-day 4 casks and 385 boxes were brought forward. 2 casks of dark colour were sold at 50s., and 2 casks of dull Sheep rather old, at 52s. 9d., 224 boxes found buyers, fine pure Tallow of good colour brought 55s. to 55s. 3d.; sound quality, rather dull colour, 52s. 3d. to 53s., and 6 boxes of lower description (dreggy) 49s. per cwt.

Australian has continued very scarce, and the few parcels offered have not been of a character to command a ready market, being mostly rather inferior Ox. Only 60 casks were submitted at auction to-day; the whole of which were sold. Seven hhds. of good Sheep bringing as high as 56s.; 2 casks of dark mixed 48s. 3d., and the remainder, good mixed Ox, 51s. 9d. to 52s. per cwt.

North American.—Supplies have lately been very small and irregular; 35 casks were offered to-day. Twelve casks of middling quality were sold at 51s. 6d. to 52s.; and 15 casks at 46s. per cwt., the latter dull and very greasy.

East India has not attracted much attention. The qualities on the market have not been of a character to command a ready sale. Good dry sorts are scarce; and inferior descriptions, especially if wet, are very difficult of disposal. 90 cases were offered to-day, of middling quality fair body and colour, but not dry, they brought 49s. per cwt., and were all sold.

Cocoa Nut Oil has not exhibited any new feature this week. The demand has somewhat slackened, but no particular effect has yet been produced on prices. 429 casks Cochins, and 231 casks Ceylon, were brought to the hammer to-day, but bidders were scarce, and only a very few lots were taken. Good Cochins going at 46s., and 45s. being paid for a little fair Ceylon. There is very little Sydney in the market.

Palm Oil has been in less active demand this week, and it has been only under peculiar conditions that more than 45s. has been obtained for the best descriptions. 150 casks were offered to-day, and 45s. was realised for a few lots of fine Whydah, 40s. per cwt. was paid for a few casks of low quality, but there was little demand, and in all about 10 casks only were taken.

Palm Nut Oil.—Very little has been done in this article. 38s. 6d. has been obtained for small parcels of good quality, during the week. 3 casks only were offered to-day, of inferior quality, one of which was sold at 34s. per cwt.

South American Horse Grease has continued to bring former quotations, but the inquiry is very limited. 200 cases were offered to-day, and were bought in at 38s. per cwt. without competition.—Furnished by Messrs. Culverwell, Brooks, and Co., Brokers.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET.

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 24.

Notwithstanding the continued unfavourable position of affairs at Manchester, and the recent advance in the value of money, the cotton market has exhibited increased firmness this week, and, with extensive operations, prices have advanced ¼d. to ½d. per lb. since last Friday. As yet, however, the movement is entirely speculative, and must soon compel spinners, in self-protection, to agree upon a general reduction of the hours of labour, so as to decrease production until prices of yarns and goods can be placed upon a level with the value of the raw material. Our supplies from India are likely to be largely in excess of our ordinary receipts from that quarter, and at the present moment there are about 310,000 bales at sea against about 75,000 bales at the corresponding period of last year. Of American there are about 200,000 bales afloat. Few vessels are loading at the Southern ports, and we shall soon be apprised of the total extent of our share of this season's crop.

[BY ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.]

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY EVENING.

The market has been very firm to-day, and the sales amount to 12,000 bales, including 4,000 on speculation and for exportation. The imports to-day are 37,787 bales. Fair Orleans is quoted 8½d.; Upland, 8½d.; Mobile, 8½d.; Middling Orleans, 7 15-16d.; Middling Upland, 7 11-16d.; Middling Mobile, 7 11-16d. The sales of the week comprise 80,520 bales, of which 18,960 have been taken on speculation, and 16,320 for exportation, and the imports 123,343 bales. The stock has now risen to 1,111,635 bales.

The Corn Trade.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 24.

The weather in most parts of the United Kingdom has continued almost rainless throughout the last eight days, cloudy at times, but most brilliant with sunshine. During the last three days westerly breezes have prevailed, with a higher temperature, quite summer-like, which on May 21st rose to 80 deg. Fahrenheit in the shade. Vegetation has further progressed under powerful solar influence, but the long prevailing drought is beginning to cause apprehensions for the safety of the growing spring crops. In Ireland the absence of rain is severely felt; in some parts there has been no rain for forty-five days, and, for want of water-power, a number of mills have stopped working. The Wheat plants, which generally require but little rain at this season of the year, have improved in appearance, but no weather, however fine, can make good the absence of seed. The Bean crop continues to be complained of as defective in most parts of the country. The early planted Potatoe plants have suffered from frosty nights, but those lately planted have a more promising appearance.

The supply of home-grown Wheat has been about the same in quantity as last week, but there has been less Barley and Oats brought forward.

The latest official weekly returns of the quantity of grain sold in England and Wales are as follows:—Wheat, 70,925 qrs., at 54s. 4d.; Barley, 10,433 qrs., at 35s. 11d.; Oats, 9,833 qrs., at 25s. 1d. per qr.

IMPORTS.—The returns of this week show little difference in the quantity compared with the preceding week. The principal imports of Wheat continue from America, the Baltic, and the South of Europe; a fair quantity has been imported from Spain, though small in comparison with the gigantic American imports. Flour arrives pretty largely from America. France, which used to ship largely of Wheat and Flour, makes now an exception. The imports of Barley are moderate. The imports of Oats, though larger this week than in preceding weeks, are still, on the whole, small. Maize has been imported in increasing quantity.

The British Corn Trade has been very quiet this week under the continued influence of brilliant sunshine, improved harvest prospects, ample imports, and with the rate of discount at 6 per cent. Wheat was little inquired after, and superior grain, being scarce, was maintained in price, but all secondary sorts were 1s. to 2s. per qr. cheaper. Flour—with fair imports and a limited demand, holders have had to give way 6d. to 1s. per barrel and sack. Barley—quiet in demand, and superior sorts continued without alteration in price; grinding sorts had a slow sale, at about last week's rates. For Oats the demand was dull; fine sorts were held at about last week's prices, but inferior were 6d. per qr. cheaper. Maize—the heavy arrivals this week, at Liverpool, rendered the trade heavy, and in order to effect sales an abatement of 6d. to 1s. per qr. had to be submitted to. Beans continue scarce, and maintained in price. Peas—without material alteration in value.

REPORT ON BORWICK'S BAKING POWDER, BY DR. HASSALL.—“I have subjected Borwick's well-known Baking Powder to very careful analysis, both microscopical and chemical. I find, first, that the ingredients of which it is composed are pure and of good quality; and second, that none of them are in the least degree injurious—it is, moreover, entirely free from alum. Altogether, it is a highly useful preparation; indeed, it is indispensable in the making of unfermented bread, pastry, puddings, &c., and in a cases where yeast cannot be procured, as in country places and on board ship. (Signed) ALFRED HILL HASSALL, M.D., London, Analyst of the Lancet Sanitary Commission; author of “Food and its Adulterations,” “Adulterations Detected,” and other works.—November 9, 1860.”

RAILWAY AMALGAMATION IN THE EAST.—A Bill for the amalgamation of the Eastern Counties Company with the Norfolk and Eastern Union will be proceeded with next session in accordance with a provisional agreement entered into in 1854. The amalgamation is of vital importance to the Eastern counties, as the company will then secure complete and final control of the district comprising Norfolk, Suffolk, Essex, Cambridgeshire, Hertfordshire, and Huntingdonshire, and be in a better position to deal with the intrusions which have been incessantly attempted of late years. The legal proceedings which have been for some time pending between the company and the Norfolk and Eastern Union rendered the amalgamation a matter of some doubt and difficulty; but the differences between the companies having been adjusted, a main obstacle has been removed.

THE FINANCES OF VICTORIA.—On the 26th of February the Treasurer laid before the House his revised and amended financial statement, together with the second edition of the estimates for 1861. He adds £150,000 to the current year's revenue, from increased land sales and income from the Yan Yean water supply; and he deducts the gross sum of £414,500 from the estimated expenditure, by making reductions upon various public works. This raises the total revenue from £2,983,350 to £3,135,350; while it lowers the expenditure from £3,554,942 to £3,140,442. The Treasurer further announces as a part of the ministerial scheme, the intention to lease the public railways, so far as finished, to a private company.

(Copy.)

“MESSRS. THOS. MILNER AND SON.

“Belf. st, 14 h February, 1861.

“Gentlemen.—A few nights since the whole block of new buildings in Bedford-street was completely destroyed by fire, and our offices and warehouses among them. The fire did not originate in our premises, but seeing it was likely to be a very large one, we had time to remove all our books, which were deposited in one of your fire-resisting Safes, to a place of safety, but, in the confusion which necessarily occurs, we neglected to remove the contents of the drawers. The Safe was in the blazing fire nearly twelve hours, and when got out we found the valuable papers which were in the drawers perfectly legible. We think it our duty to make you acquainted with these facts, and give you full liberty to publish this communication if you think proper.

“We are, Gentlemen, yours truly,

“J. and R. WORKMAN.”

SECRETARY (pro tem.)—J. H. P. Bland, Esq.
TEMPORARY OFFICES—21, Abchurch-lane, E.C.

The object of this Company is to construct a permanent Practice Ground in the neighbourhood of London, easily accessible to every part of the Metropolis, with an ample supply of butts at the various ranges, up to 1,000 yards, sufficient to accommodate all the Metropolitan Rifle Corps.

A piece of land has been secured at Kensal Green, upwards of 1,100 yards in length, which will admit of butts of an aggregate breadth of more than 1,500 feet. Forty-six targets will be erected in the first instance; they will be so arranged as to allow the whole of them to be used with perfect safety at all the different ranges, at the same time, the long-range butt being 70 feet high.

Thus, forty-six squads, or at least 500 men, may be practising at once, at whatever ranges they may desire.

Owing to the very great difficulties experienced by the Commanders of Metropolitan Corps in obtaining either adequate ranges or accommodation for their men, the present scheme has met with unusual approbation amongst them, and not only the Commanders whose names appear on the Direction, but most of those who have had it explained to them, have promised their aid and support. It is not going too far to say that not a single Metropolitan Corps has sufficient range accommodation.

The Hampstead Junction Railway Company, whose line is in connection with the North London on the one side, and the South-Western on the other, are now erecting a Passenger Station immediately adjoining the Rifle Range, and have expressed their willingness to convey Volunteers at very reduced fares. A railway is also in progress by which communication will be afforded to the Victoria Station, Pimlico. Thus railway communication will be available with the City, the West End, and all the suburbs of London. The ground is distant three and a-half miles from the Marble Arch; the Kensal Green and Harlesden omnibuses pass the entrance to the range.

The proposed capital of the Company is £60,000, to be raised in 12,000 shares of £5 each.

Ten shillings per share will be required at the time of making the application, and £1 per share on the allotment being made.

It is further proposed that every Volunteer, being an original subscriber for not less than ten shares, shall, until he transfers his shares, be entitled to a life admission to the range.

It is difficult to furnish any exact data as to the number of Corps who will patronise these grounds, but the Directors beg to call the attention of the public to the fact that the aggregate number of companies in Middlesex and the adjacent counties, to whom these grounds would be easily accessible, is considerably over 300. The Directors hope to obtain revenue from other sources; Pool Targets at Wimbledon produced about £50 daily, and they might be established.

The revenue from private subscriptions will, it is anticipated, be very considerable.

The Duke of Cambridge and Lord Herbert have seen the plans, and highly approve them.

Major-General Hay has inspected and approved the ground.

Copies of letters, from Major-General Hay and Colonel McMurdo, are published in the prospectus.

For full particulars, prospectuses, and forms of application for shares, apply to the Secretary, J. H. P. Bland, Esq., at the Company's Temporary Offices, No. 21, Abchurch-lane, E.C.; or to the Company's Brokers, Messrs. Sandeman and Dobree, 2, Royal Exchange-buildings.

Applications for shares must be accompanied by a cheque crossed to the Bankers of the Company.

This Company is formed for the purpose of supplying what has long been urgently required, and which, from the increased, and constantly increasing, growth of our commerce, is daily becoming more and more necessary, viz., regular, speedy, and safe communication along the extensive line of coast and in the inner waters of China.

To meet the necessities of both Foreign and Native trade it is proposed to construct a fleet of steamers, which shall be the means of establishing regular communication between the ports and places to which foreigners will have access, and of providing for the conveyance of passengers, mails, and general merchandise.

It is intended to commence with the construction of six Steam-vessels, as the Directors propose to limit the operations of the Company until experience has proved in what way they can be best extended with advantage to the Shareholders.

Forms of application for Shares addressed to the Directors may be obtained from the Secretary, at 12, Old Broad-street, London, E.C.; or from the Brokers of the Company; but no application will be considered, unless a deposit of 5s. for each Share applied for shall have been previously made with the Bankers of the Company.

In bringing the London and Provincial Discount Company (Limited) under the notice of the public, the Directors wish particularly to call attention to the distinctive principles on which they are determined to conduct business—viz., to avoid heavy preliminary and working expenses, to limit the amount of discount of even the best bills, and to offer facilities to trade and professional bills, for which there is at present no opening, and, lastly, to establish branches in the large provincial towns, which as yet have not one Joint-Stock Discount Company, and where the rate of discount rules higher than in London.

Acting upon these principles, there can be no doubt of success. Prospectuses, with full particulars, may be obtained at the Offices, 46 and 47, Cornhill, E.C.; and applications for shares, accompanied by £1 deposit, may be sent to the Bankers' Brokers or Secretary of the Company.

Capitalists who seek safe and profitable investments, free from risk, should act only upon the soundest information; the market prices of the day are for the most part governed by the immediate supply and demand, together with the operations of speculators without reference to the bona fide merits of the property.

Mines afford a wider range for profit than any other public securities, and pay dividends bi-monthly, varying from 15 to 30 per cent. per annum. Instances frequently occur of young Mines rising in value 400 to 500 per cent. In the year 1857 a remarkable bed of Iron Ore was discovered at Seend, Wiltshire.

This Ore is within one foot of the surface, varying from 35 to 60 feet in thickness, easily worked in open cuttings, and yielding from 35 to 50 per cent. of Iron. The quantity of the Ore is computed, from actual workings and trial pits, to exceed ten millions of tons.

The Ore-ground, extending over 112 acres, is held on lease for forty years, and the land on which the works and the railway have been constructed, and which comprise about 42 acres, is held on lease for 99 years, at a surface rent of £5 per acre. The greater part of the surface is underlet for grazing and agricultural purposes.

The Ore is taken out and delivered at the furnace by contract, making the cost of the Ore into the furnaces, including royalty, 2s. 6d. per ton. The benefit of this contract will be assigned to the Company.

Tenders have been received for the supply of Coke, at 15s. per ton, and for Limestone at 2s. per ton, direct into the furnaces.

The Great Western Railway and the Kennet and Avon Canal bring Coal, Coke, and Limestone direct into the furnace yard, and afford an unbroken line of conveyance to Staffordshire and Wales, by means of which the loaded trucks can be run direct from the furnaces into the yards of the customers.

The port of Bristol, both by railway and canal, is connected with the works, and affords every facility for shipment to France, and for securing the benefits resulting from the recent commercial treaty with that country.

In order thoroughly to test the commercial value of a property which presented such extraordinary natural advantages, two furnaces of the most approved construction have been erected by the present proprietors of the works.

The first furnace was put in blast in February, and the second in May, 1860. The two furnaces are yielding about 250 tons per week, and the result of their workings has proved successful in every respect.

The quality of the Iron is such that it commands a ready market at a remunerative price; and so active is the demand that orders are in hand from Staffordshire houses for the whole produce of the furnaces for some months to come, at 60s. per ton, and further orders, to the extent of another year's production, have been declined.

This Company is formed for the purchase of the Seend Iron-works and plant, the leases of the ore and other land, at the above royalties and rent, with the contract for taking out the ore, and the tenders for the supply of coke and limestone, and for the manufacture of pig iron.

The works and plant consist of two hot-blast furnaces, 50 feet by 14 feet, engine-house, large engine, and three boilers, with steam power equal to work three furnaces, hydraulic lift, smiths' and carpenters' shops, manager's house, railway on broad gauge running into the Great Western Line, the whole being of the most solid and approved construction, and in the highest working order.

An advantageous contract has been entered into by the proprietors to erect three new furnaces of a large size, with corresponding engine power, machinery and apparatus, and to build coking ovens, and cottages for the workmen. The make of pigs can thus be brought up, within a few months, to more than 700 tons per week, for which a market is already assured, and even at the present unusually low price of pig iron, a profit of 15 to 20 per cent. on the whole capital may be reckoned on as soon as the new furnaces are in operation.

The purchase money for the present works and plant, with the leasehold estates, &c., is £60,000. £20,000 will be required for the erection of three new furnaces, engines, coking ovens, and cottages, leaving £20,000 for working capital.

A contract has been entered into to make the pig iron and put it into the Company's trucks at 40s. per ton, including all royalties and all charges connected with the manufacture of the iron.

By this arrangement the Company would be insured a large profit on the pigs made, the cost of carriage, and the small charges not incidental to the manufacture of iron, being the only items to be added.

The cost for carriage into Staffordshire is 7s. 6d. per ton, exclusive of distribution from the railway to the various works. To other places it is less; but assuming 7s. 6d. as the average cost of carriage, a net profit of from 10s. to 12s. 6d. per ton may be calculated upon, even in the present depressed state of the trade, giving upon a make of 700 tons of iron per week an annual amount of £15,000 to £20,000 for dividend upon the subscribed capital.

And it is especially to be noted that this profit will be realised on the manufacture of pig iron only, a branch of the iron trade of the simplest character, requiring but a moderate working capital, and free from the risks and anxieties of the more advanced stages of the trade.

The peculiar feature of this undertaking is, that in consequence of the great natural advantages possessed by the Seend Iron Works, iron can be smelted there to any extent at a cost which places it above all ordinary competition, and which must secure to this Company a good profit so long as the manufacture of iron forms a branch of the industry of Great Britain.

Each application for Shares must be accompanied with a deposit of 10s. per Share upon the number of Shares applied for. If no allotment he made to the applicant, the deposit will be returned in full.

Application for Shares in the form annexed may be made to the Directors, at the Offices of the Company, or to the Brokers of the Company.

TO THE DIRECTORS OF THE SEEND IRON COMPANY.

Gentlemen,—I have now carefully surveyed the tract of Iron Ore upon which your Seend Ironworks are situate, and I have no hesitation in saying that it is one of the finest deposits of Iron Ore of its class in the kingdom. I am well acquainted with the general character of the Iron Ores of the Oolite and Green Sand formations, and I have seen nothing at all approaching in importance to this, either in extent, in regularity of character, or in its capabilities for being raised and delivered to the furnaces at a low cost.

In quality it is superior to the Iron Ore of the Oolite formation, the Green Sand, to which formation it belongs, being much purer than that of the Oolite; and this is a very important element, which must not be overlooked in estimating the value of this remarkable deposit.

For all practical purposes its extent may be considered as unlimited, and its great thickness (in some places from 40 to 50 feet) will enable your contractors to open the single faces of work from which any quantity may be delivered to the furnaces for any possible extension of the works that may be found desirable.

Its cost will, for a long period, not exceed 2s. 6d. upon the furnace bank, so that you may consider your Iron Ore supplies as being obtainable at the very lowest possible minimum cost.

From the inspection which I have also made of the Ashton Vale, Tinsbury, and Fobster Coal-fields, which are now being opened out very largely, I am enabled to state that coke, equal in quality for iron-making purposes to the very best South Wales coke, both in purity and in its capability of carrying burthen in the blast furnace, will be procurable in a very short time to any extent, at a cost not exceeding from 14s. to 15s. per ton, delivered at the furnaces.

Limestone of very good quality can be delivered at the works at 2s. per ton.

The blast engine and two furnaces now erected are of the best modern construction and well arranged, and when the waste gases are applied, as you are now upon the point of doing, for raising steam for the blast-engine, and for heating the blast, the Seend Iron Works will possess every element for the production of iron at the very lowest cost.

Every facility for transit, to and fro, is afforded by railway and canal, and the cost of wages upon the ton of Iron will always be low, as from the character of the ore the expense of calcining is unnecessary, and the cost of coking is included in the price at which coals are delivered at the works.

When the various arrangements for coke supplies, the application of the gases, and for the further development of the capabilities of the works, which you are now contemplating, are fully completed, pig iron can certainly be produced at Seend at 40s. per ton.

Quality and Sale of the Iron.—The Seend Iron has now been thoroughly tested in the South Staffordshire and other markets. In the South Staffordshire districts there are scarcely any of the respectable makers of Iron by whom it has not been more or less used, and in every case with satisfactory results.

The superior estimation in which it is held over the Iron produced from the Oolites of the Midland district is very marked.

This establishes fully the powers of sale, and of the power of production at a minimum cost there can be no doubt. Under these circumstances the Seend Iron Works certainly possess every element of success, and under judicious and careful management cannot fail to pay good dividends upon any amount of capital which may be economically expended in their further development.

I am yours truly,

S. H. BLACKWELL.

The death of Prince Gortschakoff, Governor of Poland, is announced.

THE A' VERSE BALANCE OF TRADE.

THE monthly Board of Trade Returns, published this week, are chiefly interesting, as bearing upon the balance of trade, and therefore upon the exchanges. In the first place, let us see what our exports are. For the month of April the figures are as follows :—

April, 1859..	..	..	..	..	..	£11,330,730
" 1860..	..	..	..	..	..	11,352,440
" 1861..	..	..	..	..	..	10,905,213

The decrease in April was £447,227, or 4 per cent., compared with April, 1860, and £425,517, or 3½ per cent., compared with April, 1859. This is not a heavy decline. For the first four months of the year the comparison stands thus :—

1859 ..	..	..	..	..	..	£41,851,524
1861 ..	..	..	..	..	..	38,574,462

The decrease is £3,259,885, or 7½ per cent., compared with 1860, and £3,277,062, or likewise 7½ per cent., compared with 1859.

Now let us see what portion of the exports went to the United States. The official statement, which refers to the first quarter of the year, is annexed :—

1859 ..	..	..	..	..	..	£6,202,943
1860 ..	..	..	..	..	..	5,822,109
1861 ..	..	..	..	..	..	4,026,679

We see here at a glance the extent of the falling off in our export trade to America. The decrease is £1,725,430 compared with the same quarter of last year, and £2,106,264 compared with 1859. It may here be remarked, parenthetically, that of the £4,096,679 above stated, only £174,566 went to the Southern States, the whole of the remainder (£3,922,113) going from the United Kingdom to the Northern States.

Next, let us glance at our imports. The statement is very unsatisfactory. In the first quarter of the year we have imported as follows :—

1859 ..	..	..	..	..	..	£29,558,495
1860 ..	..	..	..	..	..	35,903,476
1861 ..	..	..	..	..	..	40,819,972

This is an enormous increase. It points to adverse exchanges, and a continued high value of money.

As regards wheat, the quarter's import figures are :—

1859 ..	..	..	..	..	..	£1,327,718
1860 ..	..	..	..	..	..	765,188
1861 ..	..	..	..	..	..	5,060,154

Here is the main cause of the adverse balance.

With regard to the probable course of the American exchanges in particular, it may be observed that, whilst we are shipping much less than usual to America, as shown above, we are taking much more than usual from America, as the following figures prove :—

TOTAL IMPORTS FROM UNITED STATES.

First quarter of 1859 ..	..	..	..	..	..	£6,901,609
" 1860 ..	..	..	..	..	..	11,084,113
" 1861 ..	..	..	..	..	..	13,834,051

We commend these figures to the attention of our readers. They are worth a whole volume of argument.

INDIAN FINANCE AND RAILWAY EXPENDITURE.

WHEN it is considered that the British public—here and in India—now hold nearly £150,000,000 sterling of Indian Securities, it is natural that subjects connected with India should possess engrossing interest to a very large class. The subject of Indian finance is so large that what may be correct information one week, the varying circumstances of India may alter in another. It was lately stated in this journal that, according to the best estimates that could be formed, the Indian deficit for the year 1861-2 will amount to about £2,000,000 sterling. This includes about £1,800,000 which the Indian Government are required to provide for railway guarantees—a charge which will in all probability disappear when the railways are fully open for traffic. It was also mentioned that the railway expenditure this year will probably amount to between £7,000,000 and £8,000,000. Consequently, if the estimate of the deficit of £2,000,000 turns out correct, a sum of £9,000,000 or £10,000,000 must be provided either by the railways or by the Government in the course of the present year.

A despatch, recently written by Sir Charles Wood to the Governor-General of India, and just published, fully confirms these statements. We may cite the following passage :—The Indian Secretary states, and with great truth :—"The importance of completing the lines as soon as possible, affecting as they will, not only the interests of the companies, but also that of Government, is manifest. Until the traffic commences, and returns are made by passengers and goods to some extent beyond the working expenses of the line, there can be no receipts from the railroads in diminution of the annual demand upon the revenues of India for the payment of guaranteed interest. It seems to me, therefore, to be for the interest of Government that, in the event of the companies themselves not providing the necessary funds, I should be prepared to assist them. I have accordingly to desire that you will make the requisite advances for carrying on the works above described during the year, and I shall take measures for providing, by loans in this country, any portion of the £8,000,000 required for the expenditure in India and in England which the railway companies may fail to pay into the Home Treasury."

With regard to the estimated deficit of £2,000,000 in the Government receipts and expenditure here and in India, we would remark that this amount may yet vary; but an early mail from India will bring us Mr. Laing's Budget, and it is stated that he will be able to show an equilibrium. It is to be hoped this will be the case. It is very important that, as soon as practicable after the receipt of Mr. Laing's budget, Sir Charles Wood should bring forward his annual statement. On the amount which the Indian Railway Companies may consider themselves able to raise this year by calls, and by the issue of debentures, will depend the amount of the new loan which Sir Charles Wood will ask power to raise in a Five per Cent. Stock. That there will be an Indian Loan ere long is certain. It will be found absolutely necessary for the assistance of the railways, even should the Government not be borrowers on their own account. It will be seen, too, from the details already given, that the amount of the new loan can hardly be small. Probably £4,000,000 or £5,000,000 may be a near guess. This will be in addition to the amount which we estimate that the Companies will be able to provide. Should the Government act timidly, and ask for a less sum than £4,000,000 or £5,000,000 in a Five per Cent. Stock, it is probable that the operation will have to be repeated at a less distant period than would be desirable. Whenever the loan comes, it will have the less effect on the market, because everybody is now prepared for it, and because intending investors have for some time been holding back, waiting for it, just as another class are waiting for the new Victoria Six per Cent. Debentures, of which £2,000,000 are known to be now in London, subject to instructions from the Colonial Government as regards the period of their issue. The effect upon our money market will be the same, whether the funds required be raised by the Indian Railway Companies or by the Indian Government. The point for the public to bear in mind is, that the money must be raised in England, by some means or other, as Sir Charles Wood now expressly admits. Investors, who would otherwise perhaps have been tempted to purchase English Three per Cent. Stock, will now have an additional inducement to embark in the new issues of Indian Securities which will yield them the satisfactory rate of 5 per cent. The sensible footing upon which the Secretary of State for India puts the whole affair is also full of encouragement to the holders of Indian Railway Stocks; for, although there is an almost certain prospect of continuous issues of new Five per Cent. Stock direct from the Government, the general public will see more clearly than ever what we have often insisted upon—namely, that the Indian Railway Companies are backed by the whole power and credit of the Government; that the lines will be completed, even if it be necessary for the Government to strain every nerve for the purpose; and that, in fact, Indian Railways, though framed upon conditions highly advantageous to the shareholders, must ultimately enjoy all the prestige attaching to Government Securities, whilst they at the same time enjoy the benefit of that vigour of management which is never obtainable where Government officials are the managers. The aid extended to the Indian Railways is a matter of deep interest to our manufacturers, merchants, and shippers, who are all looking to India as the great cotton field of the future, and who are well aware that, without the means of transport, Indian produce will never reach our market in the vast quantities which are obtainable under proper methods of encouragement.

Of the identity of interests which exists in a large degree between the Indian Railway Companies and the Government, there is another evidence in the recent admission by the Times, that, in default of other means of raising money for the Indian Railways, an Imperial Loan would have to be made. This is a large step in advance for the Times, which, from some peculiarity of view, has persistently resisted the introduction of Indian Securities into the English market. It is only since the Indian market, or the credit of the Indian Government in India, has been exhausted, that more reasonable councils have been heard. We all remember how vainly the Times opposed the gradual transfer of the Rupee Loans from India to England. Where is the mischief that was anticipated by our contemporary from this process? Is it not perfectly natural that the surplus resources of England, the great moneylender of the world, should be made available for the financial requirements and material development of her greatest and richest dependency? In what position would the Indian Government be now, were they compelled to rely exclusively upon such financial resources as they could find in the native markets?

Within the last few days, the Times has endeavoured to raise a cry amongst the holders of the Indian Five per Cent. Stock, that their interests will be prejudiced if further amounts of this stock be created for railway purposes. The objection seems to us to be as empty a one as could well be imagined. Who guaranteed the holders of existing issues against the contingency of further creations, in the event of such being required for the service of India? Where does it stand upon record that the Indian Secretary promised that Five per Cent. Stock should not be issued for railway purposes? The Government are at perfect liberty to act as their judgment directs in the matter, and sound judgment is in favour of their extending a free measure of assistance to the railways. Neither will the interests of the existing holders of Indian Five per Cent. Stock be damaged, for this is the best form in which the funds required can be raised. Nor must it be overlooked that as the amount of the Indian Five per Cent. Stock increases, it will become more and more marketable. There is a suspicion, in not a few quarters, that the objection referred to is raised too much in the interest of loan-mongers.

THE NEW EXCHEQUER BILLS.

THE objection which we foresaw with respect to the issue of Exchequer Bills with Coupons attached seems likely to be realised. The Bills are to be current from year to year, for a period of five years, but the rate of interest that will be paid on them will be advertised from time to time. The June Bills, for instance, will bear interest for the next six months—that is, until the 11th of December, 1861—at the rate of £3. 15s. per cent. per annum. It is presumed, therefore, that the Coupons will be in blank, except for the next six months. The holder's consolation will be that, if he be dissatisfied with the interest fixed for the subsequent six months, he has then the option of paying the Bills in for taxes.

As the interest is only fixed to December next, it would be very desirable if Mr. Gladstone were then to make arrangements to obviate the possibility of the Government and the Bank of England being inconvenienced by the liability, according to the new law, of having the whole amount paid in for taxes and duties between January and March. Exchequer Bills should be made to fall due in equal portions in March, June, September, and December, so that the Government and the Bank would never be liable for more than one-half of the total in any half-year, instead of being liable, as they will be by present arrangements, for the whole between January and March.

The rise in the rate of interest on Exchequer Bills to £3. 15s. per cent. per annum, whilst the funds at present prices pay only about £3. 7s., confirm the view that it would be far better to do away with Exchequer Bills altogether, or to greatly reduce their amount, by taking the first favourable opportunity that occurs of funding a large portion of them. It is absurd for the nation to pay £8,000 a-year for the maintenance of a Comptroller-General and a staff, to keep afloat Exchequer Bills, which cost at the rate of £3. 15s. per cent. per annum, and which are always causing the Government inconvenience, when, by funding them in Consols, the country would only pay about £3. 7s. per cent. per annum, and would save the £8,000 per annum. This is part of the system by which we manage to spend more than seventy millions a-year merely in keeping the State machine in motion.

As we write, we learn that a considerable amount of the June Exchequer Bills are being sent in to Government for payment, sales being only practicable in the market at a discount. In some quarters it is thought that Government will be required to pay off at least a million. Mr. Gladstone will probably shrink from the step; but a funding of several millions of Exchequer Bills would be the most judicious step that could be adopted.

THE GALWAY POSTAL CONTRACT: THE PREJUDICE WHICH MAY BE IMPORTED INTO A PUBLIC DISCUSSION.

WE cannot readily recall to mind any question into the discussion of which more prejudice has been imported than this of the Galway Postal Contract. A mere question of administrative arrangement—so small a matter as the relations between the Post-office and one of the companies carrying her Majesty's mails—has been exalted into one of imperial importance. On it has hung—perhaps still hangs—the fate of a Ministry ruling the greatest country in the world. People may well rub their eyes and wonder. The Company and its shareholders, on their part, may reasonably view with uneasiness the notoriety which has suddenly been cast upon them. They may well deprecate being made in this way the shuttlecock of rival factions. They were complaining of the hard measure which has been dealt out to them by a Government department, and were pressing for a reconsideration of what appears to have been a very hasty official decision, when suddenly they find that their representations, instead of being calmly and judicially weighed in a departmental bureau, are being growled and fought over in a general Parliamentary mêlée. It has not been so much a question at the moment of the merits or demerits of the Company, as of the eddy of a fierce party-fight. As a matter of course, whichever side wins, the Company are seriously damaged by the severe hustling to and fro which they receive during the conflict. The one party does not and it convenient at the moment to defend them, whilst the other loads them with vituperation. According to the latter, there never was such a "corrupt" contract—"flagitious" is one of the mildest terms used. The epithets "adventurers" and "projectors of a bubble company" are freely applied by the Times not merely to the projectors, but, apparently, also to the present directors of the Atlantic Royal Mail Steam Company. Now the shareholders protest emphatically against this style of argument, and we think the far-seeing public will, to a great extent, uphold them. It suits the purpose of the Company's assailants entirely to ignore the very important fact that its original projectors no longer have anything to do with its management. The Company has been entirely re-constituted, and is now directed by as respectable a body of gentlemen as is needed for any undertaking of the kind. The Chairman is Mr. William Malcomson, and the Deputy Chairman, Mr. Samuel Gurney, M.P. The list of Directors is as follows:—Messrs. J. W. Edwards, W. A. Tollemache, Dennis Kirwan, A. G. Robinson, James Stirling, George Palmer, Robert Henderson, — Mart.n, and Dr. Gray. The unbiassed public will admit that they see nothing in this list of a "disgraceful" character. They will look in vain here for men who "tread in the slippery paths of political intrigue," and who "prostitute their industry to the base uses of party." With all deference to the Times, when it is labouring under a fit of fine writing, we think the latter term is peculiarly applicable to that journal itself, which for party purposes is striving to destroy a fairly respectable concern, wherein a million of innocent shareholders' capital is embarked. When our contemporary avers that the Company "combines in itself every element that should have aroused suspicion," it is evident that he sees far more than the public can, and that he has put on his strongest party spectacles.

This is only a sample of the kind of argument—we beg pardon for using the word, for misrepresentation would be the more appropriate one—in which the discussion of this subject has been conducted by our impartial and logical contemporary. The Times even pronounces the whole project to be a "wild scheme." Is it "wild," we ask, to reduce the period required for communication with America by one day for letters, and by four or five days for telegrams? We imagine that the commercial public who are now watching the progress of events in America with intense anxiety, and who, in fact, are only just beginning to learn how closely their interests are identified with that country, see nothing at all "wild" in the project, especially considering that this promise has on more than one occasion been literally fulfilled. It is rightly declared by the Company that "the importance of having direct and speedy communication between Galway and St. John's (Newfoundland) cannot be over-rated," for this line is now proved to present the speediest means in existence for communicating with America. By this route London can communicate with New York in six days. The question is, do the commercial public of the United Kingdom see anything "wild" in this feat, or will they consider its accomplishment a great advantage to commerce? We have no doubt as to the nature of the answer. The very last passages made by the Company's vessels under the contract were performed in one day and seventeen hours less than the contract time as regards the outward voyage, and in six hours less than the contract time as regards the homeward voyage. Yet it is immediately after the Company have given this practical proof of their desire to overcome the difficulties with which they are temporarily environed that the contract is abruptly terminated by the Postmaster-General.

The Company have put forward a temperate and well-argued statement of the reasons which induce them to protest emphatically against the decision of the Postmaster-General, and to urge his lordship to reconsider it. They point, and with undeniable justice, to the incessant attacks, both in and out of Parliament, to which they have been subjected ever since the contract was signed, and which have kept up a constant doubt as to whether the subsidy would be voted. The consequence was that the hands of the directors were in a measure tied; they have been prevented by the course taken by Parliament itself from raising the requisite capital and from enforcing calls; for what shareholder could be expected to pay up when the subsidy, upon which the whole affair hinged, was openly threatened? Considering everything, we think the Company have struggled manfully, and have performed more than could have been expected of them. They are prepared to raise the requisite funds, to provide the requisite vessels, and to perform the whole of the service required of them, provided Parliamentary Committees will leave off sitting upon the question of their contract; and provided it be clearly understood that, as soon as they are in a position to claim it, the subsidy shall be restored to them. Government, by originally granting the contract, practically testified their conviction that the project is no "wild" one, but that it contemplates a useful, necessary, and practicable public service. All Ireland is up in arms about the matter, and demands its fair share of the Postal Packet expenditure. Why should not Ireland have it? Why should the Post Office pour a million of money for this service through the ports of Southampton, Liverpool, &c., and give nothing—not even £70,000 a year—to the nearest Irish port to America? In this country there is no adequate idea of the excitement which prevails on this subject in Ireland. Englishmen who pin their faith to the Times are not aware that the Irish papers are now teeming with the accounts of public meetings on the subject, which the Times habitually suppresses. Now, in England nothing is relished but fairness; and this mode of dealing with what has become a public question is anything but fair.

Our readers will not consider that we have given too great a prominence to this matter, for a vast deal will be heard of it yet. It is not merely a question of a million of capital, expended or subscribed. It is a question of the right of Government to destroy a company with which they have had dealings on account of shortcomings for which the Company cannot be held responsible save in a minor degree. The power of determining contracts, and of ruining public companies and other contractors, is one which, in the common interest, must not be left in the hands of any Government or department of Government. The treatment of the Red Sea Telegraph Company is still fresh in the public recollection. We wonder what would have become of that Company and their guaranteed interest, had not public opinion spoken out.

THE OPPORTUNITY FOR CANADA.

Civil war in the United States appears to present to Canada an opportunity to make a great stride in the way of material advancement, which, for the sake of those interested in Canadian undertakings, will, we trust, be energetically improved. The great difficulties with which Canada has all along had to contend are the greatly superior transit offered by the Erie Canal to Western and Upper Canadian trade, and the cheaper ocean freight from New York as compared with that from Montreal. This year it would seem that the disorganisation of everything American has for once made it preferable for English buyers to order produce shipments by the St. Lawrence River. Upon the Erie Canal there is no saying what hindrances may arise; and the rate of freight in New York will be very fluctuating, and often high. On the other hand, no delay may be anticipated on Lake Erie or Lake Ontario, and the ocean freight from Montreal will be at least uniform, and perhaps low. Why, then, the Canadian people and Government do not at once bestir themselves it is not easy to understand. A vigorous effort might now secure to the St. Lawrence route a large portion of the produce carrying trade of the season; and it is well known that, if business men once give a trial to a new route for the transport of their merchandise, they are likely to continue to be regular customers.

Then there is the consideration of the high American tariff, the comparatively low Canadian tariff, and the facilities presented to the merchants of the Western States of America to supply themselves at the cheapest rate in Montreal. This would appear to be another opportunity to the province to bestir itself, and show that it is not unworthy of the confidence of its friends. It is an old saying that "there is no friendship in trade;" that people will always buy where they can do so most advantageously; and so long as the hostile American tariff is maintained, and the New York merchants are to be found in the armoury or on parade, or, it may be, in the ranks of the Federal army, rather than in their shops and warehouses, Canada must, from sheer necessity, become the great market for the supply of English manufactured articles to the Western States. The difficulty which has been anticipated in the way of a protective tariff for the Northern American States and a free trade tariff for the Southern States is substantially operative in Canada. The frontier custom-houses on both sides of the line are so few and far between that nothing more is needed than a moderate difference in price to raise smuggling to the dignity of a regular trade between Upper Canada and the States to the west, and between Lower Canada and the States to the east. That the margin is now sufficient will be manifest from a comparison of a few of the leading items of the United States and Canadian tariffs. If we draw attention to it, we shall not, we hope, be charged with advocating smuggling:—

Let us trust that Canada will vigorously improve the occasion, and that the foolish proposition to place obstacles in the way of trade, by the reimposition of tolls on produce passing through the Welland Canal, will not be persisted in. To believe that the raising of such tolls will promote Canadian railway traffic or be advantageous to the province is sheer delusion. Freedom of trade is what Canada wants, and the Canadian railways would find plenty to do in carrying to and from the cheapest points for water transport, under a resolute determination to contest this great branch of trade with the Erie Canal and New York, circumstances being remarkably propitious.

RAILWAY AMALGAMATION—PEACE v. WAR.

THE proposed lease of the West Midland Railway by the Great Western will probably be considered by the London and North-Western Company as a breach of that understanding which, after years of warfare, and after millions of money have been squandered either in Parliamentary contests or in the construction of useless lines, has terminated—as these contests nearly always do—in a compromise. We are not going into the question as to whether the lease referred to is or is not a breach of contract; but on behalf of the shareholders in the Great Western, the London and North-Western, the Midland, and all the other companies, whose interests may be supposed to be affected by this arrangement—on behalf, also, of another great interest—the public—who invariably in the end pay for railway squabbles, it seems highly desirable that the general principle of these amicable arrangements—"fusion" is the word applied to them in France, where the system is largely and profitably adopted—should be stamped once more with public approbation. We are no advocates for the ceaseless absorption of small lines into the larger, at the cost of the shareholders in the latter; for arrangements of this kind give a bounty to the concoction of speculative schemes destined to be fastened upon the backs of the established companies. But it would unquestionably be a great advantage, if the large companies, who still retain the attitude of mutual rivalry, would desist from their present policy of devising the best means of stealing each other's traffic, and seriously consider whether by means of friendly arrangements—and even, in some instances, amalgamation—they could not promote both their own interests and those of the public. There is no greater delusion than to suppose that railway competition is beneficial either to the public or to the companies. It is extremely injurious to both—full of danger to the lives and pockets of the public—and very prejudicial to dividends. The practical effect of wasting capital in constructing two or three lines when one would have sufficed, is to make the railway companies charge higher fares than they would otherwise do, both for passengers and merchandise. After struggling with each other for some time, they invariably at last make up their quarrel and agree among themselves to levy certain amended fares which the public may be assured are the highest they can possibly fix. Had the traffic been concentrated under a better regulated system, both shareholders and the country would unquestionably have benefited. Even now it is not too late for railways traversing the same districts to come to an understanding which would enable them to pay better dividends, and to carry both passengers and goods at lower rates than at present. What is required is an equitable principle of arrangement, instead of a mutual pilfering of each other's traffic.

Railway amalgamation would have been effected in many instances long ago if the directors and officials on every line had not feared removal from power and place; but there is no occasion for this, for amalgamation may fairly be based on the principle of not interfering with existing interests. Every director, every secretary, every traffic manager, and other officer, might be maintained in statu quo. The saving proposed would be in wear and tear and in working expenses. Every passenger and every ton of goods should be sent to the place of destination by the shortest route. The principal difference which amalgamation would make would be, that full trains would be sent instead of half-empty ones. The result would be, to spare the useless wear and tear and consumption of rails, carriages, locomotives, and coke. Many railways would then be able to borrow at greatly reduced rates of interest. Of course, all existing preference shares and pecuniary arrangements should be recognised, but all the receipts beyond should be thrown into a common fund, to be mutually divided amongst the companies concerned, according to the rate of distribution that might be agreed on.

There is a great field for amalgamation and other amicable arrangements amongst the important railways to the northwards, including the London and North-Western, Midland, Lancashire and Yorkshire, Great Northern, North-Eastern, Caledonian, and others. Tentative movements in this direction have repeatedly attracted the attention of railway proprietors during the last few months. Plans of this kind, when based upon the principle of due consideration of all existing interests, and of a fair distribution of the aggregate profits, are of an essentially conservative order, and will be found full of promise to railway property. They aim at promoting traffic for the general good, and at effecting important savings in the present cost of working the various lines. As the end of this would be a legitimate economy, which would at once add to railway dividends, and enable passengers and goods to be carried profitably at lower rates than at present, we repeat that all well-considered schemes of railway amalgamation ought to be encouraged as good both for railway proprietors and the public. In railway matters we need not be too proud to take a lesson from the French. It is admitted that our neighbours have beaten us as regards the general organisation of their railway system. Well: in France there is no competition—no struggling between one company and another. The French system was originally framed expressly with a view to obviate such a contingency. Subsequently, when it was apprehended that, as branches were formed and extensions thrown out, certain of the companies might be brought into collision with each other, a wholesale scheme of fusion was arranged, and carried into execution under the highest auspices. The consequence is, that France is partitioned into several great and distinct net-works; that there is no fighting amongst the public carriers; that large dividends and high market premiums are realised; and that the whole system works with clock-like regularity. We can never hope to witness an equally simple system in this country, radical errors having presided over the very inception of our railways. But there is no reason whatever why we should not endeavour, even at this late period, to take a leaf out of our neighbours' book, by correcting, as far as we can, some of our errors—by substituting, for example, friendly arrangements and amalgamations for jealousy and contention, and economy for needless waste. This is, in truth, a common ground upon which all railway reformers may meet.

THE NATIONAL BANK.

WE have been very favourably impressed with the Report issued this week by the Directors of the National Bank. This establishment has the reputation of being very prudently managed. That the management is successful is evidenced by all the ordinary tests, including the expression of satisfaction by the proprietors, the high position of the shares in the market, and the handsome dividends declared. Not that the National Bank is exempt from the vicissitudes incidental to its business. Even during the year to which the present Report refers, it experienced losses sufficiently heavy to prove afresh to the Directors and Managers how close is the vigilance required from them. It was the year of the great leather failures; and the National Bank has suffered to the large extent of £66,500 by bad debts. It is a very satisfactory feature that the Report attempts not the slightest concealment with reference to this matter. The Directors—to their credit be it said—"make a clean breast of it." They say practically to their constituents: "Gentlemen, we are sorry to have to tell you that we have made a loss of £66,500 by the failures—not to say frauds—in the leather trade. We consider this loss to be quite of an exceptional character, but we have immediately directed the entire amount to be written off from your current or accumulated profits. This matter is thus entirely disposed of. But for it, your profits for the past year would have been far larger than in any year of the Bank's existence. Even now, after providing for the whole of this sum, we have been enabled to pay you the same rate of dividend as for the previous year, and also to increase the amount of your 'Rest' beyond the amount shown at this date last year."

* In addition to the ad valorem duty of 25 per cent. on wool manufactures, there is a specific duty of twelve cents or sixpence per pound.

If it be asked—How has this been accomplished; how can the Bank maintain its dividend and add to its "Rest," whilst writing off so heavy a loss?—the answer is easy. It is significant of a prudent management that the Directors have been able to find in some corner a little purse of £29,184. 19s. 8d. "available from former provisions for doubtful debts which have been realised or secured on more favourable terms than originally estimated." The balance—£37,315. 0s. 4d.—required to meet the loss of £66,500, "has been available from the ordinary profits of the year, which were £44,464. 7s. 5d. in excess of the dividends and bonuses." Consequently, after carrying £5,000 of profits to the building fund, the "Rest," or undivided profits, stood at £181,935 at the 31st December, 1860, against £179,781 at the 31st December, 1859.

This statement is full of encouragement, since it shows that the profits and prosperity of the establishment are growing rapidly whilst the losses referred to appertain to an exceptional year. There are not many banks in the kingdom that could meet so heavy a blow with this remarkable degree of ease. Neither are there many, we fear, that would thus frankly confess so large a loss, write it off, and have done with it.

THE STATE OF TRADE.

(COMPILED FROM NUMEROUS LOCAL REPORTS.)

THE accounts received this week from most of the manufacturing districts continue to indicate depression. Upon the whole, however, they are scarcely so gloomy as those received last week, harvest prospects having improved, and the fear of renewed disturbance in the money market having for the time subsided.

The accounts from Manchester describe the tone of the market as rather firm by comparison with what it was last week. There has been rather more inquiry during the last few days for cloths suitable for India at the prices of last week, which manufacturers are unwilling to accept. Scarcely any business is done. In other departments the cloth-market is really without change either as to demand or value. Contracts in shirtings are in many cases running to a close, and nearly all kinds of printing cloths are accumulating. The market for yarns has shown great firmness. A fair amount of business is doing for India and Germany, and also a little for China. No change can be noted in price, but the tendency is slightly to harden. Home trade yarns are very dull of sale, but their value is firmly maintained on account of the high price of cotton.

At Leeds there has been a moderate attendance of buyers in the Cloth-halls. The demand was far from brisk, and purchases were mostly confined to small parcels. There is no improvement among the manufacturers, several of whom are working short time. Prices are steady.

At Rochdale the flannel trade has shown a little more animation. A fair business was done at the warehouses. Manufacturers are very fairly employed, but some of them complain of the paucity of orders.

At Leicester there is very little doing in any branch of the hosiery trade, either for shipping or for the home market, and business is more dull than it has been for several seasons past. At Hinkley and the other country hosiery districts business is very inactive, and future prospects are not encouraging.

At Nottingham nearly every branch of the lace trade remains in the same dull state as for a length of time past. The home trade generally is exceedingly flat for the time of year. There is very little new to report in the hosiery trade; a little more is expected to be done with the States shortly, but the home trade continues deplorably dull.

THE Great Eastern is expected to arrive in the Mersey during the early part of next week.

COALS.—Messrs. George J. Cockerell and Co. have just issued their Twenty-eighth Annual Circular, in which they remark, with respect to coals:—"We have this year less hesitation than ever in recommending immediate purchases at our present quotation—24s. per ton nett cash—as we feel assured this price cannot continue long, especially since the low state of consumers' stocks will necessitate a more than ordinary demand."

Correspondence.

BANK NOTES UNREPRESENTED BY GOLD. TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—He that has much, to him much shall be given; and therefore the Bank, with a capital and savings to the enormous amount of seventeen millions sterling ought to have, must have, and has, liberty to manufacture fourteen millions more out of materials anything but sterling. To ordinary minds it is preposterous, but it may nevertheless be as it should be. Profoundly ignorant of the principles which justify this bargain of the Government with the Bank, as also of the rules which guide the latter in the administration of this great and singular privilege, I write in fact of matters which I do not understand, and may deserve a full measure of castigation for my presumption. But to me it has ever appeared that causes will have their effects. The present state of monetary affairs is the effect of preceding causes, and in proportion as the latter have been large and lasting will the former be long and momentous. If the fourteen millions are a huge delusion, we must look for long disappointments and a long line of disasters. No wonder there should now be long faces;—well may they say at the Bank,

"O! Brackenbury, I have done those things Which now do rise in judgment up against me!"

But whilst I ignorantly fancy the Bank in a pretty considerable "fix," the gentlemen presiding over its affairs may perchance be in harmonious conclave, full of mutual gratulations on the beauty of their system, the fitness of their plans, the perfection and success of their operations—as a well-finished timepiece, each spring and wheel performing the minutely calculated offices—as the master symphony of the greatest of composers, in which the most cynical critic is unable to find one note too little or one too much; ease and satisfaction reign paramount.

Nevertheless I do not stand alone. There are others, condemning in accordance with me the fourteen millions of unrepresented paper as a delusion and a snare, the cause, at one period, of overtrading and reckless speculation; at another—be it from natural reaction, or extraneous and unforeseen circumstances—of perplexity, panic, and ruin. Yet many of these seeing the evil, hold it to be necessary, and ask—"What would you do without these fourteen millions?" This is a very common, as it is a very old difficulty. It was the great hue and cry when Sir Robert Peel began his Bank reforms about forty two years ago. At that time the fictitious money was double or treble (it matters not which) the present amount, but the dealings of the community were smaller. The imports and exports might then amount to sixty millions, whereas they are now three hundred and sixty, besides fifty or sixty millions in bullion. The consumption of tea and sugar has more than trebled; I take no account of tobacco, but few used to smoke, and now every one walks about with his pipe or cigar, and they have no doubt the best of the latter in the Bank parlour. I say nothing of cotton. The make of iron is almost twenty fold. The money spent in waggons and stage coaches might have been a million, or, if you like, two, but the take of the railways is twenty-eight millions in the year. We shall be within the mark if we assume that the transactions of the nation have increased at least four-fold—that the general dealings are now twenty-four hundred millions against six hundred in 1819. The unrepresented notes, measured by this standard, bear but the proportion of one-twelfth to their former ratio of magnitude; we have, therefore, to deal only with one-twelfth of the evil that beset Bank reform in those days, and we surely can do without so small an evil.

But here the brightest amongst them will catch me on the hip, raising at my cost a convulsive laughter around the perplexed Board of Directors, as the evil cannot be so large because it is so small. But small as the evil is, it has been the cause, in seven months, of twelve alterations in the Bank rate, eight of which were purposely to save payment of notes; for if not for that purpose, why be vexed at the export of gold? What additional alterations may be in store, who can tell? They will all be ineffective. I am not clever at figures, and have miscalculated that the rate ought now to be 23 per cent. Those who understand these matters say that, at all events, nothing under 12 per cent. can check the efflux of gold. But as good mercantile bills, with bill of lading attached, can be had in New York at par, or 1 premium, even 60 per cent. per annum will not do it. And why should it be done? England is the largest dealer in bullion. Freely it comes in and freely it ought to go out. That is business. There are now mighty bargains to be got at New York for sovereigns; why should people be prevented from buying them? Who ought to have such pernicious authority? Who ought to have an interest, either of avarice or of distress, to interfere? That, however, is exactly what the Bank does, and, as I in my ignorance verily believe, because of its fourteen millions of unrepresented notes. This ought not to be.—I am, sir, yours,

MERCATOR.

BANK OF ENGLAND DISCOUNTS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—It cannot be doubted that the value of money influences the great transactions of the world, therefore the rise and fall in that value, as indicated by the rate of discount, must be interesting, not only to the financier, the merchant, and the manufacturer, but indirectly to all classes of the community, by causing an increase or decrease in the price of all commodities. For the information of your readers I beg to annex the copy of a return which I have prepared and inserted in the 5th edition of my "Popolar Tables," only adding thereto the facts published in the London Gazette of last night.—I remain, sir, your obedient servant,

MERCANTILE EMBARRASMENTS.

The proposition contained in the circular issued last Friday by Mr. C. F. Kemp, the accountant, with reference to the affairs of Mr. E. Vitalis, has been assented to by the creditors, it being understood that the whole of the outstanding engagements of the estate will be provided for at Constantinople, in accordance with the terms of the circular. Accordingly, Messrs. G. P. Vitalis and Sons will pay in full, and Messrs. Schneider and Co., and E. Glavany and Co., will pay 12s. in the pound each, the composition in the two latter instances being conditional on a release being given in the case of Mr. E. Vitalis.

The announcement was made on Thursday of a heavy Russian failure. The disaster comprises the houses of Messrs. W. Brandt and Sons, of Archangel; Mr. Charles Brandt, of St. Petersburg; Messrs. Brandt Brothers, of Riga; and Mr. Richard Brandt, of London, and the total liabilities are believed to amount to £300,000. The direct debts of the London house are, it is said, limited to £70,000. The accounts have been placed in the hands of Messrs. Quiter, Ball, and Co. The house must not be confounded with other firms of a similar name.

A meeting was held on Thursday of the creditors of Messrs. P. Hava and Co., Greek merchants, who suspended payment on the 3rd of May. The balance-sheet read by Mr. Turquand, the accountant, stated the liabilities at £66,965, and the assets at £68,286. A small surplus is shown. It was resolved to permit the firm to continue to liquidate their estate, and to adjourn to the 1st of August.

At the meeting on Tuesday of the creditors of Messrs. Theodore Ralli, Sons, and Co., Greek merchants, a balance-sheet, which exhibits the liabilities and assets of the London and Marseilles houses amalgamated, was presented by Mr. J. E. Coleman, the accountant. It states the liabilities at £74,786, and the assets at £98,646. The estate thus shows a surplus of nearly £24,000, and an additional sum of £15,000 or £20,000, not included in the above statement, is expected to be obtained from Constantinople. Mr. Coleman mentioned that the Bank of France are pursuing a liberal course towards the Greek interest, and read a letter in this sense which he had received from the Governor of that establishment. It was resolved that Messrs. T. Ralli, Sons, and Co. shall continue to liquidate their estate, and meanwhile they will communicate with their foreign houses with a view to fix specific periods for the settlement of their liabilities. An adjourned meeting will be held on the 6th of August.

Advices from Constantinople mention that Mr. D. E. Rodocanachi has placed his affairs in the hands of the Austrian consul there. The offer made is to pay 4s. in the pound, in three instalments, extending over eighteen months. This proposal will be considered at a meeting to be held in Constantinople, on the 10th of June, and if it be not agreed to Mr. Rodocanachi will, it is anticipated, be declared a bankrupt.

In the Bankruptcy Court, on Wednesday, there were some further proceedings in the case of Mr. James Herbert Smith, and of Messrs. Nicholson, Pascall, and Stone.

THE NATIONAL BANK.

The Twenty-sixth Annual General Meeting of proprietors was held at the temporary offices of the company in Old Broad-street, on the 23th May; Mr. OCTAVIUS OMMANNEY in the chair.

The following report was read by Mr. H. BARRY HYDE, the secretary:—

"The directors of the National Bank have great pleasure in presenting to the proprietors the twenty-sixth annual report of the state and condition of the society made up to the close of 1860. They have much on which to congratulate the proprietors in placing this document before them; for they can advert to the fact that in the face of considerable and exceptional losses, the general prosperity of the establishment has enabled them to pay dividends and bonuses to the amount of fourteen per cent. for the last year, to write off and provide for all bad and doubtful debts, and to increase the amount of rest or undivided profits exhibited in the directors' report of May last. The year 1860 has been one of chequered results in agriculture and trade; but so far as this bank is concerned, except for the failures in the leather trade, which occurred in the course of last summer, the amount of realised profits would have far exceeded those of any year hitherto reported upon. The increase in the earning powers of the bank, the directors hope to be continuous and progressive. With respect to the amount lost by the bank in connection with the failures before referred to, the directors have to state that they have caused to be written off £66,500 for bad debts. This sum, which fully provides for every ascertained and contingent loss, it is gratifying to report, was to the extent of £29,184. 19s. 8d., available from former provisions for doubtful debts which have been realised or secured on more favourable terms than originally estimated, and £37,315. 0s. 4d. has been available from the ordinary profits of the year, which were £44,464. 7s. 5d., in excess of the dividends and bonuses. The directors have pleasure in calling attention to the fact that notwithstanding the year 1860 was generally unfavourable for agricultural interests, from the prevalence of ungenial weather, the habits of industry and thrift of the agricultural population in Ireland have so far counteracted even this serious drawback, as to exhibit a total of deposits at the close of last year very nearly equal to that of 1859, and much greater than that of any previous year since the opening of the bank. The following accounts in the form heretofore adopted, exhibit the state of the company's affairs more precisely than general observation:—

"1. ASSETS AND LIABILITIES.—Assets—Gold and silver coin in Ireland, £700,882. 18s. 4d.; cash in hand, at the Bank of England, and at call, £487,305. 7s. 10d.; Government funds, Exchequer Bills, Exchequer Bonds and Debentures, £639,291. 17s. 3d.; bills discounted on hand, £3,246,834. 8s. 9d.; advances on Government and other securities, loans at short notice, and current accounts, £830,783. 5s. 8d.; bank premises at London, Dublin, and branches, £45,888. 12s. 8d.; total, £5,950,986. 10s. 6d. Liabilities—aid-up capital £500,000; notes in circulation, £1,281,988. 5s.; due by the bank on deposit receipts, current accounts, &c., £3,987,067. 0s. 1d.; rest, or undivided profits, £181,931. 5s. 5d. Total, £5,950,986. 10s. 6d.

"11. PROFIT AND LOSS ACCOUNT.—Rest, or undivided profits, at December, 1859, £179,781. 18s. 4d.; to which has been added the net profit of 1860, after writing off all bad and providing for doubtful debts, £96,028. 7s. 1d.; less rebate of interest on bills not due, £18,879—£77,149. 7s. 1d. Total, £256,901. 5s. 5d. From which have been paid: Feb., 1860, half a year's dividend, at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, £20,000, with a bonus of 15s. per share, £15,000—£35,000. Aug., 1860.—Half a year's dividend, at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, £20,000; with a bonus of 15s. per share, £15,000—£35,000; building fund, £5,000—£75,000; leaving at December, 1860, a rest, or amount of undivided profits, of £181,931. 5s. 5d. Examined and found correct, O. Ommanney, L. Osborne, J. B. Smith, F. B. Henshaw, F. Newsam. Since these accounts were made up a dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, and a bonus of 15s. per share, were paid in February, amounting to £35,000. The amount of undivided profits, after payment of the bonus and dividend, therefore stood at £146,931. 5s. 5d. this year, as compared with £139,781. 18s. 4d., the amount of undivided profits after payment of the February dividends in 1860, and allocating out of profits £5,000 for building purposes, as referred to in the report of last May, and shown in the preceding accounts. The directors were in hopes they should have been able to meet the proprietors on this occasion in their new building; the delay, however, is not considerable, and they expect in the course of about three months to occupy it. They desire to state that the building, except to an inconsiderable extent, stands on the freehold of the bank, and that the small portion not freehold is under lease from the trustees of Christ's Hospital for a period of sixty years from Michaelmas, 1859. The directors deem the present occasion a suitable one to refer to the relative amount of Irish business transacted by this bank, and of accommodation afforded to Irish trade by it, as compared with the other banks in Ireland taken in the aggregate. The amount of note circulation, which a bank of issue continuously maintains, affords the best test of the activity of its business, and is the best measure of the extent to which its advances assist the operations of trade. At the period when the average circulation of the banks of issue in Ireland was taken for the purposes of Sir Robert Peel's Act, namely, for the twelve months preceding May, 1845, the total circulation of all the banks in Ireland was £6,354,494. The total circulation of Ireland at the close of 1860 was £7,047,600, showing an increase of £693,106 for the whole of Ireland, and for all the banks. Of this increase in the circulating medium of the country £500,246 is the increase on the circulation of the National Bank, as shown in the Dublin Gazette of the 28th of December last. The directors believe this fact will illustrate better than any general statement the actual and relative progress of the bank in the cultivation of its Irish business. It affords the directors much pleasure to inform the proprietors that the branch opened at Listowel, referred to in their last report, has progressed most satisfactorily; and they have now to report that they have within the present year opened a branch bank at Newcastle, in the county of Limerick, the growing importance of the Bank's business in that district having confirmed the directors in the belief that their customers at Newcastle had a fair right to expect the establishment of a branch of this bank in their town. The directors have to report that in virtue of the powers conferred on them by the deed of settlement, they have filled up the vacancy in the board caused by the decease of their late esteemed colleague, John Clement Ruding, Esq., which occurred shortly before their last meeting, by the unanimous election of Edmund Smithwick, Esq., of Kilkenny, and which appointment the directors are confident will receive the confirmation of the proprietors. The directors desire here to pay a last tribute of respect to the memory of another colleague, who has within the last few months departed from amongst them, and to express their deep regret at the death of their valued friend, the late Francis Spaight, Esq., the vacancy caused by whose death the directors have also filled up by the unanimous election of Joseph Neale McKenna, Esq., formerly their chief inspector in Ireland, whose election they confidently expect will equally receive the confirmation of the shareholders; at the same time the directors have also acted in accordance with the general sense of Mr. McKenna's value by retaining his active and prominent services as a permanent member of the committee of management. The directors who retire this year by rotation are—Jeremiah Dunne, Esq.; J. Harvey Lewis, Esq., M.P., Rowand Ronald, Esq. and M. Osborne, Esq.; who, being eligible, now offer themselves as candidates for re-election."

The CHAIRMAN observed, the report which had just been read was so full that he might well leave it to speak for itself, were it not usual for the chairman on these occasions to introduce it by a few preliminary observations. In the first place he might fairly congratulate the proprietors on the satisfactory state of the accounts, the more satisfactory as, perhaps from rumours which had been current during the past year, somewhat different results might have been anticipated. The conciseness, yet amplitude of detail, with which everything was stated, would, he hoped, be regarded with favour by the proprietors generally. He was glad to say that the trade of Ireland had suffered no reverse during the past year. They were aware that the season had been one of much inclemency, that the agricultural interest had suffered in consequence. In a bank like the National, which had many branches in agricultural districts, of course the results must depend to a considerable extent upon the condition of the agricultural interest. The profits would be diminished by less business consequent upon deficient harvests, or reduced by losses occurring to those who might be unable, from unexpected difficulties, to meet their engagements. But he was glad to say that this last cause of decreased profits had not arisen during the past year, and it was a remarkable proof of the progress of Ireland, that the farmers and agriculturists, instead of considering, as they formerly too frequently did, that sufficient for the day was the evil thereof, now habitually put by ample provision for the wet day. (Hear, hear.) He might refer, upon this point, with some satisfaction to the state of the bank deposits during the last three years. In 1858 they were £3,482,000; in 1859, £4,034,000; and in 1860, £3,987,000, showing, in the year of deficient harvest, a diminution of only £47,000. (Hear, hear.) He next came to the losses they had sustained from the failures in the leather trade, losses which had fallen not on their bank alone, but on many others. The total amount of these losses, ascertained and contingent, so far as the National Bank was concerned, was 66,500. That was, undoubtedly, a large sum, but it was one of those occurrences which no foresight could always prevent in banking business, and it was, at least, a subject upon which the board might fairly congratulate the proprietors that they were enabled to meet the loss without trenching upon the reserve fund, or reducing the dividend or bonus. (Cheers.) The resources of the bank, and the liberal manner in which the directors always acted in reference to the trading and agricultural interests of Ireland, were proved by the state of their circulation. The circulation of the National Bank, which, in 1857, was £863,000, rose in 1858 to £1,135,000; in 1859 it was £1,274,000; and in 1860 it had increased to £1,284,000. This was a certain indication that the board acted to all who were customers of the bank, and to all who were not, with liberality to the full extent of their means, and that the trade of Ireland received from them all facilities and accommodation that it could legitimately require; and such was the course which this course of policy had secured to them, that of the £700,000 excess of circulation since the passing of the Bank Act five-sevenths of such excess were enjoyed by the National Bank. Before sitting down he could not help referring to those gentlemen to whose exertions they were mainly indebted for this prosperous state of affairs—namely, the officers of the bank. (Cheers.) They were a lot of them fully competent for their duties and zealous in the discharge of them, and what was a matter of no small importance, they all answered the helm well. (Cheers.) First, there was Mr. McKenna, formerly their chief inspector, who had been advanced by the board to a seat in the direction, and whose advancement he had no doubt the meeting would unanimously confirm. Then there was Mr. Hyde, their able and active secretary. Next there was Mr. Hardy, the manager of the Dublin branch, whose health, he was sorry to say, rendered it necessary that he should no longer reside at the banking house in Dublin. Again, there was Mr. Carnegie, whose exertions had raised the branch at Cork to a position superior to any other branch establishment in Ireland. All these, and, in short, all the officers of the establishment, worked well and zealously, and to all of them the proprietors were greatly indebted for the satisfactory manner in which the business was conducted. In the place of their late lamented colleague, Mr. Ruding, whose loss was touched upon at the meeting last year, the directors elected their old friend Mr. Smithwick, an appointment which, he believed, would be as satisfactory as that of Mr. McKenna, and whose election would be, no doubt, also confirmed. With regard to Mr. McKenna, he looked upon his presence at the board as of the greatest advantage. He knew everything connected with the business of the bank, saw the point of everything at once, and knew how to place everything upon its proper footing. The proprietors would recollect that Mr. McKenna had for some time held the position of chief inspector in Ireland; and the directors thought that now the means of communication between Ireland and England were so rapid, his services would be much more useful as a member of the board in this country than they would be if he remained in Ireland. He had only to add that the report, of which he would now conclude by moving the adoption, was a faithful and fair representation of the actual state of their affairs, and he trusted that it would be unanimously approved.

Mr. Fox felt much pleasure in seconding the motion. He believed the National Bank was penetrating deeper and deeper into the soil of Ireland, and that with the growth of years they would see larger and more substantial dividends, and realise those anticipations they fondly looked forward to when they invested their money in the concern. It was not patriotism or love of country, but a simple question of pounds, shillings, and pence, which induced them to invest their capital, and it was in that view such undertakings must always be regarded. (Hear.)

Mr. SEARLE, amid considerable interruption, proceeded to read a long speech, in which he complained that the losses arising from the leather trade failures were owing in a great measure to want of foresight on the part of the board.

Mr. McMAHON strongly objected to Mr. Searle taking up the time of the meeting with his long written speeches upon matters wholly irrelevant to the business they were called together to discuss.

The report was put and unanimously adopted.

Mr. E. Smithwick, of Kilkenny, who had been elected to the board by the directors in the room of the late Mr. Ruding, was proposed for confirmation, and his election was unanimously confirmed. The appointment of Mr. Joseph Neale McKenna as a director, in the room of the late Mr. Francis Spaight, was also confirmed, nem. con., and the directors retiring by rotation were severally proposed and re-elected.

The CHAIRMAN then moved a vote of thanks to the officers of the bank for the able manner in which they had performed their duties and conducted the business of the establishment.

Admiral Sir B. MACNAMARA seconded the resolution, and expressed his gratification that the losses had been no larger.

The motion was carried unanimously.

Mr. T. M. USBORNE, of Cork, proposed a vote of thanks to the chairman and the directors generally, to whose efficient management he paid a high compliment. With regard to the losses from the leather failures, though they were to be regretted, they would have their advantage in inducing increased caution in future. It was also some consolation to know that the whole had been amply written off, and that they began from January under the most favourable auspices. As to Mr. McKenna, the Irish shareholders owed that gentleman a deep debt of gratitude for the manner in which he had managed the affairs of the bank in Ireland, and for his conduct to all the clients of the institution in that country, and he thought the directors were entitled to the special thanks of the meeting for having elected him to the vacant seat at the board.

The vote was passed by acclamation.

The CHAIRMAN having briefly acknowledged the compliment the meeting was made special to consider a proposition for altering the deed of settlement, with the view of permitting shares to be registered in joint names.

The CHAIRMAN, in moving the necessary resolution, stated that when the bank was established it was doubtful how far joint-proprietorship could be admitted; but now that the public were familiar with the working of joint-stock banks, the principle was generally adopted, and as it would afford facilities to shareholders, and enable shares to be held in trust, it was proposed to follow that principle in this bank.

The resolution was accordingly put.

Mr. HARVEY LEWIS, M.P., seconded the motion, which was agreed to, and the proceedings terminated.

PRESENTATION TO MR. MCKENNA.

In January last, Mr. McKenna was appointed general manager of the National Bank in London, on which occasion the Irish shareholders, with characteristic good feeling, prepared an address for Mr. McKenna, to be accompanied with a presentation of a magnificent silver salver and epergne of 600 ounces. Whilst this address was in progress, Mr. McKenna was unanimously elected by the court of directors to a seat on the board, vacant by the decease of the late Francis Spaight, Esq., of Limerick. The address was presented to Mr. McKenna on the 28th inst. by Admiral Sir Burton Macnamara, and a deputation of shareholders; it was signed by upwards of 600 of the Irish proprietors, and was in the following terms:—

"ADDRESS TO JOSEPH NEALE MCKENNA, ESQ.

"Dear Sir,—We, the undersigned shareholders of the National Bank, in congratulating the directors and yourself upon your recent appointment to the position of general manager, desire to place on record our sense of your services to the institution in which we are all so deeply interested. In doing this it is gratifying to us to state that the court of directors have not only anticipated our wishes in your selection for that position, but by it have proved their sense of your past services, and their perception of what is due to the interests of the bank. From our knowledge of your character, we are quite convinced that a compliment expressed in overflowing terms, would not be regarded by you as of equal value to the simple expression of our approval of your past services, and our complete confidence in your future management; but we cannot, at the same time, conceal from you our hope and belief that your future career in England will reflect credit on the country in which your earliest lessons of honour and good faith have been learned. As a token of our esteem, we beg your acceptance of the accompanying testimonial, which may recall to your mind from time to time the good will of which it is the least valuable memorial. Again assuring you of our deep sense of the services which you have rendered to us as shareholders of the bank, and with a further expression of our best and warmest wishes for your future welfare, we remain, dear sir, your sincere friends."

To this address Mr. McKenna made the following reply:—"My Lord, Reverend Gentlemen, and Gentlemen—I have read your kind address with emotion I cannot conceal. I am deeply sensible of the honour which the frank expression of your confidence confers upon me. Since your address was drawn up, I am indebted to the court of directors and to you for a seat on the board. I reflect with pleasure on the fact that your confidence in me has been the growth of a quarter of a century, during which period I have served the National Bank to the best of my judgment, if not with any great ability, at least with patience and assiduity. It would be an unworthy response to your kind expressions were I to attribute to my own instrumentality the large measure of prosperity with which the bank has been favoured, especially for the past ten years during which I have been its chief officer in Ireland; but I accept your approval of my past services in the sense that you recognise that I have done my duty, and have so far contributed to that prosperity. Your kind anticipations touching my future in England I can only hope to realise to the extent that I shall give no occasion for reproach to my own country on my behalf, and that I shall probably be found capable of dealing with practical subjects in a straightforward manner. The very beautiful epergne and salver with which your address has been accompanied shall be to me tokens of inestimable value, for I hope at a future day, when I shall require them no more, to hand them to my children in every true sense as unsullied as they come from your hands this day.—I have the honour to remain, my lord, reverend gentlemen, and gentlemen, your very faithful servant,

"JOSEPH N. MCKENNA."

Total Reserve (Notes and Coin) in Banking Department .. .. .	7,273,598	.. Increase	618,057

These changes are of a character to allay apprehension respecting the immediate future of the money market. The increase in the reserve is considerable, and is caused chiefly by the addition to the private deposits. There is also an increase in the bullion, notwithstanding the remittances of sovereigns to America.

THE MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 31.

The discount market this week has been moderately easy. The demand has not been active, and the rates in Lombard-street have ranged from  $5\frac{1}{2}$  to  $5\frac{3}{4}$  per cent. for choice bills, or  $\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{1}{4}$  below the Bank minimum. To-day the demand was somewhat brisker, but good bills were taken at  $5\frac{1}{2}$ , and the demand at the Bank was almost as slack as on the previous days of the week.

Since our last publication, the steamer Australasian has sailed for America with £221,300 in specie, and the Glasgow with £24,591. The Bohemian, for Quebec, has also taken £45,200. The aggregate by the three ships is £291,091. Only a moderate amount is expected to be sent for Boston by the Arabian to-morrow.

Since the date of the return given above, £54,000 in gold has been purchased by the Bank, inclusive of £24,000 to-day.

Of the £356,000 in Australian gold known to be at sea, £176,000 is considerably overdue, and the rest ought to arrive within a fortnight.

Some supplies of French gold coin have lately been attracted by an advance of 1d. per ounce in the price given by the Bank of England.

The Bank of Belgium on Monday reduced their rate of discount from 4 per cent., at which it has stood since the 13th of February, to 3.

Subjoined is a list of the rates of discount current in the principal Continental cities, viz.:—

Bank Rate.	Open Market.	Bank Rate.	Open Market.
Paris .. 5 per ct. .. 4½ per ct.		Frankfort .. 3 per ct. .. 2 per ct.
Vienna .. 5 .. 6 ..		Brussels .. 3 .. 3 ..
Berlin .. 4 .. 3½ ..		Turin .. 6 .. 5½ ..
Amsterdam .. 3 .. 3 ..		Hamburg .. No bank rate .. 2½ ..

The letters from Shanghai mention that silver was being remitted from that port to India. This may check the shipments of silver from England to India.

THE BULLION MARKET.

With reference to the movements in bullion and in the Indian Government paper, Messrs. Pixley, Abell, and Langley report as follows:—

GOLD.—The Duncan Dunbar has arrived from Sydney, with £48,000; and the Tasmania, from the West Indies, has brought £80,000; but, with the exception of the shipment of sovereigns to America, there is not any demand for export; consequently, the remainder of the gold ex Copenhagen, together with the arrivals from the Continent, have been sent into the Bank, making a total of about £300,000 purchased by that establishment since the date of our last circular.

The Australasian has taken £221,300, and the Glasgow £24,591, to New York; and further amounts will be sent by the next steamer on Saturday.

SILVER.—The Tasmanian, with about £280,000 in silver and dollars, has arrived from the West Indies; the specie will not be deliverable until Monday, the 3rd inst. There is but little doing in the silver market, and the price is rather lower; we quote it at 5s. 0½d. per ounce standard, with slight demand.

MEXICAN DOLLARS.—Dollars are in but slight demand, and prices are rather lower; a considerable quantity has arrived by the Tasmanian, but are not on the market yet; we quote the rate at 4s. 11¼d. per ounce, with but little business doing.

EXCHANGE on India for Drafts by Banks at 60 days' sight, on Bombay and Calcutta, continues as quoted in our last, viz.—1s. 11½d. to 2s.; Madras 1s. 11½d. to 2s. Document Bills on Bombay and Calcutta, 1s. 11¼d. to 1s. 11½d.

INDIA GOVERNMENT LOAN NOTES.—The market for these securities is, if anything, rather weaker; we quote Five-and-a-Half per Cents. 99½ to par, Five per Cents. 98½ to 94.

The report of Messrs. Haggard and Co., dated this day, observes:—

Since our last circular our market has been moderately active, but prices have undergone no changes of importance. The imports, which have not been very large, include the Tasmanian, from the West Indies, with £360,000; the Duncan Dunbar, from Sydney, with £48,000; about £80,000 gold from France and Turkey; and a moderate amount of silver from the Continent. The exports, which have been rather considerable, comprise the Sultan, to Bombay, with £160,000 silver and £31,000 gold (of which Government remit £50,000); the Australasian, with £221,300; and the Glasgow, with £24,600, both to New York. There is no demand for gold to the Continent, and it is thought that the shipments to New York will be on a smaller scale, owing to the favourable turn in sterling exchange. A large portion of the gold lately arrived from Australia and the Continent, has been sold to the Bank of England, the amount being £293,000. There is not much demand for bar silver, but, owing to the limited supply in the market, prices have undergone no change, but the tendency is rather downwards, and it is anticipated that the bars by the Tasmanian will be sold at a slight reduction from the present price. Mexican dollars, owing to the very slight demand, have again become weak, and it is now not possible to obtain more than 59½d.

THE EXCHANGES.

The Continental exchanges this week have been generally steady at last week's rates, which represent a fairly satisfactory level. The rates quoted to-day were as follows:—

Amsterdam.....	3 M. D.	12 ½	Madrid .....	3 M. D.	48 ½
Ditto .....	3 D. S.	11 18	Cadiz .....	"	48 ½

INDIAN FINANCE.

Although the official accounts received from India by the Government by the last mail are believed to have been especially satisfactory, it is thought (observes the Times) that Sir Charles Wood will ask power to raise a new loan of £4,000,000, and that the application will be laid before Parliament early next week.

From the present quotation of India Bonds, and the fact that an advance has been found necessary in the rate on Exchequer Bills, it is surmised that an increase of their current interest to at least four-and-a-half per cent. must shortly be resolved upon.

THE FRENCH RAILWAY LOAN.

The subscription for French railway obligations has resulted in tenders being sent in for more than three times the amount offered. The applicants for Orleans obligations will obtain 16 per cent. of the sum asked, of the Lyons 30 per cent., and of the Southern 50 per cent. £2,600,000 in cash has been deposited in a week at the Bank of France without the money market being influenced in the slightest degree.

THE MAILS VIA GALWAY.

It is announced that the steamers of the Atlantic Royal Mail Company will leave Galway for St. John's, Newfoundland, and the United States every alternate Tuesday, as originally fixed, and the next departure will be the Adriatic, on the 4th of June. Letters intended to be forwarded by the vessels of this line will be in time if posted in London on the Monday evening previous to the respective periods of departure; and telegraphic messages for despatch from St. John's, Newfoundland, will be received at Galway up to one o'clock in the afternoon of the day of departure of each vessel.

EXCHEQUER BILLS.

Tuesday next is the last day for sending in Exchequer Bills for renewal.

THE COMMERCIAL COPPER SMELTING COMPANY (LIMITED.)

The Commercial Copper Smelting Company (Limited)—a project of considerable importance—has been brought forward this week, under influential auspices. The magnitude of the operations contemplated may be gathered from the fact that the capital is fixed at £1,000,000. It is the Company's object to strike at once into the copper trade, which for many years has been a close monopoly, and is reported to have yielded enormous profits to the few establishments engaged in it. It stands to reason that where there is no real competition amongst the buyers of copper ores great profits may be realised by the smelter at the cost of the producers and importers of the ores. The ores of Chili, Australia, California, and other parts, which find their way freely to England for sale, will furnish an ample field for this company's operations. Arrangements have been completed for the purchase of some well-known copper smelting works at Caldera, in Chili, now in full operation, and producing large quantities of metal, as well as of the Bold Copper Smelting Works at St. Helen's, Lancashire. This undertaking has met with great attention, and large transactions have taken place in the shares, which, after touching  $\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{7}{8}$  prem., closed to-day at  $\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{5}{8}$  prem.

A rumour has been circulated in the Stock Exchange that the works in Chili purchased by the new Commercial Copper Company are those of the defunct Mexican and South American Company. We are, therefore, requested to state that this is entirely erroneous, and that the present project has nothing whatever to do with any of the parties who were connected with that concern.

NEW GRANADA BONDS.

We have received the following from the committee of Spanish-American bondholders. It refers to a new element of doubt in the position of the holders of New Granada Bonds:—

The committee of Spanish-American bondholders have received a communication from the Provisional Government of New Granada, at Carthagena, stating that it does not acknowledge the agreement concluded between his Excellency Senor Martin and the committee of Spanish-American bondholders for the adjustment of the foreign debt of New Granada, but stating that it is ready to enter into relations with the committee for arranging the debt, either on the same terms or on terms more favourable to the bondholders. Advice from the interior state that a decisive battle was daily expected close to Bogota, between General Mosquera, the head of the Provisional Government, and the forces of the Government of the Granadian Confederation.

RAILWAY TRAFFIC.

The returns now in course of publication refer to Whitsun-week this year, as compared with the week previous to Whitsuntide last year.

The Brighton Railway traffic return shows this week a decrease of £1,978, the return for the corresponding week of last year including the traffic of Epsom races; the South-Eastern, an increase of £1,748; the London and North-Western, an increase of £1,570; the Great Western, a decrease of £2,235; the Great Northern, a decrease of £2,606; the London and South-Western, a decrease of £2,348; the Eastern Counties, a decrease of £457; the Midland, an increase of £1,902; the Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire, an increase of £3,688; the Lancashire and Yorkshire, an increase of £14,490 (namely, an increase of £16,674 in the passengers, and a decrease of £2,184 in the goods); and the North-Eastern, an increase of £3,343.

RAILWAYS.

With regard to the Indus Steam Flotilla, the directors of the Scinde Railway Company have put forward an advertisement inviting tenders for the unappropriated portion of the £83,000 debentures about to be issued. The terms granted by the India-office are better than those hitherto enjoyed by the company. The debentures bear interest at 5 per cent. for five years, and are renewable for a second period of like duration. They are also convertible into Indus Steam Flotilla stock, at the option of the holder.

A special meeting of the Eastern Counties Railway Company is convened for the 13th of June, to consider six bills now pending in Parliament, and referring to various new lines. At this meeting the terms of arrangement agreed upon between the Eastern Counties, Norfolk, and Eastern Union Railways will be submitted for approval.

A special meeting of the Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire Railway Company is called for the 7th of June, at Manchester, to create further capital for the construction of the Garston and Liverpool Railway, "by means of new shares or otherwise."

A petition for the winding up of the Shoreham, Horsham, and Dorking Railway Company is expected to be heard before the Master of the Rolls on the 8th June.

THE SEEND IRON COMPANY (LIMITED).

We have received a copy of the prospectus of the Seend Iron Company (Limited). The iron interest is in a very depressed condition at present, but this undertaking stands in an exceptional position in many respects, the great natural advantages possessed by the works at Seend in Wiltshire being of a peculiar character. It is plainly stated that at these works iron can be smelted to any extent at a cost which places it above all ordinary competition, and which must at all times secure a good profit. Such is the quality of the article turned out that the whole produce of the works meets with an immediate sale at a time when other descriptions of iron find very little market. Detailed particulars are given respecting the extent of the works and other appliances to be purchased by the company. The capital of the undertaking is £100,000.

THE MALTA AND MEDITERRANEAN GAS COMPANY (LIMITED).

Another new project is the Malta and Mediterranean Gas Company (Limited). It is proposed to provide the principal towns of the Mediterranean with gas. The field being a wide one, operations will be commenced in the most suitable localities. In the first instance Malta has been selected, it being proposed to purchase works which were erected at that place in the year 1856, and which the present company are to obtain at a price considerably below their actual cost. It is a favourable feature that the bulk of the purchase money is taken in shares, which are to remain without dividend until the rest of the capital shall have received 6 per cent. The capital is fixed at £60,000, in shares of £5 each, but power is taken to increase it as the company's operations extend. There were transactions to-day in the shares of this company at  $\frac{1}{2}$  premium.

BANKS.

The report of the directors of the London Chartered Bank of Australia, to be presented at the meeting on the 7th of June, describes the operations of the last year as satisfactory, no losses of any importance having been sustained. The accounts, extending to the 31st December, show that, after the usual deductions, and after making allowances for bad and doubtful debts to the full amount recommended by the inspector, there remains to the credit of profit and loss a sum of £43,848. Out of this the directors recommend that a half-yearly dividend of 3½ per cent. be declared, free of Income-tax; that £10,000 be placed to the reserve fund, which will then amount to £45,000; that £1,500 be placed to the colonial building fund; and that the balance, amounting to £7,848, be carried to the next account. The latest letters from the colony are favourable.

The annual report of the directors of the Bank of British North America announces a half-yearly dividend, payable on the 5th of July, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, free of Income-tax.

The estate is to be wound up by five inspectors, in conformity with the Private Arrangement Act. The attendance comprised 2,000 creditors, representing claims for £600,000.

ASSURANCE COMPANIES.

A dividend court of the Royal Exchange Assurance Corporation will be held on the 19th of June.

At the 36th annual meeting of the Crown Life Assurance Company on Saturday, the report stated that the new policies of the year were 437, for £217,948; that the total policies in existence are 4,485, for £2,859,373; that the annual income is £121,801; and the net funds of the company invested £881,647.

OTHER PUBLIC COMPANIES.

At the meeting to-day (Friday) of the Great Ship Company, the proposal for raising a sum of £35,000 on mortgage for twelve months, superseding prior mortgages, and bearing 10 per cent. interest, was confirmed. The chairman, Mr. Baker, stated that the amount now actually subscribed exceeds by about £1,000 the total required. Applications will still be received, however, the chairman stating, in reply to a question, that the directors have power to increase the £35,000 to £50,000. The Great Eastern has not been chartered by, or sold to, the American Government, but is returning home with about 3,000 tons of goods, and a considerable number of passengers.

At the meeting of the Madras Irrigation and Canal Company, held on Thursday, the directors' report was adopted, after a very long discussion.

The directors of the newly announced Rhineland Zeche-Plato Coal, Brick, and Pottery Company (Limited) have intimated that "should half the capital be applied for up to the 20th of June next, the business of the company will be at once commenced, otherwise the directors will return all deposits in full." The capital remains at £25,000, but the shares are to be of £1 (instead of £5, as originally announced) each, with a deposit of 2s. 6d. per share on application, 2s. 6d. on allotment, "and the remainder at intervals of not less than three months, in calls not exceeding 5s. per share at any one time."

A call of £1 is to be paid on the shares in the Natal Land and Colonisation Company, by the 22nd of June.

THE ATLANTIC AND GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY.

THE PARIS BOURSE.

At Paris to-day (Friday) the Three per Cent. Rentes opened at 69.50, and closed "heavy" at 69.35 for money, and 69.40 for the account, being nearly the same as yesterday, and also the same as on last Friday.

THE STOCK AND SHARE MARKETS.

The English Funds have been firmer during the last two or three days, owing to the fine weather and to the influx of gold to the Bank. A good effect was likewise produced to-day by the success obtained by Ministers last night. Consols closed to-day at the best point of the week viz., at 91½ for money, and 92, "sellers," for the 6th of June, being ½ to ¼ per cent. higher than on last Friday. The supply of stock appears to be rather considerable; but the dividend will be deducted from the price of Consols next week, and this supports prices.

The next Consol account is fixed for the 10th of July, and the latest quotation this afternoon for that date was 92 5-16ths to ¾, or equal to 90 13-16ths to 7/8 ex. div.

The Indian Five per Cent. Stock, after showing dulness throughout the week, owing to the prospect of a new issue at no distant date, advanced this afternoon to 101½ to ¾ for the account.

The Five per Cent. Rupee Paper was quoted to-day 93½ to 94, and the Five-and-a-Half per Cents. 99½ to 100. India Bonds were heavy, at 30s. to 20s. dis.

The March Exchequer Bills were flat to-day at 6s. to 2s. dis.; and the June, at 4s. dis. to par, notwithstanding the new privileges lately accorded to them.

The official list of to-day's actual business in the English Funds and Indian Government Securities, is annexed:—

Three per Cent. Consols, for money, 91½, ¾, 92, 91¾, 92; ditto for account (June 6), 91½, 92; Three per Cents. Reduced 89¾, ¾, ¾; New Three per Cents., 89¾, ¾, ¾; Bank Stock, 233½, 234; India Stock, 227, 226½, 228; ditto Five per Cent. Stock, 101½, ¾, ¾; ditto Four per Cent. Debentures, 1859, 96; ditto Bonds, 30s. to 20s. dis.; Five per Cent. Enforced Rupee Paper, 93¾; ditto Five-and-a-Half per Cent., 99½; and Exchequer Bills (March) 6s., 2s., 5s., dis.; ditto (June), 3s. dis. par.

In the Foreign Stock Market business has been almost at a standstill, except as regards Mexican Bonds, which have declined ¼ per cent., and Turkish Stocks, the movement as regards the latter being a fall of ½ per cent. in the Loan of 1858. The closing quotations this afternoon were as follows:—Mexican, 22¼ to ½; Turkish Six per Cents., 1854, 71¼ to ¾; ditto, 1858, 56 to ½; Buenos Ayres Six per Cents., 90 to 92; ditto Deferred. 28 to 30.

Brazilian Four-and-a-Half per Cents., 1852, 90; ditto Five per Cents., 1839 and 1859, 97½; ditto Four-and-a-Half per Cents., 1853, 90; ditto Four-and-a-Half per Cents., 1860, 89½, ¾, 90; Ecuador New Consolidated, 12; Mexican

Three per Cents., for account, 22½; New Grenada Active, 16; ditto Deferred, 5½; Portuguese Three per Cents., 1853, 48, 47½; Russian Three per Cents., 1859, 62; Spanish Three per Cents., 51; ditto for account, 51¾; ditto New Deferred Three per Cents., 43½, ¾; ditto Passive, 16½; the Committee's Certificates, 5½; Turkish Six per Cents., 1854, 71; ditto Six per Cents., 1858, 56½, 56; ditto for account, 56½, ¾; Venezuela Three per Cents., 19; ditto One-and-a-Half per Cents. 9½.

English Railway Stocks this week have been better, particularly during the last two days. The rise in prices is almost general, but is especially observable in Midland, Lancashire and Yorkshire, Great Northern and West Midland. There was no absolute scarcity of stock at the settlement (completed yesterday) except as regards London and North-Western, which was wanted, and commanded ½ to 3-16 per cent. "backwardation;" but the immediate tendency of prices in this department has been decidedly more favourable than of late, an impulse being given by the great accession of Whitsuntide traffic on the Lancashire and Yorkshire Railway. The traffic returns, however, continue to be anxiously watched.

The following shows the closing prices of the principal British Railway Stocks this day, and the result of the week's variations. The share list in detail will be found in another column:—

A feature of interest is the upward tendency of Belgian Railway shares, particularly Great Luxembourg and Dutch Rhenish.

Lombardo-Venetian Railway shares, after falling to ½ dis., and recovering to par, closed to-day at ¼ to ½ dis. The repeated variations in these shares are said to be occasioned by a large "optional" speculation in Paris, which is attributed to the Crédit Mobilier Society.

The closing quotations for shares in new undertakings to-day were as follows:—Ocean Marine Insurance, 3½ to ¾ prem.; Thames and Mersey Marine, ¾ to 1 prem.; Universal Marine Insurance, ½ to ¾ prem.; London and Provincial Marine, ½ dis. to par; Natal Land, ½ to ¾ prem., and China and Japan Steam, ¼ to ¾ prem.

AMERICAN SECURITIES.

With reference to the market for American securities, Mr. E. F. Satterthwaite reports as follows, under date of Wednesday evening:—

The tendency of the market in London for American securities during the past week has been towards lower prices. More stock of all classes has been offering, and buyers hold aloof. In United States Five per Cent. Bonds, 1874, the fall has been fully 3 per cent.: both Virginia and Maryland stocks have been dealt in to some extent at irregular prices. In Illinois and Erie shares the transactions of the last two days have been few and unimportant; they close flat, sellers at 40 discount, and 21 per share respectively. The higher quotations for Illinois Central shares received from New York produce no effect here.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The death has been announced of Mr. John Brown, of the firm of Price and Brown, of Change-alley, and of the Stock Exchange.

The advices from Calcutta mention that on the 17th of April electric telegraphic communication was established between that port and Rangoon.

The Moneka and Spray of the Ocean have arrived from China with 1,537,000lbs. of tea.

MAILS FOR NORWAY.—The steam-packet communication between Denmark and Norway having been re-established, the mails from the United Kingdom for Norway will be conveyed direct by sea from Denmark to Norway, instead of via Sweden, until further notice. The rate of postage to be taken on letters addressed to Norway will be 1s. 4d. the half-ounce, and so on, according to the scale in operation for charging inland letters. This rate comprises both the British and foreign postage on the letters to the place of their destination, and it may be either paid in advance or the letters may be forwarded unpaid, at the option of the sender; except, however, in the case of registered letters, the postage upon which, as well as the registration fee, must be paid in advance.—By command of the Postmaster-General, ROWLAND HILL, Secretary.

LETTERS FOR THE PROVINCES OF NAPLES AND SICILY. According to a communication which has been received from the Italian Post office, all the regulations and rates of postage applicable to letters addressed to Sardinia are about to be extended to the correspondence for Naples and Sicily. Letters, newspapers, and other printed papers addressed to Naples and Sicily will, therefore, on the 1st June next, and thenceforward, be sent, via France, in the mails for Sardinia, and will be subject in all respects to the rates of postage and general regulations applicable to correspondence addressed to Sardinia.—By command of the Postmaster-General, ROWLAND HILL, Secretary.

CONFEDERATE MERCHANT VESSELS CAPTURED BY FEDERAL SHIPS.—It was stated on 'Change at Liverpool on Wednesday that several cotton ships from Southern ports had been captured by the Federal vessels of war. The Argo, laden with tobacco, from Richmond, Virginia, has been also captured by the vessels of the Northern blockading squadrons.

Mines.

FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 31.

IN the Mining Market this week business has not been animated, but there has been a good demand for certain descriptions of stock. Thus, whilst prices generally have been well supported, there has been a considerable advance in shares in Cook's Kitchen, East Caradon, and East Wheal Grenville. West Caradon have declined.

The market to-day was rather quiet but steady. East Wheal Grenville and East Caradon shares continued in demand, with an upward tendency. The other inquiries were chiefly for West Wheal Seton, Wheal Clifford, Wheal Unity, Cook's Kitchen, and North Downs.

The following prices are reported to us from the Stock Exchange this evening:—

Alfred Consols,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to 2; Calvadnack, 5 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Carn Camborne, 1 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Camborne Vean,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; Cook's Kitchen, 31 to 33; East Basset, 95 to 100 ex div.; East Caradon,  $27\frac{1}{2}$  to 28; East Carn Brea,  $7\frac{1}{2}$  to 8; East Grenville, 50s. to 52s.; East Devon Great Consols,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to  $2\frac{1}{2}$ ; Great Fortune, 12 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Herodsfoot,  $39\frac{1}{2}$  to 40; Marke Valley,  $8\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; North Downs,  $4\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; North Treskerby, 23 to 24; Providence, 40 to 41; South Carn Brea  $3\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; South Caradon, 305 to 310 ex div.; Stray Park, 35 to 36; Treloweth,  $3\frac{1}{2}$  to 4; West Caradon, 62 to 64; West Rose Down, 11 to 12; West Polmear, 20s. 6d. to 21s. 6d.; West Seton, 350 to 360; Wheal Clifford, 180 to 190; Wheal Damsel, 13 to 15; Wheal Ludcott,  $3\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; Wheal Margaret, 49 to 51; Wheal Moyle, 2 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Wheal Unity, 20s. to 22s. 6d.

United Mexican Mining shares have fallen, whilst St. John del Rey have improved about 10s. Colonial mining securities remain very steady.

The shares of the Labuan Coal Company were quoted to-day  $2\frac{3}{4}$  to  $3\frac{1}{4}$  prem.

The adjourned annual meeting of the Lusitanian Mining Company will be held on the 5th of June.

The annual meeting of the East India Coal Company, convened for Thursday, was adjourned for a fortnight.

The following are extracts of a despatch from the commissioner of the United Mexican Mining Association, dated Guanajuato, April 24:—

Mine of Jesus Maria y Jose. As, with the exception of the explorations by Buscones, the works carried on are principally those of San Pantaleon, I have only to report from time to time such variations as may occur. Four or five weeks since there was a falling off in the yield from the frentes in La Trinidad and San Pantaleon, but they have since considerably improved, as I stated in my last, and are now still better. San Roberto is very good. La Providencia, which for a time gave a large amount of ore, now produces very little, though somewhat more than last week. In this work a crosscut was opened about three months since, in the direction of the lower wall; this crosscut has been carried on to a distance of about sixteen varas, and still the wall of the vein has not been reached; for some time the driving has been through hard and unproductive quartz, but for the last few days ore has again appeared. The great width of the vein in this part of the mine leads to the supposition that there may still be ore at the side of the other works, above La Providencia, and hereafter a crosscut will be driven to ascertain what is the fact. San Andres goes on favourably, and is now decidedly in ore, though of a poor description. San Rafael is being driven forward still out of the vein. In four weeks 3,699 cargass have been extracted by the regular miners, of which 965 cargass of the best have been sold for $7,920; the rest sent to the Haciendas. The Buscones sales have produced in the same time $6,378. La Trinidad.—The one frente is still in progress, though as yet without favourable results. Remittance.—The conducta, by which early in the month I sent $45,000 for England, should very shortly arrive at Tampico, but some time must elapse before notice of the fact can be received here.

From New Crow Hill Mine (May 27) the report states:—

The lode in the 15 fm. level is further improved, and the pitch in the 35 fm. level is looking well for lead, a large strong lode. This has increased the value of the mine considerably, and there is no longer any doubt of the propriety of increasing our stamping power. The Sump men are progressing favourably with the shaft. The discovery in the 35 fm. level shows that only a small part of the lode was seen by former workers; we have cut into it 6 feet, but have no wall yet. The end men are now opening this, and will drive east on it.

UNITED KINGDOM TEMPERANCE AND GENERAL PROVIDENT INSTITUTION.

The Twentieth Annual General Meeting of this Society was held on Monday afternoon last, at the London Tavern. The following directors were present:—S. Bowly, R. Warner, T. Cash, J. T. Pritchett, W. R. Baker, R. Burnett, T. Beggs, E. Nathan, J. Taylor, T. Phipson, Esqrs., C. H. Lovell, Esq., M.D., R. D. Thomson, Esq., M.D., J. T. Mitchell, Esq., M.D.

The chair was taken by Mr. SAMUEL BOWLY, who briefly called upon Mr. W. R. Baker, the resident director, to read the Report, from which we make the following extracts:—

“The entire business of the year is represented by 3,687 proposals, in the Temperance and General Sections, for assurances amounting to £593,100. Of these 3,514 were accepted, for sums amounting to £566,650; 173 proposals being declined for sums amounting to £28,450. The policies actually completed numbered 3,291, for no less a sum than £531,368, and producing, in new premiums, £17,884. 8s. 2d., which is in excess of the previous year by £27,788 in the amount assured, and by £654. 4s. 9d. in the premium income. In the Industrial, or Working Man's Section, 2,047 policies were granted, for sums amounting to £27,761. 17s. 3d.; thus making a total of 5,338 policies issued, assuring £559,129. 17s. 3d. Assuming each policy to represent an individual, the number of new members added to the association during the year would constitute the entire population of a considerable town. Such an amount of business, in a year of unusual commercial depression, must be regarded as at once evincing public confidence, and the untiring zeal of the agents and other active friends of the institution. The claims, through the decease of members, in the Temperance and General Sections, were 152 against 138 in the previous year and the amount payable, including bonuses, in consequence of those claims, was £27,633. 10s. 6d., against £22,279. 11s. 6d. in 1859. The mortality was considerably below what might have been expected; and it is worthy of remark, that in no one year since the commencement of the office have the claims amounted to one third of its premium income. The total number of deaths to the end of 1860 is 943, and the amount paid or due on account of them is £155,868. 4s. 6d. In the Working Man's Section, the number of deaths was 73, and the amount of claims £953. 15s. 11d., showing an average of £13. 2s. 10d. under each policy. In this section 9,526 policies have been issued; 184 deaths have occurred; and the sum of £2,541. 16s. 2d. has been paid on account of claims. The accumulated fund at the end of the year was £348,000, showing an increase of £58,083 over the capital at the end of 1859. At the present date the accumulated capital may be set down at £380,000, and the annual income at £120,000; and the number of policies now in force, in the principal sections, is above 18,000, while the entire number of members in all the sections is not less than 24,000. Mr. Hardy, the gentleman whose actuarial ability has been employed upon the business effecting the distribution of bonuses now about to take place, remarks:—“The total surplus belonging to all the departments is £66,852, no portion of which contains anticipated profits. Of this surplus the sum of £52,271 belongs to the two main departments, viz., I. and IX., and will, when distributed in the form of bonus, yield as fair an amount of profit as can be expected from any Life Assurance Society which does not propose to anticipate its profits, nor to advance beyond the limits of prudence.”

The reading of the balance-sheet followed, which we annex:—

“STATEMENT OF ASSETS AND LIABILITIES, 31st DECEMBER, 1860.—FUNDS AND EFFECTS.—Stock invested in Government securities (£20,000), £19,372. 11s. 11d.; Railway and other Debentures, £118,588. 19s. 11d.; Loans on Mortgage, £176,823. 16s. 5d.; Loans to members on policies, £17,855. 9s. 7d.; Money at call, £16,668. 19s. 3d.; Sundry debtors, £6,817. 14s.; Fixtures and furniture, £832. 4s. 1d.; Lease, £976. 0s. 7d.; Stamps, £95. 12s. 1d.; Bills receivable, £246. 5s. 1d.; Cash, £1,371. 9s. 9d.; Petty cash, £1. 15s. 4d.; making a total of £359,700. 18s. LIABILITIES.—Policies fallen in not yet due, and bonus thereon, £6,842. 9s.; Claims due to nominees under age, £2,054. 0s. 10d.; Deposits on hand, £2,638. 15s. 1d.; Balance in favour of the institution, £348,165. 13s. 1d.

The Rev. Dr. BURNS rose to move the adoption of the report. It afforded him great pleasure to see their chairman at this their 20th annual meeting, which was a crowded one. He had been present at their smallest meeting, and he could now add, also, at their largest. He well remembered that at the former he had to move every resolution. (Laughter.) In his opinion the report was a very satisfactory one, and would be looked upon as such by all except those who were in the habit of looking at everything microscopically. (Hear.) One thing he wished, and that was that the number of deaths was fewer. He was glad to see that the Temperance Section obtained the largest share of the bonus, that class of assurers thus reaping benefit two ways, in lengthening of life and pecuniarily. He did not see it was fair, if men chose to shorten their lives by drinking habits, why the total abstainers should pay for it. (Hear.) And, therefore, he deemed it was quite proper and consistent to keep the Temperance Section quite distinct from the General; and looking at the result of the bonus now awarded in the former class, he could not help saying—varying as that bonus did from 85 to 86 per cent.—three cheers for teetotalism. (Hear.) Their actuary, he found, was not a teetotaler, so they could not say he had cooked the accounts. (Laughter.) He was also glad to find that in the matter relating to reduction of premiums the benefits were so great. Last year he got out of the society through being in the expiry department, but he must tell the meeting he soon got in again, for he rejoined the day following that on which his late policy expired. (Hear.) On looking around he saw those who had been connected with the Board for twenty years, and he felt thankful to see them there alive and well that day. (Hear.) He believed the energies of their Directors were warmly devoted to the purpose of making this respectable Institution more widely known and generally appreciated. With great pleasure he would now move, "That the report now read be received, printed, and circulated under the direction of the Board."

Mr. MEREDITH seconded it.

The Rev. ISAAC DOXEY would like to ask a few words relative to an item which he perceived in the Balance-sheet under the head, "Money at Call." Was that large sum lying idle? He was glad to see so large and respectable a gathering, and also so much unanimity apparently prevailing. (Hear.) But for general satisfaction he should like his question answered. (Hear.)

Mr. W. R. BAKER could soon satisfy the rev. gentleman upon the matter. That money was not lying idle. (Hear.) Their bankers were kept rather short, but the sum referred to was in the respectable firm of Overend, Gurney, and Co., and was yielding—some portions of it 6, and others 5 per cent. (Hear.)

A POLICYHOLDER asked if it would not be better to deduct the working expenses from the gross premium income? And what sort of securities their railway ones were?

Mr. BAKER replied that the directors were of opinion it was not judicious to separate the two accounts. Touching the matter of investments, their Board had exercised the wisest discretion, their securities in railway debentures being of a high character, and considered the best they could hold. (Hear.) It was not railway shares, but debentures—there being a great difference between the two.

The CHAIRMAN was of opinion this was not exactly the place to ask such questions, as it appertained to business of a private character. (Hear.) They should have every confidence in the business abilities of their directors. If they had not, the sooner they made a change in the directorate the better. Their directors had a large personal interest in the institution, and it was but fair to infer that there would be a due exercise of business discretion. (Hear.) Relative to separation of commission from premium income, he was of opinion it would not be wise to do so. That charge was a fixed one, for as long as the premium was paid, so long did the agent receive his commission, and therefore it was a permanent charge, for they could not break faith with their agents. (Hear.) Not so with the working expenses, which was kept separate, and fluctuated according to circumstances. (Hear.) As their business increased, so would the commission charge, but not so with the working expenses. (Hear.)

Mr. JOHN CASSELL differed from the Chairman, and thought there should be a distinction made between the gross and net revenue.

Mr. RUTHERFORD, of Northampton, knew an agent in the country who was in the habit of running about with the accounts of another office, calling attention to the expense of collection incurred by that office. (Hear.)

Mr. BAKER remarked that one large office, to his knowledge, spent £10,000 per annum in the way of commission, and said nothing about it. Why should they be placed at a disadvantage with this first-class office he spoke of, when it made no difference whatever in the account? (Hear.)

Dr. Burns' motion was then put and carried unanimously.

A short discussion ensued relating to policies under £100 participating in profits, which the Resident Director stated could hardly be expected on account of the deal of trouble caused by small policies.

Mr. EBENEZER CLARKE rose to move the next resolution. When he looked around upon the Board he confessed he was not over-surprised at the success their society had met with, for the whole of the gentlemen composing the Directory were thorough men of business, with heart and soul in their work. (Hear, and cheers.) No one could speak more highly of life assurance than the venerable Lord Brougham, who on one occasion remarked:—"Associations for the assurance of lives are to be ranked among the very noblest institutions of civilised society, and their usefulness can be attested by thousands of happy families, rescued by their means from the bitterness of poverty and degradation of charity." (Applause.) Every one of the society's agents, in carrying out their duty, knew they were working for a first-class institution with first-class management. (Hear.) He should now conclude by moving—"That the remarkable progress of the institution under the present management, and its great prosperity, as indicated by the bonus to be allotted, require that the eordial thanks of this meeting and of the members generally be presented to the directors." (Cheers.)

Mr. EVAN LLOYD seconded it, and on being put the resolution was carried nem con.

Mr. W. E. FRANKS moved—"That the thanks of this meeting be given to the auditors, agents, and other officers of the institution, and that Messrs. Nathan and Phipson be requested to continue in office as auditors, on behalf of the members, during the current year."

This was seconded by Mr. J. CROGGAN, and carried unanimously.

Mr. NATHAN returned thanks for this renewal of confidence. He felt it an high honour to fill so important an office in such a respectable institution. (Hear.) He could assure the meeting that every item had been gone through seriatim, and all was correct. The mortgage-deeds were in the iron safe at the office, and he had been that forenoon to their bankers, and found both money and securities all safe. (Cheers.)

The Rev. ISAAC DOXEY rose to move "That the sum of £200 be added to the present remuneration of the Directors for the current year." When the meeting remembered the large number of proposals their Board had to examine every week, the work thereon involved, and likewise the responsibility resting upon them, he felt assured his proposition would meet with the support of the meeting. (Hear.) It had been said that our principles tended to parsimony. He must confess that great care was exercised, but still he did not wish to see anything like a selfish care. His opinion was, judging from the sum of salaries at the office, which for all, from the Managing Director down to the messenger, was only £2,424. 16s. 7d., that it was very small indeed. He wished all in the office to participate, to some extent, in the progress of their business. (Hear, and applause.)

Mr. GAUVAIN seconded this proposition.

The CHAIRMAN differed from the rev. speaker, because, "if the business of the society increased more claims and expenses would arise. (Hear.) Besides which, the Directors must be the executive in matters of increase of salary, otherwise they would lose control over their officials, who would perhaps threaten to appeal to a public meeting. (Hear.)

Mr. H. HARRISON, an agent from Scotland, bore testimony to the business-like habits of all at the head office. (Hear.)

Mr. W. TWEEDE thought it would be well to leave the matter of raising salary entirely in the hands of the Directors. It was, after all, pleasant to find that the meeting did not pass censure upon the Board for spending too much upon salaries, it being just the reverse. (Hear.) Seeing the handsome dividend in the shape of bonus now declared, he thought it should be encouraging to them to renew their confidence in the management, therefore he would heartily support the resolution. (Hear.)

The resolution was then put and carried without a dissentient.

A unanimous vote of thanks to the chairman closed the proceedings.

The Produce and other Markets.

COLONIAL PRODUCE.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 31.

A quiet tone continues to pervade the Colonial markets, and prices of several kinds of produce rule slightly favourable to the buyers at the close. The public sales of Coffee have gone off steadily at about the former value for Plantation Ceylon, but native sorts have been less in demand than of late. The Sugar Market is still unsettled, and quotations must be considered quite 6d. to 1s. per cwt. lower, excepting for grainy kinds; indeed Porto Rico could not be sold yesterday even at a further reduction. 63,460 baskets Java, offered by the Netherlands Trading Company, on the 28th inst. went off steadily at rates  $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  florin higher than in March. Rice is dull. No alteration of importance has occurred in Spice. The lower qualities of Jamaica Ginger have declined 2s. to 3s. per cwt. during the past fortnight. The Tea Market remains inactive. Scarcely any inquiry has been made for Cocoa. Rum has been but in partial request, and business is chiefly confined to Jamaica at previous rates. The demand for Saltpetre is still very moderate, though in the business done prices show no material change. Nitrate of Soda meets no inquiry. The Cotton Market has been dull, and only 1,450 bales have been sold, but prices remain about the same as last week.

THE TALLOW TRADE.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 31.

In the general state of the Tallow Market during the past week there has been no material change. The slight tendency to lower prices in new Y.C. for ready and future delivery, which we noticed in our last report, has been this week rather more strongly marked, but the business transacted has not exhibited any feature of special interest or importance; and we regard the lower quotations rather as the natural result of the general dullness in speculative operations, than as arising from any "move" connected with the tactics of the monopolists, who, at present, indeed, have little else to do than to contemplate the very unsatisfactory result of their own handiwork—an occupation not, as we imagine, rendered more cheerful by the prospects of the future. The business for consumption has been steady, the demand having been met chiefly by the old Y.C. Tallow, a large quantity of which has recently also been taken for Continental markets. In this and other descriptions of "sorts," there has been very little, if any, change in prices, the supply and demand having been, upon the whole, fairly balanced.

The business in new Y. C. Tallow to day has been very limited. 56s. 6d. is quoted for ready and June delivery, and 54s. per cwt. for October to December.

The arrivals for the week ending the 30th instant, were 504 casks; deliveries, 1,199 casks; stock, 65,590 casks; showing a decrease of 695 casks.

Town Tallow.—The business done has been moderate, buyers getting the full discount without difficulty, and this evening there is a decline of 9d.; the letter price being 54s. 3d. or 51s. 9d. per cwt. nett cash. Fat, 2s. 9 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per stone of 8 lbs.

Old Y. C. has continued to maintain nearly our last quotations, 52s. 9d. is paid to-day for good quality.

Odessa is now very scarce, all the parcels in first hands having been sold. We refer to the annexed list for quotations.

Australian.—The supply is moderate. A few parcels of middling to fair Ox have changed hands during the week at 49s. 6d. to 51s. 6d. per cwt. There is no Sheep offering.

North American.—There are a few parcels in the market; quotations nominal, say 54s. per cwt. for fine.

The public sales to-day were not important; below are the results.

South American.—20 casks and 361 boxes were offered. 7 pipes of very good quality brought 54s., the remainder of the casks were bought in. 100 boxes of fine quality found buyers at 55s., dry pure tallow; and 55s. 6d. to 56s. 3d. were paid for 150 boxes of the choicest description. The rest were not competed for, being of middling quality, for which the demand is dull.

Cocoa Nut Oil has been quiet; the demand both for home and foreign markets having been lately very freely met, and rather less disposition is now manifested to go into stock. Prices have not, however, exhibited any important change. To-day some little reduction was submitted to, there being few bidders, only 30 casks being sold out of 450 casks offered. 45s. 3d. to 45s. 6d. were accepted for good Cochín; 46s. 3d. for fine. For Ceylon 45s. was demanded, but there were no buyers at the price.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET.

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY MORNING, MAY 31.

The cotton market has been inactive this week, but prices are firm, and show no variation of any importance compared with those of Friday last. Heavy imports, and the absence of any improvement in the demand for yarns and goods at Manchester, restrain speculation, and it is considered likely that the market will still, for a short while, continue to exhibit a quiet appearance, with, however, great firmness in prices. Practical authorities consider that we are not far distant from a very material advance in rates.

[BY ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.]

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY EVENING.

The market is quiet, and the sales to-day have not exceeded 8,000 bales, including 2,000 on speculation and for exportation. Fair Upland is now quoted 8½d.; Orleans, 8½d.; Mobile, 8½d.; Middling Upland, 7 11-16d.; Orleans, 7½d.; Mobile, 7 11-16d. The sales of the week comprise 67,260 bales, of which 10,220 were taken on speculation, and 12,010 for exportation. The stock continues to increase: the present total is 1,147,920 bales.

The Corn Trade.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 31.

With the exception of a few showers, the weather has again been mostly rainless during the last eight days. Vegetation has again made some progress under the powerful stimulus of solar warmth; but wanting a sufficient supply of moisture, most of the plants, especially all the spring crops, are suffering—in some localities very seriously. The growing Wheat crops have improved in appearance, but are also in want of warm rain. The Oats, Barley, and other spring crops are stunted in growth from want of nourishment. Potatoes also require rain. The pastures, which at one time had a promising appearance, have changed for the worse, and in many parts of the country the crops will be light.

SUPPLY.—The supply of home-grown Wheat has been this week about equal to that brought forward in the preceding se'nnight. The quantity of Barley and Oats, however, continues small. The latest official returns of the quantity of grain sold in England and Wales are as follows:—Wheat, 72,310 qrs., at 55s. 3d.; barley, 7,261 qrs. at 34s. 1d.; Oats, 6,361 qrs., at 25s. 2d. per qr.

IMPORTS.—The imports of Wheat continue on a large scale, showing this week a considerable increase upon the preceding eight days, principally from America and the Baltic, with a moderate addition from the South of Europe. Flour continues imported chiefly from America, with a small proportion from Spain. Barley—a fair quantity has been imported this week, but a large quantity of Oats has arrived from the north of Europe. Maize has also come forward abundantly.

THE BRITISH CORN TRADE.—Under the influences of fine weather, which has generally the effect of depressing the corn market, the tone in the trade was quiet this week in most markets, with prices generally tending downward. The continuance of large imports added to the existing dulness, but the demand for wheat and barley which has set in in the course of the last ten days from the continent (principally France and Belgium) has arrested the downward tendency of prices of wheat, barley, and oats. Prices of these articles have recovered 1s. or 2s. per qr. for wheat, and 6d. to 1s. per qr. for barley and oats from the lowest depression. Wheat—superior sorts have been maintained in value, but all secondary sorts could not be sold unless at a decline of 1s. to 2s. per qr. upon last week's rates. Flour has lost in value about 6d. to 1s. per qr. compared with last week's prices. Barley of fine quality continues quoted unaltered in price, but grinding sorts were rather cheaper. Oats—owing to the large imports this week, and some parcels pressing for sale ex-ship buyers were enabled notwithstanding the doubtful accounts respecting the growing spring crops, to buy at 6d. to 1s. per qr. under last week's rates. Maize has been quite unsaleable this week except at a considerable reduction in the price current last week; mixed American was stated to have been sold at Liverpool at 30s. per 480 lbs., duty paid. The decline from last week's prices upon arrived cargoes may be computed at from 2s. to 3s. per qr. Beans have been less inquired after, and the turn in prices has been in favour of buyers. Pease—With a plentiful supply, prices were rather cheaper.

In Mark-lane to-day the attendance of the trade was fair, and the tone quiet. Wheat—English, quiet trade, at last Monday's prices. Foreign—Unaltered in value, at last Monday's rates. Flour—American quiet, at last Monday's rates; Norfolk, 37s. to 39s. per 280lbs. Barley—Quiet, at last Monday's currency. Oats—Quiet, but rather firmer, at last Monday's decline. Beans—Unaltered, at last Monday's prices. Peas—Unaltered.

A special general meeting of the Brighton Railway Company is convened for the 10th June, to approve two Bills now before Parliament, one of which is for increasing the capital of the West London Extension Railway, whilst the second authorises the Brighton Company to make a railway in the parish of Eastergate, in Sussex.

SOME apparently important gold discoveries are announced in the letters from Halifax, Nova Scotia. The locality is a place called Tangier, about thirty miles east of Halifax, and within a mile of the Atlantic Coast. Two persons are alleged to have obtained in three days a quantity that realised £35, and according to the belief of some respectable explorers the mine extends for miles. The gold is in quartz, and the quality is said to be extremely pure.

PROSPECTUS.

The Commercial Copper Smelting Company is formed for the purpose of manufacturing Copper on a scale proportioned to the augmenting produce of ores in Chili, Australia, California, and other places, and of meeting the demands of the mercantile interests, both at home and abroad, for a more enlarged and steady market for the supply of Copper.

The smelting of Silver Ores and argentiferous regulus, the imports of which are largely increasing, will also be included in the Company's operations.

During the past twenty years the commerce in Copper has more than doubled; great advances have been made in the discovery and supply of ores, and in 1853 the trade and manufacture were materially assisted by the total repeal of the duties on Ores and unwrought Copper.

The quantity of Copper manufactured in 1860 is estimated at 72,250 tons, of which Chili furnished 26,000; Great Britain, 16,000; Russia, 6,500; United States and Canada, 5,000; Australia, 3,000; Cuba, 2,000; Austrian Empire, 3,500; Norway and Sweden, 2,000; German States, 1,500; rest of Europe, 1,000; Turkey, 500; Africa, Gold Coast, 750; Asia, including China, 3,000; and South America, exclusive of Chili, 1,500 tons.

Future supplies are expected to be very considerably increased, especially from Australia, California, and Lake Superior.

The present value of the imports, exports, and internal produce and consumption of Copper of all kinds may be estimated at about £10,000,000 per annum.

The profits obtained in this vast commerce and manufacture are very great. Witness the colossal fortunes which smelters have amassed from small beginnings.

It is also remarkable that while the supplies of ore have doubled, the prices of the metal have risen in notable degrees.

For the immediate attainment of the objects of the Company, preliminary agreements have been completed for the purchase of the Copper Smelting Works at Caldera, in Chili, now in full operation and producing large quantities of metal, and of the Bold Copper Smelting Works at St. Helen's, Lancashire, which are capable of arrangement for the production of any amount of copper per annum, and which stand on a spot commanding abundance of cheap coal and skilled labour, connected by railways with Liverpool at twelve miles, and the River Mersey at five miles distance, and possessing, together with suitable premises, sufficient land for the location of workmen, storage of slag, and any desirable extension of the Company's works. Arrangements will also be made with proprietors of mineral properties in Australia and elsewhere, for constant supplies of ores.

The shareholders will not, therefore, have to wait for the erection of works, nor will the Company be dependent on the general market for the materials of manufacture. Profits are confidently expected from the date of the commencement of business.

In the discharge of its duties the Company will act exclusively—

1st. As smelters of copper ores and regulus, and refiners of copper.

2nd. As sellers of copper and manufactured copper.

3rd. As purchasers and smelters of silver ores and argentiferous copper ores and regulus.

The administration of the Company will be conducted in London.

Minute estimates of the requirements of all departments of the undertaking and of the proportionate returns leave no reason to doubt that an ample dividend will be earned on the first as well as on succeeding years of the Company's operations.

A comparatively small works in this country, with a capital of £80,000, produced last year 2,000 tons of copper, and realised a profit of more than 30 per cent.

Applications for shares, addressed in the annexed form to the Directors, may be sent to Mr. Stephen Sleight, at 2, Austinfriars, Old Broad-street, London, E.C.; or to Messrs. Philip Cazenove and Co., 52, Threadneedle-street, London, E.C.; or to the other Brokers of the Company; but no application will be considered unless the deposit of £1 for each share applied for shall have been previously paid. This sum will be applied towards the payment of the balance due on the deposit of £2 per share, or returned in the event of no allotment being made.

FORM OF APPLICATION FOR SHARES.

Advices from Washington state that the Federal Government will make no immediate aggressive movement. President Lincoln has accepted the regiment of Canadian volunteers. The New York press discusses the statement reported to have been made by Lord John Russell in Parliament, that England would regard the Southern privateers as belligerents, in a tone highly hostile to England. The Governor of North Carolina has telegraphed to President Davis that the secession ordinance has passed unanimously. The North Carolina Legislature has voted five million dollars for the war. The Governor of Kentucky has warned both the Federal and the Confederate troops against making any movement on Kentucky soil, and declaring a strict neutrality. The blockade of Charleston has been raised, the frigate Niagara having left for the Gulf of Mexico; several vessels have arrived and sailed. A British ship has been chartered for cotton at 2½d. per pound. Stocks are dull, and lower. Exchange—Bankers' bills, 106.

Stocks had declined, owing to the advices from Virginia.

In the Bombay Presidency, volunteering for the line is proceeding with equal success. Mr. Laing's financial statement for 1861-62 has given very general satisfaction.—Some excitement has prevailed in the Sonthal Pergunnahs, owing to pressure from money-lenders; the excitement was confined to one or two places, but no outbreak. Orders have been issued for the reduction of the native army to 155 battalions, making a total strength of about 110,000 of all ranks, showing a reduction of 64,000 from all the presidencies, and a saving of one million sterling."

JUNE 5.—A despatch dated Bombay, May 12, says:—"Mr. Laing introduced his Budget into the Legislative Council on the 27th of April. The army is to be reduced to 200,000 men. The Budget shows a reduction of £3,600,000 in the expenditure, and an increase of £2,080,000 in the revenue. Mr. Laing proposes to raise £500,000 by taxation through the local Governments. These three operations balance the finances and leave a surplus of £250,000. There is to be no new loan on account of increased expenditure for public works. Local legislative councils are to be established. The import duties on cotton, yarn, and twist are to be lowered to 5 per cent. The Income-tax is pronounced to be a failure, and is to be abandoned. The European rank and file volunteer freely. The officers stand aloof."

The Paris Temps of yesterday evening says:—"The state of the Sultan's health inspires great uneasiness."

THE CIVIL WAR IN AMERICA—ITS CONTRADICTIONARY ASPECT.

WHAT are our American cousins fighting for? Why do North and South gather together their armies for battle? Strange to say, the answer to those questions is far from obvious, though on such a subject one would think that doubt or obscurity ought to be impossible. Civil war is no light matter. Already, the mere money loss to both parties in destruction and depreciation of property, in repudiation of debts, and in taxes and loans, forced or "voluntary," for war expenditure, must amount to a hundred millions sterling. Should the war go on it will soon be vastly larger. The possible loss of life is something fearful to contemplate: the ruin of the American shipping interest, the check to internal progress and civilisation, with the contingency in remainder that markets now supplied chiefly with American staples may be found filled from other sources when peace returns and when trade seeks to resume its former course, are items not likely to have been overlooked by a people so intelligent and calculating as the Americans. Yet they are going to war with each other. Where is the hope of any peaceable settlement of existing differences? Read the letters, or hear the conversation of commercial men from the opposing sections of the country; is there on either side the slightest hesitation, the faintest doubt, that the party of the writer or speaker, is entirely right and certain to succeed, that of the adversary entirely wrong, and destined to defeat? Do any compunctious visitings of nature "shake their fell purpose," or induce a recoil from the sea of blood and horrors which lies before them? We confess we have seen no such relenting symptoms. The American people are rushing with apparent unanimity into a war to which no end can at present be foreseen, save in the exhaustion of one, or both, of the contending parties; and when their wealth, numbers, and resources are considered, a short war can only be prayed for, as an unlooked-for mercy at the hands of Providence.

Now, once again, what is all this for? Civil wars have raged ere now, in many nations and in various ages, but when before could it be said, save in satire or in jest, "that folks fell out, they knew not why?" The North disclaims the French philosopher's mission "to diffuse universal philanthropy with fire and sword," and has no present design to emancipate the blacks. Neither does the South pretend to impart the blessings of its "peculiar domestic institution," to the benighted

Northerners by the like appropriate agencies, or to teach Faneuil Hall in such impressive terms, that merchants who are protectionists do not know their business. No man's personal rights or property would seem as yet to have been violated by the Federal Government. There is no question of religious liberty at stake; and if one party indulges vague hopes of extended commercial freedom, it must be confessed that little enough is said about it. The only distinct, intelligible ground of quarrel is simply a point of law! The Southern States assume and assert their right to secede from a Union, which, for reasons satisfactory to them, they are tired of. The North denies this right—cannot find it in the Constitution—(as if any Constitution in any age of the world had ever provided for its own dissolution!)—and proceeds to enforce the original contract by force of arms. The Gracchi cry out upon sedition; and neither King nor Kaiser ever scattered round the land the vocabulary of denunciation against "rebellion" and "treason," or expatiated upon "the majesty of the law," and the "rightful powers of the Government" more fluently than do our Republican friends, who apparently forget upon this occasion that "the will of the people" owes no allegiance save to itself; that what one majority has created, another may destroy; that no one generation has power to bind its descendants, and that consequently the Georgians and Carolinians of to-day are as free to quit the Union as their grandfathers were to enter it. There is—in all solemnity be it said—only one voluntary human contract, which may not be voluntarily dissolved by the parties to it, their executors or administrators. To us the Northern position appears to lack the foundation of firm, consistent principle. Its policy is not less dubious and incomprehensible. To what end make a fetish of the word UNION, and insist upon maintaining in form what is already dissolved in spirit and in feeling? What is the worth of an Union (the very word is a misnomer) between opposite principles of society and of government, conflicting commercial interests and personal repugnance and aversion? Union on compulsion is surely a monstrous solecism. By what chemistry are mutually repellant elements to be amalgamated? We see no prospect of permanence, of tranquillity, of harmony, or of real power, in any such forced and reluctant alliance, even if Northern arms and numbers shall prove sufficient to compel its continuance for the present. What are the reasons which induce Northern politicians to insist so resolutely and peremptorily upon maintaining this semblance of union, where its reality has long departed, we have yet to learn. It has not hitherto been made apparent to us how the North is to gain, save in name, by its continuance, or to lose by its dissolution. But there are certain obvious and not unimportant considerations which might, one would think, go far to induce a different course of policy. For example, the slavery question has long overshadowed the future of American politics—a black, threatening phantom, constantly growing in bulk and in terror to thoughtful eyes, and certain some day to call the whole Republic to a reckoning, which may yet make the hearts of all civilised men thrill with horror. Well, from this fearful responsibility from all share in the guilt of this deadliest of sins, and from consequent partnership in the retribution which (repentance and amendment apart) will surely one day overtake it, unless religion be a fable and Providence a dream, the South not only offers, but will, if possible, compel the North to accept a full discharge. Yet the boon is rejected with scorn; and the North goes to war to retain its burden of guilt, and of future cost and difficulty, to take the mildest view of the case. Again, how has Northern respectability held forth from time to time upon Southern indolence, and consequent place-hunting, stump oratory, "rowdyism," gambling, and filibustering! How have virtuous Northern States been scandalised by Southern repudiation, and been brought in question by the unprincipled aggressions of "Southern White trash" (to use for a moment the local slang) upon neighbouring territory! And are we now to find that, after all, the North loves these things too well to part with them? That they are in its eyes too pleasant and profitable to be relinquished? Or how otherwise are we to account for the refusal to profit by this golden opportunity to shake off all Southern iniquities, and to renounce for the future such evil communication? Why are not the Northerners content to walk henceforward peaceably by themselves in the paths of ship-building, cotton-spinning, protection, and decorum? There is a monstrous anomaly in all that is now going on.

THE INDIAN BUDGET—THE NEW LOAN OF £4,000,000.

THE readers of the MONEY MARKET REVIEW have been prepared for the announcement of the New Indian Loan of £4,000,000. Every well-wisher to India must rejoice at seeing the Government come forward so promptly to assist the railway companies with those funds which they are unable, in the present state of the money market, to raise themselves with the promptitude required. The Times, in its City Article, argues as if the issue of the present Loan would be almost a breach of faith against the subscribers to the last Loan, who (says the Times) "were led to believe that no further demands could be made. Their case, also, will be especially damaged by the possibility that wholly unlooked-for additions to the stock may be made for the sake of the railway companies even after the £4,000,000 shall have been obtained."

We are really not aware that the subscribers to the last Loan were led to believe that no further demands would be made. Everybody knew that a deficiency existed in Indian finance, and that if the railway companies could not dispose of their debentures there was no alternative but for the Government to stop the railway works, or aid them with funds. We ask whether it would have been politic or in favour of the holders of Indian Government Five per Cents. had the Government been so short-sighted, both in a political and financial point of view, as well as so distrustful of their own credit, as to have stopped the railway works, and left them in a half-finished and wholly discreditable state. Sound policy urges the Government to do precisely as they have done, and as they are determined to do—namely, complete the railway works now in progress.

In the same number of the Times, but in its leader columns, we find the following remarks, wherein that journal practically answers itself, and shows the absolute and vital importance of completing the railways:—"Will it be believed," remarks the Times, in alluding to the famine in the North-Western Provinces, "that out of every £50 contributed for the purchase of grain, £40 was spent in the carriage of the grain to the spot where it was needed?" Again, with regard to the price of Indian cotton, two-thirds of "the selling value in this country goes to the cost of transport, leaving only one-third for the actual production of the article. It appears to us, in the face of such statements as these, it is impossible to deny that what India wants, above all things, is improvements in the means of communication; and that railways, in conjunction with other channels of traffic, would be the regenerators of our Eastern empire. India can grow anything; its powers of production are illimitable, but it has no roads. The great cotton district is practically inaccessible, but one of the railways now in progress will pierce it, and another will skirt its very edge. We do not see what more need be said. Carry out these railways and the supplies of Lancashire will be effectually ensured, while India will snap up a good share of a trade worth £40,000,000 a-year."

But, leaving the Times to at once answer and contradict itself, we would heartily congratulate all those of our readers who are interested in Indian finance or in Indian securities, upon the equilibrium—nay, the surplus—which has been established in the Indian finances by Mr. Laing. In brief, the following are some of the leading features of Mr. Laing's financial statement. The deficiency of 1860-1 is £5,500,000. This is met by a reduction in:—

Military Expenditure	..	..	..	..	£3,220,000
Civil Service	..	..	..	..	500,000
Marine Department	..	..	..	..	320,000
By Local Taxation	..	..	..	..	500,000
Income-tax	..	..	..	..	1,400,000

This would leave a surplus of £440,000, which is reduced by some minor charges, leaving the estimated surplus at £239,896. In estimating the revenue of 1861-2, the price of opium is only taken at the market price of last year. Were it calculated at the present price there would be an increase of no less than £1,500,000, and there seems no reason why the bulk of this increase should not be realised. It must also be remembered that the guaranteed interest on railways is included in the expenditure. This charge amounts to £1,800,000, less £550,000, the latter being the net receipts over working expenses for the opened railways. As we explained, however, on a former occasion, the £550,000 is nearly lost by the difference in the exchange.

It is singular to observe how gradually Mr. Wilson's plans of finance are being one by one abandoned. After all that has passed, Sir C. Trevelyan is borne out in his condemnation of them. We stated our conviction that in a country so subject to panics as India, Mr. Laing's system of currency is much the safer. We rejoiced at the abandonment of Mr. Wilson's scheme. The Income-tax is now pronounced a failure, as we may take credit for having predicted. This impost, together with the License-tax is to be definitively abandoned. The import duties on cotton yarn and twist, which Mr. Wilson had raised to 10 per cent., are to be lowered to 5 per cent. This is excellent news for our cotton interest. But the most important announcement is that the Indian army is to be reduced to 200,000 men. We are convinced that when the railway system is completed, a much larger reduction can be made, and a fresh saving of equal importance effected.

Altogether the Indian finances are looking better than for years past. It is very satisfactory for the holders of Indian Securities to receive the expression of Mr. Laing's belief that, if the present deficit is once honestly extinguished, no financier need ever again be sent from England to devise new taxes. Well may we hope that Mr. Laing's vision of the future may be realised. He says:—"I have a vision of an India, where the science of the West has removed impediments to communication,—where the consequent increase of trade has diffused material prosperity; where English energy and capital stimulate improvement in every district; and where the native population, with expanding ideas and improved intellect, are taught by the education of schools and of events, by railways and by books, to know us, and to know one another, and are gradually trained in the management of their own local affairs for those of a wider area, so that India may at length have what she never has yet had—a political life—and at length be what she has never yet been—a nation."

These are noble aspirations eloquently expressed. Mr. Laing is realising all the expectations which those who know him had formed of his well-schooled intellect and trained financial talent.

THE MONSTROUS SCALE OF THE PUBLIC EXPENDITURE.

ENGLAND is at the present moment spending £70,000,000 per annum, and France £79,000,000. Both have just set to work to build more iron-plated vessels, and the excuse on each side is that as one country is arming, so in self-defence must the other. The competition will probably go on until the people of both countries take the matter into their own hands, and hurl from power those who shamefully abuse resources which ought to be applied to their material prosperity and social progress, instead of being wasted in warlike preparations. To what end has the Treaty of Commerce and amity been signed, if these preparations are to go on? Let not the fact be disguised—England is arming against France, and France against England. Sir John Pakington came down in breathless haste a week ago to the House of Commons, and then and there communicated the portentous fact, that a British admiral had just arrived from France, and had told him that the French Government were building with great rapidity several more iron-cased vessels. Hereupon our Government replied that they were perfectly aware of the fact, and this has caused them to spend nearly a million in laying in a good stock of seasoned timber; they have also given out fresh orders to build iron vessels. So we go on—and if the people permit, so we shall go on—whilst Lord Palmerston, amid the cheers of his partisans, makes clap-trap "Rule Britannia" speeches. At present millions are voted away by empty benches, no one caring to be in the House to be bored by dry details. A few thousands a-year are denied for the Galway Packet Service—that is to say, for shortening the communication with America, a country with which our relations are of the deepest importance—and yet millions upon millions are wasted upon shot and shell, cannon, and other means of shortening human existence, or making it supremely miserable. Talk of progress—where is it, unless progress in waste is meant?

In 1851 our expenditure amounted to	..	..	..	£49,506,610

Is not this simply monstrous? To show the extent of the waste that goes on, it may be mentioned that in the revenue (forsooth) of 1860, the "old stores, &c.," sold amounted to £1,690,795—and that for the last four years the proceeds have amounted to no less a sum than £6,488,212. Now, assuming that these old stores sold for one-fifth of what they cost, this represents a sum of £32,441,060 absolutely wasted.

Then, again, look at the increase in the civil list and charges. In 1851 they amounted to £6,915,626, in the last year to £10,773,519. The army and navy in 1851 cost £14,573,857, which was quite enough, and last year £30,462,242; and this, be it observed, in a time of profound peace, when every nation on earth is professing the utmost amity towards us, and when we possess a force of 150,000 rifle volunteers, which we had not in 1851.

In face of a perfectly unproductive expenditure of £30,462,242 per annum on army and navy, we express wonder at trade languishing and at money being scarce. The real wonder is as to where the money comes from to supply this reckless system. There certainly are two items of revenue—and grinding items they are—which supply the means for a large portion of this increased expenditure: the Income-tax has run from £5,304,923 in 1851 to £12,696,655 in 1860, and the Excise from £14,442,081 in 1851 to £18,188,605 in 1860. The amount of the National Debt has also been increased from £782,869,382 in 1851 to £801,477,741 in 1860, but this is chiefly due to the Russian war.

In the height of our bloody struggle with Napoleon I. we did not spend more than during our peaceful emulation with Napoleon III. Let the public remember that it was not during the excitement of war fifty years ago that the nation felt the strain so much as during the period of exhaustion which followed it. This may occur again. It is true, that by adopting free trade and by abolishing the Corn Laws, the population has not suffered from a scarcity of food; but we can well conceive a scarcity of capital arising from the existing reckless scale of public outlay, which may cause hereafter a kind of paralysis of reproductive expenditure.

If we look to the Bank Returns of 1851, and compare them with those of the present time, we see no increase in our resources, as the following statement will prove:—

1851.		1860.
Coin and Bullion ... ..	£13,704,854	Coin and Bullion ... ..	£12,168,268
Other Securities ... ..	12,508,833	Other Securities ... ..	19,656,908
Bank rate of Discount ...	3 per cent.	Bank rate of Discount ...	6 per cent.
Price of Consols ... ..	98	Price of Consols ... ..	92
Price of Wheat ... ..	39s. 3d.	Price of Wheat ... ..	55s. 3d.

The Bank hold less bullion, although the gold discoveries of California and Australia had not come into operation. We see a diminution in the value of the National Debt, which represents a loss of capital of £48,000,000 sterling. We see also a rise of 100 per cent. in the value of money, of 50 per cent. in the amount of "other" securities, representing commercial necessities, and 40 per cent. in the price of corn.

These are signs not unworthy of observation, considered in conjunction with the probability of diminished trade, and of a short supply of cotton. The money which we are fooling away in so unproductive a manner may possibly be required for our most urgent necessities. We may well hope fervently that our difficulties will not be aggravated by another short harvest, for America may not be in a position to supply us either with the staple required to occupy the hands of our industrious classes, or with bread to fill their mouths.

And yet, with all these things staring us in the face, we go on spending seventy millions a year, or twenty millions more than the amount which was considered sufficient ten years ago! "The difference between the money spent on the forces in the year 1851, and that which was expended in 1860," observes a sensible commercial circular, "is £15,888,385; and if this sum had not been spent, the whole of the duties on tea, sugar, and paper, which are under £13,000,000, might have been done away with." This is a fact which we will leave our readers to digest.

THE DEPLORABLE CASE OF THE MEXICAN BONDHOLDERS A REPROACH TO THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT.

FOR ill-usage by the Government and series of Governments in Mexico, and for neglect by our own Government, the case of the Mexican Bondholders is unprecedented. We are not going into a long and wearisome recapitulation of the grievances which the Bondholders have from first to last endured. Suffice it to say, that by compromises they sacrificed £11,887,644 when they consented to have their interest cut down from 6 and 5 per cent. to 3 per cent., on condition of having assigned to them a sufficient proportion of the Customs revenue to pay their dividends with punctuality. If it be asked, "Why did the Bondholders accept this Custom-house assignment?" we can state advisedly—knowing something of the motives which induced the Committee for the time being to recommend their constituents to do so—that it was thought, not only by them, but by the Mexican Government itself, that, the revenue in question being derived from Customs collected at the sea-ports, so long as the British navy was maintained for the protection of British interests no Government in England would suffer any portion of the Customs duties, so solemnly and specially hypothecated to British subjects, to be seized or withheld, without demanding instant redress. It was believed that the English Government would order the port where any outrage of the sort was attempted to be blockaded until redress was obtained. Had our Government acted with promptitude and decision when the first evasion of the duties took place, neither Mexico nor the Bondholders would have to deplore the past or present disastrous state of affairs. It may fairly be said that the timid conduct of the British Government, in not insisting on the faithful execution of the compact entered into with the Mexican Bondholders, which could easily have been enforced by means of one or two vessels of war already permanently placed on that station, has been ruinous to the Bondholders, and especially ruinous to Mexico. Let it be remembered that a special assignment of a portion of the Customs revenues was a very different thing from a vague general arrangement resting on the good faith of the Mexican Government. When once the agreement was ratified, making over to the Bondholders a specific and well-defined proportion of the Customs revenue, that proportion belonged inalienably by right to them, and could not be taken from them by the Mexican Government, any more than that Government could appropriate to themselves any private property bought and legally assigned to a private individual. Had the British Government done their duty, they would have interfered as much in the one case as in the other. Had they done so, we should not have witnessed the barefaced pillage of British subjects, neither would the British nation have been subjected to the monstrous outrage involved in the seal of the British Embassy being broken, and 660,000 dollars belonging to the Bondholders being feloniously stolen from them, in defiance of, and even in the presence of, the British Consul. Would the United States—would France—would even Spain—have tolerated such treatment for a moment?

The degradation which the British Government have gone through, the indignities which they have meekly suffered at the hands of the wretched Governments of Mexico, are, indeed, almost beyond credence. British subjects have been shamefully ill-treated; their persons have been subjected to the utmost indignity; their property has been openly pillaged; at last, a captain in the British navy is all but assassinated; yet England is all this time paying £12,000,000 per annum for the support of a fleet to protect her interests. Well may it be asked—"Is this state of things to be allowed to continue?" It would be monstrous to suppose that it will; but, unfortunately, thanks to the red-tapeism that prevails in official quarters, certain portions of the world are assigned to individual understrappers in the Foreign-office, and British affairs in connection with Mexico are especially under the management of a Mr. Hammond. The policy of this rising politician seems to be to suffer any set of foreign desperadoes to commit at pleasure, and with impunity, any outrage on British subjects. Now, however, that Lord John Russell has been stirred up into promising to give the matter his especial attention, hopes may be entertained that justice will at last be done to the Bondholders, and that at least the 660,000 dollars will be re-stored, and the Customs and other revenues specially hypothecated to them be held inviolate.

If the Committee of Bondholders would confine their attention to this one object, there is, we think, every chance of their obtaining solid redress. There is no doubt of the zeal and earnestness of the respected Chairman of the Committee of Bondholders, as testified by his letters, but it will be fortunate for the Bondholders when their affairs are handed over, according to the wish both of their Chairman and Deputy-chairman, to Messrs. Barings. Whatever may be thought of the rest of the Committee's report just issued, we are sure that the Bondholders will agree with the Chairman, that "a house like Messrs. Barings, with all its ramifications, is a much better instrument to deal with such a people and Government as the Mexican than any Committee." No further proof of this need be adduced than the fact that the overdue dividends amount now, at the reduced rate of interest agreed upon, to £2,212,196. It is an exceedingly improper arrangement that bills on Mexico are given instead of cash, at Vera Cruz and Tampico, to the Bondholders' agents. It is also improper that these bills, instead of being sold on the spot, and the money being remitted home by every packet, are forwarded to the agent in Mexico, where the proceeds are subsequently retained in hard cash, exposed to every risk. They were unnecessarily retained there lately until they amounted to 880,000 dollars, when the agents of a "felonious" Government, as the Times rightly designates them, broke into the depositary and walked off with the bulk of the amount. Had Messrs. Barings been agents to the Bondholders, the accumulation of so large a sum in a place of danger would certainly not have been permitted, and the creditors would have been spared a severe loss. But the climax of their wrongs has yet to be told. It seems by the worthy Chairman's letter to Sir Charles Wyke, our Ambassador in Mexico, that a commission has been charged on these stolen dollars, and has actually been deducted by Mr. Whitehead out of the 220,000 dollars remaining in his hands belonging to the Bondholders!!! Verily, it is time that the charge of the Bondholders' interests should be committed to other hands.

THE LATEST DETAILS RESPECTING TURKISH FINANCE.

IN our impression of the 25th of May we gave various details from authentic sources relating to the new arrangements for the punctual remittance to London, month by month, of the Constantinople Customs revenues. In the interest of the Bondholders and of Turkish credit generally, it would be difficult to overrate the importance of a strict adherence on the part of the Turkish Government to the new engagements (as they may be considered) into which they have now entered in this matter. The good faith of the Government—hitherto, as even their enemies must admit, unsullied—is now put to a practical and instant test. We confess that we shall look with considerable interest to the result. The Bondholders and the English public require to be practically assured that the revenues specially assigned to the Loan of 1858 will come forward to London as fast as they are collected, without any interference whatever on the part of the Government officials. As a proof of the interest which is taken in the matter, we extract the following paragraph from the Levant Herald, a journal which, having all along taken up an attitude of antagonism to the Turkish Government, will not be suspected of attaching too much importance to the new arrangements. The Herald says:—

"A notification issued in London by the Turkish Ambassador, and quoted in another column—engaging that the Customs receipts shall in future be paid regularly to the local syndicate for monthly remittance to London against the dividend, had at the date of the latest advices sent the stock of the 1858 Loan up to 57. For the credit of the Porte itself it is sincerely to be hoped that this arrangement will be rigorously carried out. If it be, there is no reason why the stock in question should not stand at 77 instead of the figure reported."

Allusion has been made on former occasions to the good faith observed by the Ottoman Government in the application of the proceeds of the Loan of 1858. It is not fair that the slightest doubt should be left in the public mind on this point, for the Government really acted in a spirit of uprightness which we should, perhaps, have difficulty in finding under similar circumstances in the case of Russia or even of France. The Loan of 1858 was raised to extinguish the old kaimés, or paper money, then in existence, the amount of which was about £5,000,000. But, the whole loan being for £5,000,000, and being issued chiefly at the price of 80, but partly at 62½, the proceeds were, of course, inadequate to complete the object desired. A balance of about £700,000 of the old kaimés remained unredeemed. But the fact is indisputable that the whole proceeds of the loan were faithfully applied to the object specified, and that the kaimés redeemed were publicly burnt in the presence of the representative of the Ottoman Bank, and of other parties appointed for the purpose. The balance of £700,000 was intended to have been withdrawn ere now, its extinction being proposed to be accomplished firstly, by means of an extraordinary house-tax at Constantinople; and, secondly, by means of the Mirès loan. Comprised in the latter project was a grand scheme for the withdrawal of the unfunded paper, and for the consolidation of the whole of the home obligations of the Government into one funded debt. We are of those who believe that the failure of the Mirès loan—framed as it was in the interest of its projectors, and severely onerous to the Porte—was not an event to be regretted. But its failure was accompanied by two events which have exercised a very injurious influence upon the Turkish finances. We allude to the disturbances in Montenegro and in Syria. The bearing of these may be gathered from the fact that the cost entailed by them upon the Turkish Treasury is not less than five millions sterling. It is very well to say that Turkey enjoys peace, and ought to “make both ends meet.” But she is not at peace. The state of affairs in Montenegro and in Syria is tantamount, in its fiscal operation, to a war carried on at two distant points of the Empire at once. It has reduced the Turkish Government to great embarrassments, and has swallowed up the funds which were destined for the redemption of the £700,000 of the old kaimés. It is under these circumstances that, under the advice of the British Minister, Sir Henry Bulwer, arrangements have been made for an issue of new kaimés to a total extent, ultimately, of £10,000,000. This new issue is not open to one of the objections urged against the old kaimés, inasmuch as the latter were roughly and clumsily manufactured, and very liable to forgery. The new kaimés may be regarded as issued in lieu of the balance of the Mirès loan. It is solemnly stipulated that the revenues which were specially assigned to that loan shall be applied to the redemption of the new kaimés, which are all properly numbered, and the whole of which are to be extinguished by annual drawings in eighteen years. One of the first purposes to which the proceeds of the new kaimés are to be applied is the extinction of the balance of £700,000 of the old paper. Finally, the entire management of the kaimés, more particularly as regards their extinction, is assigned to a syndicate, or commission, composed of men of standing at Constantinople, and independent of the Government.

Such are the latest particulars concerning Turkish finance. We have only to add further that the two commissioners, deputed by the English Board of Trade, namely, Lord Hobart and Mr. Foster, have entered upon their labours at Constantinople. What the result will be remains to be seen. Meanwhile, the holders of Turkish Bonds will not find anything very desperate in the statistics of Turkish debt and revenue. The entire debt, foreign and home, is not more than £30,000,000 or £35,000,000. The revenue last year was £11,500,000, and hopes are entertained that, with the abolition of the old obnoxious system of “farming,” the annual total will reach £14,000,000 or £15,000,000 in the course of the next three years. As the national debt amounts really to only about two and a-half years’ revenue, Turkey stands in a far better position than the majority of the States of Europe.

THE NECESSITY OF PLACING THE TENURE OF LAND IN INDIA ON A MORE SATISFACTORY FOOTING.

SOME very important papers have lately been laid before Parliament relative to indigo cultivation. It is clear that the unsatisfactory nature of the tenure of land has very much to do with the difficulties that surround this subject, and that affairs will never be placed on a satisfactory basis until the land question is settled on a reasonable, liberal, and enlightened plan. It is unquestionable that a great branch of commerce is endangered by its being supposed by the ryots that the Government officials countenance them in not fulfilling their contracts with the indigo planters. As the fulfilment of contracts is the corner-stone of all commercial transactions, it is impossible for the Government, or any official under it, to encourage their breach or evasion, without on the one hand dealing a death-blow to the introduction of British capital in India—and, on the other, endangering the rent derived by Government from land, and from the opium and salt revenue. Let the principle of repudiation of contract be recognised, whether in sowing indigo, or in paying rent or taxes, or performing other agreements, and we may at once and for ever bid adieu to all progress in India. That the successful evasion of the contract to sow indigo has borne its natural fruit in the attempted evasion of payment of rent is certain, for the Governor-General has been obliged to depute special commissioners, backed by military police, into the interior, to enforce the decrees of the Courts for rent.

The peculiar hardship under which British settlers labour, from the nature of the landed tenure in Bengal, has become strikingly evident during these disturbances. To explain the matter we must remind our readers that only since 1830 have Europeans been allowed to possess landed property, for the Indian officials looked on them with the most jealous eye as nothing more than interlopers. The natural result is, that opportunities of acquiring estates direct from Government have been few, and landed property is held mostly from native zemindars, on what is called the Putnee, or perpetual lease-tenure. Formerly land was held on short leases, the improvements made by the English leaseholder being derived by the native owner, and the lease, when renewed, was at a rental which included the value of such improvements. Under the Putnee tenure, the zemindar grants a perpetual lease of a portion of his estate, on consideration of the payment of a heavy bonus, and an annual and always very high rental. If the zemindar’s estate, of which the portion leased forms a part, is sold for arrears of Government revenue, the leaseholder’s right lapses. If, again, the leaseholder defaults in the payment of his rent to the zemindar, the latter may call on the Government revenue officer to sell the property by auction to the highest bidder, and thereby pocket the value of all the improvements made on it by the leaseholder. Such is the tenure on which landed property is mostly held by British settlers. If the native tenants combine not to pay their rent, the putneedar—or leaseholder—must either pay it from other sources or lose his property. It must be here remembered that there is no practical summary mode of distraint for rent. A suit for arrears of land rent, under ordinary circumstances, may occupy from two to five months in going through appellate courts, and the law expenses invariably exceed the amount sued for.

Should the British landholder hold direct from Government by having bought the estate at a sale for arrears of Government revenue, he does not stand on the same footing as the native zemindar, inasmuch as the latter holds at what is often a mere nominal rental, fixed at the time of the decennial settlement by Lord Cornwallis in 1790. The European has to pay the full present value of the estate, the interest on which is virtually so much added to the rent he pays to Government. But be the landlord British or native, his position is insecure. The Government revenue must be paid quarterly by sunset on a certain day. In case of default the property is lotted for sale by auction, so stringent are the Government regulations on this head. The combination not to pay rent on the part of the Bengal ryots is palpably dangerous in the extreme, striking directly at the very keystone of our Indian financial system. Lord Canning has shown himself alive to the danger by the measures which he has adopted to avert it. We have reason to believe that, had he delayed the appointment of special officers practically to collect the rent due to British subjects at the point of the bayonet, in a few months or perhaps weeks, English landholders who had not large private resources to fall back upon, would have lost their property. The Government of Bengal had, previously to the adoption by the Governor-General of the measure we have alluded to, been obliged to grant grace to English landlords for the payment of their rent because they could not collect it, thus suspending the law, which, however hard it may appear and is, has been found absolutely necessary to secure the punctual payment of the land revenue. In proof of what we have stated, we have been favoured with the perusal of a letter from a large English landowner, in the district of Kishnaghur, addressed to the Government revenue officer, dated 9th April, in which he says, in reply to that officer’s inquiries, “perhaps the most simple way of conveying to you how matters stand with me, is to acquaint you with my payments last lot-day. The amount paid by me was Rs. 35,000 (£3,500)—viz., Rs. 22,600 (£2,260) from my private funds, and Rs. 12,400 (£1,240) from my collections.” Further, to give an idea of the present state of some of the districts of Bengal, which have not inaptly been termed “the garden of India,” we quote from a letter dated the 22nd April, “a considerable force of regular troops has been ordered into the indigo districts so as to enable the military and other police to act in the interior, and spread over the country.”

Now, what is the remedy for this state of things? We pass over the question of individual hardship. We say nothing about the benefit to be derived from the settlement of British landholders in the interior; of the security which a sound landed tenure will give to property; of the certainty under it of the rapid development of the wealth of India; we will not notice any of these or other points, each one of which is, however, an overwhelming argument in favour of a liberal settlement of the tenure of land in fee-simple, but we would point out the danger which may arise from a combination which threatens to overwhelm our indigo planters with ruin, and which might extend to the main branch of our Indian revenue, viz., the rent derived from land, amounting to £18,502,400 per annum. The commutation of the land-tax of India would at least relieve us of this peril. The bond of self-interest, which identifies the native zemindar in Bengal with the stability of our rule, would be extended to every part of India. The next generation would hold its landed property rent free, a tenure which it would feel would be lost under any change of dynasty. The commutation of the land-tax would, of course, be optional, and the rate would be sufficiently high to make it gradual. All who have had experience of the character of the natives of Bengal must be aware that mines of hoarded wealth would be revealed to secure a fee-simple tenure of landed estates. Our money market would be relieved of the drain upon it for loans to cover Indian deficits, and for Indian railways and other reproductive works. Were the proceeds of the redemption of the land-tax applied to such works or to the extinction of the public debt, the advantage that would accrue, as Lord Stanley clearly showed in his statesmanlike despatch of the 31st December, 1858, is manifest. The upward bound in material prosperity which India would take when the pressure on her elasticity involved in the land-tax was removed, we believe to be incalculable. This measure is, in fact, one of the most vital importance to the well-being of Great Britain and of her Indian Empire, and deeply affects the mighty stake possessed by British subjects in India, which at a moderate computation cannot be less than £300,000,000 sterling.

Upon every ground, then, we invite public attention to this deeply important matter, closely bound up as it is with the great question of Indian progress. Every person interested in India, either commercially or as a holder of securities, is especially called upon to study and make himself master of this question. It is remarkable to see how completely Parliament and the public can concentrate their attention upon comparatively so small a matter as the details of a loan of £4,000,000 sterling, whilst our senators, usually desert their seats en masse as soon as allusion is made to a class of subjects upon the right management of which depends not merely the land revenue (which, as before stated, amounts to £18,502,400 a-year), but also the revenue from salt and opium, and indeed the grand question of the insolvency or the rapid and prosperous development of the most magnificent possession ever entrusted to a nation.

COMMERCIAL STATISTICS FOR 1860.

IN another column will be found the conclusion of the Commercial Statistics for 1860, with which we have been furnished by Mr. W. F. Spackman, Junr. Confining the examination for the moment to the imports, we find that the principal increase in 1860, as compared with 1858 and 1859, was as follows:—45 and 24 per cent. respectively in the imports from British North America; 153 and 54 per cent. from Gibraltar and Malta; 22 and 10 per cent. from Australia; only 5 and 2 per cent. from the East Indies, Ceylon and Singapore; 30 per cent. in each year from the United States; 73 and 48 per cent. from Germany; 32 and 23 per cent. from Holland; 33 and 4 per cent. from France; 13 and 6 per cent. from Italy; 23 and 18 per cent. from Turkey; 35 and 19 per cent. from Russia; 31 and 3 per cent. from China; 60 and 26 per cent. from Portugal and her near possessions; 72 and 23 per cent. from Sweden and Norway; 72 and 18 per cent. from Spain; and 71 and 20 per cent. from Egypt. The imports from the "Foreign West Indies" have decreased 11 and 6 per cent. Our imports from the West Indies generally, and from South America have not exhibited the usual amount of progress.

As regards the exports of British and Irish produce and manufactures, 1860, compared with 1858 and 1859, shows an increase as follows:—To South America, 32 and 30 per cent.; to Italy, 10 and 24 per cent.; to Turkey, 3 and 17 per cent., being, in the latter case, a considerable stride, which is the more remarkable as occurring in face of a decrease of 19 per cent. in the exports to Russia in 1860, as compared with 1859; to France, 7 and 10 per cent.; to China, 65 and 13 per cent.; to Spain, 19 and 25 per cent., which is an interesting feature; and to Portugal, 19 and 32 per cent., being likewise an increasing ratio of progress. In the exports to the United States there was an increase of 49 per cent. compared with 1858, but a decrease of 4 per cent. compared with 1859. This year the ratio of decrease will doubtless prove to be far larger than in the latter instance.

The present Table is chiefly of interest, as enabling the commercial observer to see at a glance the exact ratio of the increase or decrease in our import and export trade with the principal nations of the world during the last three years. Some nations are advancing rapidly in commercial development; others lag behind; but the instances of a retrograde movement are few. It is particularly gratifying to observe strong indications of progress in our commercial relations with Turkey, Spain, Portugal, and other countries which are now beginning to rouse themselves from a torpor of ages' duration.

THE STATE OF TRADE.

(COMPILED FROM NUMEROUS LOCAL REPORTS.)

THE accounts of the state of trade received from most parts of the provinces indicate continued dullness, and, in many instances, depression. Buyers hold aloof. The transactions in many classes of goods are, therefore, of a retail character, and stocks show a tendency to accumulate in manufacturers' hands.

The report from Manchester states that the demand for piece goods is still of a very limited character, and the market is quieter. Printing cloth and domestics, including long cloths, are generally without improvement. There is still some buying for India, at the full prices of last week, but the unfavourable accounts to hand this week from Calcutta and Bombay, have again checked inquiry for Eastern fabrics. Yarns for India and China are also more difficult to dispose of than they were last week. Yarns for the Continent remain in fair request without abatement of price. There are a good many offers to purchase largely in yarn at somewhat lower rates than those of last week, but spinners will not make the concession, otherwise a very active business would no doubt result.

At Leeds the cloth-markets have been flat. The sales have been to a very limited extent. Merchants in the home as well as in the foreign trade, are holding off buying, as they find their stocks accumulating instead of diminishing.

The report from Bradford, dated Thursday, states that there is a very limited business doing in both yarns and pieces. Both spinners and manufacturers are doing their utmost to curtail production, and there is a large quantity of machinery standing. The French merchants appear to be waiting for the new tariff taking effect.

At Leicester nearly every department of the hosiery trade is dull, and there are no immediate prospects of a revival. Manufacturers confine their production to what is actually required, and have done so for some time past. At Hinckley and Loughborough the operatives are suffering from want of employment.

At Rochdale there has been a small attendance of buyers in both the wool and the flannel markets to-day, and the business done has been below an average. Though the sales of flannel are slow, manufacturers will abate nothing in price, nor are they curtailing much in their rate of production.

At Nottingham the lace trade is still inactive. The cotton trade continues exceedingly dull. There are appearances of a little more being done shortly with the continent. In consequence of goods being now chiefly finished to order, employment is scarce, and many lacemakers are out of work. The hosiery trade in most branches is dull.

The state of trade in the Wolverhampton district is very unfavourable. Those manufacturers who are the best off for orders are doing a very quiet trade. The complaints as to the badness of trade are general all over the district, but especially at West Bromwich. At Willenhall and the neighbourhood much the same state of things exists, and also at Stourbridge.

The Birmingham trades are still suffering. The slackness of the demand for metals affords a further criterion to the dullness which prevails in most of the principal trades. With a few exceptions, nothing could be worse than the general tone relating to the trade of the district, to which it may be added that the factors speak doubtfully as to the prospects of improvement.

BANK NOTES UNREPRESENTED BY GOLD—THE ANOMALIES OF OUR MONETARY SYSTEM.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—In olden times, when there was yet some fun in the world, country bankers, liable from local animosities to an occasional run, would apply various little contrivances to stem the storm, till help from town should arrive, which could hardly be in less than three or four days, there being then neither telegraphs nor railways. A large accumulation of straw before the house, pointing to illness or some interesting event upstairs—for ladies were not ashamed of residing over the shop—would keep back timid or married men; "a fellow-feeling makes us wondrous kind." Two or three house-painters, with ample supplies of pots, oil cans, and brushes, busy at the door and posts, frightened those who set a value on outer appearances; and the payment of notes in small coin, employing all hands and consuming much time, was calculated to send away the impatient and the busy.

The "Old Lady of Threadneedle-street" would find the straw very inefficient when pressed for gold, since all the world knows that the predicament indicated by this innocent ruse is in her case out of the question; nor do the materials constituting the huge portals of her mansion require paint; and as for the payment of notes in small coin, an Order in Council has answered better. In these latter days panics stand instead of straw, paint, small coin, and similar dexterities; the true panacea against the ugly clamour is a rise in the rate, for, this being supposed to portend evil, a general anxiety to keep a reserve ensues, and the amount of disposable money dwindles, accordingly, to the smallest dimensions. There is not less money, but no one parts with it. The country may be sound and solid, trade healthy, commerce proceeding in its even course, exports and imports of only reasonable extent, prices moderate, speculation not rampant; but, a few millions of gold proving requisite to adjust balances, as indicated by the exchanges somewhere or everywhere, all of a sudden the Bank steps forward, raises the rate, and creates, to escape a plain obligation, its panic, that it may retain its bullion and "correct" the exchanges. These are intolerable proceedings.

The exchanges are the true measure of pending obligations; interference by Government, or a body assuming that office, adds to the cost of settling international accounts. It robs one set of men of their legitimate opportunity and profits, that another may escape natural and necessary losses; it is as pernicious as direct interference with trade, be it import or export of bullion, or of sugar, or of boots. Authority ought never to interfere. Under whatever name, or by whatever means the Bank seeks to avoid payment of its notes, it only acts on a large scale as my friends the country bankers of olden times did in their small way.

Thus similarity of circumstances leads to similarity of results, with this distinction, that the ratio of effects is aggravated far beyond the increased magnitude of causes. The temporary inconvenience of solid country bankers might occasion a shrug or a sneer, and leave a tradesman's bill unpaid till next Saturday; but the pressure on the Bank of the fourteen millions establishes chaos in the money world. When the wealthiest body, the possessor of seventeen millions of substance and fourteen of shadows, grasps the helm and steers the financial vessel, we have universal shipwreck; ruin stalks abroad as if the earthquake of Santa Fé had opened its office on the Royal Exchange. The country banker's paper is small in amount; that of the Bank of England of enormous extent. The circulation of the one is local; of the other general. The blunders and defaultings of the country banker are corrected by the Court of Bankruptcy; those of the Bank of England are certain of absolution by Acts of Parliament and Orders in Council. Finally, country bankers often have consciences; but bodies corporate are proverbially not amenable to his Satanic Majesty. The multitude of sins hushed up by the country banker's straw is a mite as against the mountain covered by the Bank's twelve alterations in seven months, and the latter number of panics in seventeen years.—I am, sir, yours, MERCATOR.

BANK ACT REFORM.

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—Your correspondent "Mercator" points out a defect that ought long since to have been removed, viz., "the issue of notes not represented by gold;" but a currency entirely metallic would be liable to drains whenever gold was worth more abroad than at the Bank of England. Bills would be discounted and the proceeds shipped off till the capital of the Bank and of the money-lenders was so much reduced that the rise in the rate of discount would take place just as it does at present.

The great error of the present system is that the Bank of England (as representing the monied interest) has not only to meet the demand for money as currency, but also for money as bullion. The price the Bank sets upon it, from time to time, is not regulated by the one so much as by the other; and we see, as at the present time, money rising in price when very much less is required for the contracted business of the country. The reason is simply this: gold is very frequently cheaper at the Bank than abroad. To bring back its equilibrium the foreign exchanges must be acted upon by such advance in the price of money as will make money less eligible than commodities, and attract foreign gold for their purchase. During this process, popularly termed "putting on the screw," commerce and manufactures suffer severely, but, evidently, each succeeding paroxysm, though more frequent, is less violent. There is a wonderful remedial and adjusting power in all human affairs. The profits on loanable capital attract a large supply, and the very difficulties of obtaining the use of it confer that sort of monopoly upon those who can procure it, as enables them to bear the usurious rates charged so often since 1844.

We must just "grin and bear it." Our currency doctors cannot agree as to the remedy. Many of them find their account in the disorder; and the patient himself is getting so accustomed to his ailment that he hardly thanks a spectator for his sympathy.

If these introductory remarks receive the approval of insertion in your able "REVIEW," I will prescribe, in a following number, without a fee.
I am, sir, &c.,
SENEX.

Liverpool, 6th June, 1861.

Literature.

THE BANK ACT OF 1844—FREE TRADE IN GOLD NOT INCOMPATIBLE WITH OUR STANDARD OF VALUE. By Henry Brookes, late Editor of the Banker's Circular. Effingham Wilson, Royal Exchange.

FEW persons, whose opinion is worth having, are wedded now-a-days to the Bank Act of 1844 in its integrity. It is generally admitted that the working of that Act is a decided failure, and for the simple reason that whenever it is put to the test it has invariably to be suspended. In the opinion of every practical man of business it would again have to be suspended whenever the bullion sinks below £8,000,000. The mere attempt to uphold the Act causes occasionally an amount of loss to the commercial community which is to be estimated not by millions, but by tens of millions. This, then, is not an Act that the commercial public can any longer follow Lord Overstone in upholding.

It is very natural that whenever any disturbance of the money market takes place, men who have reflected deeply on the subject come forth with plans which they consider likely to save the commercial community from the repetition of disaster. Such is the object of the pamphlet before us. The author contends:—

1st. That the present system has lamentably failed, and that the extreme fluctuations in the value of money and of commodities which it has caused, have proved exceedingly injurious to our trade and commerce.

2nd. That "free trade in gold is not incompatible with our present standard of value."

3rd. That the adoption of free trade in gold with the "gold note" representative of the standard proposed would produce more equable rates of discount, prevent panics and ruinous fluctuations in prices, and be immensely beneficial to the commercial and other interests of the country.

That the Bank Act of 1844 has caused more fluctuations in the value of money, and more fluctuations in the Bank rate of discount since it came into operation than ever were known before must be conceded, and likewise that free trade in gold is not incompatible with the present standard of value; because we conceive the standard of value to be this—that a sovereign should consist of a certain number of grains of gold of a given fineness, and that so long as the sovereign contains this weight and fineness when submitted to the scales and assayed, it is really the pound sterling alluded to by Sir Robert Peel.

No one whose opinion has any weight has for one moment thought that free trade in gold would alter the standard we have described; for the one has nothing whatever to do with the other. We now come to the gist of Mr. Brookes' pamphlet, and that is, the system which he would substitute for the present one. He says that the whole of the evil lies, not in the standard of value itself, but in the statutory provisions made for its protection and preservation in the law which prevents the acquisition of gold when most needed, except at a price which renders its acquisition at that time utterly impossible. That law, he maintains, may be abandoned with perfect safety to the standard, and with incalculable advantage to the country. The manner in which this is to be done is thus explained by Mr. Brookes. He proposes, "Whilst maintaining the law which compels the purchase of all gold at £3. 17s. 9d., to abolish the law which virtually prohibits its purchase above that price, and so to re-establish in this country a real market, and a market price for gold at £3. 17s. 9d. and upwards." He "does not propose to make the slightest change in the standard itself, but inasmuch as that standard, being essentially composed of a saleable commodity, is not, and never can become perfect," he proposes "to supplement or aid it by a 'gold note or bullion note, which shall always represent gold at £3. 17s. 10½d. per oz., neither more nor less, whatever may be the price of gold in our own or other markets.' This bullion note, representing gold at £3. 17s. 10½d., would, in fact, become the representative of our standard of value; and inasmuch as it could never rise or fall, or vary in value (as does the gold on which it is based), it would constitute (says Mr. Brookes) the absolutely fixed and perfect standard which has hitherto been so much and so long desired in vain. It would be exactly of the same value as the present sovereign, the present bank-note, and the present twenty shillings in silver: therefore it would produce no alteration whatever in prices."

"It is further proposed," he explains, "that the bullion-note shall be issued by the Mint; that the Bank of England notes shall be called in and cancelled, and that the bullion-notes shall supersede or replace them in the circulation."

The above is the plan proposed by Mr. Brookes, which would involve the transferring of the bullion department of the Bank of England, and the issue and payment of the notes, with all power and control over the currency from the Bank of England to the Master of the Mint, but at the premises of the Bank as at present.

As this plan would do away with the bank-notes unrepresented by gold, so far as the Bank of England is concerned, we have no doubt it would be beneficial to the public; but we would ask Mr. Brookes whether all the paper in circulation ought not to be based on gold to make the system perfectly sound, so that promises to pay should actually represent ability under any circumstances to fulfil those promises? We have, however, very grave doubts as to the working of some portions of his plan, yet we may honestly recommend a perusal of his pamphlet, the evils of the present system being now almost universally recognised. Mr. Brookes has evidently studied his subject deeply, and writes with the earnestness of conviction.

THE CORNHILL MAGAZINE for June. Smith, Elder, and Co.

APART from the excellence of its contents, the June number of this Magazine contains a "Sketch of a Morning Party," showing the nobility and gentry playing the fashionable game of the period,—namely, Aunt Sally. This sketch is certainly worth more than the whole price charged for the number. "Philip" in his way through the world has experienced, at all events, two rather exciting incidents in the present number—he has lost his fortune, and been jilted. Then we have an "Essay on Schoolmasters," which we recommend that most unlearned body to read. But there also is an article on the "English Convict System," by the same author who wrote the paper on the "Irish Convict System," which may be held up as a perfect model of descriptive literature, and which will doubtless attract all the attention its high merit deserves. Why cannot Government employ such writers as this to draw up their reports? Half the expense of printing would be saved by his marvellous powers of condensation, and we should understand and profit both. It is greatly to be hoped that the proprietors of the Cornhill Magazine will employ this gentleman to give us a description of the system, or, rather, want of system by which the Admiralty manage to get through £12,000,000 a-year. We think he would pierce even that impervious Admiralty Board. Six other papers besides does the Cornhill contain—all excellent.

Total Reserve (Notes and Coin) in Banking Department .. ..	6,550,122	..	Decrease	723,476

This return shows the effect of the increased demand for money which has been experienced during the latter part of the present week, and which bids fair to continue for a month to come. The heavy decrease in the private deposits attests the necessities of bankers and others, and accounts principally for the falling off (which is of nearly equal amount) in the reserve. The coin and bullion are also less. These changes point rather to a dearer than a cheaper money market.

THE MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 7.

The discount market this week has become tighter. The supply of money in the hands of the bankers has become very limited, and it seems to be generally considered that the rates in the open market will henceforward range up to the Bank minimum until the payment of the July dividends. The Bank of England have now commenced the quarterly advances on Government securities, and on bills having six months to run.

The market to-day was not easy. The rate for good bills was 6 per cent. At the Bank of England there was a rather decided revival in the demand.

The amount of gold bought by the Bank yesterday was £24,000, and to-day £50,000. Nearly the whole of the £57,000 Australian, by the Owen Glendower, has been taken to be refined, after which it will probably be sent into the Bank. The supply of gold by the Mexican packet is also expected to remain here after going through the same process.

Since last Friday, £252,499 in specie has been sent to America from England, namely—By the Arabia, £82,861; City of Baltimore, £161,438; and Bavaria, £8,200. The Jura, for Quebec and Montreal, has also taken £16,000. About £150,000 or £200,000 is expected to be sent to New York by the Africa, which will leave to-morrow.

The private letters from New York concur in stating that the exchange was heavy, notwithstanding the large receipts of gold from England.

The amount of specie and bullion shipped by the Indus, which left on the 4th of June, was £207,677, of which £190,041 was silver (including £100,040 on Government account), and £17,636 gold. The particulars are as follows:—For Alexandria, gold, £11,500; for Ceylon, gold, £3,200; for Madras, gold, £2,336; for Calcutta, gold, £600, and silver, £130,896; for Singapore, silver, £3,000; for Hong Kong, silver, £25,350; and for Shanghai, silver, £30,795.

The Bombay steamer of the 12th inst. will take about £50,000 in silver on Government account.

The Magdalena, from Brazil, has reached Southampton, with £35,687 in specie. The Dane has taken £50,000 in gold on Government account to the Cape of Good Hope.

Subjoined is a list of the vessels known to be at sea, with an aggregate of £499,000 in Australian gold, of which £344,000 is fully due:—

THE BULLION MARKET.

With reference to the movements in bullion and in the Indian Government paper, Messrs. Pixley, Abell, and Langley report as follows:—

GOLD.—The demand for export not having been very brisk during the week about £150,000 has been bought by the Bank. Sovereigns continue to be sent to America, the Arabia having taken £82,861, and the City of Baltimore £161,438, and the steamer leaving on the 8th will also take a large sum. The other exports comprise £58,000, per Seine, to the West Indies; £17,636, per Indus, to the East; and £50,000, per Dane, to the Cape.

SILVER.—The Silver ex Tasmanian has been sold at 5s. 0½d. per oz. standard, being a slight decline in price. There is but little demand for the East, and the market for the present is quiet at the above quotation. The Seine has taken £7,600 to the West Indies, and the Indus £190,041 to India and China.

MEXICAN DOLLARS.—The Dollars ex Tasmanian have been sold at 59d. per oz., being a decline of ½d. per oz.; the market is very quiet, nor do we look for much improvement unless the China letters should contain orders.

EXCHANGE on India for Drafts on Bombay and Calcutta is unchanged; for 60 days' sight Drafts the rate is 1s. 11½d. to 2s. Bills with Documents 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11½d. Madras 60 days' sight Bank Drafts 1s. 11½d. to 2s.

INDIA GOVERNMENT LOAN NOTES have been rather stronger, owing to the favourable news from India, and the rise that had taken place there on the announcement of Mr. Laing's Budget. We quote Five-and-a-Half per Cents. 99½ to 100½, and Five per Cents. 99½ to 94½.

The report of Messrs. Haggard and Co., dated this day, observes:—

Since our last Circular our market has been very inactive, and prices have fallen rather considerably. The imports, which have been small, include the Owen Glendower, from Melbourne, with £57,000; the Magdalena, from Brazil, with £35,687; and a small amount of gold and silver from the Continent. The exports have been rather large, comprising the Arabia, to Boston, with £82,861 gold; the City of Baltimore, to New York, with £161,438 gold; the Seine, to the West Indies, with £58,000 gold and £7,600 silver; the Indus, to Calcutta and China, with £207,677, of which £190,000 silver and the rest gold (Government remits £100,000 silver by this steamer); the Dane, to the Cape of Good Hope, with £50,000 on Government account; and the Bavarian, to New York, with £8,000 gold. There is no demand for gold to the Continent, but shipments continue to be made to the United States, sterling exchange at New York having again taken an unfavourable turn. On the other hand, nearly all the Australian and other gold, as it arrives, is sold to the Bank of England, the amount since our last being £204,000. Bar silver has been very dull, and has declined ½d. per ounce, owing to the limited demand for the East; that by the Tasmanian has been sold at 5s. 0½d. The amount to be taken by the next Bombay steamer is likely to be very small. Mexican dollars are also very weak, and the price has receded to 4s. 11d. per oz., at which prices those by the Tasmanian have been sold.

THE EXCHANGES.

The Continental Exchanges this week have been firm. The rates to-day in several instances were rather better than on last Friday. Subjoined is our usual list:—

THE FINANCES OF ITALY.

Baron Adolphe Rothschild, the head of the Naples house of Messrs. Rothschild, has arrived in London, and it is inferred that this visit is in connection with the projected financial operations of the Italian Government.

EXCHEQUER BILLS.

Tuesday last was the last day for sending in Exchequer Bills for renewal. It is understood that a considerable amount has been sent into Government for payment, and that a much larger sum will be similarly dealt with. This is not surprising, the price being now at a discount. The position of the market, in face of the arrangements which have been completed by Government for its relief, tends to confirm the impression that a funding of these securities may not be very distant.

INDIA BONDS.

On Saturday last the India Council notified that the rate of interest on India Bonds is increased from £4. to £4. 10s. per cent.

THE MALTA AND ALEXANDRIA TELEGRAPH.

Messrs. Glass, Elliot, and Co. on Saturday last received a telegram from Tripoli, announcing the successful laying of the telegraph cable between Malta and that place. This forms the first section of the Malta and Alexandria line. The distance from Malta to Tripoli is between three and four hundred miles, and from Malta to Alexandria, by the route proposed, about fifteen hundred.

MEXICAN BONDS.

The committee of the Mexican bondholders have issued a report detailing the actual position of their claims, and the measures they deem essential with regard to them, namely, to procure the appointment of interventors at the Custom-houses, an assignment of productive national property for the arrears of dividends, and constant vigilance in stimulating the Foreign-office to a dignified policy, in harmony with that proclaimed by Lord Palmerston, in January, 1848. The committee add that it was their intention to have called a meeting of the bondholders immediately, but that they now consider it advisable to wait the arrival of the next packet, when they will have information of the proceedings of Sir Charles Wyke and their results.

NEW GRANADA BONDS.

The following satisfactory memorandum from the Committee of Spanish American Bondholders relates to the debt of New Granada:—

The Committee of Spanish American Bondholders having transmitted to his Excellency Senor Martin, at Paris, a copy of their letter to Senor Espriella, which has already been published, have received a reply from his Excellency, stating his full concurrence in the view taken by the committee of the entire validity of the existing agreement. Senor Martin enters into details showing that this agreement is in strict conformity with the laws of the State and the proceedings of the Executive Government. This letter is being translated, and will be printed for the information of the bondholders. Senor Martin adds, that if the printers perform their engagements he expects to be able to commence the issue of the bonds under the agreement, and to pay the first half-year's interest by the 1st of July.

RAILWAY TRAFFIC.

The Brighton Railway traffic return shows this week an increase of £7,855, owing to Epsom races; the South-Eastern, a decrease of £3,473; the London and North-Western, a decrease of £8,010; the Great Northern, an increase of £527; the Great Western, a decrease of £721; the London and South-Western, an increase of £5,777; the Eastern Counties, a decrease of £3,727; the Lancashire and Yorkshire, a decrease of £12,445; the Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire, a decrease of £4,058; the Midland, a decrease of £8,951; and the North-Eastern, an increase of £3,692.

The returns now in course of publication compare with those of Whit-sun week last year.

The traffic receipts of the Great Western Railway of Canada for the week ending May 24 were £7,468 sterling, being £856 more than in the corresponding week of last year.

RAILWAYS.

A special general meeting of the South Eastern Railway Company is called for the 12th of June, to approve a Bill now before Parliament for enabling the company to make an improved communication with the harbour at Folkestone. The meeting will also be required to authorise the directors to raise further capital in connection with the Charing-cross Railway.

The seventh ordinary general meeting of the Royal Danish Railway Company is called for the 26th June, at Flensburg.

The sixth call of £3 is to be paid on the shares in the Cape Town Railway and Dock Company by the 30th inst.

The fourth call of £5 is to be paid on the shares in the Eastern Bengal Railway Company by the 5th July.

In the circular for June of Mr. W. Miller, stockbroker, of Edinburgh, is contained the following practical suggestion relative to the position of the holders of Grand Trunk of Canada Railway Bonds:—"The apathy of the bondholders is almost incredible, they appear to be unwilling to risk more money in obtaining their rights. One of the simplest modes of doing this would be for them to place the overdue interest warrants at the disposal of a committee who would dispose of them to pay any legal costs to be incurred. To facilitate this, and to enable present holders to make use of the overdue interest, the bonds should be quoted and sold 'ex-overdue coupon,' both on the London and all other Exchanges."

The directors of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company invite tenders for the completion of the works comprised in the three following contracts—namely, Bhosawul to Hurdah, 138½ miles; Hurdah to Sohagpore, 82 miles; Sohagpore to Jubbulpore, 116½ miles.

BANKS.

At the meeting of the proprietors of the London Chartered Bank of Australia held to-day (Friday), the directors' report, which was characterised by the chairman, Mr. D. Dunbar, as the most favourable one ever presented by the board, was agreed to. It recommended a dividend for the half-year of 3½ per cent. free of Income-tax.

The directors of the London and South African Bank announce that they have now commenced business, and that they are prepared to undertake all banking operations connected with the Cape of Good Hope and Natal, as well as to issue letters of credit on the colony, America, China, Australia, Mauritius, and other places having commercial relations with the Cape.

It is understood (says the Times) that the directors of the Bank of Turkey are in daily expectation of receiving a definitive reply to their application to the ministers at Constantinople, which they will at once communicate to the shareholders, with a view to their either accepting the new terms proposed or abandoning the undertaking.

ASSURANCE COMPANIES.

A general meeting of the London and Provincial Marine Insurance Company is called for the 27th of June.

The Master of the Rolls has appointed Mr. L. H. Evans, accountant, of King-street, Cheapside, to be the official manager in the winding up of the Agriculturist Cattle Insurance Company.

LAW FIRE INSURANCE SOCIETY.

The annual meeting of shareholders in the Law Fire Insurance Society was held on the 28th May, at the society's new offices in Chancery-lane. The report of the directors was of a highly favourable character, indicating a steady increase in the business and prosperity of the institution. The sum insured in the year 1860 was £24,236,641; in the year 1859, £22,663,913; being an increase in the year 1860 of £1,572,728. The excess of receipt over expenditure for the year 1860 was £13,728. 5s. 11d. in favour of the society. The total balance of assets over liabilities, at the end of the year 1860, was £188,423. 15s. 5d. The directors declared payment of interest for the year ending at this meeting after the usual rate of 2s. 6d. upon each share, being 5 per cent. upon the paid-up capital of the society; and also in addition a bonus of 2s. 6d. upon each share, making together 5s. per share, or 10 per cent. The aggregate amount (£12,500) will be taken from the balance (£13,728. 5s. 11d.) of the General Insurance Account in favour of the society for the year 1860, and will leave a surplus of £1,228. 5s. 11d. The report concluded by congratulating the proprietors upon the high position which the society has taken amongst the Fire Insurance-offices of the country, and the unexampled success which has attended its operations in the comparatively few years of its existence. In addition to the ordinary annual interest of never less than 4 per cent. upon the paid-up capital, a sum has been divided amongst the shareholders, as bonus, in the last ten years, nearly equal to one moiety of the whole paid-up capital, whilst at the same time the reserved fund has been increased from £17,949 to £37,675.

THE RIVER SALADO STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.

Persons interested in the trade and finances of Buenos Ayres and the Argentine Confederation generally, have noticed with satisfaction the announcement of a new project entitled the River Salado Steam Navigation Company. As to the auspices under which this undertaking is launched, no objection whatever can be found, for it will suffice to mention that in the "Committee of Superintendence and Inspection" on the spot is the respected name of Senor N. de la Riestra—the statesman under whose enlightened guidance the finances of Buenos Ayres have been raised to their present creditable point in public estimation. The objects of the Company are also of a very legitimate character, for the resources of the regions which are to form the scene of its operations are very great, and the Company possesses exclusive privileges of a very valuable character. Amongst these is a guarantee of 9 per cent. per annum from the Argentine Confederation, and this guarantee, though at present confined to a portion of the capital, is about to be extended over the whole of it. The value of this guarantee cannot be measured exactly, but Buenos Ayres Six per Cent. Bonds stand now at 90 to 92 in the market.

OTHER PUBLIC COMPANIES.

At the meeting on Tuesday of the Peninsular and Oriental Steam Navigation Company the directors' report, recommending the usual dividend of 3½ per cent. for the half-year, was adopted. The suspension of the extra China mail gave rise to some discussion, in the course of which the deputy-chairman, Mr. Hadow, remarked that the decision of Government had reference merely to postal considerations as distinguished from those connected with trade.

At the meeting, on Wednesday, of the African Steam Ship Company, a dividend of 7s. per share, free of Income-tax, being at the rate of 7 per cent. per annum, was declared, as recommended in the directors' report.

The South-Western Hotel Company (Limited), are inviting tenders for Debentures, secured on freehold land—namely, on the Company's estate at Otlands Park, Walton-on-Thames. These Debentures, which are to replace others now falling due, will bear 6 per cent. interest, and will be redeemable in July, 1863. The total is limited to £15,000.

INTEREST AND DIVIDENDS.

The arrangements are notified in connexion with the payment of the half-yearly dividend on Victoria Dock Stock.

The half-yearly interest is advertised on Matanzas and Sabanilla Railroad Seven per Cent. Bonds.

THE PARIS BOURSE.

At Paris to-day (Friday) the Three per Cent. Rentes opened at 67.35 ex div., and closed at 67.60 for money, and 67.60 for the account, being  $\frac{1}{4}$  per cent. higher than yesterday (after allowing for the deduction of the dividend), but  $\frac{1}{4}$  per cent. lower than on last Friday.

THE STOCK AND SHARE MARKETS.

The English Funds this week have shown decided depression. Consols, which closed on last Friday at  $91\frac{1}{2}$  to  $92$  cum div. for money, closed to-day at  $89\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{7}{8}$  ex div. This shows a fall of  $\frac{2}{8}$  per cent. For the New Account (July 10) the last price to-day was  $90\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{3}{8}$  ex div. Although Sir C. Wood's explanations relative to the Indian finances, combined with the news that Mr. Laing's Budget shows an equilibrium, have been received with satisfaction, an unfavourable effect has been produced on the stock markets by the announcement that the coming loan is to be for £4,000,000, and that further issues for railway purposes will probably be necessary at a later period. From the seeming haste in which the power of raising the loan is asked, it is inferred that the stock will be placed on the market at an early period. An adverse effect has also been occasioned by the news of the death of Count Cavour.

The Consol market has likewise been affected by considerations peculiar to the Stock Exchange. The settlement completed yesterday has resulted in large deliveries of Three per Cent. stock, both by the public (chiefly, it is believed, the banking interest) and by Government. The amount of stock thrown on the market from the latter source during the month has evidently been considerable. This over-supply led yesterday to a very active demand for money in the Stock Exchange, where 6 to 7 per cent. was paid for short loans on Government Securities. Some amount was obtained from the Bank of England at the former rate. The public still sell English Three per Cent. stock in order to buy Indian Five per Cents., Colonial Bonds, and other securities yielding relatively higher rates of interest.

As much as 9-16 to  $\frac{5}{8}$  per cent. "continuation" was paid yesterday on Consols. The latter fraction is equal to about  $7\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. per annum.  $\frac{5}{8}$  was also given on the India Five per Cent. stock.

Under the new arrangements the transfer books for Consols and the India Five per Cent. stock, as well as for the other Government securities on which the dividends fall due on the 5th July next, were shut last Saturday afternoon. They were, however, re-opened on Monday as usual, the shutting being now reduced to a mere formality, in order that a line may be drawn for the making out of the dividend warrants. The transactions have since been ex the dividend.

A further decided improvement took place on Saturday in the India Five per Cent. Stock, which touched at  $101\frac{3}{4}$  to  $102$  cum div. The chief cause of the rise was the impulse which was given to investments by the then impending deduction of the dividend. The announcement of the new loan of £4,000,000, however, has since caused a decided fall. The closing quotations to-day were  $97\frac{3}{4}$  to 98 ex div. for money, and 98 to  $\frac{1}{2}$  ex div. for the July settlement.

The issue of the official advertisement notifying that the rate of interest on India Bonds is raised from 4 to  $4\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. per annum has had a slightly beneficial effect upon the price of those securities, which have last been marked 18s. to 12s. dis.

The Rupee Paper is rather firmer. The March Exchequer Bills remain dull at 6s. to 2s. dis. Tuesday was the last day for sending in the June Bills for renewal.

The official list of to-day's actual business in the English Funds and Indian Government Securities, is annexed:—

Three per Cent. Consols, for money,  $89\frac{3}{4}$ , 90,  $89\frac{1}{4}$ , ex div.; ditto for account (July 10),  $90\frac{1}{4}$ ,  $\frac{1}{4}$ , ex div.; Three per Cents. Reduced,  $89\frac{1}{4}$ ,  $\frac{1}{4}$ ; New Three per Cents.,  $89\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{1}{4}$ ,  $\frac{1}{8}$ ; Bank Stock, 233; India Stock, 228, 226; ditto Five per Cent. Stock,  $97\frac{3}{4}$ , 98, ex div.; ditto for account,  $98\frac{1}{4}$ ,  $\frac{3}{8}$ , ex div.; ditto Four per Cent. Debentures, 1858,  $95\frac{1}{2}$ ; Five-and-a-Half per Cent. Enfaced Rupee Paper, 100,  $\frac{1}{4}$ ; and Exchequer Bills, 6s., 2s. dis.

Foreign stocks have been heavy. The transactions have been chiefly confined to Turkish and Mexican, both of which have given way. The closing quotations this afternoon were as follows:—Mexican,  $21\frac{1}{2}$  to  $22\frac{1}{2}$ ; Turkish Six per Cents., 1854, 71 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; ditto, 1858, 55 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Buenos Ayres Six per Cents., 90 to 92; ditto Deferred, 28 to 29.

Mexican Three per Cents., for account, 22,  $21\frac{1}{2}$ ; Peruvian Four-and-a-Half per Cents., 94; Portuguese Three per Cents., 1853,  $47\frac{1}{4}$ ; Russian Four-and-a-Half per Cents., 1860, 89, ex div.; ditto Three per Cents., 1859,  $61\frac{1}{2}$ ; Spanish Three per Cents., for account,  $50\frac{1}{2}$ ; ditto New Deferred Three per Cents., for account, 43; the Committee's Certificates,  $5\frac{1}{2}$ ; Turkish Six per Cents., 1858, for account,  $55\frac{1}{4}$ ,  $\frac{3}{8}$ ,  $\frac{1}{4}$ ; ditto Guaranteed Four per Cents., 100.

English Railway Stocks have experienced numerous variations, but, on the whole, the tendency has been adverse, particularly as regards Midland stock, which has fallen 1 per cent. Business has been limited and chiefly of a speculative character, the public holding aloof. The traffic on our home railways is closely watched:

The following shows the closing prices of the principal British Railway Stocks this day, and the result of the week's variations. The share list in detail will be found in another column:—

The allotment of shares in the China and Japan Steam Navigation Company was completed yesterday.

Lombardo-Venetian Railway shares have suffered in rather a marked degree, owing to the death of the great Italian statesman. The price, after falling to  $\frac{7}{8}$  dis., recovered this afternoon to  $\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{5}{8}$  dis.

Illinois Central Railway shares closed to-day at 40 dis., and Erie at 21.

The closing quotations for shares in new undertakings to-day were as follows:—Ocean Marine Insurance,  $3\frac{5}{8}$  to  $\frac{7}{8}$  prem.; Thames and Mersey Marine, 13-16 to 15-16 prem.; Universal Marine Insurance, 5-16 to 7-16 prem.; London and Provincial Marine,  $\frac{1}{2}$  dis. to par; Natal Land,  $\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{5}{8}$  prem.; China and Japan Steam, par to  $\frac{1}{4}$  prem.; and Commercial Copper,  $\frac{3}{8}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  prem.

AMERICAN SECURITIES.

The position of the market for American securities is noticed as follows by Messrs. D. Bell, Son, and Co.:—

The market for American Securities continues very active, and large amounts of the several Southern States Stocks have been sold during the past week—Virginia, at prices varying from 42 to 43; Tennessee, 38; South Carolina, 45.

The report of Mr. E. F. Satterthwaite, dated Wednesday evening, is annexed:—

There has been considerable activity in the market in London for American Securities, the low prices of States' Stocks having attracted the notice of parties watching an opportunity to buy at cheap rates, and who are prepared for a possible suspension of dividends. Virginia Bonds, which have long been favourably regarded here, and usually have ranged from 80 to 90, have been largely dealt in from 42 to 43.

Railroad Bonds are firmly maintained and in good demand, thus proving the theory we have always held, that a sound railroad bond is a much safer investment than a States' stock; for instance, New York Central Seven per Cent. Bonds are much wanted, from 91 to 92, as high a price within 2 or 3 per cent. as they ever stood at, while Virginia has fallen one-half.

Illinois Shares have been steady from  $40\frac{1}{2}$  to  $39\frac{1}{2}$  discount; and Erie from  $20\frac{1}{2}$  to  $21\frac{1}{2}$ .

Some of the English holders of Virginia State Dollar Bonds having neglected until recently to send in the coupons due in January last, have had them returned unpaid. It is thence inferred that, under present circumstances, there is not much prospect of the dividend due in July being met by the State.

MERCANTILE EMBARRASMENTS.

The subjoined circular, issued on Monday, announces the failure of Messrs. T. and R. Raikes, private bankers, of Hull. The liabilities are probably under £100,000, and it is thought that a good dividend will be realised. The immediate cause of the stoppage is not known. This is not a bank of issue. The partners are Mr. Thomas Raikes, of London, and Mr. Robert Raikes, of Hull:—

SIR,—We are under the very painful necessity of apprising you, that difficulties in which we find ourselves placed oblige us, in the interest of our creditors generally, to decide upon suspending our payments. We had until so late as Saturday entertained hopes of obtaining such assistance as would have enabled us to avert this crisis; but our efforts in that direction not proving successful, we have without delay adopted the only alternative left to us. Our affairs are under investigation by Messrs. Quilter, Ball, Jay, and Co., of Moorgate-street, London, who will prepare a statement to be laid before our creditors on the earliest possible day, at a meeting of which due notice will be given; and requesting your kind forbearance in the meantime,—We remain, &c., T. and R. RAIKES and Co.

The stoppage was announced on Monday of Messrs. Mackay and Read, commission merchants and insurance brokers, of the Old Jewry, with highly respectable connexions. As the operations of the firm have been considerably circumscribed of late, it is believed that the liabilities will not exceed £30,000. The circular issued by the solicitor is as follows:—

Messrs. Mackay and Read, of Frederick's-place, Old Jewry, East India commission agents, have consulted me as to the position of their affairs, and I regret to have to inform you that I am compelled to advise them at once to suspend payments. I consider that this step will best promote the interests of the creditors. The books are placed in the hands of Messrs. Coleman, Turquand, Youngs, and Co., who will forthwith prepare a statement, and as early as possible convene a meeting, of which you shall have due notice.—I remain, your obedient servant, 48, Lime-street, London, E.C., June 3.

J. WILSON NICHOLSON.

The failure of Messrs. F. Atkin and Co., merchants, has been announced at Manchester, but the liabilities are not more than about £15,000. Proceedings in bankruptcy have been instituted. One or two small stoppages in the silk trade, in the same locality, have also been reported.

Messrs. D. and J. Thompson, merchants, of Dundee, have suspended payment, with liabilities to the amount of £50,000, and assets showing a surplus. They have already made an offer to pay 20s. in the pound. The firm has been principally engaged in the jute trade, and its difficulties have arisen through the position of houses in America with which it is connected.

At an adjourned meeting of the creditors of Mr. Joseph Sutcliffe, held at Manchester on the 31st May, the committee appointed at a previous meeting reported that the books were very defective. Mr. Sutcliffe offered to pay a composition of 7s. 6d. in the pound, without guarantee, but it was resolved that he should execute an assignment for the benefit of the creditors.

An adjourned meeting of the creditors of Messrs. George Moorhouse and Co. also took place at Manchester on the 31st May. Since the previous meeting the accounts have been investigated, and it is believed that the firm has been insolvent for a long time. Its liabilities are now upwards of £30,000, while the realisable assets are not more than £7,000 or £8,000. It was agreed to accept a composition of 5s. in the pound.

Mines.

FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 7.

THE market for home mining stocks this week has exhibited no great activity, yet a fair amount of business has been done in certain classes of stock. The principal inquiries have been for shares in Camborne Vean, East Devon Great Consols, Great Wheal Fortune, Marke Valley, South Caradon, West Seton, and Wheal Ludcott, all of which have advanced. There has also been a large amount of business in East Caradon shares, which are well supported. East Basset, East Wheal Grenville, Providence, and Wheal Unity are weaker.

The mining market to-day was quiet. The transactions were to only a moderate extent. The principal inquiries were for shares in East Caradon, Wheal Union, Wheal Ludcott, Wheal Clifford, Herodsfoot North Downs, and South Frances. As regards Wheal Unity, East Wheal Grenville, Wheal Trelawney, and Providence shares, sellers predominated.

The following are amongst the prices reported to us this evening:—

Alfred Consols,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to 2; Calvadnack,  $4\frac{3}{4}$  to  $5\frac{1}{4}$ ; Carn Camborne, 1 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Camborne Vean,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to  $2\frac{1}{2}$ ; Copper Hill, 90 to 5; Cook's Kitchen, 31 to 32; East Basset, 90 to 5; East Caradon,  $27\frac{1}{2}$  to 8; East Carn Brea,  $7\frac{1}{2}$  to 8; East Grenville, 44s. 6d. to 45s. 6d.; East Russell,  $3\frac{3}{4}$  to 4; East Devon Great Consols,  $2\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; Great Retallack, 22s. to 24s.; Great Fortune,  $12\frac{1}{2}$  to  $13\frac{1}{2}$ ; Herodsfoot,  $33\frac{1}{2}$  to  $39\frac{1}{2}$  ex div.; Marke Valley,  $9\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; North Downs,  $4\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; North Robert, 4; North Treskerby,  $23\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; Providence, 38 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; South Caradon, 31s to 20; Stray Park, 35 to 6; Wendron Consols, 19 to 20; West Caradon,  $52\frac{1}{2}$  to 55; West Rose Down, 11 to 12; West Polmear, 20s. to 21s.; West Seton, 370 to 5; West Stray Park,  $4\frac{1}{2}$  to 5; Wheal Ludcott,  $3\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; Wheal Margaret, 48 to 9 ex div.; Wheal Moyle,  $2\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Wheal Unity, 16s. to 18s.

Foreign and Colonial Mining shares have been generally steady, with limited transactions. St. John del Rey are rather lower, and United Mexican quiet.

The shares of the Labuan Coal Company were quoted to-day  $2\frac{3}{4}$  to 3 prem.

The East Kongsberg Native Silver Mining Company have received from Norway several samples from the various bottoms and levels of the mines in work. These are valuable from their proving that the company were justified in their expectations of finding the usual produce of those mines—namely, native silver and antimonial sulphuret of silver, together with the usual good indications of better prospects—namely, sulphide of zinc and lead, mixed with the calc-spar. At the same time the Falk Baand is of a highly-favourable character, and of considerable width. The Nires Gluck Mine is expected to be in fork in about fourteen days.

Notice is given of the closing of the transfer-books of the Kapunda Mining Company (Limited).

The following mining dividends have been declared during the past month:—

The report of the directors of the Trust and Loan Company of Upper Canada, adopted at the annual meeting on the 31st of May, states the net profits for the six months ending the 31st March at £14,020. It is recommended that out of the balance—£14,416—at credit of revenue, a dividend at the rate of  $8\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. per annum, less Income-tax, be declared on the paid-up stock; that one-half of the surplus profits over 6 per cent. per annum, and the usual charge for interest, amounting together to £3,474. 0s. 10d., be carried to the reserve fund; and that £250 be applied to the redemption of preliminary expenses. There will then remain the sum of £67. 14s. 3d. to the credit of the next half-year's accounts. The directors congratulate the shareholders on the steady and satisfactory progress of the company, and state that the accounts which they receive from their commissioners in Canada of the general prospects of the province, and of the condition of the properties now under mortgage to the company, are "highly favourable and encouraging."

THE FRENCH TREATY.—The new tariff on British productions imported into France, so far as regards manufactures, and yarns of flax, hemp, and jute, came into operation on Saturday last. The date at which the whole of the new tariff comes into force, as fixed in the treaty, is Oct. 1.

A MOVEMENT has been commenced at Manchester to obtain such a modification of the Customs' regulations as will allow direct importation and exportation for that city. Twenty-five years back a ship canal was proposed for this object, and subsequently the deepening of the river Irwell—a scheme on which Mr. Cubitt, of London, and Mr. Fairbairn, of Manchester, gave a most favourable report. The plan now contemplated, however, is of a more limited character—namely, simply to procure permission to tranship goods into lighters without incurring those charges to which they are now liable through being unshipped at Liverpool; and a memorial to the Treasury and Customs to this effect has been ordered to be prepared and presented.

THE EMPEROR LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY.

The ordinary annual general meeting of this society was held at the offices, on Thursday, May 30; Mr. EBENEZER CLARKE, in the chair.

Mr. E. CLARKE, Jun. (the secretary), read the notice convening the meeting, and the minute of the last annual meeting was read and confirmed.

The Secretary then read the report of the directors for the year ending March, 1861, as follows:—

"Your directors have had the pleasure of reporting at each previous annual meeting a large increase of business. They have now to present a statement which will show that during the past year the progress has been more satisfactory than on any previous occasion.

LIFE PROPOSALS RECEIVED.			POLICIES ISSUED.
To March 31	Number.	Amount.	To March 31	Number.	Amount.
1855	83	£16,160	1855	32	£7,540
1856	198	40,175	1856	126	26,610
1857	373	71,977	1857	241	41,217
1858	844	123,625	1858	652	83,984
1859	1,806	201,970	1859	1,409	140,947
1860	4,073	311,299	1860	2,850	209,402

"It will be seen from the foregoing table that 1,559 more proposals have been received than policies issued. Of these, 744 have been declined, or not carried out; and 815 have been accepted, which, if completed, will appear in the next report. The claims during the past year have amounted to £1,030. 4s. This amount is considerably below the average, and is less than the premiums received during the last three months—a proof of the caution with which the proposals have been accepted. Although the business has so much increased, both the expenses and claims for the past year are considerably less than for the previous year. The continued success of the society justifies your directors in again recommending a dividend of 5 per cent. on the paid-up capital. Several advances have been made during the year on freehold and leasehold property, and the directors are prepared to make further advances on this class of securities in connection with life assurance. The proposed additional plan of applying the profits to the conversion of a life policy into one terminable at a given age without extra premium, so that on the first division of profits the policy may be declared determinable, on the assured attaining the age of 65 or 70 years; and on the next division shortening the term to about 60 or 63 years; and applying future profits so as to further shorten the period of each division in order that the policy may become payable during the life-time of the assured, has met with general approval. The directors are encouraged to continue every facility to members of benefit societies to assure their lives, not only by the avidity with which they have already availed themselves of the advantages offered, but from the fact that many such assurers increase the amount of their policies. The accounts of the society have been carefully examined, approved, and certified by the auditors. Your directors continue their weekly examination of the general accounts of the society, being persuaded that a frequent supervision of the receipts and expenditure of a public company is essential to its economical management and permanent stability. The numerous agencies already established, the important connections formed with managers of various provident societies, the prompt payment of claims, and the plans adopted to make assurance applicable to the various circumstances of life have rendered the society increasingly popular. The share and policyholders being mutually interested in the extension of its operations, the directors solicit their combined exertions in endeavouring to induce their friends and connections to assure; they may also assist by recommending suitable agents in districts hitherto unrepresented, and by giving general publicity to the advantages of the society. Your directors congratulate their constituents on the present position and prospects of the institution, and they hope they may confidently rely upon the united efforts of the shareholders, agents, and the assured, to aid in increasing the business in its several departments; and thus continue that success which during the past has indicated a growing amount of public confidence in its principles and management."

The CHAIRMAN had much pleasure in moving that the report and balance-sheet just read be received and adopted; and in doing so he might remark that it had been the aim of the directors to render the report and balance-sheet as plain as possible, so as to make any extended observations from him unnecessary. But at the same time, if in any respect they were not so clear and distinct as some could desire, he and his co-directors would be most happy to answer any inquiries and to give any explanation in their power. He felt it was his pleasure as it was no less his duty, to congratulate the shareholders upon the increased success of the society. (Hear, hear.) He was happy in being able to inform proprietors that during the past year a much larger number of policies had been issued than in any former corresponding period; and that the whole business connected with the society had been very much extended. It was also gratifying to be able to state that, while the business had been so largely increased, the claims and expenses had been diminished. Throughout the year there had been the most united action among the whole of the members of the board; and the greatest harmony had prevailed among the travelling and local agents; indeed among their employes, speaking generally, the directors had every reason to be well satisfied with the exertions that had been made both at home and abroad in promoting the interest of the society. (Hear, hear.) There was, however, room for extended exertions, and to insure increased success in the present day of competition it was necessary that every person in any way connected with the association should do his utmost both by himself and his friends, to extend the business of the society; there was much to be done by each individual shareholder. He would, therefore, only repeat the hope that his friends around him would do their best to increase and promote the best interests of the Emperor Life Assurance Society. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. BONTEMS had much pleasure in seconding the adoption of the report and accounts, and in doing so he fully endorsed the opinion of the chairman that they had all good reason to congratulate each other upon the gradually increasing prosperity of the Emperor Life Assurance Society.

The Rev. F. TRESTRAL said the Chairman had been over-scrupulous in speaking of the labours of his colleagues and himself, which he had greatly underrated. With respect to the report, it was rather below than above the mark. The healthy position of the society was understated.

The resolution, being put, was carried unanimously. The retiring directors, Messrs. R. Harris and A. J. Larking, were unanimously re-elected.

It was then unanimously resolved that the sum of £150 be presented to the directors for their services during the past year, with thanks for past services.

Mr. W. J. MOORE, after a few laudatory remarks upon the efficient and highly satisfactory manner in which the whole of the society's affairs had been conducted, expressed his pleasure at moving, "That the best and hearty thanks of the meeting be accorded to the whole of the officers of the Emperor Life Assurance Society," and concluded by hoping that that institution would continue to sway its sceptre of peace, and increase in true prosperity.

Mr. STOCKER had much pleasure in seconding the resolution, and he would take that opportunity of expressing his firm conviction that the Emperor Life Assurance Society would soon outstrip all other similar societies. (Hear, hear.) One important feature connected with it was the inexpensive way in which the whole of the operations were conducted; indeed, when he reviewed the details, he was surprised at the extremely small amount which was absorbed in the carrying on of the society's operations. (Hear, hear.)

The resolution was then put and carried unanimously.

The CHAIRMAN, on behalf of the Board, acknowledged the compliment in a few appropriate remarks. It was the greatest satisfaction to them to know that their efforts on behalf of the society had received the approbation of the shareholders, and he trusted that they would, year after year, continue their efforts, and thus gain the admiration of the proprietary.

The SECRETARY thanked the meeting on behalf of the officers generally, all of whom had kindly assisted him and the directors in bringing the society to its present successful issue. (Hear, hear.) The report just read showed to what an extent the society was still progressing, and he was glad to be able to inform the meeting that, during the past two months they had made even still greater progress—(cheers)—for since March 31st, 1861, the society had issued 400 life policies, with premiums at the rate of £2,400 per annum. The claims for the same period had only amounted to £30, while the receipts for premiums had been upwards of £700. From the time of the society's formation no less than £3,403 had been paid in claims, the recipients of which had paid only £309, showing that for every £9 paid by the assurers, £100 had been received by their families, thus illustrating the value of life assurance as an investment. The society had advanced several sums of money to persons to enable them to build their own houses, or to assist them in business, and in that way he felt that the society had done a vast amount of good. (Hear.) The society had also been the means of establishing, or of calling into existence two large and important benefit societies, which now comprise between 3,000 and 4,000 members, and thus the provident habits of the working classes had been promoted. It would be seen by the report that the society's tables were peculiarly adapted to the various circumstances of life. The life tables were especially so, for they enabled the parent to make provision for his family in case of his early death, and at the same time, supposing he lived to old age, when his children would be in the full vigour of life, and probably not require it so much as himself, the amount of the policy would be paid to himself during his own lifetime;—that he believed to be a great advantage. By their deposit tables it would be seen that the society offered all the advantages of a savings' bank and an assurance society, the assurer having the opportunity to withdraw the amount with interest, or in case of death to receive more than double what he has paid in if he assures previous to 30 years of age. He had great faith in the moral advantages of assurance and other provident institutions; they taught the people the important principle of self-help, and just in proportion as investments were made in them, so would our poor rates decrease; even with an increased population our poor rates decreased of late, and advantages in these societies were, to a great extent, the cause. He urged upon their agents, their shareholders—indeed, upon every one connected with the society, to continue their unity of action, and by increased energy and perseverance, endeavour still further to advance the important principles and advantages of assurance, for by promoting assurance they were promoting the good of all around them. (Cheers.)

Mr. BORMOND, one of the agents, attributed the great success of their society to the efficient and energetic way in which its affairs were conducted, and he wished it all the success it was capable of realising.

Mr. MANN urged upon the persons present to take shares in the society, and to increase its business; he felt sure that the directors desired to promote the welfare of all connected with it.

Mr. NEW said that they owed a large amount of their success to the agents, and therefore their best thanks were due to them. (Hear, hear.)

The CHAIRMAN said the Board fully acknowledged the services of their agents.

The auditors, Mr. W. E. Whittingham, Mr. G. F. Larking, and Mr. Middle-ditch were then re-elected, and Mr. Coventry was appointed in the place of Mr. Borwick, resigned.

Mr. COLLINS, secretary of the Whittington, proposed a vote of thanks to the Chairman, which was unanimously accorded.

The CHAIRMAN acknowledged by stating that, so long as it pleased Providence to give to him life and strength to assist in conducting the business of the Emperor Life Assurance Society, and so long as he could give satisfaction to the shareholders, he assured them it would be his pleasure as he felt it his duty, to exert his best energies and engage his best attention in promoting its interests.

The proceedings then terminated.

EMPEROR FIRE INSURANCE SOCIETY.

The CHAIRMAN called upon Mr. E. Clarke, Jun. (the secretary), to read the notice convening the meeting; the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. The following report of the directors for the year ending March, 1861, was then read:—

"Your directors have the pleasure of placing before the shareholders the report of the business transacted by the society during the past year, which shows a favourable result."

"The number of proposals received to March, 1860, was 2,744 for the amount of £918,391, and the policies issued to that date 2,467 for £744,739; these have been increased during the past twelve months to 3,387 proposals for £1,173,399, and policies issued to 3,022 for £915,812.

"The claims during the year have amounted to £1,612. 1s. 3d., but these have been so covered by re-assurances that the society has not suffered loss, and there are no outstanding claims.

"It has been the study of your directors to do a safe business; and thus to protect their shareholders rather than to show a large return with considerable risk, and past experience has confirmed them in the prudence of this course.

"The directors who retire by rotation are George Angell, Esq., and N. J. Powell, Esq.

"N. J. Powell, Esq., offers himself for re-election.

"The auditors retiring are W. E. Whittingham, Esq., and G. F. Larking, Esq., both of whom offer themselves for re-election."

The CHAIRMAN, in moving the adoption of the report and accounts, stated that their fire business had progressed gradually and satisfactorily. They had never looked upon it as the main feature of their general business, but somewhat as a hand-maid to it; and thus, perhaps, they had not pushed it as they otherwise would. They were, however, prosecuting a fair business, and it was often a great help to the other. He would not detain them with any observations, but would at once move the adoption of the report and accounts.

Mr. HEALE seconded the resolution, which was put and carried unanimously.

The retiring directors were re-elected, and the auditors re-appointed.

A cordial vote of thanks to the chairman and directors terminated the proceedings.

The gold box presented to Mr. R. Cohden on Thursday by the Corporation of London, was designed and manufactured by Mr. J. Eglese, of Cornhill.

REPRESENTATIVE AND AGENT OF THE COMPANY.—M. Pedro Gil, Banker, Paris.

This Company is formed for the purpose of supplying what has long been urgently required, and which, from the increased and constantly increasing growth of British commerce with the Argentine Confederation, is daily becoming more and more necessary, namely, regular, speedy, and safe transit to the River Salado, and thus bring the whole of that country, including the south of Bolivia, in direct communication by steam with Europe. This is already effected as far as Santa Fé (the mouth of the Salado), two steamers leaving Europe monthly for Buenos Ayres (the Royal Mail Company's steamer from Southampton, and the Messageries Impériales steamer from Bordeaux); on arrival at Buenos Ayres passengers, merchandise, mails, &c., are conveyed by steamers to Santa Fé, for which service two run regularly every week. On arrival at Santa Fé steam communication is at an end, and the only means of reaching the towns on the Atlantic side are by long and difficult journeys by land, and towns on the Pacific, by traversing the Cordilleras of the Andes; but as soon as the navigation of the Salado is completed, the present route from Santa Fé by land will be abandoned, and the transit by steam on the Salado universally adopted. The extent of the trade already existing, its certain expansion, the liberal grants of the Government, and the manifest necessity of the use of steam communication, warrant the conclusion that the Company may rely on being able to realise large annual profits beyond the guaranteed interest; and the great desire of the Government of the Argentine Confederation for the success of the undertaking, and its evident wish to assist the Company, is clearly shown by the liberal grants of land and the high rate of interest guaranteed; the value of this can be understood when the Bonds of Buenos Ayres (Argentine Confederation) only bear an annual interest of 6 per cent., and are now quoted at 9½ per cent.

For prospectus, and paper showing nature of guarantee, of grants of land, and further particulars, apply to Messrs. J. Hart and Co., 7, Broad-street-buildings, E.C.
Prospectuses may also be obtained from, and applications for Shares made to, Messrs. G. Harris and Sons, Brokers, 22, Change-alley, Cornhill, London, E.C.

Great Britain—Messrs. J. Hart and Co., London.
Spain—M. José Gil, Barcelona.

The fire did not originate in our premises, but seeing it was likely to be a very large one, we had time to remove all our books, which were deposited in one of our fire-resisting Safes, to a place of safety, but, in the confusion which necessarily occurs, we neglected to remove the contents of the drawers. In the year 1857 a remarkable bed of Iron Ore was discovered at Seend, Wiltshire, varying from 35 to 60 feet in thickness, easily worked in open cuttings, and yielding from 35 to 50 per cent. of Iron. The quantity of the Ore is computed, from actual workings and trial pits, to exceed ten millions of tons.
A contract has been entered into to make the pig iron and put it into the Company's trucks at 40s. per ton, including all royalties and all charges connected with the manufacture of the iron.
The peculiar feature of this undertaking is, that in consequence of the great natural advantages possessed by the Seend Iron Works, iron can be smelted there to any extent at a cost which places it above all ordinary competition, and which must secure to this Company a good profit so long as the manufacture of iron forms a branch of the industry of Great Britain.
Each application for Shares must be accompanied with a deposit of 10s. per Share upon the number of Shares applied for. If no allotment be made to the applicant, the deposit will be returned in full.
Prospectuses and forms of application may be had of the Secretary, at the Offices, 114, Gresham-house, Old Broad-street, London, E.C.

JOHN R. PIKE, MINE SHAREBROKER,
3, PINNER'S COURT, OLD BROAD-STREET, E.C.

REMARKS.—The custom of sharebrokers and dealers availing themselves of the columns of the press to address the public week by week, has, by lapse of time, become in some sort an institution. Whether that practice be productive of good, or the contrary, it is not the purpose of the writer to inquire. One thing is, however, apparent on the face of it, that the holders of shares in British mines are kept au courant of the various aspects of the share market as viewed from each particular writer's stand point. To offer an apology, therefore, for adding another to the existing weekly letters would seem unnecessary, but to those of the readers of this Journal who may consider that enough is as good as a feast, I may say by way of personal justification that, in the present state of British mining property, that portion of the public interested in its welfare cannot be too well informed as to its immediate position and future prospects. It being my conviction that something remains to be done in this direction, the present series of weekly papers has been instituted.

One circumstance must have arrested the attention of every careful observer of mining matters during the last five months—and that is, the somewhat remarkable scarcity of anything like important discoveries of ore. I say that this may be looked upon by some as somewhat remarkable, when in truth it is only in accordance with the experience of men who have carefully noted the fluctuations in this respect for a sufficient long period of time to enable them to average results. At times there is a complete glut of discoveries; from north, south, east, and west the tidings come either of important improvements in lodes in course of development, or of altogether new discoveries, which have the effect of either enhancing the value of mines already established, or of giving a value to some mine which, on account of its virginity, had hitherto attracted little notice; while at other times, such as that on which I am now commenting, the dearth of discovery is somewhat startling, but so it is. The miner can no more command a lode to make ore than a holiday volunteer can coax the clerk of the weather to vouchsafe to him, his uniform and accoutrements dry Saturdays. Lack of discovery, then, is one of the causes of the present depressed condition of the Mining Market, but another must be looked for in the results of the excessive severity of last winter. Possibly, no industry in this country is more dependent for equable prosperity on the weather than mining. Thermometrical extremes are the bane of mining; with the thermometer at zero, the miner may break and send his ore to surface, where it remains in ice-bound heaps, as useless for all the purposes of present profit as if the lode had no existence. Steam may be generated and injected into magnificent cylinders for winding, pumping, crushing, and other purposes, but rods will snap as if made of glass, causing the whole plant on a prosperous property to become deranged; the dressing-floors are deserted as the lodes are ice-bound, and the whole market-rendering operations definitely brought to a stand-still; whilst with the glass at 90, although the case is not quite so bad, yet the scarcity of water for dressing purposes is seriously felt. The effect of the startling inclemency of last winter has not yet passed away, shareholders in calling mines have not had time to forget the extra drain on their resources in the shape of calls, whilst shareholders in paying mines have a lively recollection of the diminution in their income from diminished, and, in some cases, precarious dividends. All this has had a very depressing effect on the share market, in spite of the very suggestive reflection that where the ore is it cannot be diminished in any degree in quantity, nor very sensibly in value, by any unfortunate atmospheric condition. I have now briefly alluded to two of the causes which have contributed to the present stagnation in mining affairs; but there is yet another which invariably governs all others—viz., the business of trade, a phrase which involves many serious considerations, such as the adverse state of the foreign exchanges, resulting in a low stock of bullion in the bank coffers, and dear money to all who require this commodity, the disturbed state of political parties abroad, by which the peace of the world is jeopardised, and the export trade of this country seriously diminished. It is no use turning away from the consideration of such questions, on the plea that they have but a remote bearing on the prosperity of our mining industry, as it can be proved to demonstration that the Mining Exchange, like the stock, corn, and commercial exchanges of the country is absolutely dependent on contemporaneous influences for a state of either absolute or modified prosperity. When the minimum rate of discount at the Bank of England is fixed at 10 per cent., when taxation is in imminent danger of increase for national armament, and when the monthly returns of trade and navigation exhibit a marked decrease in the value of exported commodities, British mining must suffer equally as if all the foregoing conditions were reversed, and the metalliferous veins by which Cornwall and Devon are traversed had suffered a general decline in value.

SPECIAL INFORMATION.

The writer, entertaining a strong opinion that the public only require the very fullest information as to the antecedents and present position of our best mines, in order to be convinced as to their value as investments, he has determined to carefully investigate and consider the eligibility as channels for investment both of mines which have a market value owing to being well known, and others only requiring to be well known in order to be patronised; but as this is a work of some labour, and as it would be impossible, owing to the length to which the descriptions will run, to publish them in extenso, Mr. PIKE will from week to week announce the names of the mines on which he is prepared to advise, and will cheerfully give to the general public, as well as his clients, free of any charge whatever, the very best information in his power, a very long residence in Cornwall, coupled with ten years' practice in the London markets, enabling him to speak from personal knowledge of nearly the whole of our Cornish, Devon, and Welsh Mines. The mines to which his attention is particularly directed this week are East Caradon, Billins, and South Frances.

MR. GLADSTONE'S MISTAKES—THE ERROR OF SECRET FINANCE.

THE complaint of the financial world respecting the mistaken and underhand character of many of the Government plans of finance is daily becoming louder. It is a complaint which no Government can afford long to ignore, for it emanates from a class, which, if it does not hold the national purse-strings, is the arbiter of the national credit. It is the duty of a Chancellor of the Exchequer so to shape his policy as to conciliate the support of the great moneyed public; for, unless he does so, he cannot get the financial service of the State performed under those economical conditions which are especially required in these days of grinding taxation. Now, if we have never had a Chancellor of the Exchequer possessing attainments of so high and so brilliant an order as those of Mr. Gladstone, we have rarely had one whose finance has excited so much distrust amongst the moneyed classes. Lombard-street, the Bank of England, and the Stock Exchange never know what the Finance Minister will alter next. Chopping and changing is the order of the day, and the Money Market is being incessantly fidgetted. It is notorious that Mr. Gladstone has never stood well with the Bank of England, although he leans upon that establishment for assistance in a degree never witnessed in the case of his predecessors in office. Under his rule the Government balances in the Bank have been kept considerably below the amount which from experience was considered necessary by other Chancellors. Upon this reduced average balance, or upon at least a portion of it, the present Chancellor of the Exchequer evidently contemplates forcing the Bank ultimately to allow some rate of interest. He would thus make the Bank allow on the Government account what they do not give on any bankers' or other private balances whatever. Within the last few months Mr. Gladstone has fallen suddenly upon the Bank and lopped off £50,000 a-year from their allowance for conducting the important business connected with the management of the National Debt, consecrated although the old arrangements had almost become by their antiquity. The Bank had no alternative but to acquiesce, and this they did with the best grace they could, which was not a very good one. Their compensation consisted in the reflection that the new arrangement is not to be disturbed for a fixed term of years. Mr. Gladstone, on his part, did not reckon without his host. In effecting one of those small economies in which he especially delights, but which do not prevent the aggregate expenditure of the nation, under the auspices of himself and his colleagues, from reaching the monstrous sum of £70,000,000 a-year, he knew that few persons, either in or out of Parliament, would be Quixotish enough to break a lance in defence of that overshadowing and not over-popular institution, the Bank of England. The remark that "the money-lender has no friends" seems to be especially true of that institution. Yet many impartial persons question altogether the wisdom of the antagonistic policy which Mr. Gladstone has practically adopted towards the Bank. There is an old story, recounting the expression of delight wherewith a certain great financier once surprised an objector who pointed to the large profit which the Stock Exchange was making out of his last loan. The story has a shrewd moral, which Mr. Gladstone, in the fulness of his talent, despises. In the interest of the nation, the functionary who conducts its financial business, ought unquestionably to stand well with the moneyed world. In this respect Mr. Gladstone is greatly at fault.

For a proof of the injurious effect we need not look further than to the state of the market for Exchequer Bills. From the very outset Mr. Gladstone has done nothing but make changes with regard to these unfortunate securities. Years ago, when newly installed in the post of Finance Minister, he tried his 'prentice-hand at a bold stroke, which has proved a signal failure. The popularity then enjoyed by Exchequer Bills was indicated by the fact that, though carrying a rate of interest not onerous to the nation, they stood in the market at between 2½ and 3 per cent. premium. "What waste is this?" exclaimed Mr. Gladstone to himself; and forthwith, to the utter consternation of all the old-fashioned bankers who had all their lives trusted in Exchequer Bills, he cut down the interest to a merely nominal rate. The price fell at once to par, and severe and quite unforeseen losses were entailed upon the holders. In exact proportion to the degree of confidence which they had felt in these securities was their loss and also their indignation. For the time, money being then "a drug," the Chancellor had his own way, and an amount of the Bills sufficient for his immediate purposes remained in circulation. But it was a narrow and short-sighted policy. He had given a death-blow to the prestige of Exchequer Bills. The management of this branch of the public debt has ever since been of a difficult and anxious character. The saving effected at that period must have been far more than swallowed up since in consequence of the distrust of bankers, and the absolute unwillingness of many of them to take Exchequer Bills at all. At each period for the renewal of the Bills the calculations of Government have been disarranged by large amounts being sent in for payment. Mr. Gladstone has repeatedly declared that in his opinion the proper price for Exchequer Bills is par or a very small premium, as there would then be no risk of fluctuation. But he will find that this is a good deal more than he can accomplish permanently, and that his characteristic policy "of shaving so finely" is the one least calculated to accomplish it. The high premium borne by Exchequer Bills before they came under his management represented the measure of the trust and confidence of the holders; whilst their present discredit represents the measure of the public distrust. The one was a credit to Mr. Gladstone's predecessors in office; the other is a standing reproach to Mr. Gladstone himself. His motives, we doubt not, are as high and honourable as his character: the result of his management is simply lamentable. And this arises mainly from his being a theoretical, and not a practical, financier. He is, apparently, a man of too high attainments to accept advice from persons possessing less talent, but a far greater practical acquaintance with their subject. Our Chancellor of the Exchequer, we fear, is "too clever by half." He resembles the boy of superlative natural capacity, who, somehow, does not get on in his class. Too much talent in the Ministry of Finance, instead of promoting, interferes with the even flow of the business of the nation. The public have never ceased to regret the common-sense system of Sir G. C. Lewis.

The result of Mr. Gladstone's management of the unfunded debt is soon told. Its permanent condition in the market is represented by the ominous word—discount. Gone—apparently never to return—are the days of premiums—the days when trusting bankers competed eagerly against each other for the floating paper of the State. Now, they are sullenly intent upon having their money back. The Chancellor, disgusted by their attitude, offers them higher terms:—"Name your rate of interest, gentlemen"—he says. The funds yield only about 3¼ per cent., so, liberal too late, he fixes the interest on Exchequer Bills at 3½, although he thereby robs the floating debt of its chief advantage in the eyes of a Chancellor of the Exchequer,—namely, its relative cheapness as compared with the cost of the funds. He goes further: at the risk of great future inconvenience, he gives the holders the option of putting the Bills upon him, as if they were money, for six months out of the twelve, yet the New June Bills, which possess all the latest privileges, are barely saleable at par, while the March issue is at a discount. In addition to the million of March Bills which were sent in for payment in that month, it has transpired this week that upon £1,100,000 of the June Bills payment has just been demanded. £400,000 of this amount is sent in by the Council of India, who, doubtless, have need of the money; but the rejection of the £700,000 by the banking and moneyed public attests in an unmistakable manner the continued and almost hopeless unpopularity of the security. Practically the Exchequer Bill market is almost destroyed. The usual facility for dealing in them is gone. This is a very serious disadvantage, for unless they are instantaneously convertible, they are no longer a suitable medium for the employment of bankers' reserves.

The evils of the present system do not end with the immediate inconvenience and cost which this difficult and spasmodic "financing" entails upon the Treasury. The Chancellor is being always driven into the Stock Exchange. He has been selling Savings Banks Stock at an "alarming sacrifice," in order to put those establishments—of which he himself, by an anomaly savouring far too much of the French system, is virtually one of the administrators—into a position to take the Exchequer Bills which have been sent in for payment, and which, by the late Act, he has the power of re-issuing to them. The loss to the nation on the sales of Three per Cent. Stock at the present reduced prices is a very serious matter, especially considered in conjunction with the increased rate of interest on Exchequer Bills. If Mr. Gladstone does not mind what he is about, the mischief he is causing will not end even here. The public do not like this ceaseless "jobbing" in the market on Government account. Bankers and capitalists—the great supporters of the funds—have their operations greatly disarranged when Government, or departments under the thumb of Government, are constantly coming forward as operators in public securities. The less Government have to do with the Stock Exchange the better for their own credit and for the public interest. The worst feature of the present condition of affairs is the objectionable secrecy in which the Government operations are enshrouded. It is utterly incompatible with the dignity and credit of the State, that, for weeks together, as has happened repeatedly and recently, a supply of stock flows in from official sources, not openly through the accredited Government broker, but secretly through other agencies. The principal official anxiety is apparently to conduct these transactions with perfect secrecy. A policy more injurious to the public credit and in the long run more costly to the Treasury there could not be. What right have Government to assume this attitude of mystery, and to put stock at pleasure, from savings-bank or other sources of unknown extent, upon unsuspecting investors? Why is not the finance of the nation conducted upon a system more in accordance with its spotless credit? Why should Government sneak into the market to sell stock, as though they had become possessed of it dishonestly? These are questions which financial observers have often asked each other vivâ voce. We see no reason why they should not be asked—and, if necessary, repeated—through the press. Some of the organs of public opinion may, perhaps, be too much entangled with Government connections, or too desirous of securing Government patronage, to venture upon the discussion of topics of this kind; yet we are not without hopes that the few questions put above will find an echo amongst the independent journals of the metropolis and provinces.

THE EARLIER PUBLICATION OF THE BANK RETURNS AT LAST CONCEDED.

WE hit the right nail on the head when we referred to the part which the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes take in the publication of the Bank of England Returns. On Monday last we received the following communication from the Board of Inland Revenue, which intimates that the Bank Returns are now to be published after business hours on Thursday afternoon, so that they will be in the possession of the public early on Friday morning. This involves a saving of exactly twenty-four hours, as compared with the practice hitherto pursued:—

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—The Governor and Company of the Bank of England transmit to this office, weekly, an account of their notes, bullion, &c., for the purpose of being published in the London Gazette, pursuant to the Act 7 and 8 Vic., cap. 32. Hitherto this account has been sent on Friday morning, and published in the Gazette of that day, but it has now been arranged that the Bank shall transmit such account in the afternoon of Thursday in each week not later than five o'clock. The Board direct me to acquaint you that they will permit the publishers of the several London newspapers to take a copy of this account, if they desire it, for the purpose of publishing the same in their papers of the following day. If, therefore, you will authorise any person from your office to attend here for the purpose, he will be allowed to take such copy.—I am, sir, your obedient servant,

Inland Revenue, Somerset-house, London, W.C.
8th June, 1861.

T. SARJANT.

By the commercial public this concession has, of course, been received with satisfaction. It is one that ought to have been made long ago. Why it has been withheld so long we confess we cannot understand. Valid reason for the delay there is absolutely none. The history of the agitation which, from first to last, it has been found necessary to organise, in order to bring the arrangements for the publication of the Returns to their present point, furnishes a remarkable illustration of the slow, jog-trot, care-for-nought manner in which nearly every branch of the public business of the country is conducted. For many years the Bank Returns, made up to Saturday, were not brought to the knowledge of the public until the Saturday following, thus involving a delay of a whole week. After long remonstrance on the part of the public, and long battling on that of the press, it was discovered by the slow-moving authorities to whom the management of these affairs is entrusted, that it was possible to have the Returns made up to Wednesday, and communicated to the public on the Saturday following. The agitation having been pushed to the proper point, this reform was conceded. As it has been found in practice to contain nothing of a revolutionary tendency, the sedate and highly conservative authorities have been induced to make one more halting step in advance, but not until the cry for it had become too loud to be prudently overlooked. Why, we ask, were not the arrangements connected with this matter placed years ago upon the footing which has now been found practicable and convenient? Why is it requisite for so much clamour to be raised before a single step in the direction of progress can be achieved? Why are all the departments connected in any way with public business always found in obstinate antagonism to amendment—fighting, at least, to adjourn it, if they cannot hope altogether to strangle it? Resistance and delay seem strangely to suit the official mind.

But we beg to observe thus early on behalf of the commercial public, that although the new arrangement is accepted with satisfaction, it is accepted merely as an instalment. If the Bank Returns can be published on Thursday afternoon, why are they withheld until after business hours? It certainly cannot be in the interest of any individual, or number of individuals. No one can have a vested interest in obtaining a priority of information as to the position of the Bank. It cannot make any difference to that establishment whether the Returns are published on Thursday directly the weekly Court of Directors breaks up, or after business hours. If the returns be of a character requiring any action to be taken on them, that action is taken on the Thursday morning. We consider that, directly the Court separates, the figures are the property of the public. They ought there and then to be publicly posted up, either in the Bank lobby or in the Hall, where there is a board for public announcements of various kinds. To withhold the figures until after business hours is a wanton trifling with the public—or worse. Let us not be told that the duty of publishing the Returns rests with the Commissioners of Stamps and Taxes; for although the Act says that the Bank shall transmit the figures to the Commissioners, and the Commissioners shall put them in the London Gazette, it does not say anywhere that the Bank may not publish the figures themselves if they please. The Commissioners, as we gather from the notice above given, will hold the Returns over until the Gazette of Friday evening, as usual, but they will permit the representatives of the press to take a copy of them on Thursday evening. Now why, in the name of common sense, are the City offices of the morning papers, in whose department the Bank Returns fall, to be compelled to follow the figures in their journey from the Bank to Somerset-house? Why—unless there be an idle desire to multiply impediments—may not a copy of the Returns be taken at the Bank itself? To continue the interrogatory, why may not the Bank do precisely what the Commissioners have now consented to do—namely, publish the Returns in advance of the "next publication of the London Gazette" mentioned in the Act? Again, is the Inland Revenue-office so badly paid or so indolent that it cannot send a messenger round to the newspaper offices with the Returns? or is the "Old Lady of Threadneedle-street" too poor or too infirm to perform a like useful office? The whole of the arrangements rest between the two of these parties.

To conclude, we strongly advise the public to simplify the discussion by requiring—and by letting the authorities know they require—the Returns to be posted up at the Bank and in the Stock Exchange on Thursday afternoon simultaneously with the breaking up of the Bank Court. This very simple arrangement would save a vast deal of heart-burning and future complaint. For our own part, we entertain far more radical notions, which we almost hesitate just at present to breathe in the ears of the authorities lest they should completely lose their equilibrium. We do not believe anything dreadful would happen were the figures relating to the Bank accounts to be published every evening, for the guidance of the commercial public. The Bank already communicate to the press, day by day, upon personal application, the figures relating to the movement of bullion, and if this can be done as regards one item of the Bank accounts, why not as regards all? Simultaneously with this alteration the Bank ought to abolish their moth-eaten practice of formally fixing their rate of discount once a-week? Why not let their rate be regulated day by day by the laws of supply and demand, as every other sensible banker does? But this is a topic which deserves discussion by itself. Meanwhile, we will congratulate the public upon the step which has been gained. One of its effects is, that the dealers in the foreign exchanges on Friday afternoon will have before them information of a kind which is really necessary for their guidance. Another is, that the movement for establishing a half or whole holiday on Saturday will be promoted. Finally, we would observe that the spectacle of the reforms which may be accomplished, even in the most obstinate quarters, when the advocacy of the press is backed up by the sense of the public, is calculated heartily to encourage journalists in what is often uphill work.

TURKISH FINANCE.

THE settlement of the Syrian question; the withdrawal of the French troops; the fact of an International Congress sitting at Constantinople, with the view of appeasing angry passions; the anxiety of England and France that Turkey, by lowering the duty on her exports, and by facilitating the transfer of land, should open up some of the finest cotton-growing districts in the world to European capital and enterprise; and, finally, the fact that England has despatched two Commissioners to assist in placing the finances of Turkey on a better footing—form considerations which are regarded with hope by all interested in the progress and securities of that Empire. The present may be a fit moment to bring under the notice of our readers the position of the Turkish foreign funded debt, and of the securities pledged for the payment of the interest and redemption of the capital.

The oldest portion of the foreign debt of Turkey is the £3,000,000 of Six per Cent. Stock, issued in 1854. As the interest and sinking fund (1 per cent.) on this Loan only amount to £210,000 per annum, whilst the Egyptian tribute, pledged for their payment, amounts to £282,000 (a tribute guaranteed under the Treaty of 1841, which is signed by all the powers of Europe), the holders of this Loan have a very fair ground for confidence, the more especially as the residue of the tribute is specially assigned to England and France, for the due payment of the principal and interest of the Loan of £5,000,000, guaranteed by those two Powers.

Since the issue of the £3,000,000 Turkish Loan of 1854, there has been punctually redeemed by the operation of the sinking fund—making a total of £180,000. Consequently, there now remains £2,820,000 of the £3,000,000 stock originally raised.

£30,000 on the 1st March, 1856	£30,000 on the 1st March, 1859
30,000 " " 1857	30,000 " " 1860
30,000 " " 1858	30,000 " " 1861

We next come to the Loan of £5,000,000, raised in 1855 under the guarantee of England and France. For the payment of interest and sinking fund of this Loan, amounting to £250,000 per annum, there are specially pledged the residue of the Egyptian tribute (£72,000), and the Customs duties of Smyrna and Syria, which have been farmed at £180,000 per annum. Of this Loan there has been redeemed—making a total of £300,000. Consequently there remains of this Loan £4,700,000 unredeemed.

£50,000 in 1856	£50,000 in 1859
50,000 in 1857	50,000 in 1860
50,000 in 1858	50,000 in 1861

In 1858 another Loan of £5,000,000, bearing 6 per cent. interest, was raised, for the payment of the interest and sinking fund of which the Customs duties and octroi of Constantinople, amounting, in 1857, to £600,000 per annum (but which, we understand, have since increased considerably), are specially pledged. Thus there is a revenue of, say, £600,000 or £700,000 pledged for the payment of £350,000, interest and sinking fund. Of this Loan about £130,000 has been redeemed.

According to the above statements, therefore, the foreign debt of Turkey (we do not include M. Mirès' loan, which was not subscribed for), is now, after deducting the amounts cancelled by the sinking fund, as follows:—

Loan of 1854	Interest per ann.	Security pledged to pay Interest.
£2,820,000	£169,200	Egyptian Tribute	£282,000
1855 4,700,000	188,000	Customs Duties of Syria & Smyrna	180,000
1858 4,900,000	294,000	Revenue of Constantinople	700,000
	£651,200		£1,162,000

Such being the facts and figures of the case, are the holders of Turkish Bonds to despair? We trow not—not even if the price put upon the Loan of 1858 by the market is as low as 50 per cent. discount. Only yesterday there was a sudden spring of 2 per cent. in the Bonds of 1858, in consequence of its being announced that a sum of £20,800 has reached the hands of the Ottoman Bank for the next dividend. The new arrangements are apparently beginning to operate, and Turkish Bondholders can well afford to await the upshot with patience.

THE POST-OFFICE SAVINGS BANKS—THE IRREGULARITY OF THE PRESENT SYSTEM.

ACCORDING to a return recently laid before Parliament, the money orders issued from the 1st January, 1841, to the 31st December, 1860, were 92,141,920 in number, and for sums which in the aggregate amounted to no less than £177,922,733. Of these orders there have been paid 92,008,305, representing a sum of £177,779,006. It would therefore appear that the sum unclaimed amounts to £143,727, represented by 133,615 orders. As upon no order is a less sum than 3d. paid, even at this minimum rate the Post-office—that is, the Government, have received a sum of £1,151,774 for the accommodation they have given to the public.

The whole amount of defalcations made by Postmasters during the period we have named amounts only to £5,392, and they have been made good from time to time out of the proceeds of unclaimed money orders.

We trust that the project for establishing Savings Banks through the medium of the Post-office will be attended with results equally profitable to the Government and advantageous to the country. That the measure may be an useful one, so far as it gives increased inducements to the industrious classes to save, no one can doubt. But we confess we have grave misgivings as to the expediency of the Executive Department of Government having anything whatever to do with the Savings Banks. It is evident that Government must be a great loser by these Savings Banks, and this simply because repayment, which involves realisation of securities, will always be most largely demanded by depositors at a time of national adversity. This is of course the time when the securities held will be at the lowest prices. And, on the other hand, deposits will flow in most rapidly for investment when times are most prosperous, and when the funds are the highest. The Government thus reverses the ordinary mercantile practice, for it buys in the dearest and sells in the cheapest market.

There is another reason why the public object to Government having sole control over the Savings Banks funds, and that is the power it gives the Chancellor of the Exchequer to be continually dabbling with Savings Banks money. As regards the year 1860 there is no official information as to whether any "savings" were going on; but we gather that during the year, Exchequer Bills were bought to the amount of £1,778,800, and Exchequer Bonds to the amount of £1,000,000. These securities together cost £2,791,306, so that the Exchequer Bills must have been purchased on an average at a small premium. How was this? Why were Exchequer Bills bought at a premium? With its fell intentions towards those unhappy securities, the present financial executive ought to have been the last to make such an operation. Here is a transaction to the extent of two millions and three-quarters sterling, of which the public, from whose pocket the money comes, know absolutely nothing. They do not know whether this sum represents the balance of lodgments over withdrawals, or, in other words, the balance of "savings;" they do not know whether all the lodgments were invested in Exchequer Bills and Bonds, and all the withdrawals provided for by means of sales of Savings Banks Stock in the Funds. They do not know what amount of loss has been made on these transactions. All they do know for a certainty is that, whatever may be the amount of the loss, every sixpence of it must be made good out of the public purse.

It is monstrous that a "hocus-pocus," by which the nation is always losing, should be incessantly going on between one department of Government and another. No Chancellor of the Exchequer, nor any of his subordinates, ought to have the power of thus playing with the public money to the tune of millions. The axe ought to be applied to the whole system. The Savings Banks money ought to be regarded as a sacred public trust, and strictly tied up far away from the reach of the Minister of Finance. The manner of its application ought to be rigorously defined by Act of Parliament. To leave that money under the complete control of a Chancellor of the Exchequer, who at some time or other is pretty sure to be embarrassed, is a system worthy of Turkey or of Russia. He must be strongly tempted under present circumstances to apply the Savings Banks money in such a way as to help him over the consequences of his mistakes and miscalculations. The sales of Savings Banks Three per Cent. Stock, which are now going on at a price below 90 is a very serious feature. We should like to know how much per cent. the State is losing on these transactions. Why do not Mr. Disraeli, Sir Henry Willoughby, and the other independent financiers in the House of Commons, put a few pertinent questions to Government?

THE CLOSING OF PUBLIC COMPANIES' TRANSFER BOOKS. THE EFFECT OF A GOOD EXAMPLE.

THE good example set by the Bank of England in curtailing the time for closing the books for the transfer of stock prior to the payment of dividends, will quickly be followed by other public companies. The London and Westminster Bank have already notified that they intend for the future to keep their books closed for only three days. The other Joint-Stock Banks, and all other Companies ought to vie with each other in alacrity in doing likewise. These are times when everything and everybody move quickly. Steam, railways, and the electric telegraph are driving delays out of fashion; and a swifter movement in one department of business involves a corresponding reform in others. Amongst other alterations the facility of exchanging from one description of security into another has become a positive necessity on the part of investors; and it behoves public companies to recognise this. Shareholders are becoming keenly alive to the importance of these facilities, and justly so, for their interests are very much involved. Everything which tends to render stock and share property more marketable and more convertible tends to increase its value, and is therefore to be encouraged. The action lately taken by the Bank of England has rendered the Funds and India Stock more marketable during certain periods of the year. Public Companies must not lag behind, or the Funds will obtain an advantage over their securities. What the Bank of England can do with regard to the eight hundred millions of capital of the National Debt, each public company can do with a little management, with regard to its own capital. Shareholders are looking to see which Companies will have the merit of moving first in the matter. We advise them not to let one of the coming meetings pass over without urging the point upon the attention of their respective Boards. Facility of transfer, combined with a ready market for any stock or share, causes it to be looked on with favour as a collateral security on which money may be advanced or borrowed, and there is no valid reason why shareholders should be deprived of this advantage during a considerable period of the year.

THE CONFEDERATE STATES AND THE SUPPLY OF COTTON.

THE Government of the Confederate States have just made a careful and elaborate estimate of the prospective production of cotton for the present year, with the view of providing in advance for the safe storage of the crop, and for completing the arrangements for the contemplated changes in the currency of the Confederate States. From a source of unquestionable reliability, we are enabled to say that this estimate places the production of the present year at seven-eighths of the production of last year; and, in the event of the protraction of the war, every bale of this quantity will, it is said, be kept under cover, in places secure from attack, until the communications on the Atlantic coast are again opened. In the report that a great deal of the cotton of the growth of the present year was torn up to make way for a greater breadth of corn and wheat there is substantially no truth, as the secession movement was on foot at a sufficiently early period to prevent the necessity of this. The planters, at the beginning of the year, employed their negroes in breaking up new land, and in sowing wheat and planting corn, and might easily have grown more cotton than they have done, but want of business energy unfortunately prevailed. They were more than satisfied with what they had done and with the prospects of the year, and the result is an increased breadth of wheat and corn for Southern wants, and an eighth less of cotton.

At the outset of the American difficulties this journal ventured to predict that the cotton crop, under any circumstances, would be safe. It was remarked that the cotton fields were far removed from the scene of any strife, that the plantations were wide apart, and that a servile war in the Cotton States, at least, could not possibly be brought about. The investigations just made by the Government of the Confederate States bear out in every particular the correctness of those views. The political troubles have not operated to impose any limit on the cotton production of the present year, and practically there will in all likelihood be no limit from this cause next year or the year after. No means that the Federal Government could take would secure the bringing together of great masses of the cotton negro population; and, ignorant as the cotton negroes are, nothing but absolute contact with the influences of civilisation in the Free or Border States is ever likely to shake their attachment in those to whom they unrighteously belong. We are convinced that upon the negroes the Confederate Government rests much more securely than upon the Northern element in the white population of the larger towns in the Gulf States.

Against the shipment of cotton by the Border Railways and the Upper Mississippi efficient measures have been taken by the Confederate Government. Not a single bale, it is believed, will find an outlet by either of these channels; and this course has been taken with the view of eventually leading France and England to take exception to the inefficiency of the Federal blockade. As is well known, the naval force at the disposal of the Federal Government is quite inadequate, and a good deal of stress is laid by the Southerners on what they call the usurpation of Mr. Lincoln. By the Constitution of the United States it rests with Congress alone to declare a blockade, to grant letters of marque, and to pronounce what is to be considered piracy at sea; and it is accordingly alleged that nothing done by Mr. Lincoln in contravention of the Constitution can be binding either on Americans or on neutral nations.

Meanwhile, our great manufacturing and shipping interests will watch with the closest attention these evidences of the present intention of the Government of the Confederate States to seal up the next crop of cotton away from the hands of European consumers. Nature will do her part, but man apparently contemplates imposing artificial restrictions. We have been in the habit of regarding the United States with great respect as the principal providers of the cotton whereby four millions of persons in this country subsist. Let us not forget that we must now transfer this feeling to the Southern section of the late Union. Our merchants and manufacturers will do well to cultivate their private means of communication and of intelligence with the Southern States, which are solely the cotton producers; for upon the action that may be taken by the new Confederate Government depends the question of the future cotton supply in default of the ability of the North to establish an efficient blockade, which alone could claim to be recognised, according to the law of nations. It is a great drawback at the present moment that nearly all the American intelligence that reaches Europe comes through the Northern States. Audi alteram partem is a motto which can never be safely disregarded where there is a desire to arrive at correct conclusions upon any point to which there are two parties.

To the currency and finance schemes of the Confederate States we shall return, these having an important bearing on our own money matters.

A GOOD INVESTMENT.

THE India Five per Cent. Stock has been a good deal depressed this week, in anticipation of the new issue; but, although a strong disposition has been evinced in certain quarters to keep the price down to the lowest possible point in order that the new loan may be taken "cheap," investments by the public have been steadily continued. We have a great suspicion that any investor who buys this stock for money below 99, will obtain a profit of 2 per cent. at no distant period.

THE GREAT WESTERN RAILWAY OF CANADA.— MR. LAING'S "REPLY."

TO THE EDITOR OF "THE MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—The "Reply" of Mr. Samuel Laing to the remarks affecting him in the "Report" of the Committee of Investigation, has appeared in the shape of a letter to a Calcutta newspaper, dated the 6th of April last, enclosing copy of a letter addressed by Mr. Laing to the Right Hon. Sir Charles Wood, Bart., M.P., dated the 4th of the same month.

The writer of the "Times" City Article has stated that the publication of this document has given general satisfaction, as showing that "the charges against Mr. Laing were not tenable;" and the Calcutta correspondent of the Times has gone a step further, and invoked the transfer of public indignation from Mr. Laing to the Committee of Investigation; and in so doing has given expression to sentiments which should have found an echo here, if Mr. Laing had been unfairly treated.

The Times has not published Mr. Laing's "Reply." I now venture to ask you, sir, in justice to the late Committee, and at the hazard of wearying both yourself and the public, to give insertion to the following remarks upon what has been called "Mr. Laing's complete exculpation."

Mr. Laing commences by expressing his "extreme surprise upon finding that the Committee should have alluded to him in their Report; and says they expressly promised, that if they intended to publish the evidence given by him when he attended the Committee, he should be allowed to read and correct it—that many weeks elapsed during which he never heard a word about the matter, and he therefore naturally concluded the matter was at an end as regarded himself, and this was the reason it never occurred to him to have any explanation when he quitted England."

Mr. Laing is here in error; and he ought to have correctly represented facts so recent, which are as follows. Here is a copy of the first communication made to Mr. Laing by Messrs. Coleman, Turquand and Co., on behalf of the Committee, under date, 19th October, 1860:—"As frequent allusion will have to be made in the Report to your name, and to the transactions with which you have been connected, we have to request, on behalf of the Committee of Investigation recently appointed by the shareholders of this Company, that you will be good enough to inform us whether you will meet them for the purpose of affording them explanations, and to ask you to favour us with an appointment."

After the 23rd of October—the day on which the evidence of Mr. Laing was taken—the accountants did unfortunately allow a few weeks to pass before they again communicated with Mr. Laing; but they did again write to him, informing him that his evidence was ready, and inviting him, in accordance with the arrangement made when his evidence was taken, to call at their offices and read it. Messrs. Coleman and Co. received an answer from Mr. Laing, now in their possession; in which Mr. Laing said "he was to sail for India the next day, that he had no time to go through any evidence as to the Great Western of Canada, even if his doing so would be of any use, which he could not conceive it to be, as he had given the Committee, some five or six weeks ago, all the information he possessed respecting matters which occurred so many years ago, and had in a great measure escaped his memory."

The contract to make the Hamilton and Toronto Railway, bears date the 30th November, 1852, and the prospectus the day following; it must therefore have been in the early part of "1852" when the promoters of the Company commenced proceedings to obtain powers to make the road. The late Mr. Peter Buchanan stated in his evidence that, "it was Mr. Laing who had got up this road." Mr. Laing now says it was in "1853," "when the Great Western Company was in a very critical position, the Grand Trunk Company's interest being all-powerful in the Canadian Legislature, and the Great Western Company very unpopular; that the possession of the line from Hamilton to Toronto was deemed by Sir Allen McNab, and others, of vital importance to the Great Western Company; that the Great Western Company would have had no chance of success in the Canadian Legislature had they been openly the promoters of the Hamilton and Toronto scheme; and that, therefore, Mr. Laing's coadjutors in Canada determined to apply for powers as for a separate and independent Company; having agreed and resolved from the outset that in the event of success the Hamilton and Toronto Railway should be made over to the Great Western Company at the earliest possible period; the application was successful and the Act obtained."

Now what does this opening statement of Mr. Laing amount to, but a confession that a scheme was deliberately planned and executed to deceive the Canadian Legislature and the Grand Trunk Company; that the result of the deception was, that the assent of the Canadian Legislature was obtained, and the Royal assent was obtained, to an Act authorising the making of the Railway?

The question would here naturally arise, how was it that Mr. Laing was, as he alleges, so eager to benefit the Great Western Company, and for that end to approve and confirm such proceedings, if he was "in no way officially connected with the Company?" Mr. Laing also states "it was the constant policy" of Sir Allan McNab and himself to establish amicable relations between the Great Western and the Grand Trunk Companies, and thus avoid ruinous competition." And he admits they commenced operations for arriving at so desirable an end, by deceiving the Grand Trunk Company. Mr. Laing's scheme was probably the commencement of competition, and the cause of much that has since ensued with such disastrous effects.

Mr. Laing next asserts, and attempts to prove, that the partnership between himself and Mr. Wythes did not commence when the contract was entered into on the 30th Nov., 1852, but on the 9th July, 1853, "until which time, he says, he had no concern with the contract, and looked to being paid for his trouble and risk by some commission;" and he produces the following remarkable document to support that position. Here is a copy of the "Articles of Partnership" and "Deed of Dissolution," both on one piece of paper:—

"To Samuel Laing, Esq., M.P.

"London, 9th July, 1853.

"Dear Sir,—We are jointly interested in the Hamilton and Toronto contract, and share equally in all profit or loss resulting therefrom.

"I am, dear sir, yours very faithfully,

"GEO. WYTHES."

[Cancelled on becoming a Director.]

As additional proof that the partnership only commenced from the 9th July, 1853, Mr. Laing produces copy of a letter he wrote to the late Mr. Peter Buchanan, the London agent of the Hamilton and Toronto Company, declining to accept the office of Director; such letter being actually dated the 9th of July, 1853, the day he says the partnership was entered into. But this letter clearly proves that the partnership had existed from the time of Mr. Wythes becoming the contractor; witness the following extract:—

"I was obliged, in order to inspire Mr. Wythes, who had no previous experience in America, with sufficient confidence, by coming forward at the critical period when the co-operation of a well-known English contractor was essential for the success of the undertaking, to enter into engagements with him, &c."

Mr. Laing, in his evidence before the Committee, volunteered the statement, at the outset, "that Mr. Wythes agreed to take the contract provided he, Mr. Laing, took a share of the risk; that he did agree to take either a third or a fourth share of the profit or loss, and that it was done openly, not only with the knowledge of the Great Western Directors, but at their request. Mr. Laing also stated there was no written agreement between himself and Mr. Wythes."

That the partnership did commence from the date of the contract in Nov., 1852, cannot for a moment be doubted, after perusal of the following statement contained in a letter addressed by Mr. Wythes to the Directors, under date 12th March, 1861, and published by them in their "Reply" to the Report of the Committee:—"I was applied to to become the contractor for the construction of the Hamilton and Toronto Railway. Having had no experience at that time in the construction of railroads in America, I was not inclined to undertake the work. It was, however, much pressed upon me by various parties, and amongst others by Mr. Laing. At last I agreed to undertake it provided the parties promoting the line would show their confidence in the line and in their own estimates for its construction by taking some share of the risk. It was agreed that Mr. Laing should do so, and should become liable for one-third of any loss I might sustain." As regards the partnership agreement Mr. Wythes adds, "there was nothing but an honourable understanding in the matter."

Notwithstanding these statements, a written agreement is now produced by Mr. Laing, signed by Mr. Wythes, dated the 9th July, 1853, which states that Mr. Laing's share was one-half; and Mr. Laing now alleges that the date of that agreement, being seven months after Mr. Wythes had been "inspired with sufficient confidence, and had come forward"—was the time when the partnership commenced.

Mr. Laing also states in his "Reply," that before the publication of the prospectus he performed so important an act of partnership as that of subscribing jointly with Mr. Wythes for the whole of the shares—8,000 in number. Mr. Wythes' contract provided that the Contractor should subscribe for all shares not taken up by the public either in England or in Canada.

Mr. Laing's object, in attempting to prove that the partnership only commenced on the 9th July, 1853, is patent. He says he had on that day become released from the office of Provisional Director and Trustee for the shareholders, and was therefore free to enter into the partnership. But Mr. Laing was not free; and even if he could establish all he is thus seeking to prove, it would avail him nothing. He still remained in a position of trust, which rendered it impossible for him with propriety to become a partner in the contract; for in the contract itself he was named as one of three referees to decide between the Contractor and the Company, whether or no any and what reduction should be made from the contract price of £328,000—a trust the importance of which will appear hereafter. One other fact may be mentioned, showing the continuance of Mr. Laing's trust, and the utter impossibility of his being able to support the statement in his "Reply." After the 9th July, 1853, Mr. Laing and Mr. P. Buchanan signed cheques on the bankers of the Company to the amount of £123,220. The last cheque is dated the 8th of June, 1854.

Mr. Laing says, "that after the contract had been made with Wythes the prospectus was issued, and the public subscribed pretty freely and the shares were at a premium of £1 or £1. 10s." That he and Wythes allotted them at par, Mr. Laing "retaining for himself four hundred or five hundred shares." Mr. Laing proceeds, "On the 9th of July, 1853, the whole affair as regards the Hamilton and Toronto shareholders was thus concluded." "The Great Western Company had taken over the line and contract as originally proposed by Sir Allan McNab and their Board, and the Hamilton and Toronto shareholders were put in the same position as Great Western shareholders, with no further risk or liability." "In the meantime Mr. Wythes had got nervous about his contract, and urged me as I had drawn him into it, to take a share of profit or loss with him, rather than any fixed commission. I agreed to do so at a date which I can fortunately identify, for I have found a copy of a letter, which I wrote on the same day that I made the arrangement, to Mr. Peter Buchanan, as agent for the company, for the purpose of forwarding to the Directors."

Mr. Laing adds, "This makes two things clear, that all separate trust for the Hamilton and Toronto shareholders was finally terminated before I agreed to take a share in the contract; secondly, that there was no idea at the time of there being anything to conceal, and I took the straightforward course of letting the Directors, who were the same or nearly so, in both companies, know exactly how I stood."—Nearly the whole of this statement is erroneous.—The date of the partnership has already been dealt with, and the object of the letter Mr. Laing wrote to Mr. P. Buchanan on the 9th of July, 1853, was to decline to act as a Director in a Company whose line and contract Mr. Laing now says had then been taken over by the Great Western Company. But the Hamilton and Toronto Railway was not then taken over by the Great Western Company; even the lease which the English shareholders had authorised in May, 1853, appears to have stood over till 1854, the agreement being dated March, 1854, into which agreement, as intimated in the Committee's report, an unauthorised clause was introduced, to the effect that the two companies should become amalgamated as soon as the Great Western Company had paid a six per cent. dividend for three consecutive years; and it was upwards of two years after the 9th of July, 1853, before the line was taken over (and then under protest) by the Great Western Company, as the following extracts from a letter dated London, the 8th of November, 1855, addressed by Mr. Peter Buchanan, the Agent, to Mr. R. W. Harris, "President of the Hamilton and Toronto Company," will sufficiently prove:—

"It is with much satisfaction I have now the pleasure to inform you that an amicable adjustment of the differences arising out of the contract with Mr. George Wythes for the making of the Hamilton and Toronto Railway, has been come to between the Contractor and the Directors of the Great Western Company, by which the former binds himself to hand over the line in a complete state forthwith, with the exception of the works, &c., undertaken by the Great Western Company, and the Directors on their part substantially adopt the lease and all the engagements of the Hamilton and Toronto Company as they stand now, or, rather, when the works are handed over by Mr. George Wythes' Agent.

"After the railway is delivered up, the only other point which remains to be accomplished is an immediate amalgamation between the two Companies; and I would direct the earnest attention of your Board to the consideration of the least objectionable and speediest manner by which this can be consummated. It is the opinion here that public meetings will have to be called in England to obtain the sanction of the requisite number of the proprietors. It is not expected there will be any difficulty on the part of the Great Western shareholders, but a different feeling prevails among the Hamilton and Toronto shareholders, many of whom were under the impression, until lately, that they had a perpetual guarantee from the Great Western Railway Company. My own opinion is that a strong opposition would be manifested at the Hamilton and Toronto meeting, which would probably be a stormy one, but, notwithstanding which, we could carry the amalgamation.

"I shall be glad to be informed whether any information is to be given by circular or otherwise to the Hamilton and Toronto shareholders, prior to the meeting, and what representations I am to make on the questions of the guarantee and amalgamation."

These extracts also show the extreme satisfaction with which the Hamilton and Toronto Company's Agent, who was also a Trustee, reported to the President the fact that the Hamilton and Toronto Directors had been relieved from all responsibility; especially as regarded the claims set up by the Contractor over and above the £328,000, which sum by the terms of the "Prospectus" was not in any event to be exceeded, but might be reduced.

The fact stated by Mr. Laing, "that the Directors of the two Companies were the same or nearly the same persons," merely calls for this remark—That these gentlemen in resolving that the Great Western Company should not only confirm the agreement entered into between the two Companies, and take the Hamilton and Toronto line for the fixed price of £328,000, but should in addition settle Mr. Wythes' claim upon the latter Company and complete the works, and thus incur a large additional outlay, were making a bargain by which as Great Western Directors they would only suffer in common with all the other shareholders in that Company; but, as Hamilton and Toronto Directors, would thereby obtain a release from a personal responsibility arising out of the nature of the contract they had made with their shareholders when the capital was raised.

The other assertion of Mr. Laing, that he let all the Directors know exactly how he stood is not supported.

Mr. J. B. Smith, M.P., who was a colleague of Mr. Laing, and succeeded him as Chairman of the Great Western Company, distinctly stated to the Committee that "it was reported Mr. Laing was a partner with Wythes, but that Mr. Laing always denied that he was a partner with Wythes."

Mr. Baker, the Secretary, also informed the Committee that he "did not know of the partnership."

Mr. Laing disqualified in March, 1855, by selling the shares, thirty in number, he then held. No Director was elected in his place until August, 1855, nearly five months after. In August, 1855, Mr. A. Beattie was appointed a Director, and he took an active part in the settlement with Mr. Wythes. He attended the meeting of shareholders in the Great Western of Canada Railway held on the 11th April, 1861, and the following is an extract from his speech on that occasion, which I have copied from the transcript of the short-hand writer's notes:—

"I do not know that Mr. Laing was a partner with Mr. Wythes to this hour; I have no evidence of this fact; I have heard the rumour; I have heard it rumoured by those associated with me. But, gentlemen, that rumour was quite enough to prevent me from allowing Mr. Laing coming to the Board-table where I sat, and to have advocated Mr. Wythes' claims as such."

Mr. Isaac Buchanan gave evidence in Canada. He was asked this question: "I suppose that you gathered from the copy of Mr. Laing's letter of the 9th July, 1853, that Mr. Laing was a partner with Mr. Wythes?" He answered: "We knew after we had received that letter he was connected with Wythes. An interest was originally offered to us, but we positively refused it. I supposed that Mr. Laing had taken our course, but the receipt of this letter convinced me of the contrary. I at once said I could not be a director and a partner at the same time, and I told Mr. Harris there was a clause in our partnership deed against it, and that I should insist upon its being enforced. Had we all agreed to the proposition then we should have had nothing to do with the directorship. It was a mere proposition, and I was not aware that Mr. Laing had anything to do with it, and should not have known it but for that letter. We quarrelled with Mr. Laing and put him out, because he tried to put Mr. Brydges out. I know nothing of any arrangement as to his connection with the road."

The late Mr. Peter Buchanan was also examined in Canada. The following is extracted from his evidence:—

"There was a gentleman present at the meeting of the 19th October, 1853, in London, Mr. Samuel Laing.—Do you know whether he was a partner with Mr. Wythes?—I do not know; it has been said so latterly.

"Was it your impression that Mr. Laing was a partner with Mr. Wythes?—I do not think it would be right to give what were mere impressions.

"You know, beyond doubt, that Mr. Laing was connected with Mr. Wythes. I place in your hands copy of a letter, addressed to yourself by Mr. S. Laing, of 9th July, 1853. Is the outside address, 'Isaac Buchanan, Esq., Hamilton, Canada, West,' in your handwriting?—It is my handwriting.

"Judging from that letter and from your own knowledge, do you believe that Mr. Laing was a partner with Mr. Wythes?—I must decline answering that question.

"Did Mr. Wythes make a proposition to yourself and your brother to join him in the contract?—The proposition was not made by Mr. Wythes.

"Will you inform me by whom it was made?—No! but I will at once state that it was repudiated by us.

"Are you then prepared to say it was not your impression that Mr. Laing had a share or interest with Mr. Wythes in the contract; and as to why you introduced him, he not being a director, to the meeting of the 19th October, 1853?—It was Mr. Laing who had got up this road, and had taken a general interest in our lines, and as such I introduced him.

"Do you yet admit that Mr. Laing was connected with Mr. Wythes in the contract?—I shall decline stating any mere impression with respect to Mr. Laing.

"Do you know, taking that letter of yours as a guide, together with confirmatory evidence, if Mr. Laing was a partner with Mr. Wythes?—I do not like to answer that question as to Mr. Laing."

Mr. Laing next says, "The English Directors after I had finally left the Board, and knew nothing of what was going on, preferred settling with Mr. Wythes by a compromise, &c.," "that owing to the enormous rise in the price of labour and materials in Canada, I have little doubt that Mr. Wythes' statement is correct, and that he has been a loser by the contract. Knowing this, I have always felt myself bound to bear testimony to the circumstances under which he took the contract, and to urge that he should be dealt with fairly, and no undue advantage taken, but I appeal confidently to my colleagues, Mr. Gill and Mr. J. B. Smith, M.P., whether I ever exerted any undue influence to procure a favourable settlement for Mr. Wythes; whether I did not at the outset tell them of the exact position in which I stood, and whether I had not finally resigned my seat at the Board for some time before any settlement was made."

Mr. Laing here confesses that he always advocated Mr. Wythes' claims, and this confession is the only portion of the foregoing statement which appears to be strictly correct, and supported by other evidence. His appeal to Mr. J. B. Smith will be dealt with in the sequel. With regard to his allegation, that he "resigned his seat at the Board," it appears that although Mr. Laing lost his seat, as already stated, by disqualifying, on the 24th March, 1855, he sat at the Board on 14th May following, his name being entered on the minutes as a Director and the attendance fee was paid to Mr. Laing for that day. Twice again in the month of July Mr. Laing "attended" the Board meetings; his latest attendance being the 24th of that month, when Mr. Wythes also attended the Board with respect to the matters at issue; and after discussion of the various points the decision of the Board was deferred. It is stated in the minutes that on the 6th August, 1855, Mr. Beattie was elected a director in "lieu of Mr. Laing who had disqualified."

Mr. Isaac Buchanan says in his evidence Mr. Laing was turned out, Mr. Buchanan and his friends "having put Mr. Laing out, because Mr. Laing tried to put Mr. Brydges out."

Mr. Brydges was at the time opposing Mr. Laing's attempts to get a favourable settlement for Wythes, as will appear hereafter from his letter to Mr. Smith, and extracts from his evidence.

Mr. Laing's allegation, that the great rise in prices took place after Wythes had entered into his contract, is not altogether true. A great rise had taken place before the contract was entered into; and it was in consequence of the rise that so high a price as £8,000 per mile was specified in the contract as the maximum price. Mr. Laing, in his evidence, admits that only the year before he had addressed a meeting at Manchester, called for the purpose of inducing the public to subscribe to Canadian railway schemes; and in his speech Mr. Laing said:—"This, then, reduces the question mainly to one of confidence in the estimates of construction, and on this point I confess I felt great doubts until I had satisfied myself by inquiry. The naked proposition, that a great line of railway could be completed under £5,000 per mile, appears startling to those who judge of railways from English experience."

But let Mr. Wythes' contract speak for itself. Here is an extract from the contract dated 30th November, 1852:—"And whereas it has been deemed absolutely necessary by the said Peter Buchanan, Samuel Laing, and John Masterman the younger, to obtain a fixed maximum sum for the entire cost of the undertaking, without waiting for the preparation of detailed plans and estimates, and in order to guard against the extraordinary advance which has lately taken place in the price of iron and materials, and being desirous to take advantage of the present favourable state of the money market in order to obtain subscriptions in England for the amount of capital proposed to be raised there for the completion of the railway and works, and which they considered it would be hopeless to expect without the guarantee afforded by entering into a contract with an English contractor of established reputation and skill for a fixed sum," &c.; and then comes the provision for the reduction of the contract price in the event of its being found that such price gave Wythes more than a fair profit, and Mr. Laing is named in the contract as one of three referees "to determine what (if any) reduced sum shall be received by the said George Wythes in lieu of the said sum of £328,000. And it is hereby mutually agreed that the decision of such three parties, or the survivors or survivor of them, shall be binding and conclusive upon all parties hereto, and also upon the Hamilton and Toronto Railway Company."

It appears that a further rise took place in prices in Canada; but from the evidence of one of Mr. Wythes' sub-contractors, who built nearly half the line, it is clear that Mr. Wythes did not bear the whole of the weight of such rise, and from a speech made by Mr. Laing in May, 1853, it also appears that he was then aware that several of the sub-contracts had been taken. Mr. Laing appeals to Mr. J. B. Smith, M.P., to clear him of all imputation of having acted improperly, and to support his assertion "that he never exerted any undue influence to procure a favourable settlement for Wythes; and in his letter to the Calcutta newspaper he says he has received a letter from Sir Charles Wood, in which Sir Charles says:—"Since I wrote you, I have seen Mr. J. B. Smith, Mr. Beattie, and Mr. Isaac Buchanan. They all concur in statements which completely exonerate you from anything which could be objected to by anybody as to the matters which were questioned as to the Hamilton and Toronto Railway."

Now, Mr. J. B. Smith, M.P., was, I admit, in a position which enabled him to judge of Mr. Laing's conduct, having been a colleague of Mr. Laing in the direction of the Great Western Company, and, for some time, chairman. It fortunately happens that Mr. J. B. Smith is not dependent on his memory in this matter, he having deliberately placed his opinion upon record at the time of the transactions. The following is a copy of a letter addressed by him to Mr. Brydges, the managing director in Canada:—

"London, August 9, 1855.

"Dear Sir,—I go to-day to join my family in Derbyshire, and have only time to say that Mr. Wythes declines to come to any arrangement respecting the Hamilton and Toronto line, and decides to leave the matters in dispute to the arbitration of Mr. R. Stephenson, in pursuance of the agreement.

"The subjects to be arbitrated, as far as I can learn, are the Des Jardin's Viaduct, a claim for one-half the land on the whole line, the agreement being only for a single line—declining to find land for stations. I have no doubt he will set up many more claims, having heard that he intends to claim about £18,000 for interest during the time of construction, which he says was limited to two years, and the delay has been occasioned by the acts of the Company. Mr. Laing, it appears to me, has acted most improperly; he is a partner with Wythes in this contract, and has at the same time been sitting at our Board as a director, and recommending concessions to Wythes' claims. Of course, this will no longer be allowed.

"Mr. Laing told Mr. Gill on Monday that Wythes was willing to cancel the sale of his 1,000 tons of iron to us, and take it all back. I hope there is none of it used, and, if so, do not use a single pound of it. We have always told Wythes that we could not sanction this arrangement for the iron.

"You must send us your case on all these points to be laid before Mr. Stephenson. I had understood, that so far as the land goes, that you and Mr. Street (Wythes' agent) had long ago agreed upon 80 feet width, but it seems Mr. Wythes—and for Mr. Wythes always read Mr. Laing—will not confirm this.

"I shall have an opportunity in a few days of seeing Mr. Longden, and will write you more fully by next packet.

"The Buffalo and Brantford are getting up a Company to take their line, guaranteeing them £30,000 a-year, and ultimately £40,000 a-year, they propose to raise £400,000 by new shares to finish the line. Query—Is this enough?

"C. J. Brydges, Esq." "Yours truly," "J. B. SMITH."

That Mr. J. B. Smith did not stand alone in the estimate he had formed of Mr. Laing is shown by the following extracts from Mr. Brydges' reply to Mr. Smith:—"I recommend you strongly to repudiate everything but the contract made in the first instance—none other has been signed, because Wythes wished to introduce stipulations to which we would not agree; and, therefore, the first agreement is the only one which can bind either party. Under it I feel persuaded that Wythes can be forced to complete the line to Toronto, and to do several other things which Mr. Laing tried to get the London office to waive."

Mr. Brydges was also examined in Canada. The following is extracted from his evidence:—

"Mr. Mackenzie Shaw, brother-in-law of Mr. Samuel Laing, made the earliest survey of the Hamilton and Toronto Line, having been sent out by the promoters. —Mr. Samuel Laing, Mr. Peter Buchanan, and Mr. Masterman, Junr., were the projectors of the company.

"Do you know the nature of the engagements entered into by Mr. Samuel Laing with Mr. Wythes, the contractor for the Hamilton and Toronto Line?—I have no absolute knowledge.

"Risks without participation in profits?—I believe a certain amount of profit, but I have no absolute knowledge.

"How long was Mr. Laing a Director of the Great Western Company, and Chairman?—He acted upon the Committee from the origin of the Company; became a Director 7th of November, 1854.—It is stated in the English minutes that on the 6th of August, 1855, Mr. Beattie was elected a Director in lieu of Mr. Laing who had disqualified.

"What is your opinion of the effect of his engagements upon settlement with Wythes?—Not favourable to the Company.

"Did you consider yourself more free to express your views under such circumstances than otherwise?—No; I felt in a very awkward position with Mr. Laing in this affair, he being Chairman of the Great Western Company. Indeed, I believe he at one time threatened to turn me out of office on account of the opinions I held.

"Did Mr. Laing himself take any part in bringing about a settlement with Wythes?—He did. I call your attention to the minute of meeting already referred to, held in London 19th of October, 1853, for the purpose of settling the contracts, in which Mr. Laing's name is not included as a Director, but appears in juxtaposition with Mr. Wythes, the Contractor.

"You have now produced the letters of Mr. J. B. Smith, dated the 9th and 15th August, 1855, and extracts of your reply of 1st September, 1855. In that reply of the 1st September, you strongly oppose giving way to the claims of Mr. Wythes, and I must repeat the question:—How do you account for the difference between your letter of the 1st September and that dated the 15th September, addressed to Mr. Smith on the same subject?—I have already explained it was in consequence of pressure brought to bear upon me by the Buchanans. Mr. Peter Buchanan had written to his brother that Mr. Smith had written to me his letter of the 15th August. Mr. Isaac Buchanan gave me the paper I now produce in his handwriting, being suggestions as to the letter it was wished I should write in reply to the one from Mr. Smith."

The claims of Mr. Wythes as gathered from a memorandum in the handwriting of Mr. Beattie, and from the secretary's papers, amounted to £85,000, which included the remarkable item of £60,000 for "superiority of works" "estimated at 20 per cent." the 20 per cent. being calculated not only upon the works executed by Mr. Wythes, but on the entire cost of the line, exclusive of rolling stock, viz., £300,000, including of course the cost of rails and all materials.

In his recent letter to the Directors Mr. Wythes states that the extra sum of £20,000 received by him was in part for "superior works required by Mr. Brydges." But Mr. Brydges in his evidence asserts that he never gave instructions for "superior works." As regards Mr. Wythes' claim for land purchased for a double instead of a single line, Mr. Brydges says that land was not ordered as for a double line, and does not admit that it has been purchased. Another claim of Mr. Wythes was for "additional interest paid by him to shareholders." The contract provided for the opening of the line in July, 1854; the time was extended, at the contractor's request, to December of that year, and had Mr. Wythes completed the line at the latter date no "additional interest" would have been payable to shareholders; but the line was not opened till December, 1855, a delay for which, according to the evidence both of Mr. Brydges and the Company's Engineer, the Contractor was alone responsible. One other claim is mentioned by Mr. Wythes in his letter to the Directors as having been included in the £20,000, viz., "cost of changes made under the contract." No allusion is made to this claim in Mr. Beattie's memorandum or the secretary's papers connected with the settlement; and Mr. Brydges, in one of his letters addressed to the secretary in London, states that "many alterations have been made to decrease the cost of construction as would have resulted from Mr. Benedict's plan."

Notwithstanding the above and other evidence which could be adduced, as well as the clear statements contained in the contract and prospectus, a settlement was made with Mr. Wythes by the Directors of the Great Western Company in November, 1855, allowing him £20,000, which sum was afterwards increased until the allowances, including various counter-claims which the Company had against Mr. Wythes for the cost of completing the line and for other matters which were abandoned, finally amounted to about £40,000.

I may here remark that there are two other matters reported upon by the Committee, in which Mr. Laing was concerned. The "Corresponding Committee," of whom Mr. Laing was one, although their trust was ultimately cancelled, and the shares forfeited or "resumed by the Company," divided amongst themselves about £25,000, and some time after £8,000 sterling in shares of the revived Company were handed to Mr. Laing and Mr. John Masterman, Junr., for the Corresponding Committee, "in consideration of their active co-operation and assistance in disposing of the stock and bonds of the Company." Mr. Laing, in his "evidence," does not deny that he received his share of the former amount, being £1,950, and that he also received 100 shares of the other amount, being £2,050. In his "Reply" Mr. Laing makes no allusion to these transactions.

The extreme length of this letter forbids me to attempt a general summing up; but in concluding I must remark upon Mr. Laing's appeal to Mr. J. B. Smith, M.P.

The question, as it appears to me, is not whether Mr. J. B. Smith is, or is not, a witness worthy of credit? The question is, which of Mr. Smith's statements is true? The statements he made in 1855, or the statements made by him to Sir Charles Wood, and in his letter to the Directors in 1861. Now, the statement of 1855 was made at the time the transactions took place, after some of Wythes' claims had been under the consideration of the Great Western Directors; and when Mr. Smith evinced considerable anxiety to protect the shareholders—while on the other hand, the statements of 1861 are made long after Mr. Smith had been induced to become, or had been deluded into becoming, a party to a settlement with Mr. Wythes, by which the shareholders were improperly saddled with a heavy loss, Mr. Wythes not being fairly entitled to any sum beyond the contract price; and even if any extra amount could have been substantiated, it was, according to another letter addressed by Mr. J. B. Smith to Mr. Brydges, a claim upon the Hamilton and Toronto Directors, and not upon the Great Western shareholders, the latter Company not having originally been parties in any shape to the contract with Wythes, which was a matter between him and the Hamilton and Toronto Directors, who again had contracted with the Great Western Company to hand over their line for the fixed sum of £328,000.

Mr. J. B. Smith's statement in 1855 bears upon its face evident marks of truthfulness, whilst on the contrary the letter addressed by him in 1861 to the Directors of the Great Western Railway Company, contains many inconsistent and erroneous statements; for example:—

Referring to his evidence before the Committee, Mr. Smith says, "Had I also been informed of the presence of a shorthand-writer, my evidence would have been of a less desultory character than it was." Mr. Smith was asked 214 questions; the following is his answer to the 57th question as taken by the shorthand-writer:—"Mr. Laing left the Direction because [Mr. Smith here abruptly stopped and inquired of the shorthand-writer whether he was taking down what he was then saying, and upon receiving an answer in the affirmative, added, 'then I shall not say what I was going to say.'"]

In the same letter Mr. Smith also says that "Mr. Wythes did deliver a written statement of his claims amounting to £85,000." The accountants could find no such statement made up by Mr. Wythes, and the secretary admits that Mr. Wythes never delivered a written statement of his claims.

Mr. Smith, in his letter of 1861, further states, "Mr. Laing acknowledged that he had formerly had an interest in the contract, but that it had ceased." In his evidence he assured the Committee that Mr. Laing "always denied that he was a partner with Wythes."

On being pressed for further explanations with regard to the principles on which the settlement was made with Mr. Wythes, Mr. Smith replied, "They are completely discharged from my mind. There is nothing but the papers, and the papers speak for themselves. My letters speak for themselves."

I therefore repeat—Mr. J. B. Smith's written statement in 1855 bears upon its face evident marks of truthfulness, and taken in conjunction with the other evidence here detailed, does it not justify the remarks of the Committee upon Mr. Laing's proceedings, and their recommendation that the matter should be further inquired into for the purpose of ascertaining whether or no Mr. Wythes, or Mr. Laing and Mr. Wythes, are bound to refund the large sum which the line has cost in excess of the "fixed maximum price."—I am, sir, your obedient servant,
London, 4th June, 1861. H. H. CANNAN.

On the 7th inst. the committee on the London, Chatham, and Dover Railway passed that company's Bill for their proposed new lines.

THE CENSUS.—The first general results of the Census of England and Wales show that the increase of the population during the last ten years is 2,169,575. In no former decennial period has so great an absolute addition to the population been made; but owing to emigration, the rate of the increase is lower than it has been. The population of England and Wales, and the islands in the British seas, is now 20,205,504.

The above return, compared with that for the previous week, shows the following changes:—

Notes in Reserve .. .. .	6,241,140	.. Increase	561,400
Total Reserve (Notes and Coin) in Banking Department .. .. .	7,142,814	.. Increase	592,692

These changes are of a satisfactory character. The increase in the reserve represents the sum total of the addition to the deposits. The drain of gold to America has not prevented an increase in the bullion.

THE MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 14.

THE discount market this week has been rather tight. The chief effect seems to be produced by the advanced period of the quarter, which, as will be seen by the Bank Return given above, has been attended with a decrease in the amount of the active circulation. Until the 4th of July is turned, the market will probably continue tight, and the prospect of large applications to the Bank quite precludes any expectation of the rate going below 6 per cent. After that date, however, more ease may be experienced. In Lombard-street to-day 6 per cent. was asked for the best bills. At the Bank the demand was to a fair extent.

In the Stock Exchange throughout the week, owing partly to the sales of Savings Banks Stock on Government account, money has been in active demand and dear. The rate for loans on Government securities to-day was 6 per cent. and upwards, and some considerable amounts were borrowed from the Bank.

About £76,000 in gold, mostly Australian, was purchased by the Bank yesterday, and a like sum to-day, while 30,000 sovereigns were withdrawn yesterday for America. The arrival has been announced of the Yorkshire, from Melbourne, with 38,626 ounces of gold, worth £154,500.

The amount of specie sent to America since we last wrote is £299,485, besides £32,000 to Quebec, viz.:—By the Africa, £65,115; Kangaroo, £225,982; Bremen, £8,388; and by the Anglo-Saxon (to Quebec) £32,000. The total sent to the States since November 28 is £6,926,000. The Europa, to-morrow, being for Boston, is not expected to take much specie.

The mail from Australia reports the departure for England of the Agincourt with 19,882 oz. of gold, the Norfolk with 58,785 oz., and the Donald McKay with 50,008 oz., making together 128,675 oz., worth £515,000. The Marco Polo, Boreas, and Themis, with £162,000, announced by the previous mail, are also at sea, making the total on the way hither £677,000.

The Delta took on the 12th inst. £122,435, of which £96,970 was silver, and £16,879 gold, for Bombay, and £8,586 gold for Alexandria; £49,970 of the silver was on Government account.

THE BULLION MARKET.

With reference to the movements in bullion and in the Indian Government paper, Messrs. Pixley, Abell, and Langley report as follows:—

GOLD.—The following vessels have arrived from Melbourne:—The Peru, with £58,000; the Prince of Wales, with £89,000; and the Yorkshire, with £154,500. As there is still but little demand for bar gold for export, the greater part of these amounts will be sent into the Bank. Some large sums of gold coin have been received from the Continent, and the importation is likely to continue on a considerable scale, the exchange being favourable. Since our last Circular, £153,000 has been purchased by the Bank; and a considerable amount of sovereigns has been withdrawn for America, the Africa having taken £65,115, the Kangaroo £225,982, and the Bremen £6,500, for New York; making a total of £6,925,482 since November last year.

SILVER.—The Atrato has brought £91,000 from the West Indies. The market is, however, very quiet, at our last quotations of 5s. 0½d. per oz. standard, and unless the Calcutta and China letters, deliverable on the 14th inst., should bring rather large orders, we do not think this price can be maintained.

MEXICAN DOLLARS.—Dollars are quiet at the last price mentioned by us, 4s. 11d. per oz.; nor do we look for any recovery from this price, the China exchanges showing a fall of about 1 per cent.

EXCHANGE on India remains at 1s. 11½d. to 2s. for Bank's Drafts at 60 days' sight on Bombay and Calcutta, Madras, 1s. 11½d. to 2s. Bills with Documents, Bombay, and Calcutta, 1s. 11½d. to 1s. 11¾d.

INDIA GOVERNMENT LOAN NOTES remains without change since our last Circular of the 6th instant. Five-and-a-half per Cents. being 99½ to 100½, and Five per Cents. 93½ to 94½. The market is very quiet, but should the last rise in India prove permanent, it is not unlikely these securities may be taken as a means of remittance.

The report of Messrs. Haggard and Co., dated this day, observes:—

Since our last the market has been dull, and prices have again been rather weaker. Shipments of sovereigns to America still continue on a large scale, sterling exchange at New York being still very unfavourable. On the other hand all the Australian and Continental Gold is likely to be sent to the Bank after being refined. The amount of gold bought by the Bank is £154,000, and as the rate of discount here is very high, compared with continental rates, we may expect considerable amounts of specie from the continent, which, with the Australian arrivals, will be more than sufficient to meet the demand for gold to America. To the surprise of many, the Bank of England Return just published shows an increase in the bullion of 71,000. Bar silver is excessively dull, and in the absence of demand for the East, the price has again receded, being now quoted 5s. 0½d.; at this price, however, there are but few sellers; the bars by the Atrato are not yet sold. Mexican dollars are without demand, but owing to the limited supply on the market, they show rather an upward tendency.

THE EXCHANGES.

The Continental Exchanges this week have been generally firm. Their range is sufficiently high to attract a considerable amount of bullion from the Continent. Subjoined is our usual list:—

Amsterdam.....	3 M. D.	12 ½	12 1	Madrid .....	3 M. D.	48 ½	48 ½

THE BANK OF FRANCE.

The monthly return of the Bank of France, as made up to Thursday, the 13th of June, shows the following results (the exchange taken at 25f. to the pound):—

Coin and Bullion .. .. .	.. Increase	.. £800,000
Bills Discounted .. .. .	.. Decrease	.. 20,000
Notes in Circulation .. .. .	.. Decrease	.. 1,240,000
Private Deposits .. .. .	.. Increase	.. 1,240,000
Treasury Deposits .. .. .	.. Increase	.. 160,000
Advances on Public Securities ..	.. Decrease	.. 220,000

The Bank is in a stronger position, inasmuch as it has a considerably smaller amount of notes to meet, and has more bullion to meet them with. The decrease in the notes in circulation is explained by the increase of like amount in the private balances.

THE NEW INDIA LOAN.

The New Loan of £4,000,000 is expected (says the Times) to be introduced as soon as the Bill granting the necessary power shall have passed through Parliament, which will probably be within three weeks, and allowing, therefore, for the notice of about a fortnight, which will have to be given of the day for the receipt of tenders, the actual conclusion of the affair may be expected before the middle of July.

EXCHEQUER BILLS.

It is stated that the total amount of the June Exchequer Bills sent in for payment is as much as £1,100,000—namely, £700,000 by the public, and £400,000 by the Council of India. This sum is provided either from the public balances, or by means of sales of stock held by the savings-banks, to whom the Bills sent in may be re-issued.

THE CAPE OF GOOD HOPE LOAN.

The balance of the last issue of Cape of Good Hope Government Bonds has been disposed of. The new bonds have been dealt in at 105, with dividend from the 1st June.

SPANISH FINANCE.

An auction of the Foreign Redeemable (Passive) Debt of Spain will take place at Madrid on the 27th inst. The sum assigned by the Government for the purpose is 2,427,292 reals.

THE FRAUDS ON THE COMMERCIAL BANK.

Durden, the fraudulent cashier of the Commercial Bank, was yesterday sentenced to fourteen years' penal servitude. The further trial of the case against Holcroft was postponed until next session.

RAILWAY ENTERPRISE IN BUENOS AYRES.

Advices from Buenos Ayres state that the survey of the Great Southern Railway from Buenos Ayres to Chausumos, is progressing very favourably. Owing to the energy with which it has been prosecuted under the auspices of Mr. Thomas Rumball, C.E., who sent out a staff of engineers some time back, the survey is expected to be completed this month. The distance is about 75 miles. A Buenos Ayres guarantee of 7 per cent. for fifty years is to be given on the capital required, the Government wisely recognising the necessity of granting such terms as will at once engage the support of capitalists.

RAILWAY TRAFFIC.

The Brighton Railway traffic return shows this week an increase of £1,921; the South-Eastern, an increase of £1,142; the London and North-Western, a decrease of £1,704; the Great Western, a decrease of £1,442; the London and South-Western, a decrease of £3,323; the Great Northern, a decrease of £2,113; the Eastern Counties, an increase of £58; the Lancashire and Yorkshire, a decrease of £665; the Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire, an increase of £1,347; the North-Eastern, an increase of £9,992; and the Midland, an increase of £2,995.

RAILWAYS.

The Jamestown (New York) Journal gives an interesting account of the opening of the Atlantic and Great Western Railroad to the Philadelphia and Erie Road, and the Excursion on the new line. The road is now completed and in running order from Salamanca, its eastern junction with the New York and Erie Railroad, to its intersection with the Philadelphia and Erie line, a distance of sixty miles, which will add largely to the business of that part of the road. The work will be pushed on westward with the same energy.

A special meeting of the Norfolk Railway Company is called for the 21st inst., to approve various bills now before Parliament.

The annual meeting of the Dutch Rhenish Railway Company is called for the 28th inst., at Amsterdam.

THE OTTOMAN RAILWAY COMPANY.

The Ottoman Railway Company (Smyrna to Aidin) have advertised for tenders, which will be received up to the 17th instant, for 5,000 forfeited shares to be endorsed £11 paid, and to carry interest from 1st January last. Tenders have been invited also from Constantinople and Smyrna up to the same date, and the allotments are to be made simultaneously in London. Out of the 7,807 shares lately advertised for forfeiture, the above 5,000 comprise all that remain to be disposed of, the re-allotment of which it is expected will be made on or about the 1st July next. The receipts of the line, though opened only for thirty miles without any commercial termini in the interior to attract the traffic of goods or passengers, show a steady increase from £152 in January, to £998 during the month of May; and as the works are rapidly progressing towards Ephesus, the Aidin traffic will soon be secured, as well as that of the rich districts of Baidir, Tireh, Odemisch, &c.

BANKS.

The London and Westminster Bank have resolved that henceforth their transfer books shall be closed for only three days to prepare for the dividend. The next closing will be on the 1st of July. Proprietors registered in the books of the company to the 30th of June inclusive will be entitled to the dividend for the current half-year.

The directors of the National Provincial Bank of England announce that a half-yearly dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum, and also a bonus of 10 per cent., will be payable on the 11th July.

THE ENGLISH AND SCOTTISH LAW LIFE ASSURANCE ASSOCIATION.

At the general meeting of the English and Scottish Law Life Assurance Association held this day (Friday), Mr. Whitmore, Q.C., in the chair, the report stated that the new premiums received during the past year amounted to £9,463, and the total premium income to £71,100, the invested funds to £445,677—as per auditors' report, and the existing insurances to £2,202,530. The actuary's report on the valuation of the assets and liabilities showed a clear divisible surplus of £64,280, which was distributed by appropriating £56,780 for the benefit of the policyholders, and £7,500 for the proprietors. The divisions in future are to take place every five years, and nine-tenths of the profits are to be given to the assured.

OTHER PUBLIC COMPANIES.

At the general meeting of the Commercial Dock Company to-day (Friday) a dividend for the half-year of  $2\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. was declared.

The Cheshire Patent Salt Company (Limited) are in the market inviting applications for £8,000 of additional capital. This undertaking has already borne the test of actual operations, having been at work for some time, and with results described as highly satisfactory. By means of a valuable patent process, of which the company stand possessed, they are enabled to produce salt at an unusually low cost. The reports by scientific authorities are of a character to command confidence.

The first annual meeting of the Queen's Hotel Company, Upper Norwood (Limited), will be held at the London Tavern on the 26th instant, when the directors will be enabled to declare a dividend of £10 per cent. per annum on the paid-up capital, leaving a clear surplus of £1,669 12s. 2d. During the past twelve months forty-five new rooms have been erected, and are now nearly ready for habitation; but as an additional capital will be required to complete and furnish them, the directors have issued 600 supplemental £10 shares, 300 of which will be subscribed by themselves. The subscribed capital and the supplemental shares combined are yet considerably within the limits of the amount originally proposed (£50,000).

The annual meeting of the London Dock Company is called for the 5th July, to declare a dividend.

The first general meeting of the Bahia Gas Company is called for the 18th inst.

The share certificates of the Natal Land and Colonisation Company (Limited) are to be ready for delivery on the 17th instant, on signature of the Articles of Association.

We are requested to state that the share list of the Metropolitan Rifle Range Company (Limited) will be closed on Monday, the 17th inst.

INTEREST AND DIVIDENDS.

The coupons on the Atlantic and Great Western Railway Bonds, due on the 1st proximo, will be paid by the Bank of London and Messrs. Duncan, Sherman, and Co., of New York.

The interest, £6 per cent. per annum, which is authorised by the company's statutes to be paid to the shareholders of the Ottoman Railway (Smyrna to Aidin) during construction of the works, may be received on the 1st proximo.

The half-yearly interest is advertised on London, Tilbury, and South-end Extension Railway Stock.

The arrangements are notified preparatory to the payment of the half-yearly interest on the shares of the Oriental Inland Steam Company.

The arrangements are notified in connection with the payment of the half-yearly interest on the shares of the Madras and East India Irrigation Companies.

THE PARIS BOURSE.

At Paris to-day (Friday) the Three per Cent. Rentes opened at 67.90 ex div., and closed "heavy" at 67.90 for money, and 67.95 for the account, being  $\frac{1}{8}$  per cent. higher than yesterday, and  $\frac{1}{4}$  per cent. higher than on last Friday.

THE STOCK AND SHARE MARKETS.

The English Funds have been favourably influenced by the splendid weather, and are firmer in character. The tendency to improvement, however, has been constantly checked by sales of Savings Bank Stock by the Government broker. There is an impression that these sales will continue to be pressed in order to repair the gap made in the Government balance by the redemption of Exchequer Bills. Moreover, there are still a number of exchanges from the English Three per Cents. into securities yielding higher rates of interest. Consols closed on Friday last at  $89\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  ex div. for money, and  $90\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{3}{8}$  for the 10th July. The final quotations to-day were 90 to  $\frac{1}{8}$  for cash, and  $90\frac{3}{8}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  for the July settlement, being the best point of the week. The rise since last Friday is  $\frac{1}{8}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent.

The India Five per Cent. Stock has been in increased demand at the reduced quotations lately established. Transactions took place to-day at  $98\frac{1}{4}$  to  $98\frac{3}{4}$  ex div. for money, and at  $98\frac{3}{4}$  to 99 for the account.

The March Exchequer Bills are flat at 6s. to 2s. dis., and the new June bills at par to 4s. prem.

The new June Exchequer Bills were issued on Wednesday.

The official list of to-day's actual business in the English Funds and Indian Government Securities, is annexed:—

The amount of business in the Foreign Stock Market has been only moderate. Attention has been principally directed to Mexican Bonds, which have experienced a rise of  $\frac{5}{8}$  per cent., closing to-day at  $22\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{1}{4}$ . Turkish Bonds have been heavy until this day (Friday), when animation became suddenly observable, particularly in the Loan of 1858, owing to it being announced that, under the new arrangement, a remittance of £20,800 for the next dividend has reached the hands of the Ottoman Bank at Constantinople from the Syndicate. The closing prices to-day were  $71\frac{3}{4}$  to 72 for the Loan of 1854, and  $56\frac{3}{4}$  to  $57\frac{1}{4}$  for that of 1858. The rise in the latter since last Friday is  $1\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. Buenos Ayres Six per Cents. are quoted 90 to 92, and the Deferred, 28 to 29.

Brazilian Four-and-a-Half per Cents., 1860,  $87\frac{3}{4}$ , 87, ex div.; Mexican Three per Cents., 22 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; ditto for account (June 23), 22 $\frac{3}{4}$ ; New Grenada Deferred,  $5\frac{1}{2}$ ; Portuguese Three per Cents., 1853, 47 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Russian Three per Cents., 1859,  $61\frac{1}{4}$ ; Sardinian Five per Cents., for account,  $78\frac{1}{2}$ , 78 ex div.; Turkish Six per Cents., 1854, for account,  $71\frac{1}{2}$ , 73; ditto Six per Cents., 1858,  $55\frac{1}{2}$ ; ditto for account,  $56\frac{1}{2}$ ,  $57\frac{1}{2}$ .

The market for British Railway Stocks this week has been decidedly better. There have been strong indications of a speculative reaction, a decided disposition being shown to cover outstanding operations for the fall. Accordingly an almost general advance has occurred in prices. There has been a considerable rise in Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire Railway stock, owing to a rumour of a possible amalgamation with a neighbouring line. The settlement in English railway stocks has shown again a scanty floating supply. Low rates of "continuation" were accordingly quoted. London and North-Western, Caledonian, and Great Northern stocks were scarce for transfer. South-Eastern was in diminished supply. The settlement was completed to-day.

The following shows the closing prices of the principal British Railway Stocks this day, and the result of the week's variations. The share list in detail will be found in another column :—

AMERICAN SECURITIES.

With reference to the market for American securities, Messrs. D. Bell, Son, and Co., report as follows :—

The market for American securities still continues active, and a large business has been done during the past week in almost every description of State and City Bonds. In Railroad Securities there has been but little doing, and prices are for the most part nominal.

The report of Mr. E. F. Satterthwaite, dated Thursday, is annexed :—

There has been a fair amount of business in the market in London for American Securities during the past week; the success of the recent loan of nine millions of dollars, issued by the Federal Government, has imparted more strength to United States Bonds, the Five per Cent. 1874 being very firm at 74; and Virginian Six per Cent. Bonds are steady from 43 to 44. In Railroad Bonds there is no alteration from last week's prices, except that Illinois Construction Bonds are 1 per cent. lower. Railroad shares have remained quite steady, Illinois having ruled from 40 to 39 discount; Erie shares from 20 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 21 $\frac{1}{2}$ ; and New York Central from 65 to 67; these last-named shares are beginning to attract more attention, from the near approach of the dividend.

The London agents of the Illinois Central Railway Company on Monday received from New York the following report, which shows how general is the disturbance occasioned by the present political troubles :—

Office of the Illinois Central Railway Company,
New York, May 25.

Gentlemen,—There has been a great prostration of business in Illinois for the last week or two, in consequence of the depreciation of the currency. The basis of security on which the issue of bank notes was founded is State securities—say, Missouri, Tennessee, &c.—formed a considerable item, and differing in the respective banks as to their selection. These securities are very much reduced in value—a very few of the banks have other representative value of their issues. Many of them have little or no business but circular notes. These notes, except the few, are not worth over 50c. to 90c. on the dollar. The people have repudiated this currency at par rates, and it has been proposed that they should be taken and paid out at the rates they are respectively valued at. Another proposal is to take an enlarged class at par, including in them bank issues valued at 80c. to 90c.; a third proposition that all but specie paying banks should be refused altogether. Telegraphic reports lead to the belief that the latter is to be established. It must be so in the end, as it is impossible to maintain a depreciated currency in a community which has so large an export of absolute necessities of life as Illinois. She can command the specie.

This disturbance, and the unsettled state of political affairs, has influenced our receipts, both from operations and land. It will take a little time to put business in its regular train. In the meantime it is satisfactory to find we are keeping ahead of last year, and that the land inquiries are showing an increase over those in the early part of the month.

The month's movements will afford a fair opportunity of forming some conclusion as to the business of the company in prospect.—Yours truly,

(Signed) THOMAS E. WALKER,
Messrs. Robert Benson and Co., London. Chairman Ex. Committee.

THE STATE OF TRADE.

(COMPILED FROM NUMEROUS LOCAL REPORTS.)

THE accounts received this week from the manufacturing districts indicate, in several instances, a partial improvement in the condition of trade, owing chiefly, as it would appear, to the decided improvement in the weather, which has induced a much more hopeful impression with regard to the prospects of the harvest. In most departments, however, trade is still languid.

The accounts from Manchester describe the yarn market as very quiet. There have been plenty of offers, but at lower prices than spinners seem inclined to accept. Very little actual business has been done for any market. No change worth noting in prices generally. The cloth market has been very heavy. The prices of nearly all descriptions are lower than last week, and sales are very difficult to effect. This applies principally to goods suited to the India and China markets. The last accounts from India were very discouraging, showing immense losses on goods already shipped, and very large stocks of manufactured goods on hand.

At Leeds the cloth markets to-day have been of the same quiet character as for some weeks past.

At Rochdale the wool and flannel markets have been very quiet to-day. Flannels are accumulating in the hands of producers. The Yorkshire goods trade is flat.

From Bradford the report, dated Thursday, states that the spinners are doing a very limited business, and there is little doing for the Continent, which is affected by American affairs, and not much more for the home trade. The piece trade is in rather better condition, particularly for the home trade. Home merchants, influenced by the fine weather, have given out some substantial orders for both plain and fancy goods, particularly the latter.

At Halifax the demand for manufactures remains dull.

At Huddersfield there has been more activity in the market, a fair number of buyers having been in the town, and one or two of them having been operating with rather more freedom. The general tone of the trade, however, is still very languid.

At Leicester there is a little more doing in some branches of the hosiery trade, but generally speaking business is by no means active. At Loughborough and the other country hosiery districts trade is flat, and there are a great number of hands unemployed.

At Nottingham the lace trade continues in a most depressed condition, and there is no prospect of any improvement at present. There is no important change noticeable in the hosiery trade. The home demand is hardly up to an average, and the business doing from abroad is exceedingly small.

The general condition of trade in Wolverhampton is still unsatisfactory; complaints are heard from all quarters. The depression has, however, been slightly modified this week, the manufacturers in some of the staple branches being now engaged more upon orders than in making additions to stocks.

At Birmingham there has been no change in the state of trade; the depression is somewhat modified, but languor is still the prevailing indication in almost every department. The iron trade remains in a very bad state; sales of pig-iron are reported as being more difficult to effect, and since the commencement of the month three more furnaces have been blown out.

Mr. M. B. SAMPSON, Consul of the Argentine Republic, transacted business on Saturday last at the Foreign-office.

FOREIGN-OFFICE, JUNE 4.—The Queen has been pleased to approve of Seno. Mauricio Mocatta as Consul at Liverpool for the Republic of the Equator.—Gazette.

THE DEBT OF NEW GRANADA.—The committee of Spanish American bondholders have issued a small pamphlet comprising the correspondence which has recently taken place with regard to the Debt of New Granada. Its substance has already been published.

CITY OF LONDON COLLEGE.—Such establishments as the City of London College are now becoming a necessity in populous towns. From time to time we have had occasion to notice the progress of the working men's colleges, and the universities, but until the last few months no one would have dreamt of seeing such institutions as middle-class colleges. Yet, it might be asked—Why not? We have schools for children of our soldiers and sailors, warehousemen, printers, stationers, bookbinders, &c. Why not, then, colleges for middle-class young men? The desirability of such institutions has been brought prominently before the eyes of the public lately in connection with the Sussex Hall Evening Classes; and meetings have been held on the subject. We refer our readers to an advertisement in our impression of this day. As the present desire of the promoters is to induce the young men of the City to join, no apology can be necessary for placing the matter before the eyes of those whom the College is designed to benefit. We therefore direct their earnest attention to it with the more pleasure, as from the circular lately issued, we are led to believe that future honours may be in store for those who become members of the City College. It would appear that the College will not be in antagonism to any existing institution, but will form an able auxiliary to educational establishments like King's College and the London University. We have no doubt the young men of the City of London have but to know the merits of the "College," and the advantages to be derived, to induce them to place themselves on its roll.

Mines.

FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 14.

BUSINESS in the Mining Market this week has not been active, but the transactions in certain mines have been to a fair extent. In Calvada-nack, Great Wheal Fortune, Herodsfoot, West Caradon, and Wheal Unity shares, an improvement has occurred. On the other hand, East Caradon, East Wheal Grenville, North Downs, Wendron Consols, and West Wheal Seton, are quoted lower.

This being settling day, not many transactions were entered into in the mining market. The settlement was a heavy one. East Caradon shares were firmer, and East Wheal Grenville rather dull.

Amongst the prices reported to us this evening are the following :—

Alfred Consols,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; Calvada-nack,  $5\frac{1}{2}$  to 6; Carn Camborne, 1 to  $\frac{1}{4}$ ; Camborne Vean,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to  $2\frac{1}{2}$ ; Cook's Kitchen, 31 to 32; Devon Great Consols, 370 to 375; East Caradon,  $26\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; East Carn Brea,  $7\frac{3}{8}$  to  $\frac{3}{8}$ ; East Grenville, 42s. 6d. to 43s. 6d.; East Devon Great Consols, 2 to  $\frac{1}{4}$ ; Great Fortune,  $13\frac{1}{2}$  to  $14\frac{1}{2}$ ; Herodsfoot, 40 to 41 ex div.; Hingston Down, 2 to  $\frac{1}{4}$ ; Marke Valley,  $8\frac{3}{4}$  to  $9\frac{1}{2}$ ; North Downs, 4 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Providence, 37 to 38; Rosewarne United, 23 to 24; Sortridge Consols, 13s. to 14s.; South Caradon, 315 to 320; South Frances, 140 to 142; Stray Park,  $34\frac{1}{2}$  to  $35\frac{1}{2}$ ; Treloweth,  $3\frac{1}{2}$  to 4; Wendron Consols, 17 to 18; West Caradon, 55 to 56; West Rose Down,  $11\frac{1}{2}$  to  $12\frac{1}{2}$ ; West Polmear, 19s. to 21s.; West Seton, 355 to 365; Wheal Norris, 34s. to 36s.; Wheal Ludcott,  $3\frac{3}{8}$  to  $\frac{3}{8}$ ; Wheal Margaret, 47 to 49 ex div.; Wheal Unity, 18s. to 19s.

In colonial mining shares the principal feature has been a decided rise in Bon Accord Copper. There is an advance in United Mexican, owing to the favourable advices. Copiapo are quoted rather lower.

The United Mexican Mining Company's loan-notes, which recently might have been purchased at about 25 per cent., have risen to 80.

Labran Coal shares were quoted to-day  $2\frac{1}{2}$  to 3 prem., and Seend Iron  $\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{8}$  prem. We learn that the latter company proposes to commence operations in the first week in July.

We are requested to state that the share list of the Seend Iron Company will be closed on the 22nd instant.

The East Mona Mining Company (Limited), is announced, the object being to work a certain well-known and rich estate of 120 acres in Anglesea. The principal ores are copper and silver lead. The reports which have been received from competent authorities are of a character placing the value of the property beyond dispute. It is a favourable feature that the whole of the consideration to be assigned to the vendor is contingent upon the success of the enterprise, for he takes £2,000 in shares, and the remainder—£1,500—out of the first produce of the mines. The capital is £12,000, in shares of £1 each.

The annual meeting of the Kapunda Mining Company is called for the 17th inst.

The annual meeting of the General Mining Association (Nova Scotia) is called for the 27th inst. to declare a dividend.

At Collacombe Mine meeting, on the 6th inst., the accounts showed a debit balance of £811. 17s. 4d. A call of 5s. per share was made.

The Ding Dong Mine accounts, presented at the meeting on the 4th inst., showed a debit balance of £689. 15s. 10d.

South Wheal Betsy, on the 4th inst., made a call of 1s. per share.

At Devon and Cornwall United Mines meeting, on the 4th inst., the accounts showed a debit balance of £1,291. 1s. 7d.

At New Treleigh meeting on Thursday the accounts showed a balance of liabilities over assets of £7. No call was made.

At a general bi-monthly meeting of the shareholders in Ashburton United Mines, held on the 7th inst., a statement of accounts was read, showing a balance against the mine of £506. 3s. 11d., after charging all costs and new machinery to 30th April. An estimate of the probable receipts and expenditure to September was also read, showing a balance in favour of the mine of £313. 16s. 1d.

At Wheal Mary Ann meeting on Tuesday the accounts showed a credit balance of £1,726. 15s. 3d. A dividend of 10s. per share (£512) was declared, leaving £1,141. 19s. 8d. to the credit of the next account.

The Trencrom Mine accounts, presented at the meeting on the 5th inst., showed a debit balance of £707. 12s. 9d. A call of 15s. per share was made.

At United Mines meeting on Wednesday the accounts showed a debit balance of £3,318. 7s. 8d. A call of £5 per share was made.

The Wheal Seton accounts, presented at the meeting on Monday, showed a credit balance of £804. 16s. 6d., which was carried to the credit of the next account.

From Devon Union Mine Captain J. Donnal writes (13th June):—

The lode in the 28 east is 2 feet wide, composed of mundie, peach, friable, spar, and prian. The lode in the engine-shaft is still large and of a promising appearance, producing occasional stones of yellow copper ore of rich quality. All the machinery, both underground and at surface, is working very well indeed.

From West Devon Consols Mine Captain George Rowe reports (June 13):—

There is no material change in the different points of operation during the past week—all are progressing in a very satisfactory manner.

From Wheal Concord Captain Luke writes (11th June):—

A great improvement has taken place at Collacombe in the bottom of the mine; and looking at the position of the valley between that mine and the Concord, I do feel that this is a property of great prospective value. The water is forked 16 fathoms below adit, and we are rapidly progressing towards emptying the mine.

At Truro, on the 20th inst., 5,258 tons of copper ore will be offered for sale, viz.:—Devon Great Consols, 1,789 tons; Wheal Crelake, 390; Phoenix Mine, 368; Marke Valley, 306; West Caradon, 300; Wheal Edward, 271; East Caradon, 209; Great Wheal Martha, 207; Bedford United, 200; Wheal Emma, 192; Devon and Cornwall, 170; Gunnis Lake and Clitters, 165; North Wheal Robert, 155; Wheal Friendship, 153; Wheal Yarnier, 104; Kelly Bray, 100; Sortridge Consols, 58; Cuddra, 30; Torpoint Ore, 29; Devon and Courtenay, 24; Wheal Crowndale, 19; and Brook Wood, 19 tons.

The Vale of Towy Mine sold, on the 3rd inst., 55 tons of lead ore, at prices varying from £9. 9s. 6d. to £12. 15s. 6d. per ton.

From New Crow Hill Mine the report is as follows:—

The lode in the 35 fm. level is far exceeding our expectations and is an important improvement of the mine. We have opened the lode for about 4 fms. in length for about 10 feet through, and have not yet seen the south wall of the lode. We have set to the same 4 men, as last month, to open for the same length further south at 50s. per cubic fm. The lode throughout is mundie lead and a little spar—very good work for stamps, after selecting some of the best lead. Both ends are looking well, and should the lode continue its present size and quality, of which at present we see no sign of alteration, we shall require large stamping power, and have sufficient to employ them for some considerable time without any further discovery. Our pumping wheel would drive 24 heads, besides drawing all the water. Our stamps wheel would work 3 more heads for 6 or 8 months in the year, and we can put up a new wheel with 6 heads, which ought to be done at once, for we have no hesitation in assuring the committee that we have ample work.

At Ding Dong Mine the end going westward in Qualk shaft is now yielding good tin ore, and the northern branch in this shaft is producing very rich works.

From Furze-hill Wood Mine (June 12) Captain T. Gregory reports:—

The lode has been just cut in the engine-shaft 25 fms. deep from surface (and about 12 fms. under adit and the extraordinary old workings) by a cross cut, in which it is worth full £25 per fm. for tin, fully proving what has been stated of this old mine. The ends can be driven for about £5 per fm., hence a good profit will be the result. There are 4 other lodes within a short distance, equally worked on above the adit by the old miners.

The following is from the mining circular of Mr. J. R. Pike:—
“It being established that mining, like every other particular industry, is dependent on a state of general prosperity for its welfare, I will now pass in rapid review the principal external influences by which British mining is for the moment seriously oppressed. First, there is the dearth and scarcity of money. If it could be demonstrated satisfactorily that money must for some time to come, however short the period might be, maintain its present high value, the trade of the country would rapidly accommodate itself to such a state of things, and the pressure for supply would sensibly diminish; but, unfortunately, this is not the case. The principal withdrawals of specie are for American account. The territory of the Federal States is at the present moment held by two conflicting Governments, who threaten resort to the last argument of kings for the settlement of their intestine broils. The demand for money is consequently spasmodic, and so long as it remains so, such spasmodic action must be reflected here. Next comes the imminent danger of a pressure on our national finance, in presence of a fear that our relations of amity which have so long subsisted with the people of the North American continent may be rudely broken in the heat of an overwhelming frenzy. Already we hear of British ships running the gauntlet of a blockade, of our exports of metals to the United States having greatly diminished in value, and every mail may bring the intelligence that the metalliferous products of our British mines are contraband of war. That such an expectation, even if realised, would prevent to any very serious extent the export of metals from British ports to either of the two Confederacies is not to be for one moment supposed, and a hope may be expressed that an increase in value will compensate in some measure for any diminution in quantity; but, look at the thing as philosophically as we may, the fact remains that they have a very damaging and disturbing influence. That it is not an unmitigated evil is an assertion to which some may take exception, and on this head I may have more to say next week.”

EAST KONGSBERG NATIVE SILVER MINING COMPANY OF NORWAY (LIMITED).

—According to the last accounts, just received from the manager of these mines in Norway, the southern vein of the Sundsee Mine is yielding silver, and the fahlband, which is traversed by these veins, is highly mineralised. The Ramsurd Mine, which yielded so much silver in former times, is now giving silver and sulphuret of zinc and lead. The Neues Gluck Mine, 2,000 feet above the level of the sea, is being forked in order to drive the contra adit. The fahlbands are very strong, and several promising veins are to be seen crossing them at the surface. The adit level of the Anna Sophia, 100 fathoms long, leading into this large mine, is being cleared for laying down a tramway, and the working will be resumed as soon as possible. Altogether the prospects of the company, if we may judge by the rich samples of ore just received from Kongsberg, are highly favourable.

THE GREAT EASTERN.—Government have this day chartered the Great Eastern to convey two regiments of the line, comprising about 2,000 men, besides horses, for Quebec.

THE MAILS FROM INDIA, CHINA, AND AUSTRALIA.—For the information of the public interested in the arrivals of the mails from India, China, and Australia, we are requested to state that in previous years the steamers have left Calcutta and Bombay during the prevalence of the south-west monsoon, viz., in May, June, and July, five days earlier than at other seasons of the year, in order to secure uniform dates of arrival at Marseilles and Southampton. This year, however, at the instance of the Postmaster-General, the steamers will leave Calcutta and Bombay upon the same dates all the year round, and the public may therefore be prepared for the next three months to find the overland mails occasionally a few days behind the usual time.

MERCANTILE EMBARRASMENTS.

The Manchester journals announce the failure of Messrs. Pearson and Briggs, manufacturers. The amount of their liabilities is not stated.

At a meeting at Dundee on Wednesday morning of the creditors of Messrs. D. and J. Thomson and Co., jute spinners and manufacturers, who suspended on the 5th instant, with liabilities estimated at £50,000, it was unanimously resolved to accept the offer of the firm to give bills for 20s. in the pound, extending over three years, in the following manner:—2s. 6d. in six months, 2s. 6d. in nine months, 5s. in twelve months, 5s. in eighteen months, 2s. 6d. in twenty-four months, and 2s. 6d. in thirty-six months.

In the case of Messrs. Raikes and Co., of the Hull Bank, a petition is stated to have been filed in the Hull Bankruptcy Court, under the private arrangement clause. The liabilities are still said to be under £70,000, but according to the Manchester Guardian, "although a handsome dividend was at first spoken of, it is now feared that many of the assets alleged to be available are of very questionable value."

In the Bankruptcy Court on Monday, a dividend sitting was ordered for the first week in July in the case of Messrs. Nicholson, Pascall, and Stone, warehousemen, of Cannon-street.

A meeting of the creditors of Mr. George Thomson, of Crookhay, was held on Tuesday, at Birmingham. The balance-sheet showed gross liabilities amounting to a little more than £26,000, of which £23,000 (in round numbers) is unsecured. The assets are estimated at about £5,600. A resolution was passed agreeing to accept a composition of 5s. payable within fourteen days.

COTTON IN JAMAICA.—We understand that advices have been received by this packet from their agent in Jamaica, by the Jamaica Cotton Company, enclosing the first pod of Sea Island cotton that has burst from a tree planted in November last. The anxiety of the people to plant, and especially the small settlers, appears to be very great, and they are buying up seed in all directions. The agent of the company states that he has employed about 100 men to clear and burn off land in order to form a new plantation; and that he will undertake to get 1,000 acres planted without delay, and, as to picking it, that there will be no want of hands to get in any quantity that money can be found to plant. He has been paying 1s. per square chain for cutting down the timber and bush and hoeing clean. The Jamaica papers speak with high approbation of the plan, and hope the company will proceed in the work with vigour, as one greatly required for the employment of hands not fit for sugar cultivation.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Experience Teacheth Wisdom.—The common consent of mankind has awarded to Holloway's remedies the palm for curing most complaints, whether external or internal. During the past quarter of a century thousands have borne willing testimony to their efficiency in alleviating the sufferings of mankind, and in expelling from the human body the first cause of disease. No other means can extract from the blood and solids any existing impurities with the same unerring certainty as Holloway's preparations, which rapidly filter out all morbid matters. Numerous testimonials from clergymen and others, humanely watching over the welfare of the poor, attesting their merits, which are gratefully acknowledged throughout the whole civilized world, being selected by wisdom and experience.

The Produce and other Markets.

COLONIAL PRODUCE.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 14.

There is not any improvement in the Colonial Produce Markets, which remain quiet, and the transactions for home consumption have been to a moderate extent during the week. Sugar has declined 6d. to 1s. per cwt. in many instances, strong dry refining kinds, however, nearly maintaining their former value. Low qualities are still very difficult to sell. Melado has been dealt in to some extent at the low rates previously established. Only small quantities of Molasses have been sold. The Coffee market has been freely supplied, but the sales of Plantation Ceylon have gone off well, and generally at former quotations, while Native shows a decline of 6d. to 1s. per cwt. Shipping sorts of Black Pepper have found steady buyers at the former value. White is saleable at the recent decline. Other Spice continues the same as last week. Saltpetre is very dull, and the market shows a downward tendency. Tea has been steady. Sales of Cocoa are effected with difficulty even at a material depreciation. The inquiry for Rum has continued steady, and business to some extent has been done in common West India descriptions at fully previous rates. The Rice market has been more decidedly dull since our last, and transactions have only been practicable at easier prices. Sago is unaltered. 721 bags of Sago Flour at auction were realised at 16s. 100 barrels good white Rio Tapioca brought forward, fetched 7d., but 1,059 bags Penang, (one half indirect import,) were principally taken in. Nitrate of Soda meets few inquiries. There has been an improved demand for Cotton since Wednesday, and the market has now a steady appearance.

THE TALLOW TRADE.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 14.

The Tallow Market since our last report (of the 7th inst.) has presented no feature of special interest, having been subject throughout the week to a general dullness, both in the business for consumption and in speculative operations; prices upon the whole have experienced but little change, but the tendency has been rather in favour of the buyer. Some few speculative purchases have been made, mostly for the delivery at the end of the year, at about our last quotations; but although the present aspect of the market has offered some inducement to effect sales of this description, there is still a very wholesome caution manifested by the majority of operators in this direction; the remembrance of last season's misfortunes, and some apprehension of the power of the Russian monopolists again to bring about a similar visitation, having hitherto had the effect of materially checking this description of business, and confining it within very narrow limits. Meanwhile, the position of the monopolists themselves is not enviable, not daring to buy at present rates, and unable to induce the cautious "bears" to take the bait offered, and sell to the extent required to make an "account" sufficiently heavy to render the reception of the former tactics of the said monopolists a profitable undertaking. We trust that the latter will soon have the conviction forced upon them, that their speculation will "not pay," and will be induced to abandon it, there being, we believe, little or no chance of their recovering their former position.

The business in new first sorts Y. C. tallow to-day has been of no importance, and prices are almost nominal—53s. 6d. being quoted for the month; and 52s. to 52s. 3d. per cwt. for delivery October to December.

The arrivals for the week ending the 13th instant, were 1,828 casks; deliveries, 1,097 casks; stock, 65,353 casks, showing an increase of 731 casks.

Town Tallow has been in fair supply, but without any excess sufficient to induce melters to offer it on conditions more than usually favourable to consumers. Its present position, however, has great influence in keeping other descriptions at moderate rates. This evening the letter price is unaltered, say 52s. 9d. or 50s. 3d. per cwt., nett cash. Fat, 2s. 8½d. per stone of 8 lbs.

Old Y. C. has met with little demand, the price being considered too high; 52s. 9d. per cwt. having been generally demanded.

Odessa.—We have been almost without supplies. Prices are nominal.

The results of to-day's public sales, at which a remarkable degree of inactivity prevailed, are given below.

Y. C.—1 cask only offered, fair quality, bought in at 52s. per cwt.

Taganrog.—256 casks were offered, of which 30 casks only found buyers, fine Sheep bringing 52s. 6d. per cwt., and one lot, very good, 51s. 9d. Fine pale Ox was bought in at 52s., and good mixed at 50s. 9d. to 51s. 9d. per cwt.

South American.—163 casks and 252 boxes were submitted, mostly of good quality; but the demand was so slight that nearly the whole was withdrawn; 9 pipes of fair greasy description only being sold, at 48s. and 46s. 6d. per cwt.

North American.—15 casks were offered, the quality being very good; but they were bought in at 52s. per cwt.

East India.—100 casks were offered and bought in at 49s. to 52s. 6d.; the quality being inferior to middling.

Cocoa Nut Oil has not been in very great request, and our former reduced rates have again experienced a slight decline. 100 casks Cochin, 198 casks Ceylon, and 122 casks Sydney were offered to-day. The Cochin was all bought in—45s. 6d. being asked for fine; 55 casks of Ceylon were disposed of at 44s., fine quality; 32 casks of Sydney were sold at 40s. to 43s. per cwt. for inferior to middling descriptions. The general quotation is 45s. for Cochin, and 44s. per cwt. for Ceylon.

Palm Nut Oil.—We have no transactions to any extent to report, the stock is very small, only 5 casks were offered to-day, 3 casks of good quality selling at 38s. per cwt.

Palm Oil has maintained its position, and a rather firmer tone was imparted to the market by African news, which threatened some deficiency of production, but there is no change worth noticing; 45s. has been obtained during the week for the oil. To-day 437 casks were offered at auction, 167 were sold, good whydah at 44s. 9d., ullages at 44s., middling quality (from Lisbon) 42s. 6d. down to 40s., and 3 casks very inferior and dreggy at 27s. 6d. per cwt.

Horse Grease.—217 cases South American were offered and bought in, there being very little bidding at 38s. per cwt., the current quotation.—Furnished by Messrs. Culverwell, Brookes, and Co., Brokers.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET.

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 14.

The market has been very quiet this week, and the supply has been abundant as far as regards present acquisitions. There is not any noticeable reduction in the better qualities of American, but the lower kinds and Surat are offered at a fractional decline. The state of affairs at Manchester is unchanged, or only changed for the worse; but the badness of trade has at last reached a point beyond which depression can hardly go, and an improvement in prices, whether arising from an increased demand or from a decreased production, cannot be far distant.

(For remainder of Cotton Market, see page 485.)

[BY ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.]

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY EVENING.

The market has been firm to-day, with sales to the extent of 12,000 bales, including 2,000 on speculation and for exportation. The imports to-day are 2,577 bales. The sales of the week comprise 58,520 bales, of which 8,450 were taken on speculation, and 7,490 for exportation. The present quotation of Orleans is 8½d.; Up-land, 8¼d.; and Mobile, 8½d. The stock now stands at 1,130,100 bales.

The Corn Trade.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 14.

The favourable change which took place in the weather about a fortnight ago has continued throughout this week. Under the powerful stimulus of heat, assisted by genial showers, vegetation has made rapid progress. Several fields of Talavera Wheat in the south of England have sprung into ear. The appearance of the country has completely changed for the better during the last fortnight, and the prospects of the next harvest are wonderfully improved. The weather has been everything that can be desired to benefit vegetation—since yesterday, forcing hot, with brilliant sunshine.

SUPPLY.—The supply of home-grown Wheat, Barley, and Oats, has been this week on the same moderate scale, as reported in the preceding se'nnight. The latest official returns of the quantity of grain sold in England and Wales, are as follows—Wheat, 59,954 qrs. at 54s. 5d.; Barley, 3,287 qrs. at 32s. 8d.; Oats, 4,297 qrs. at 26s. per qr.

Imports of corn have been large this week, consisting principally of wheat and oats for the Baltic, with a fair addition of wheat and flour from America. The quantity of barley imported has been small.

THE BRITISH CORN TRADE.—Owing to the influence of the recent extraordinary change in the weather, which has scared away, for the present at least, all fears of another deficient harvest, combined with large grain imports, the corn trade has been this week very inactive, and prices of most kinds of grain have tended downward. Wheat—With a very slow sale quotations have been generally reduced 1s. to 2s. per qr., and some sellers, anxious to effect an immediate sale, have submitted to even a greater reduction. Flour has been 6d. to 1s. per barrel and sack cheaper, with a dull demand. Barley—With small stocks, but being little inquired after, was in price mostly unaltered. Oats—Under the pressure of heavy Baltic imports, prices have declined at 1s. to 1s. 6d. under last week's rates. Beans were 1s. to 2s. per qr. cheaper. Peas also 1s. to 2s. lower.

In Mark-lane to-day the attendance of the trade was moderate, the tone depressed. Wheat—English, retail sale, at barely last Monday's reduced rates. Foreign—Quiet, at last Monday's decline, but to force a sale 1s. to 2s. per qr. less would have to be taken. Flour—American, slow sale, at barely last Monday's rates; Norfolk, 34s. to 36s. per 280lbs. Barley—Quiet, at last Monday's currency. Oats—Unaltered, at last Monday's decline. Beans—Quiet, at last Monday's rates. Peas—Quiet.

[BY ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.]

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY EVENING.

There was a fair attendance at to-day's market. Wheat—quiet, and the turn in favour of buyers. Flour, slow, but without change in value. Oats and Oatmeal—in limited demand. Maize—steady, unaltered at last Tuesday's rates.

OTTOMAN RAILWAY COMPANY.

The following SUPPLEMENTAL CONCESSION, recently granted to the SMYRNA and AIDIN RAILWAY COMPANY, is published by the authority of the IMPERIAL OTTOMAN GOVERNMENT:—

CONCESSION SUPPLEMENTAIRE AU CHEMIN DE FER DE SMYRNE A AIDIN.*ARTICLE 1.

Il est accordé à la Compagnie pour l'achèvement complet de la ligne principale de Smyrne à Aidin un nouveau délai qui sera de quatre ans si l'on conserve le tracé par Sella-Eddin, et de trois ans seulement si l'on adopte un tracé par Ephèse.

Ce délai courra à partir du moment où le Gouvernement aura approuvé définitivement l'un ou l'autre de ces tracés dont les projets devront lui être présentés par la Compagnie avant le 1er Avril, 1861.

La ligne principale est considérée d'ailleurs comme composée de trois sections, la première, depuis Smyrne jusqu'au pied de la chaîne du Gumdagh; la deuxième comprenant le passage de Gumdagh; la troisième, la portion du chemin de fer comprise dans la vallée du Méandre entre le pied du Gumdagh et Aidin.

ARTICLE 2.

La Compagnie est autorisée à émettre immédiatement pour une somme de £250,000 stg. des Débentures ayant droit à un intérêt de 6 pour cent. par an qui ne pourra, en aucun cas, être compris dans les frais d'exploitation, et qui sera payé par la Compagnie avec le revenu garanti par l'Etat.

Ces obligations seront remboursables en cinq années, et il est entendu qu'en cas de Déchéance, les possesseurs de Débentures n'auront de droit que sur les sommes revenant à la Compagnie elle-même par suite de l'adjudication prévue au cahier des charges générales.

La Compagnie réservera un nombre d'actions représentant pareille somme de £250,000 stg., et dont le prix sera affecté au remboursement des Débentures, de façon que le capital émis sous forme tant d'actions que de Débentures ne dépasse pas le chiffre de £1,200,000 stg. du capital social de l'entreprise.

Moyennant cette émission d'obligations, il ne pourra être fait aux actionnaires aucune demande de versement obligatoire qu'après l'achèvement et la mise en exploitation de la première section.

ARTICLE 3.

L'article 16 de la Convention du 23 Septembre, 1856, est annulé sauf les clauses relatives au chiffre du cautionnement et aux mines de charbon, et il est remplacé par les articles ci-dessous, 43, 44, et 45 du Cahier des Charges Générales des Chemins de Fer de l'Empire.

CAHIER DES CHARGES.*ARTICLE 43.

Faute par la Société d'avoir exécuté et terminé les travaux dans les délais fixés par l'Article 1er, faute eufin par elle d'avoir rempli les diverses obligations qui lui sont imposées, la Société encourra la déchéance.

Il sera dès lors pourvu tant à la continuation et à l'achèvement des travaux qu'à l'exécution des autres engagements contractés par la Compagnie, au moyen d'une adjudication qu'on ouvrira sur les clauses du cahier des charges générales et sur une mise à prix des ouvrages déjà construits, des matériaux approvisionnés, des terrains achetés, et des portions de chemins déjà mises en exploitation.

Cette adjudication sera dévolue à celui des soumissionnaires qui offrira la plus forte somme pour les objets compris dans la mise à prix.

Les soumissions pourront être même inférieures à la mise à prix. La société évincée recevra de la nouvelle société la valeur que la nouvelle adjudication aura ainsi déterminé pour les dits objets. Si la susdite adjudication n'amène aucun résultat, une seconde adjudication sera tentée, sur les mêmes bases, après un délai de six mois; et si cette seconde tentative reste également sans résultat, la société sera définitivement déchu de ses droits à la présente concession, et les parties du chemin de fer déjà exécutées, ou qui seraient mises en exploitation, deviendront la propriété de l'Etat.

La portion du cautionnement non encore restituée restera au pouvoir du Gouvernement.

CAHIER DES CHARGES.*ARTICLE 44.

Si l'exploitation du chemin de fer vient à être interrompue en totalité ou en partie par le fait de la Compagnie, le Gouvernement prendra immédiatement, aux frais, risques, et périls de la Compagnie, les mesures nécessaires pour assurer provisoirement le service.

Si dans les trois mois de l'organisation du service provisoire la Compagnie n'a pas valablement justifié qu'elle est en état de reprendre et de continuer l'exploitation, et si elle ne l'a pas effectivement reprise, la déchéance pourra être prononcée par le Gouvernement. Cette déchéance prononcée, le chemin de fer et toutes les dépendances seront mis en adjudication, et il sera procédé ainsi qu'il est dit à l'Article précédent.

CAHIER DES CHARGES.*ARTICLE 45.

Les dispositions des deux Articles qui précèdent ne seront point applicables en cas où le retard ou la cessation des travaux et de l'exploitation proviendraient de force majeure régulièrement constatée.

ARTICLE 4.

Tous les droits et conditions résultant de la Convention du 23 Septembre, 1856, sont maintenus en tant qu'ils ne sont pas contraires à la présente Convention additionnelle.

Constantinople, 11 (23) Mars, 1861.

TRANSLATION.*ARTICLE 1.

A further delay of four years is granted to the Company for the completion of the main line from Smyrna to Aidin, should the Sella-Eddin route ("tracé") be maintained; should the Ephesus route be adopted, the delay will be reduced to three years.

This delay will date from the definite approval by the Government of either route, the projects of which must be presented before the 1st April, 1861.

The main line is considered as being composed of three sections: the first from Smyrna up to the foot of the Gumdagh Chain, the second comprising the passage of Gumdagh, and the third running in the Valley of Meandre, between the foot of the Gumdagh and Aidin.

ARTICLE 2.

The Company is authorised to issue immediately, to the amount of £250,000, Debentures bearing interest at 6 per cent. per annum, which interest will not, in any case, be included in the working expenses, and will be paid by the Company with the income guaranteed by the State.

These Debentures will be redeemable in five years. It is understood that in case of forfeiture the holders will have no claims except on sums due to the Company itself, and arising from tenders in the public sale, as provided for in the Cahier des Charges Générales.

The Company will reserve a certain number of shares, representing a like sum of £250,000, which amount will be assigned for the reimbursement of the Debentures in such a manner that the capital issued, in shares as well as in Debentures, shall not exceed the sum of £1,200,000, the total capital of the undertaking.

In consideration of this issue of Bonds no new call can be enforced on the shareholders until after the completion and opening of the 1st section.

ARTICLE 3.

The article 16 of the Convention of the 23rd September, 1856, is cancelled, except the Clauses respecting the amount of caution money and the Coal Mines, and is replaced by the aforementioned Articles, 43, 44, and 45, of the General Cahier des Charges of the Imperial Railways.

CAHIER DES CHARGES.*ARTICLE 43.

In default of the Company not having executed and finished the Works within the periods fixed by Article 1, and also in default of their not having fulfilled the different obligations imposed upon them, the Company will incur forfeiture.

From that time the continuation and completion of the Works, as well as the execution of other engagements contracted by the Company, will be provided for by means of a Public Sale, which shall be based on the general clauses of the cahier des charges, and upon a valuation of the Works already constructed, existing materials, land purchased, and the portions of line already opened.

The adjudication will be given to parties who submit the highest Tender for all the Works, &c., comprised in the upset price.

The Tenders may even be below the upset price. The Company having been legally dispossessed, will receive from the new Company the amount, which shall be realised by this Public Sale, for the above Works, &c. Should the aforesaid Public Sale not lead to any result, a second Public Sale will be made on the same bases after a delay of six months; and should this second attempt also prove unsuccessful, the Company will be finally dispossessed of its rights to the present concession, and the portions of the Railroad already executed, or which may be in working order, shall become the property of the State.

The portion of the Caution Money not refunded will remain the property of the Government.

CAHIER DES CHARGES.*ARTICLE 44.

If the working of the Railroad should be interrupted wholly or partially by the fault of the Company, the Government will immediately take all requisite measures to insure the continuation of the service for the time being at the expense, risk, and peril of the Company.

If within three months from the organisation of this provisional working the Company shall not have fully proved that it is in a state to resume and continue the working, and if it shall not do so efficiently, forfeiture may be pronounced by the Government. This forfeiture once declared, the Railway and all its dependencies will be put up to Public Sale, as provided for in the preceding Article.

CAHIER DES CHARGES.*ARTICLE 45.

The principles embodied in the two Articles which precede shall not be applicable in cases where the delay or cessation of the Works or the working of the line shall arise from forces majeures satisfactorily proved.

ARTICLE 4.

All rights and conditions resulting from the Convention of the 23rd September, 1856, are maintained in, so far, that they are not contrary to the present additional Convention.

Constantinople, March 11 (23), 1861.

By order of the Board,

S. J. COOKE, Secretary.

2, St. Michael's House, London, June, 1861.

THE CHESHIRE PATENT SALT COMPANY (Limited).

WINSFORD, CHESHIRE.

Incorporated under the Joint-Stock Companies' Acts of 1856 and 1857 (Limited).

Capital £30,000, in 1,500 Shares of £2 each.

Deposit, 5s. per Share on application, and 15s. per Share on allotment.

LONDON AGENT.

Mr. H. Brooke, No. 6, Cannon-street, E.C.

BANKERS.

Messrs. Glyn, Mills, and Co., London.

Messrs. Thomas Firth and Son, Northwich.

SECRETARY.

Mr. J. Davenport, Works, Winsford.

NOTICE TO THE SHAREHOLDERS AND TO OTHER CAPITALISTS.

The Company's patent process for manufacturing salt is found to be highly successful, and the Directors have therefore resolved to considerably enlarge the works, and to allot 8,000 additional shares (£1 paid), reserving the remaining £1 per share for future expansion, when two-thirds of the shareholders shall so determine.

The past half-year's working results show that a small production of 20,000 tons of salt per annum, charged with the total of patent cost, rent, and management, will yield a dividend of 24 per cent. per annum, and that a still larger dividend will be realised as the production is increased. Upon a production of 100,000 tons the profits are estimated at upwards of 50 per cent. per annum.

The Brine Estate, upon which the works are erected, is secured upon a long lease, and at a low rental; it covers an area of nine acres, with an underlying inexhaustible supply of the strongest brine, and is situate between the London and North-Western Railway on one side, and the River Weaver on the other, enabling the Company to receive fuel and transmit salt direct from the siding of each.

The prospectus, to be had as below, gives the present financial position of the Company, the estimates for further expenditure, and the condition and prospects of the salt trade.

Application for shares to be made to Mr. H. Brooke, No. 6, Cannon-street, E.C., London, and to Mr. Davenport, Secretary, at the Works, Winsford.

The following report of Mr. Grantham, C.E., it will be seen, fully corroborates the statements made in the prospectus as to the advantages of the patent process over that at present in operation:

"London, March 26, 1861.

"Gentlemen,—Having in accordance with your request carefully watched your patent process for manufacturing salt, and examined the results for a period of nine months, I feel that I am now competent to render a report to you upon which you may rely.

"I have found that only one ton of fuel is consumed in the production of 75 cwt. of salt against 40 cwt., which is the best result obtained under the ordinary process, and that the cost of labour, wear and tear, is reduced by 40 per cent.

"I am perfectly satisfied that the system pursued—viz., the adoption of self-feeding furnaces, the application of steam heat for extracting the salt, the mode of economising the fuel, and the mechanical means used for clearing the pans and lifting the salt—are all superior modes of application.

"The special advantages gained by this new process are, an extraordinary saving in fuel and labour, and an entire avoidance of encrustation of the pans, which causes so much loss of heat and cost in wear and tear.

"The proportion of butter and table salt obtained is much larger, and of a quality remarkable for its purity and whiteness, and which no doubt will command a higher price for domestic use.

"I am, Gentlemen, your obedient servant,

"JOHN GRANTHAM."

MINING IN ST. MINVER, CORNWALL.

A Company is in course of formation for the purpose of developing a portion of mineral property in the parish of St. Minver, Cornwall. The sett which has been obtained gives unusually good evidences of its being very valuable for lead ore. Several mine agents of great experience have inspected the property, whose opinions are unanimous that the strata are the right sort for lead, and the quantity of ore in sight beyond what could be expected for so shallow a depth.

The adventure is divided into 4,000 Shares, and it was decided at a meeting held on the 16th inst., that 4,000 should be offered to the public. A large portion out of the 4,000 are already taken up, for the most part by those who are residents of, and acquainted with, the neighbourhood.

The Mine is to be worked on the cost-book principle, and all needful particulars, with prospectuses, may be had of the Company's broker, Mr. J. S. Phillips, of 12, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, London; or the pursuer, Captain George Rickard, of Wenford, Bodmin, Cornwall, May, 1861.

In the year 1857 a remarkable bed of Iron Ore was discovered at Seend, Wiltshire, varying from 35 to 60 feet in thickness, easily worked in open cuttings, and yielding from 35 to 50 per cent. of Iron. The quantity of the Ore is computed, from actual workings and trial pits, to exceed ten millions of tons.

A contract has been entered into to make the pig iron and put it into the Company's trucks at 40s. per ton, including all royalties and all charges connected with the manufacture of the iron.

The peculiar feature of this undertaking is, that in consequence of the great natural advantages possessed by the Seend Iron Works, iron can be smelted there to any extent at a cost which places it above all ordinary competition, and which must secure to this Company a good profit so long as the manufacture of iron forms a branch of the industry of Great Britain.

Each application for Shares must be accompanied with a deposit of 10s. per Share upon the number of Shares applied for. If no allotment be made to the applicant, the deposit will be returned in full.

Prospectuses and forms of application may be had of the Secretary, at the Offices, 114, Gresham-house, Old Broad-street, London, E.C.

JOHN R. PIKE, MINE SHAREBROKER,
3, PINNER'S COURT, OLD BROAD-STREET, E.C.

REMARKS.—The saying that "every cloud has a silver lining" is accepted as truth by the generality of thinking men, and if there be any of the readers of the "Mining Journal" who, having perused my remarks in last week's Journal, think that my view of things in general was unnecessarily gloomy, I would repeat the legend recorded in the opening of this paper, with an exhortation to look steadily with the eye of hope through the darkest cloud for the sunshine which it masks, but cannot dim. To be perpetually engaged in an endeavour to demonstrate that black is white is not only foolish, but in the last degree unwise. It is a settled opinion with me that British mining requires no such adventitious aids, but is well able to hear the severest critical scrutiny as a field for public investment under the pressure of any external influence, however unfavourable its character may be. The conditions by which success is attainable, and to some extent assured, in mining are easy and well defined. Let the investor, in the first place, be well acquainted with the various peculiarities belonging to mining as an industry; let him purchase into such concerns as are honestly and vigorously worked; let him not pay above the market value for his stock; and, come what will, let him judge mining as he would any other investment, honestly and fearlessly, and there can be no doubt of the result, the losers in the long run being men who invest blindly, act impulsively, and are liable to fits of panic with as much periodical certainty as the ague-stricken residents in the miasma of the tropics.

Although the market for metals is at the moment as flat as it well can be, it is satisfactory to note that the stocks in hand are, comparatively speaking, low, and that in spite of an average amount of production, this is satisfactory, as proving that the export trade is only snuffing a temporary check, caused, as far as America is concerned, by the diversion of the channel into which our stock of metals must run. This well over, the chances are in favour of a brisk demand, and very much higher prices. Lead in particular is sure to be largely wanted, and as the produce of our British mines is never either greatly in excess or short of an average stated quantity, the public would do well to direct its attention to the lead mines of Cornwall, Wales, Derbyshire, &c. The Cornish mines are tolerably well known, but not so the other two districts named. True, we hear occasionally of the Minera district, the Parys district, and the celebrated Peak; but that the merits of their mines, and the capability for yielding metal of their unworked ground, especially in the principality of Wales, is at all understood or appreciated, is the reverse of truth. At another time, I may go over the ground with some degree of particularity, and endeavour to induct the public into the best and most promising districts.

It is by no means an uncommon thing to hear persons otherwise well informed speak rather contemptuously of the insignificant amount of paid-up capital with which multitudes of mines are carried on, necessitating frequent calls, individually small, in derogation of the importance of British mining as an industry. That they act as a deterrent to speculation, or even solid investment, in very many instances, I am quite convinced; but if such persons would only reflect for one moment, and, finding themselves in the position of the poor mute, who, being interrogated at a public examination beyond his knowledge, promptly replied that he was "short of information on the subject," were to seek that information on which alone a just opinion could be based, they would find that from the very nature of things it would be almost as impossible to start a mine with the paid-up capital of a bank, as it would be to start a bank with the paid-up capital of a mine. In opening up a mining property, the amount of capital which may be required cannot be calculated with a reasonable degree of approximation; a hard shelf of spar in sinking, or the cutting of a small course of ore in working, would alike upon the most plausible calculations of the ablest financial prophet—so it comes that the capital of a mine is called up as occasion requires. If money is wanted for machinery or other expensive plant, a call may be heavy; if for ordinary working expenses, it may be light; but, heavy or light, these terms are strictly comparative, as the meetings of shareholders are, in the great majority of cases, held at short intervals of time, so securing efficient administrative supervision, and preventing the necessity for what would be understood in common parlance as a heavy call at any time on the pockets of the adventurers.

British Mining, owing to the circumstances just narrated, is obviously as easy a field for investment as can well be imagined. The holder of money is not, as in railways, canals, and other large undertakings, obliged to part at once with a sum in gross, which in the long run may never be wanted for the purposes of the enterprise, and so be mulet of the profits which its possession might obtain; but gradually contributes to the expenses of the project, until such time as he either retires from the association, or the mine becomes self-supporting.

SPECIAL INFORMATION.

The writer, entertaining a strong opinion that the public only require the very fullest information as to the antecedents and present position of our best mines, in order to be convinced as to their value as investments, he has determined to carefully investigate and consider the eligibility as channels for investment both of mines which have a market value owing to being well known, and others only requiring to be well known in order to be patronised; but as this is a work of some labour, and as it would be impossible, owing to the length to which the descriptions will run, to publish them in extenso, Mr. PIKE will from week to week announce the names of the mines on which he is prepared to advise, and will cheerfully give to the general public, as well as his clients, free of any charge whatever, the very best information in his power, a very long residence in Cornwall, coupled with ten years' practice in the London markets, enabling him to speak from personal knowledge of nearly the whole of our Cornish, Devon, and Welsh Mines. The mines to which his attention is particularly directed this week are Pentre Lygan, North Great Work, and South Frances.

THE BOLD FINANCIAL SCHEMES OF THE CONFEDERATE STATES OF AMERICA.

THE impression very generally entertained a few months ago that but for the judicious action of the New York banks in placing their specie in a common stock for the assistance of their customers, a crisis more aggravated than that of 1857 would have been experienced in America appears now to be abundantly justified. Since the accession of Mr. Lincoln to the Presidency on the 4th of March, it is said that scarcely a single payment has been made on Southern account in New York; and when the magnitude of the commercial interests of New York in the Southern States is considered, the suspension of intercourse and of collections would, without the intervention of the banks, no doubt have speedily occasioned an alarming crash. From that the community have been spared; but it now seems as if the New York banks were entering upon a new line of policy, and were suffering the firms which they sustained three months ago to succumb one by one. Already a number of old-established houses which passed scatheless through the trying ordeal of 1857 have closed their doors, and it is beginning to be feared in well-informed financial circles at New York that a state of things similar to that which would have been occasioned had the New York banks at the outset done nothing, is on the point of being arrived at, but—which makes a considerable difference—in a graduated kind of way. Step by step, the great Southern trading interest of New York, Boston, and Philadelphia is disappearing, and the bankers of those three cities are being left with securities which at the moment are entirely worthless. We mention this not with the view of exciting uneasiness in the public mind, for the point has not been reached when the position of the New York banks themselves may be questioned, but with the double purpose of putting the public on their guard, and of directing attention to the bold financial schemes of President Davis and his colleagues, to which, we are informed, the altered policy of the New York banks is wholly owing.

The authorities of the Confederate States, determined that the independence of their country shall be recognised, no matter at what cost, have in contemplation a complete change of the banking system of the Confederate States, framed with a view to the steadfast prosecution of the war. We will describe the proposed scheme, merely premising that modifications may become necessary through the opposition of the Southern bankers, and through the prospect of intervention on the part of France and England. It is proposed to withdraw the whole existing paper currency of the Confederate States, and to substitute a currency of Confederate State Bonds of as low a denomination as twenty dollars, or four pounds sterling. The amount of such Confederate currency is to be determined by the amount of cotton, tobacco, rice, and sugar which planters and others may place in the hands of the authorities. When the independence of the Confederate States shall have been recognised the project is to ship the produce on account of the Confederate Government, and on the returns of the shipments being made, to cancel an equal amount of bonds in circulation. The old currency, it is argued, might then be restored, if deemed advisable, and trade would fall into its accustomed channels.

This scheme, the credit of which, we believe, is claimed by President Davis, has disconcerted the New York bankers in no small degree, as it is apprehended that the observance of good faith is only requisite to enable the South to maintain the war in this way for a prolonged period. The planters would be reimbursed by bonds representing property not very subject to depreciation, and this property, on the conclusion of the war, would find a ready market in foreign countries. Moreover, as the Confederate States must, in a great measure, be dependent on themselves during the progress of the war for wheat, corn, dairy produce, hogs, and cattle, the calculation of the Government is that the planters will produce cotton, tobacco, rice, and sugar, in greatly diminished quantities. It is thence inferred that the stock of these articles in the hands of the Government will probably not be excessive when the war is ended. It is hardly necessary to point to the important bearing which a scheme of this kind may have upon our cotton and other manufacturing interests.

In another part of the scheme we have also an interest. As already remarked, the proposed Confederate Bonds are not to be of a lower denomination than twenty dollars, and the present one dollar bank currency is to be withdrawn. The vacuum is proposed to be filled with specie drawn from the Eastern States and from Europe. For this purpose a sum equal to £6,000,000 has been named, and it is considered that three-fourths of the amount will be required in silver. We need scarcely say that the withdrawal of this large amount from New York and Europe would be most embarrassing. But here arises the very pertinent question—In what way can the Southern States control so large a sum? English capitalists will not touch Southern State stocks or railways, no matter how great may be the inducement offered, and, concerned though we are about the supply of cotton, few will be so foolhardy as to make advances on cotton stored in the Confederate States.

In so far, therefore, as the scheme of finance referred to contemplates a heavy draught upon our stock of specie, we think it may for the present be disregarded, since we cannot be made to pay money to the Confederate States unless we owe it to them; and if they withhold their cotton and other produce from us, we shall owe them nothing. But in so far as the scheme proposes to withhold these commodities, of which we shall have urgent want, it ought not to be passed by slightly, seeing the magnitude of the British interests which are involved.

THE ENORMOUS EXPENDITURE OF FRANCE.

WE did the French Government an injustice the other week when we stated that its expenditure amounted to £79,000,000 per annum, for it appears on a more careful analysis that the total for the current year will reach the stupendous sum of £83,095,529! The recent debate on the Budget in the Chambers has drawn out a few facts of particular interest as indicating that the characteristic mystification of the French estimates of income and expenditure will probably end as usual in an enormous deficit and another large loan. According to M. Gouin, who professed to give a true account of the French Budget, (and as his statement was not denied by the Ministers, we presume it may be accepted as true,) the Budget of 1861, as originally voted, provided for—

An expenditure of .. .. . £73,604,874

Since then there have been the following additional items, namely:—

Supplementary votes .. .. .	£1,698,655
Additions to the Army .. .. .	2,880,000
Do. to the Navy .. .. .	1,320,000
New Opera House .. .. .	40,000
Purchase of Menton and Roquebrune .. .. .	160,000
Purchase of the Campana Collection at Rome .. .. .	192,000
Extraordinary Public Works .. .. .	1,800,000
Railways constructed by the State .. .. .	1,400,000

Total Expenditure .. .. .	£83,095,529
Estimated Receipts .. .. .	69,450,542

Thus showing a deficit of... .. £13,644,987

Which is to be met as follows, viz.:—

Diversion of the Sinking Fund .. .. .	£5,500,480
Army Dotation Fund .. .. .	1,800,000
Creation of Floating Debt .. .. .	5,000,000

So that there still remains an apparent deficit of £1,344,507.

It will be noticed that at the very time when the country is suffering sadly from a deficient harvest and from the huge burthen of taxation, the Government lavishes £192,000 for the purchase of a collection of works of art at Rome, and devotes an additional sum of £160,000 to the purchase and annexation of a few more square miles of territory in Italy. Such is apparently the passion of the Emperor for territorial aggrandisement that neither the pecuniary embarrassments of his Government nor the prospect of reawakening the susceptibilities of Europe, already justly roused by his rapacious appropriation of Savoy and Nice, could restrain him from catching at the offer of the patrimony of the petty Prince of Monaco.

As to the manner in which the deficit above shown has been met, nothing can be more unsound. The sinking fund—which, by the bye, is never more than nominally respected—has been once more diverted from its legitimate object. The appropriation of the "Army Dotation Fund" is another expedient dictated by a shifty, hand-to-mouth system of finance. Finally, the increase of £5,000,000 in the floating debt, besides involving a violation of sound financial principles, serves to explain the necessity under which the Government lately found itself of granting an increased rate of interest on the whole of the unfunded debt. This is one of the points whereon it makes a rod to scourge itself with.

Some further explanation may probably be considered desirable with regard to the manner in which the enormous supplementary expenses above shown have been created. It appears, according to M. Olivier and M. Picard, that the Army, as fixed in the Budget Estimates, consisted of 400,000 men, independently of the army of reserve, whereas there are actually under arms 467,000, being 67,000 men, besides 12,000 horses, more than were voted in the Budget. Again: by the Navy Estimates the number of ships in commission and reserve was to be 281, with 31,025 seamen and 17,919 marines, but the navy is actually stronger by 110 vessels of war, and by 12,000 seamen. This has raised the expenditure from the £19,959,513 estimated in the Budget, to £24,750,000 actually spent. Imagine the sensation and alarm that would be occasioned in England were it discovered that Government, after taking Parliamentary sanction for an outlay of twenty millions on the national forces, had deliberately kept on foot a much larger number of men than that authorised, and thus had raised the expenditure to twenty-five millions! Yet in France these things meet with nothing more than a passing challenge by two or three independent representatives of the people; and their remonstrances, listened to with impatience by the packed assembly which holds the national purse-strings, are brushed on one side by a mere wave of the ministerial wand. Either these matters must be reformed, or there is no permanence in the present régime.

It is true that in England our expenses have risen from £54,185,136 in 1848 to £70,000,000 in 1861, but the interest on the National Debt amounted

In 1848 to	..	..	..	..	..	£28,563,517
In 1861 to	..	..	..	..	..	26,833,470

Being a decrease of £1,730,047, whereas the interest on the French funded debt alone

In 1848 was	..	..	..	..	..	£6,920,000
In 1861 is	..	..	..	..	..	13,200,000

This is an increase of £6,280,000, or nearly 100 per cent. The increase in the unfunded debt is at the same time enormous, and will hereafter cause the Government great inconvenience. We can imagine these contrasts to be highly annoying to the Government of France, but there is no gainsaying the figures.

The Emperor has with great ingenuity contrived to draw forth no small portion of the hoarded wealth of France by inducing the small proprietors to invest their savings in the loans which he has created, and which, issued at low prices, have almost invariably gone to a premium—thus giving the subscribers an actual profit if they have sold, and a profit on paper if they have not. This system of itself has attached a great number of persons to the Imperial Government and dynasty. But there is a possibility, considering the relations which at present exist between Napoleon and the Church, that future loans may meet with less support in many of the departments. However this may be, it is clear that in raising loans, year after year, the Government of France is sparing the present generation at the cost of its successor. It is equally clear that, to put out new stock at a low price, is to give a bonus to the present subscribers at the cost of the succeeding generation. It would be only a few degrees more opposed to economical practice were the Emperor to raise a loan for the express purpose of making a present to every one of his present loving subjects.

The more we see of the resources of France, the more faith do they inspire; but when we find England staggering under an expenditure of £70,000,000 a-year, and know that it cannot be continued permanently here without causing the greatest discontent and inconvenience, we may be sure it cannot continue in France without exciting something worse. Ultimately such a system must come to a standstill. The alternative appears to be—either speedy repentance and reform, or bankruptcy, revolution, and repudiation of the national debt. If ever democracy raises its head again in France—and it is a plant which thrives all the more strongly, if secretly, in the hotbed of Imperial oppression—there is great danger that the national debt, to the amount of which such enormous additions are now being made—will be inveigled against and actually attacked, as an essentially Imperial institution. If ever the French streets and public buildings revert from an Imperial to a Republican nomenclature, the great book of the national debt may not escape. Such things have been witnessed before. In addition to these evils, there is the contingency of fresh wars being undertaken by Napoleon III., with the double and astute object of amusing the overgrown army, and dazling the people into forgetfulness of their burthens.

In face of such dread contingencies, have we not reason for keeping an anxious eye on the present lavish expenditure of France, even apart from its lamentable influence upon our own expenditure? The dying warning bequeathed to his successors by Louis XIV.—a monarch second to none in magnificence, and to few in wisdom—was, “Avoid wars and architecture.” His advice on both points is singularly disregarded by the present Government.

TURKISH FINANCE—THE POSITION OF THE HOLDERS OF THE LOAN OF 1858.

SUCH of our readers as are interested in Turkish credit and Turkish securities will do us the justice to admit that we have not raised the question of the position of the Loan of 1858 one moment too soon. Neither have we been premature in urging the bondholders to action. In our City Article will be found the particulars of two or three important matters which have occurred this week affecting the Loan. We beg the especial attention of the creditors to one phrase which is made use of by Mr. Hanson, in telegraphing to Messrs. Dent, Palmer, and Co., the contractors. He says:—“Some of the Customs have been withdrawn from the bankers; proceeds payable to the Syndicate. I feel confident of the September dividend.” This is the first public expression of apprehension that the bondholders have heard. If they are wise, this casual warning, though it may somewhat startle them, will spur them to increased vigilance, and, if necessary, to combined action. We tell them they have been too supine in the matter throughout. For our own part we believe that the crisis in their fate was the moment when it was yet uncertain whether the Turkish Government would accede to the urgent representations made to it for the remittance of the Constantinople Customs Revenues, month by month, to London. But the Government has consented; it has done more—it has signified its assent in the most formal and solemn manner, through its Minister of Foreign Affairs and through its Ambassador in London. It is of the deepest importance for the bondholders to perceive, and, if need be, to unite in action upon the ground that the Government has now deliberately given a fresh pledge in respect of this Loan. That pledge it must redeem in the most complete manner. If there should be any sign of drawing back, a gross breach of faith will be committed, and there will be reason for the immediate appointment of a Committee of Bondholders, charged to bring the proper amount of pressure to bear both upon the British and Turkish Governments. Let the bondholders, we repeat, unite on this ground. Let the instant test of the good faith and sincerity of the Porte be its rigid adherence to the stipulations lately entered into. And, unless these stipulations are immediately carried out to the very letter, let the bondholders take their own independent action, and stand up manfully for their interests. It is much better that the test should turn upon this preliminary point, than that the contingency of such a catastrophe as a suspension of the dividend should be supinely awaited. If the punctual remittance of the Customs Revenues to London as fast as they are collected can be secured—if, to employ a rude figure, a pipe can be laid down between the Constantinople Custom-house and the Bank of England—there can be no fear as to the dividend, for it is admitted that the revenues in question are more than sufficient to meet the interest and sinking fund of the Loan. Question of right there can be none; for the branches of revenue hypothecated are the inalienable property of the bondholders, of which no power on earth can rightfully deprive them.

The bondholders will perceive that, although something has been done, much yet remains to be accomplished. The money which has hitherto come forward on account of the September dividend has come forward under the old and not under the new arrangement, as may be gathered from a communication from the Ottoman Bank given in our City Article. The new arrangement ought ere now to have been in operation, and producing fruit, in the shape of remittances to London. The delay is attributed to the necessity under which the Turkish Government found itself, of making arrangements to this effect with the bankers who farm the Constantinople Customs. It is stated that the consent of the bankers has now been obtained; and this is confirmed by Mr. Hanson's statement that “some of the Customs have been withdrawn from the bankers.” But, if some, why not all, the whole of the Constantinople Customs being the property of the bondholders, by the terms of the Loan contract? Again: Mr. Hanson states that “the proceeds” are made “payable to the Syndicate.” What the bondholders require to know is, whether the payment is a direct one, without the intervention of any Government office whatever? If any intervention of that kind be required, they will not be satisfied, knowing as they do the system of delays which prevails in the public service in Turkey. What is wanted is simply the establishment of such a plan as shall cause the proceeds of the Customs to flow to London as a fixed and regular arrangement—an arrangement which not only shall require no official interference to keep it going, but which would require a breach of official good faith and duty before it could be impeded in any way. And besides being what is wanted, this is precisely what the bondholders have a perfect right to demand. We have said that a good deal remains yet to be done. We are not yet at all satisfied that the revenues are placed under the control of the Syndicate in the absolute manner in which they ought to be. Until this is done, nothing is safe.

The announcement in the communication from the Ottoman Bank that Mr. Gilbertson has been appointed a member of the Syndicate, in the room of the late Mr. F. de P. Falconnet, has been received with satisfaction. No man is better fitted for the post, in point both of character and of business qualifications. It is quite an irregularity that Mr. Falconnet's place at the board has been permitted to remain vacant so long. The appointment of Mr. Gilbertson may, we hope, be regarded as an indication that the importance of the present crisis to the credit of Turkey and to the interests of the bondholders is becoming recognised.

We will only remark, further, that in all they demand now the bondholders are demanding less than was stipulated on their behalf in the Loan contract. Reverting to the original prospectus, several interesting clauses appear. It provides that the Imperial Government will appoint a special Commission for the purpose of superintending the collection of these revenues, composed of five members, two of whom are to be named by the Government, and two by the contractors for the Loan; the president to be the Minister of Finance. The gentlemen appointed by the contractors will act as trustees for the bondholders, and will have a voice equal to that of the remaining members of the Commission. The Commission will be instructed by the Imperial Government to take such measures as shall ensure a sum equal to three months' interest on the Loan being always in the hands of the Commissioners; and that remittances are made to the Bank of England through the agency of the Ottoman Bank to provide cash for the payments of interest or principal, at least one month before their becoming due. The stipulations which we have marked in italics have notoriously not been adhered to; and this—we will not say breach of faith, but neglect—on the part of the Turkish Government perfectly justifies the bondholders, and those who act on their behalf, in taking the most energetic and instant action for their protection.

THE INCREASE IN OUR EXPORTS TO FRANCE UNDER THE NEW TREATY.

WHEN it is considered how great an influence the import or export of bullion has on the money market, it is a matter of congratulation that the balance of trade with France seems to have become somewhat more equally adjusted since the New Treaty of Commerce began to come into operation. The advantage will probably be felt in a more marked degree when the Treaty comes into full force. It would seem, from all the figures, that the balance of trade with France has hitherto been between six and seven millions sterling per annum against us, and this had to be discharged in gold or silver. But when we compare our exports to France for the year ending the 31st March, 1861, with those for the corresponding period of 1860, we find an increase of no less than £4,811,000. The totals are:—In 1860, £9,631,200; in 1861, £14,442,200. It is additionally satisfactory to find that the increase has been spread over most of the articles exported, thus showing beyond a question an extended commercial intercourse between the two countries. The principal articles which exhibit an increase, are the following:—

		1860.		1861.
Cottons ... ..	yards	9,445,191	...	10,664,846
Cotton yarn ... ..	lbs.	418,054	...	523,202
Linseed oil ... ..	galls.	1,400,671	...	2,878,022
Wool ... ..	lbs.	6,283,511	...	8,551,562
Woollen yarn ... ..	"	824,544	...	1,180,256
Cocoa ... ..	"	149,335	...	1,040,244
Coffee, British Possessions	"	352,244	...	4,503,486
Do. Foreign ... ..	"	98,200	...	432,187
Silk, raw ... ..	"	1,477,876	...	3,442,249
Do. thrown ... ..	"	98,823	...	245,059
Wool, British Possessions	"	12,996,427	...	16,893,477
Do. Foreign ... ..	"	242,341	...	1,002,852

And, in "all other articles" the increase has been in value from £628,852 to £1,143,669. It may be gathered from the nature of the articles in which the bulk of the increase has taken place, that not only must the manufacturing interest in France have been greatly benefitted, but likewise the consumer.

Surely we may be permitted to hope that when the people of France begin really to perceive the advantage that may be gathered from extended commercial intercourse with us, and when they learn, too, that the people of England entertain not only no animosity, but feelings of cordial regard and respect for them, there will be a better prospect of a cessation of the costly armaments which the two Governments are sullenly preparing against each other. If they are not against each other, against whom are they directed? Where is the foe?

Meanwhile, to revert to another financial aspect of the question, we may point out that the increase that has taken place latterly in our exports to France has evidently contributed in no small degree to the influx of gold from the Continent, which has enabled us to bear without actual inconvenience the continued drain of specie to America. In some quarters it is argued that we are merely borrowing capital from the Continent, under the inducement of the high rates which we offer for it, as compared with the rates on the Continent. It is thence inferred that, directly money becomes any easier here, the capital borrowed will flow back again. To a certain extent, no doubt, this argument is correct, for whenever the value of money is relatively higher here, the effect referred to is naturally produced. But the figures above given go to show that a good deal of the gold which we are receiving from France is in payment for the increased quantities of goods which France has taken from us, either for her own use or in connexion with her transit trade with other countries.

ANGLO-INDIAN SECURITIES.—THE POINTS OF DIFFERENCE BETWEEN THE RUPEE LOANS AND THE INDIA FIVE PER CENTS.

THE question referred to in the following letter from a correspondent is probably not without some general interest:—

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

"Sir,—You have devoted so much attention to Anglo-Indian securities that I hope you will be good enough to explain the great difference between the prices of the Five per Cents. negotiated in London, and the Five per Cent. Paper Enfaced before the imposition of Indian Income-tax, and, therefore (as I believe) exempt from that impost. The enfaced paper can be converted into the form of stock, and transferred at the Bank of England. It may be liable to stamp duty on conveyance after conversion, but I believe the conversion itself involves no expense; moreover, the Rupee Loans are not redeemable for some years after the British Loan.—I am, sir, your obedient servant, "LEX."

The chief explanation we can suggest is, that the public taste runs in favour of the India Five per Cent. Stock raised in London, and that this circumstance renders it by far the most marketable of the various kinds of Indian Government securities. Marketability, our correspondent will admit, is a great advantage. It may also be pointed out that, although no addition is now being made to the Rupee debt, a considerable amount would unquestionably come into the English market from the hands of holders in India, were the price to be raised much higher here. So far as the home-market is concerned, it may be said that there is the contingency of a large supply determinable merely by the question of price, whereas, on the other hand, the supply of the India Five per Cent. Stock will be very moderate, now that the Indian finances are improving. A higher rate of interest may unquestionably be obtained by an investment in the Rupee Loans, the security of which is identical, whilst their conditions are also framed more in the interest of the holder than those which obtain in the case of the India Five per Cent. Stock; yet the former being originally native Indian securities, will probably never stand in the home market in the same estimation as the latter, which was raised at home. Any future loan which the Indian Government may require for railway or other purposes will doubtless be raised in the latter form, until the arrival of the time when its credit shall have improved so far as to allow of money being procured, if needed, at a reduced rate of interest. Meanwhile, as the amount of the Five per Cent. Stock in existence increases, it will become still more marketable. Perhaps it would suffice merely to reply to our correspondent that the one kind of security is in fashion, and the other is not, for the public taste in the matter of investments is oftentimes so arbitrary and capricious that mere fashion may be said to have a great deal to do with it. We have no doubt that the price of the India Five per Cent. Stock will rise considerably above its present level, as soon as the coming Loan of £4,000,000 is settled. Persons who have now an interest in keeping the price down will then have an equal interest in raising it.

THE POSITION OF BRITISH LANDOWNERS IN BENGAL.

THE present position of British Landowners in Lower Bengal is a subject of deep importance—of importance only equal to the apathy with which it is treated by the British public, and by Parliament. In our impression of the 8th June, we explained the nature of the tenure by which estates are mostly held by European British subjects. Under this, the putnee or perpetual lease tenure, the default of the putneedar is clearly to the interest of the zemindar. The latter has already received a bonus for granting the lease; if the tenure lapses he regains his property, with all the improvements of his European tenant. The temptation, then, is very strong for the zemindar to encourage the ryots in the non-payment of rent. This should be borne in mind by those who desire to understand the merits of the question. It may, or may not be, that in this combination there is a conspiracy between the zemindars and the ryots, to expel Europeans from the interior of Bengal. Many well-informed persons think that to a great extent such is the case. At all events it is to the interest of the zemindar to oust his European tenant, and this expulsion must be the result of non-payment of rents by the ryots. The truth is, the ryots of Bengal have, during the past year, learnt a very dangerous power—the power of combination. They commenced by repudiating obligations to sow indigo. As British Landowners in Bengal generally possess also indigo factories, the indigo is intimately connected with the land question, and we must be permitted to say a few words on the subject. The "system" of indigo planting is founded on the national custom of paying in advance for labour, and for agricultural produce. This custom again rests on the method, or rather time, of realising the Government land-tax. The quarterly dates of payment are in March, June, September, and December. Rent for the land must be paid before the land has yielded its fruits. Ere the crop is fairly ripe the tax gatherer is at the door, and the ryot, who is not, as some ignorantly affirm, a capitalist, must borrow. In Bengal he applies either to the mahajun, who charges 50 to 70 per cent. interest, or to the indigo planter, who charges none. Hence the system of advances. Now, if a man receives ten shillings in advance for agricultural produce, he may from misfortune, indolence, or dishonesty only deliver six shillings worth. Where there is no summary or cheap process of law by which the balance of four shillings can be at once recovered, it may be to the interest of the advancer, indeed practically absolutely necessary, for him to carry the balance to account. Thus, balances may accumulate. In a country where the peasant inherits his holding with the debts contracted in connection with it, these balances may, in course of time, virtually affect the rate of payment received for his produce by a man who did not take the original advance. Now, this is precisely the case of the indigo planters and the ryots, putting that of the former in the worst point of view. Both classes have suffered from a vicious system, for which neither of them is responsible; a system which, springing from the oppressive character of the land-tax, has been welded into their commercial relations by bad government, bad laws, and expensive and corrupt courts, and perpetuated mainly by the policy which excluded European settlers and European civilisation from India. As might be expected, the present race of indigo manufacturers, men of education and of high moral principle, have worked the system as beneficently as possible. If unable to remunerate the ryot as they would wish in one way, they have done so in many others, often by foregoing balances altogether, more generally still by low assessment of the land. In spite of the disadvantages of the system, the fact is patent that their estates are gardens, and the districts where they are most numerous are the richest in Bengal. They are also among the few that have always yielded a large surplus revenue. During the mutiny they were, owing to the presence of the British settlers, the mainstay of the Government.

But to return to the land question. The combination not to fulfil indigo contracts has, as was predicted, extended to the repudiation of obligation to pay the land rent. Disturbances have taken place resulting in loss of life, not between the ryots and the servants of their European landlords, but between the ryots and the military police sent to enforce decrees for the payment of rent. The land-tax is the keystone of Indian finance. Our revenue from this source is this year about nineteen millions sterling. Its non-payment would be synonymous with the bankruptcy of the Indian Exchequer. No army could enforce its collection. We have no hesitation, then, in saying that a general repudiation by the ryots of their obligation to pay this tax, is the greatest danger which could possibly threaten our Indian empire. The germ of the danger exists in Bengal. The ryots have learned the power of combination, and are exerting it in the most dangerous direction. A system of taxation which leaves us so much in their power cannot be safe. We are aware that a sudden alteration of the land tenure would be undesirable, but we must, nevertheless, desire to see it placed on a safer footing. We advocate the fee-simple tenure, and, to secure it, have suggested the optional and gradual commutation of the land-tax. Let the principle be at least acknowledged in our Indian policy, if it cannot meet at once with the practical recognition given to it already by Lord Stanley. The redemption, as his lordship says, of an obligation to pay a certain amount per annum by the payment of an immediate equivalent, all existing tenures being held sacred, in no way affects the financial position of the Government, if the amount be applied to the extinction of the debt. It is necessary, no doubt, to secure that the amount received is so applied. We think this is quite possible, by the deposit of Government Bonds as security for the land-tax. If a zemindar is allowed to deposit Government securities in the collector's office, the interest on which represents the amount of his land-tax, the collector could with one hand pay the zemindar the interest due to him by Government, and with the other the Government claim on the zemindar for land-tax. It would be a mere transfer of account by which the zemindar would, so long as his securities were lodged with the collector, virtually hold his land under a fee-simple tenure, while practically the Government debt would be extinguished to the amount of the securities so lodged. In this way the Indian Government would not have an opportunity of wasting the revenue derived from the sale of land, and the duties of the collector and the expenses of his office would likewise be very considerably reduced. It appears to us that the principle of a secure land tenure might by some such plan be practically recognised.

WAR LOANS IN AMERICA.

ONE of the first effects of the war in America is a great demand for capital on the part of each of the States which are arming for the strife. The latest facts bearing on this subject are noticed as follows in a recent circular of Mr. Satterthwaite:—

Amongst the various States advertising for loans, we notice:—

Indiana wants .....	$2,000,000 at 6 per cent.....	for 20 years.
Illinois do. ....	1,500,000 do. ....	for 18 do.
New Jersey do. ....	1,000,000 do. ....	for 18 do.
Ohio do. ....	3,000,000 do. ....	for 18 do.
Vermont do. ....	500,000 do. ....	for 10 do.

Such is the effect of the civil war during the two months since its outbreak, and of course should it continue for a protracted period, the money to be raised in all quarters, from North to South, must be very large.

In the political situation there was no material alteration; there appears to be no approach to a settlement other than that of the sword, and so far as information can be obtained, it would seem that the Secession forces are so closely hemmed in at Harper's Ferry, that they must either fight a battle or retire.

As a proof of the soundness of Northern securities over Southern, we notice that a large lot of Massachusetts Five per Cent. Stock sold in Boston over par, whilst Virginia, Tennessee, and North Carolina Six per Cent., only commanded from 40 to 50

THE STATE OF TRADE.

(COMPILED FROM NUMEROUS LOCAL REPORTS.)

THE accounts from the manufacturing districts this week are generally unfavourable, notwithstanding the fine weather. At Manchester there appears to be a decided increase of depression. In the metal and hardware districts, as well as in other quarters, employment is slack and diminishing.

The aspect of trade at Manchester is described as very much the same as it was last week. In yarns there is perhaps less doing, but no quotable reduction in value has taken place. The small business now going on is chiefly for the Continent. In the market for piece goods there is a more confirmed depression. Goods suitable for India and China are mostly rather weaker in price. Probably a large business could be done if sellers would make some concession in their terms, but the margin between the cost of the cotton and the value of the fabric for sale was probably never so small as it is at present. In T-cloths and longcloths prices are sustained, though there is no great demand. Printing cloth remains in the same depressed position as before. On the whole, the tone of the cloth-market is flat, with a general tendency of prices in favour of buyers. There are at last some indications of an actual resort to working short time. One or two large spinning and manufacturing establishments at Darwen are already working four days a-week only, and the example is now likely to be followed.

At Leeds the markets in the cloth-halls have been of a fair character, the tone being a little better. The demand is chiefly for the home trade, the prospects of which are improving in consequence of the fineness of the weather.

At Rochdale both the flannel and the wool markets have been very inanimate, and manufacturers, from the slackness in the demand, are beginning to reduce their rate of production.

The report from Bradford, dated Thursday, states that the business doing in worsted yarns is very meagre, and the great object of spinners is to curtail production to the utmost extent possible. There is a fair business doing in pieces, particularly in fancy goods for the home trade. The American houses are doing nothing, and their department of the trade usually amounts to one-third of the production of the market.

At Leicester there is not much activity in the hosiery trade, and buyers for the most part hold off purchasing, except in small lots. Business also at Hinckley, Loughborough, and the country districts remains extremely dull. Many framework knitters continue unemployed.

At Nottingham there is no improvement in the lace trade. The cotton branch is as depressed as it has been for a considerable time past, without much hope of amendment until the affairs in America become more settled. In hosiery there is a moderate amount of business doing for the home market, and a few foreign orders are executing; but the state of both the staple trades is far from encouraging.

In the metal and hardware districts no improvement of any kind is visible: with the exception of the military gun trade, at Birmingham, there is scarcely a branch of business in which an average trade is being done. The result is that manufacturers are hard put to it to keep their men working four days; but, in very many cases, they are not making more than two or three days. At West Bromwich inactivity is the prevailing feature. The iron trade remains in a very depressed state. The preliminary meeting takes place at the Steepway, on the 27th instant, and it is rumoured that some of the leading firms are in favour of a reduction in prices. The wages scale is to be reduced forthwith.

THE FORTHCOMING RAILWAY DIVIDENDS.

In good quarters, the forthcoming dividends of some of the principal railway companies are estimated as follows:—London and North-Western at the rate of  $4\frac{1}{2}$  to  $4\frac{3}{4}$  per cent. per annum; Great Western, about 3 per cent. per annum; Midland, 6 or  $6\frac{1}{4}$  per cent. per annum, but probably 6; Lancashire and Yorkshire,  $5\frac{1}{4}$  to  $5\frac{3}{4}$  per cent. per annum; and London and South-Western,  $4\frac{1}{4}$  per cent. per annum.

WITH regard to the new China mail arrangements, the London and China Telegraph mentions that "measures are in progress for inducing Government to continue the mail, the result of which will in due time be announced."

LETTERS FOR CONSTANTINOPLE VIA VIENNA AND KUSTENDJIE.—A postal communication has been established between Vienna and Constantinople by way of Tchernavoda and Kustendjie. Mails for conveyance by this route are despatched from Vienna twice a week—viz., on Mondays and Thursdays; and letters from the United Kingdom intended to be forwarded by such mails will, in the ordinary course of post, be in time for the mail of Monday if despatched from London via Ostend on the evening of the previous Friday, and for the mail of Thursday if despatched from London on the evening of the previous Monday. Letters for Constantinople, which the senders may desire to forward by this route, must be specially addressed "via Kustendjie." The postage chargeable upon letters will be the same as via Trieste—viz., 1s. 1d. for a letter not exceeding half an ounce in weight, and so on. Letters for Constantinople may also be forwarded by the quick mail from Paris, if specially directed "via Paris, Vienna, and Kustendjie." Letters intended to be sent by this route must be posted in or reach London in time for the day mail to France on the mornings of Saturday and Tuesday. The postage upon letters thus sent will be at the rate of 1s. 2d. for each quarter of an ounce. In either case the prepayment of the postage will be optional with the sender.—By command of the Postmaster-General, ROWLAND HILL, Secretary.—General Post-office, June 17.

EARLY NEWS AND STOCK JOBBER.—Sir Henry Furness, a bank director, was the Reuter of those times. He paid for constant despatches from Holland, Flanders, France, and Germany; his early intelligence of every battle, and especially of the fall of Namur, swelling his profits amazingly. King William gave him a diamond ring as a reward for early information; yet he condescended to fabricate news, and his plans for influencing the funds were probably the types of similar modern tricks. If Furness wished to buy, his brokers looked gloomy; and, the alarm spread, completed their bargains. In this manner, prices were lowered four or five per cent. in a few hours. The Jew Medina, as we are assured, granted Marlborough an annuity of £6,000, for permission to attend his campaigns, and amply paid himself by the use of the early intelligence he obtained. At the same period, Thomas Guy haunted Change-alley, and gathered the gold which ultimately paid for building his noble hospital.—City Press.

THE FLOW OF MONEY IN THE STOCK EXCHANGE.—A subscription at the Stock Exchange is remarkable for numerous names, and large contributions. Re-count a tale of sorrow among the members, and their hearts, "open as day to melting charity," flow out in unstinted benefactions. Speak of a poor baby, whose widowed mother struggles for its admission to Wanstead, her success is certain; but then objects of a very different character—prizefighters—Heenan and his conqueror—excite equal sympathy, or rather more; for mounted on tables they are vociferously cheered, and walk off with heavy bags of sovereigns. Little or no distinction is attempted as to the claims of applicants. "Do they want?" is the sole inquiry. "Let us help them." Certainly, stock-jobbing is a peculiar phase in the national character. The professed members of the art are few, but their sayings and doings leaven the whole of society. Hence betting-books, the world of excitement at horse-races, the passion for wagers (another inveterate feature of Capel-court), and all the thousand and one modes of secret gambling, as well as the more brazen vice which stalks in the sun, is found in all our great cities, and especially in London.—City Press.

THE BANK OF ENGLAND.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—Such is one's reverence for wealth and authority that my very hand falters when it has to trace a syllable not quite adulatory to the greatest money power in the world; but I find it impossible to fall in with those who look upon the Bank of England as the most self-denying of corporations, intent mainly on national interests, foremost in financial intelligence, watchful of trade and commerce, protector of industry and enterprise, anticipating every calamity, prepared for all emergencies—using, in fact, its vast powers essentially for the good of the country, the benefit of the people of England, and through them for the welfare of the human race and all that sort of thing.

Yet the privilege of making money or capital, if unrepresented notes be either, could hardly have been conceded except under some such notion, however ill-defined and ill-founded; for, as a simple bargain, it would be madness to furnish a lender, beyond the interest agreed upon, with an instrument for extorting as much more as convenient from the borrower. For this purpose the fourteen millions serve admirably well, and though in themselves a delusion, have obtained enormous importance.

Whatever may be the wisdom, sagacity, or philanthropy, devoted to the elevated sphere of action above indicated, and for which people believe this paper money to be intended, the Old Lady of Threadneedle-street manifestly does not hold the creed that virtue is its own reward. Her profits tell another tale; they have been as huge as her privileges. If there be no error in the figures now before me, the Bank of England on a capital, amounting in 1790 to £11,642,000, all lent to Government, was enabled to give up to 1830 in the shape of dividend, bonus and in increase of capital by one-fourth without payment from the stockholders, no less than fifty-five millions pounds sterling! Such is the reward of virtue in Threadneedle-street!

Myself too indolent to look into the subsequent accounts, I am willing to pay half-a-guinea to the first man who shall bring me a clear and reliable summary of the dividends and bonuses up to the end of 1860, that I may insert it in my next letter. To be sure, we know that Bank stock sells at a hundred pounds above its intrinsic value, proving that there is still some good business at the old shop, but the current price only proclaims the present: one would like to know a little about the past, the thirty intervening years—and if the result were to prove compatible with moderation and all the fine notions I have so complacently dwelt upon, there will be an obligation due to me from the Bank for justifying its ways and setting its merits in a tangible shape before an admiring world.

But neither Bank nor Government, nor any delegated body or authority, can be equal to the grandiose office of director, protector, or corrector-general in matters of industry, commerce, or money dealings; and as the most cunning of statesmen have ceased to cudgel their brains about balances of power or trade—as protection and sliding scale, once believed paramount conditions of British greatness and independence, have vanished from the statute-book—so also will it become patent that fourteen millions, or any other sum of unrepresented notes, are about the worst pap to nurse and fatten our energies upon, and that, however sublime the scheme of administration, practically it can be but a mockery and a delusion. Such administration would require knowledge greatly exceeding what the Philosopher in Rasselas wanted for his government of the weather—powers and performances far beyond human capacity. They may not be sought for, surely they never will be found, in Threadneedle-street.

To judge by appearances, the Bank has ever acted on surprise, not on foresight. When clouds thicken in the financial horizon, those not in the habit of using the Bank have no interest to sound the alarm, still less those whose pressing wants are ever supplied by that institution, lest disagreeable stringency might be hurried on. The financial history of 1857 furnishes an apt illustration. That a crisis was at hand many felt; that all Hamburg might stop payment in one day was conjectured as early as May in more than one commercial letter that came under my notice; that the Borough Bank paid 2 per cent. commission for vast sums raised in London on reissued bills, could be no secret; more strange still, it was known both at New York and at St. Petersburg that the Newcastle District Bank must go. Yet we find from the Parliamentary report subsequent to the panic, that on the 6th October only the latter difficulty became known to the Bank, inducing a series of advances of the rate, till then unparalleled, and hardly outstripped by those lately recorded. Yet the world believes that such a body can usefully regulate the dealings of the country, and must be entrusted for that purpose with the issue of fourteen millions of unrepresented notes!—I am, sir, yours,

MERCATOR.

THE GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY OF CANADA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—In one of your leading articles you pointed out the value of railway debentures as an investment, and the difference between them and preference shares. According to your views, it would seem that the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada must be deemed bankrupt; and it occurs to me to suggest to the holders of the ordinary debentures to ascertain whether they possess the powers usually appertaining to holders of such securities. If the shareholders cannot raise money to provide rolling stock, and so increase the profits, they cannot expect their creditors to continue patient. Assuming the profits of the half-year, ending 31st December, 1860, to have been £63,000, we have £109,000 for the year, and the annual charges amount to about £540,000, or if we add interest at 8 per cent. on £2,000,000 unsecured debts, we have £700,000 to be paid before dividend on stock. Now, I think, an average weekly receipt of £39,000 for twenty years is not a gloomy estimate, or 66½ per cent. for expenses, renewal of rails, &c., too high an allowance; and, on these assumptions, we have a net annual profit of £676,000 for twenty years. Possibly, you may be able to show good reasons for a more sanguine view of the position of shareholders. The postal subsidy, being a part of the "tolls," is mortgaged to the preference bondholders; and, I apprehend, it cannot be capitalised and used to discharge floating debts.—I am, sir, your obedient servant, LEX.

THE GREAT WESTERN OF CANADA RAILWAY.— MR. LAING'S REPLY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—From sympathy with the position of Mr. Cannan, Chairman of the late Committee of Investigation upon the affairs of the above Company, I crave to say a few words upon the important letter from that gentleman, printed in your last number, and to express my astonishment at the course which has been taken by the press generally, with reference to the charges affecting Mr. Laing as an original director of that Company. I concede at once that, at the present crisis of Indian affairs, any question which goes to the disturbance of confidence in the character of the Finance Minister, should be approached with great caution, and in a spirit of perfect equity and fair play towards him. But will anybody tell me that this object is likely to be promoted by the course adopted by the Times, which, in its City Articles, has from the very outset of the inquiry endeavoured to shield Mr. Laing at the expense of the Committee, and to cast suspicion and doubt upon their motives and character, including therein the respected Chairman, a gentleman whose position was in every respect entitled to consideration for any statements made by him as that of Mr. Laing himself? So far, then, from this having been effected by the course pursued, I verily believe that the tone adopted by the writer of the City Article has done more to increase the general distrust of Mr. Laing and of the whole system of management of public companies, than could any other proceeding.

In the course of his able letter, Mr. Cannan says that the Calcutta correspondent of the Times invokes the transfer of public indignation from Mr. Laing to the Committee of Investigation; and in so doing has given expression to sentiments which should have found an echo here if Mr. Laing had been unfairly treated; and, doubtless, this is the common sense view of the matter.

Speaking for myself, I must say that having read with the greatest attention of which I am capable the whole case, as well the charges as the defence of Mr. Laing, having compared dates and weighed the evidence, truth impels me to declare my inability to understand what the Times has been driving at, when it pretends that Mr. Laing's explanations have given complete satisfaction either in London or in Calcutta. Judging from the result of my own enquiries, I have arrived at the very opposite conclusion, and that Mr. Laing's conduct has afforded anything but satisfaction, except, indeed, to his friends connected with the Stock Exchange, such as assembled in great force at the "preliminary meeting" in the City, on the 5th of April last, when, having failed, through Mr. Sydney Smith, to prevail upon the Committee of Investigation to varnish their report, they laudably resolved to swamp that report at the meeting of the shareholders, by the usual process. But notwithstanding their vigorous effort the shares have not sympathised—they will not rise—confidence has not returned. The public is at last, I believe, fairly awake, and will not be persuaded—no, not even though the "City Article" pledge itself, and though Mr. Schuster (Mr. Laing's particular friend in the Crystal Palace scheme, who has watched him during the whole period of their valued connection) vouch for it, and even though the members of the Stock Exchange combine for the purpose of blockading the mysteries of this question against further investigation.—I am, &c.,

Elm Court, Temple, 18th June, 1861.

THAMES EMBANKMENT AND RAILWAY.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—In consequence of many inquiries which have been made, will you permit us, through your columns, to state that the Thames Embankment Bill which was thrown out on the second reading in the House of Commons on the 30th ult., had reference to a quite distinct undertaking, and was promoted by different parties from that comprised in the Bill entitled "The Thames Embankment and Railway," and which is still pending before Parliament, but the proceedings in which are suspended until the Royal Commission now considering the question, under the presidency of the Lord Mayor, shall have made their report. The great public interest felt on this question will, we trust, justify us in stating further that the objects comprised in the pending Bill, which was intended to carry out the plans commonly known as Mr. H. H. Bird's, are as follows:—

An embankment on the north shore of the Thames, between Westminster and Southwark bridges.

A public carriage road, supported on columns, about 10 feet above the level of such embankment, and connecting Whitehall with Bridge-street, Blackfriars.

A railway at a low level, commencing at the new Victoria station at Pimlico, and terminating at Queenhithe Dock, on the City side of Southwark-bridge.

A low level intercepting sewer.

A reservoir to compensate for the abstraction of tidal waters by the formation of the embankment, by which the "scour" of the river will not only be maintained, but may be increased at pleasure.

An ample provision of docks for the use of the various wharfingers, and the conversion of large portions of the intended embankment into public gardens.

These plans, thus shortly described, have not now for the first time been submitted to Parliament; but were carefully matured and approved by high authorities both in the engineering and commercial worlds, even before the appointment of the select committee of the House of Commons, which sat in the last session.

As, however, in accordance with the invitation put forth by the present Royal Commission, the plans have, in common with many others whose existence is of but very recent date, been submitted for their consideration, it would not be proper for us, pending the report of the Commission, to discuss in any way their particular merits.

It is, nevertheless, important that we should point out that, if the question of the embankment of the Thames is to be dealt with in the present session, of the desirability of which there can be no doubt, the pending Bill is the only means by which, in accordance with the standing orders and usages of Parliament, such a result can be obtained.

We may add our confident belief that whether the Royal Commission approve the particular plans referred to in the Bill, or desire any variation, the scope of the Bill is sufficient to enable their views to be carried out, even if they recommended the abandonment of the proposed railway, and the transferring of the powers from the promoters, who, as a private company, contemplate carrying out the undertaking without any expense to the public, to the Metropolitan Board of Works, or to any other public body to whom Parliament may prefer entrusting the execution of the undertaking, although such an arrangement would entail increased rates, or the continued burthen of the coal duties.

Our opinion on this point, based on good information, is materially strengthened by that expressed elsewhere, with reference to the numerous plans now under consideration, that in all substantial respects those many and multifarious designs reduce themselves to two or three types—we might almost say to one. We should think it hardly possible to disagree, except for a matter of a few inches in height or a few feet of surface, as the scope of deviation is much less than is generally supposed.

Permit us then, sir, to urge through you upon the authorities that advantage should be taken of the pending Bill, and to add that there is neither difficulty nor uncertainty in this year, though we will not answer for the next.—We are, &c.,

20, Change-alley, June 10.

CORNISH NOTES FOR "OUT-ADVENTURERS." By Joseph Yelloly Watson, F.G.S., &c., &c. Second Edition. Published at the Mining Journal Office.

THESE "Notes" were written during a fortnight's ramble among the mines of Cornwall and Devon. They give a succinct, and we believe, true description of the various mines which the author visited. They will be found extremely interesting by those who invest in this description of property. Mines, like the lotteries of old, contain comparatively few prizes and many blanks, but many of the blanks would be avoided by consulting respectable mining brokers, and of this class Mr. Watson is one.

We select the following extract as giving an idea of the clever style of this pamphlet, which we can conscientiously recommend to the consideration of those already interested and of those about to invest. We shall be very glad indeed to meet Mr. Watson again in an extension of his "Cornish Notes."

MAY 1.—I am writing this on the summit of Carn Camborne. Before me the blue sea, and the richest panoramic view in the world. By "richest," however, I do not mean in beautiful and verdant scenery, such as a novelist would describe, for between the Bristol Channel and Carn Camborne I see nothing as far as the eye can reach from east to west, but parched and barren ground, little mountains of rubbish, and tall dark stacks of chimneys; I see, in fact, the richest mineral district in the world lying at my feet. I am looking upon mines from which scores of families have been enriched, and many beggared. From up those dark shafts men have come, as working miners, with "stones of ore" in their pockets, the forerunners of fortunes which have made their descendants, in some cases, the largest landowners in the county, and in others, men of mark, of rank, and title. And now, as I look upon the apparently quiet scene, and watch the heavy beams of the engines work lazily up and down, thousands upon thousands of men are burrowing underground like moles—some seeking an "ignis fatuus," others working by the light of a farthing candle, the "keenly lode," and as they work enriching others, if not themselves. People may rail at mining as they will (and as they may have cause, perhaps, at such "mining" as they sometimes hear of in London), but what would England be without it? It is not only in itself a grand pursuit, but there is something enticing and even fascinating in it. The "captain," when he makes a rich discovery, is like a successful general, and becomes at once a man of mark; and we, the adventurers, are like his victorious army, only we get better paid. I am within the mark when I say that the group of mines before and around me have yielded mineral to the value of more than forty millions sterling. Just at my feet are Stray Park and Camborne Vean, the latter worked without once stopping for 120 years, and yielding for copper in early times enormous returns, and more than £200,000 in profit. Across the valley are the rich mines of West Seton, Wheal Seton, North Roskear and the Croftys. The former is now one of the most productive copper mines in the county—and North Roskear in former times made a profit of £100,000, and the Croftys, £300,000. Close in to my right is Dolcoath (which has of itself, as Captain Charles Thomas informed me, sold tin and copper to the value of five millions sterling). Cook's Kitchen, which has returned almost as much; then Tincroft and Carn Brea. At my back, and almost within a stone's throw, are Wheal Harriett and Condurow; and then to the east of these rich groups of Illogan and Redruth—South Frances, Basset, Buller, East Basset, &c. Captain Charles Thomas, the most experienced agent in the county, in a small work (to which I shall refer at a future time), entitled "Remarks on the Geology of Cornwall and Devon," calculates that the Camborne, Illogan, Redruth, and Gwennap Mines, all comprised within a run of six miles in length and two and a-half in width, have produced copper ores to the value of thirty millions sterling, and are still producing £500,000 a-year in copper, and about £120,000 a-year in tin.

THE CROPS IN FRANCE.—The weather in France is as favourable as it could be for the crops. The hay harvest has commenced; beetroots promise well. Colza plants are ripening under excellent conditions, and the wheat is fast filling. The journals of the departments of the south and centre represent that the rains of the last few days have done great good to the crops.

Circulation Active.. .. .	19,184,870	.. Decrease	159,220

Total Reserve (Notes and Coin) in Banking Department .. .. .	7,685,923	.. Increase	543,109

The position of the Bank is steadily becoming stronger. There has been an addition to its resources both under the head of Deposits and of Securities, the latter having matured to some extent, and the void not having been filled up by the commercial demand. The Reserve of Notes has accordingly increased more than half a million. The addition to the Coin and Bullion is likewise considerable, notwithstanding the continued shipments to America.

THE MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 21.

THE Discount Market this week has not experienced any alteration of striking importance, but during the last two days the demand has become somewhat brisker. This was more especially observable to-day, an increased movement being experienced at the Bank of England, where the applications during all the earlier part of the week had been slack. The market must be expected to continue rather tight until the quarter is turned, and the mercantile engagements maturing in the first week in July are met. Considering the contraction of trade which is taking place in all directions, and the fact that, notwithstanding the drain to America, gold is accumulating in the Bank, there is an impression that the money market will then become easier, and that a moderate reduction will take place in the rate of discount.

In Lombard-street to-day the rates for the best bills were  $5\frac{7}{8}$  to 6 per cent.

In the Stock Exchange money has been much wanted, and commanded to-day  $5\frac{1}{4}$  per cent. on Government securities.

The despatches received to-day from New York quote the exchange rather flatter, at 105 $\frac{1}{2}$ . There is thus a prospect that specie will continue to be shipped in moderate amounts from this side.

The large sum of £472,889 in specie has been sent to the United States and Canada since the 14th inst.—viz., by the Europa, £191,770; Etna, £236,119; Hammonia, £5,000; and by the Nova Scotian (for Quebec), £40,000.

As much as £150,000 in gold was sent into the Bank yesterday. On the other hand, 45,000 sovereigns were withdrawn for exportation to New York by the Persia on Saturday, which will doubtless take a much larger sum. To-day the Bank bought £56,000 in gold.

The Pera took on the 20th inst. £200,649 in specie for the East, including £100,019 for Calcutta on Government account. The total for Calcutta is £125,019; Madras, £13,792; Shanghai, £32,013; Hong Kong, £19,325; Ceylon, £5,000; Alexandria, £3,500; and for Foo-chow-Foo, £2,000. The whole is silver, except £12,292 gold.

Seven Australian ships are known to be at sea, with £582,000 in gold; but little is yet due.

THE BULLION MARKET.

With reference to the movements in bullion and in the Indian Government paper, Messrs. Pixley, Abell, and Langley report as follows:—

GOLD.—We have to report the arrival of two more vessels from Australia—the Kleber, with £35,500; and the Themis, with £94,000. Large amounts of gold coin have also come to hand from Constantinople and the Continent, and, as the demand for export is still very small, the Bank of England has purchased, during the past week, about £472,000, and further sums will be sent in. Sovereigns, however, continue to be sent to America, the Anglo-Saxon having taken £32,000, the Europa £191,770, and the Etna £236,119; the steamer to leave on Saturday will also take a considerable amount.

SILVER.—The market for Silver has experienced a further decline, the bars ex Atrato having been sold at 60 $\frac{3}{4}$ d. per oz. standard. The shipments to the East on mercantile account are now but small, the Pera having taken only £188,357 to India and China, and of this amount Government sent £100,000. We quote the price as 60 $\frac{3}{4}$ d. per oz. standard, with but little business doing.

MEXICAN DOLLARS.—The dollars held over from the Tasmanian, in expectation of a rise, have been sold at 59 $\frac{3}{4}$ d. per oz., being a slight fall from the price at which the greater part of those brought by that vessel were sold on the 5th inst. There is but little doing in this coin, and we quote the price as 59 $\frac{3}{4}$ d. per oz., with a dull market.

EXCHANGE on India remains the same. Bank's Drafts on Bombay and Calcutta, 60 days' sight, are 1s. 11 $\frac{1}{4}$ d. to 2s.; Bills with Documents, 1s. 11 $\frac{1}{4}$ d. to 1s. 11 $\frac{3}{4}$ d.; Madras—Bank's Drafts, 60 days' sight, 1s. 11 $\frac{1}{4}$ d. to 1s. 11 $\frac{3}{4}$ d.

INDIA GOVERNMENT LOAN NOTES have improved since our last Circular, owing, no doubt, to the improvement which has taken place in India. Five per Cents. are 94, and Five-and-a-Half per Cents. 100 $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ .

THE EXCHANGES.

The Continental Exchanges this week have been generally firm. The exchange on Hamburg has moved in favour of this country. This afternoon the rates on that city and on Frankfort were rather better. Subjoined is our usual list:—

THE NEW INDIA LOAN.

The New India Five per Cent. Loan of £4,000,000 is expected to be placed on the market before the middle of July, or almost simultaneously with the payment of the dividends.

THE VICTORIA LOAN.

It appears that there is no immediate prospect of the £2,000,000 of Victoria Debentures, now in the hands of the London committee, being placed upon the market, no instructions to that effect having been received by the last mail from Melbourne.

THE TURKISH LOAN OF 1858.

Messrs. Dent, Palmer, and Co., the contractors for the Turkish Loan of 1858, on Tuesday caused the following telegram, addressed to them by Mr. C. S. Hanson, and dated Pera, June 17, to be posted up in the Stock Exchange:—"Some of the Customs withdrawn from bankers: proceeds payable to the Syndicate. I feel confident of the September dividend."

The following communication has also been issued from the Ottoman Bank to the journals:—

Sir,—I am instructed to notify to you that the Court of Directors have to-day received from Messrs. Dent, Palmer, and Co., the contractors of the Turkish Loan of 1858, a letter intimating that it is their intention by the next mail to appoint, on the nomination of this bank, Mr. Edward Gilbertson (now holding the office of Local Director of the Constantinople branch), a member of the Syndicate, in the room of the late Mr. F. de P. Falconnet. As reference has been made in a recent number of your journal to the amount received by the Ottoman Bank on account of the dividend, I am desired to append the particulars of such receipts, amounting in the whole to £24,800—viz.: £300 received on 29th April last; £3,000 on 4th May; £4,000 on 11th May; £3,000 on 17th May; £2,200 on 24th May; £800 on 3rd June; £7,000 on 8th June; £4,000 on 15th June.—I am, &c.,

WILLIAM W. LANDER, Assistant Secretary.

The Ottoman Bank, 26, Old Broad-street, E. C., London, June 19, 1861.

THE AUSTRIAN FINANCES.

It appears that the Austrian Government have ordered the resumption of the payment of the interest on the national loan in specie. For many months it has been paid in paper, at a certain rate of allowance, in violation of the engagement solemnly entered into by the Government when the loan was raised.

THE GALWAY MAIL SERVICE.

THE NATIONAL COMPANY FOR BOAT-BUILDING BY MACHINERY.

A good deal of attention has been attracted by the announcement of "The National Company for Boat-Building by Machinery (Limited)." The objects of this undertaking may not inaptly be said to possess a national importance, for, if only one-half of the results expected from the Company's patent be realised, great advantages will be conferred. The patents are those of Mr. Nathan Thompson, of New York. The directors tested in every way the statements put forward on behalf of this gentleman's inventions, and, having satisfied themselves of their accuracy, have placed the present undertaking before the public. They are supported in their opinion of their value by a remarkable series of testimony from a host of gentlemen eminent in science or by social rank. It is contended that the marvellous advantages of the Company's machinery will enable it to distance all competitors. The capital is £200,000, in shares of £10 each.

The Directors of this Company, having received numerous applications for permission to witness the machinery in motion, have intimated that another exhibition will take place on Wednesday next, the 26th instant.

The traffic on the Ottoman Railway for the week ending June 9 was £205.

The debentures for the Indus Steam Flotilla (Sicinde Railway Company), now offered to the public, present a virtual bonus of two months' interest, by a payment on or before the 30th June, as "the bonds will be dated on the 1st May, 1861, and will bear interest at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum from that date, on all moneys paid on or before the 30th June, 1861."

The Canadian News states that at a meeting of the board of directors of the Grand Trunk Railway, held in Montreal on the 30th ult., all the Canadian directors determined to resign, and their resignations were forwarded to England by the last steamer. The precise reasons which have led to this step have not yet been made public.

ASSURANCE COMPANIES.

A very favourable report was presented at the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Northern Assurance Company, held on the 14th instant. It stated the net amount of the fire premiums for the year at £121,435, being £21,084 more than in the previous year. The total claims were £58,111. The amount at credit of the reserve fund, after payment of dividend and bonus, is £47,131. In the life department the total net revenue was £81,228, and the claims £29,279. The assets of the company on the 31st of January last amounted to £554,998, and yield an average rate of interest of £4. 9s. 10d. per cent. per annum. The investments and other funds of the company have on the present occasion been brought under the special review of a committee of directors, who found it necessary to write off, to profit and loss, only the small sum of £98. 13s. 1d. In addition to the ordinary dividend of 7½ per cent. a bonus of 5 per cent. was declared upon the paid-up capital, making the total distribution among the shareholders for the year, 12½ per cent. As a result of the fourth investigation into the participation life branch, the bonus declared upon all policies in this branch current on 31st January last, was at the former rate of £1. 7s. 6d. per cent. per annum. These particulars were received with much satisfaction.

The directors of the London and Provincial Marine Insurance Company have issued the following report, to be presented at the first ordinary general meeting, which is to be held on the 27th instant. It is considered to be satisfactory, as indicating that the risks have been carefully chosen:—

The directors submit to the shareholders the accounts of the company, showing the result of its first year's operations, ending the 14th May last. The accounts, which have been duly examined and verified by the auditors, show, that after the payment of all claims for losses, averages, and returns, together with all expenses, charges, salaries, &c., and one-fifth of the preliminary expenses, there remains a surplus on the underwriting account of £39,320. 1s. 6d. From this sum the directors recommend the payment of interest to the shareholders at the rate of 5 per cent. upon the paid-up capital of the company.

With reference to the serious charges brought against Williamson, the insurance agent at Manchester, we are authorised to contradict some statements which have appeared, to the effect that the Globe Insurance Company suffers severely, as well as the office for which Williamson was a leading agent. Williamson had transactions with several London offices, and after investigation it appears that the extent of the claim by the Globe upon his estate will be about £225 for fire premiums received by him. The Globe had ceased to correspond with him before the discovery of his alleged mal-practices.

A meeting of the Royal Exchange Assurance Corporation will be held on the 26th inst., to confirm by ballot the proposal agreed to at a general court on Wednesday, for a half-yearly dividend of £16 per cent.

THE PARIS BOURSE.

At Paris to-day (Friday) the Three per Cent. Rentes opened at 67.85 ex div., and closed "heavy" at 67.70 for money, and 67.85 for the account, being nearly the same as yesterday, and ½ to ¼ per cent. lower than on last Friday. The Bourse is almost deserted.

THE STOCK AND SHARE MARKETS.

The English funds this week have shown decided depression. The effect of the magnificent weather is fully counteracted by the over-supply of Three per Cent. Stock, combined with increased fears respecting the probable range and duration of the impending struggle in America. Nearly every day this week there have been sales by the broker who acts for Government and for the Bank. It is said, however, that his present operations are not on either of these accounts, but for the Scotch or provincial banking interest. Consols closed on Friday last at 90 to  $\frac{1}{2}$  ex div. for money, and  $90\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  for the 10th July. The final quotations to-day were  $89\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$  for cash, and 90 to  $\frac{1}{2}$  for the July settlement, being the lowest point of the week. The fall since last Friday is  $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$  per cent.

The India Five per Cent. Stock has been in demand for investment, and was firm to-day at  $93\frac{3}{4}$  to 99 ex div. for the account. The "rupee" paper is more inquired for.

The March Exchequer Bills remain flat, at 7s. to 3s. dis.; and the June, at par to 3s. prem.

An unfavourable impression was produced in the Stock Exchange yesterday afternoon by a rumour from Paris that the French Government, in return for its recognition of the King of Italy, is raising pretensions to the island of Sardinia.

The official list of to-day's actual business in the English Funds and Indian Government Securities, is annexed:—

Three per Cent. Consols, for money,  $89\frac{3}{4}$ , 90,  $89\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{7}{8}$ , ex div.; ditto for account (July 10),  $90\frac{3}{4}$ , 90, ex div.; Three per Cents. "enfaced" Rupee Paper, 94; and Exchequer Bills (March), 7s. dis.; ditto (June), 3s. prem.

The Foreign Stock Market has been very inactive, and rather heavy in character. Turkish Bonds have shown a drooping tendency. The Loan of 1854 was last quoted to-day 72 to  $\frac{1}{4}$ . The Loan of 1858 left off at 56 to  $\frac{1}{4}$ , being nearly 1 per cent. lower than on last Friday. Mexican Bonds have declined to  $22\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$ , the closing price to-day. Buenos Ayres Six per Cents. are quoted 90 to 92, and the Deferred 28 to 29.

Brazilian Old Five per Cents.,  $98\frac{1}{4}$ ; ditto Four-and-a-Half per Cents., 1860, 87,  $86\frac{3}{4}$ , ex div.; Mexican Three per Cents., for account (June 28),  $22\frac{1}{2}$ ; French Four-and-a-Half per Cent. Rentes, 94f. 25c., (exchange 25f.); Portuguese Three per Cents., 1853,  $47\frac{1}{2}$ ; ditto, for account,  $47\frac{1}{2}$ ; Sardinian Five per Cents., for account,  $78\frac{1}{2}$ , ex div.; Spanish Three per Cents., for account,  $50\frac{3}{4}$ ; Turkish Six per Cents., 1854, for account,  $72\frac{1}{2}$ , 72; ditto Six per Cents., 1858, £100 bonds,  $58\frac{1}{2}$ , 59; Venezuela Three per Cents., for account,  $18\frac{3}{4}$ .

In the market for British Railway Stocks business has been very languid. The principal feature has been a rise in South Eastern, Eastern Counties, and Manchester and Sheffield stocks. The latter derives benefit from the belief that more than one powerful company is anxious to annex this line. As usual when the dividend period is drawing near, the public are doing very little in the market; and the operations continue to rest for the most part with the dealers themselves.

The following shows the closing prices of the principal British Railway Stocks this day, and the result of the week's variations. The share list in detail will be found in another column:—

Throughout the Stock Exchange business is very inactive. The dullness has now extended to American securities, in which scarcely any transactions have latterly passed. Illinois Central Shares closed to-day at  $41\frac{1}{2}$  to  $40\frac{1}{2}$  dis., showing a fall, owing to to-day's news from America, and Erie at  $20\frac{1}{2}$  to 21.

Lombardo-Venetian Railway Shares closed to-day at  $\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$  dis., being rather dull, and Great Luxembourg at  $7\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{7}{8}$ , being higher than last week.

Canadian Railway Securities have been decidedly heavy, and showed increased depression to-day. Great Western of Canada shares closed at  $10\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ , and Grand Trunk Stock at  $18\frac{1}{2}$  to 19.

The closing quotations for shares in new undertakings to-day were as follows:—Ocean Marine Insurance,  $3\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$  prem.; Thames and Mersey Marine,  $\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{7}{8}$  prem.; Universal Marine Insurance,  $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  dis., being lower than last week; London and Provincial Marine,  $\frac{1}{4}$  dis. to par; Natal Land,  $\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$  prem.; China and Japan Steam, par; and Seend Iron,  $\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  prem.

The fall in Universal Marine shares has attracted considerable attention, as it has been accompanied by rumours that a call is not improbable.

AMERICAN SECURITIES.

With regard to the market for American securities, Mr. E. F. Satterthwaite reports as follows, under date of Wednesday evening:—

There has been very little doing in American Securities during the past week. We note more inquiry for United States and Virginia Bonds. First-class Railroad Bonds, as New York Central, Michigan Central, Illinois Central, and Pennsylvania Bonds are freely taken, whenever offered. Illinois Shares and Erie Shares are without change. New York Central Shares are more wanted.

The report of Messrs. D. Bell, Son, and Co., is annexed:—

A large business has again been done in American Securities during the past week. Southern States Stocks continue to be freely offered, and sales have been made of Alabama Five per Cent. Bonds at 46. Virginia Six per Cents. at 43 to 44; the Registered Stock at 40 to 42; Tennessee Five per Cents. at 33; the Six per Cents. at 39; Missouri Six per Cents. at 38; New Orleans City Five per Cent. Bonds at 39 to 40. Railway Securities are steady, with little business doing in them.

MISCELLANEOUS SHARE LIST.

From the list issued by Sir Charles Decimus Crosley, and corrected up to this day, we extract the following prices of insurance, gas, water-works, bridge, dock, and miscellaneous shares:—

Mines.

FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 21.

THE Mining Market this week has exhibited only a moderate degree of activity, but shares in several adventures have met with considerable attention. Amongst others, there has been a rise in Calvadnack, East Wheal Grenville, and Rosewarne United. On the other hand, East Caradon and West Caradon have fallen. Marke Valley shares are likewise heavy.

In the mining market to-day there was little activity, except as regards Rosewarne United Shares, in which the late rise was supported. East Wheal Grenville were firm. West Caradon, East Basset, and Marke Valley shares showed flatness.

Amongst the quotations reported to us this evening are the following:—

Alfred Consols,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; Calvadnack,  $7\frac{1}{2}$  to  $8\frac{1}{2}$ ; Carn Camborne, 1 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Camborne Vean,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to 2; Cook's Kitchen, 29 to 31; Devon Great Consols, 370 to 375; East Caradon,  $23\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; East Grenville, 46s. to 47s.; East Devon Great Consols, 2 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Herodsfoot, 40 to 41; Marke Valley,  $8\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; New Seton, 50 to 55; North Downs,  $4\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{5}{8}$ ; North Treskerby,  $22\frac{1}{2}$  to 23; Rosewarne United,  $32\frac{1}{2}$  to  $33\frac{1}{2}$ ; South Frances, 140 to 145; Stray Park,  $35\frac{1}{2}$  to 36; Treloweth,  $3\frac{1}{2}$  to 4; West Caradon, 52 to 54; West Rose Down,  $11\frac{1}{2}$  to  $12\frac{1}{2}$ ; West Polmear, 18s. to 19s.; West Seton, 340 to 350; West Stray Park, 4 to  $4\frac{1}{2}$ ; Wheal Norris, 34s. to 35s.; Wheal Ludcott,  $3\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Wheal Margaret, 45 to 46; Wheal Mary Ann, 9 to 10; Wheal Seton,  $72\frac{1}{2}$  to 75; Wheal Unity, 19s. to 21s.

Bon Accord Copper Mining shares have not fully supported the rise which took place at the close of last week. Other colonial descriptions are steady, as are also foreign.

Labuan Coal shares were quoted to-day  $2\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$  prem.

At the annual meeting to-day of the St. John del Rey Mining Company, the proposed dividend of 50s. per share, free of Income-tax, was agreed to.

The directors of the St. John del Rey Mining Company (Limited) have received the following report, dated Morro Velho, May, 1861:—"Produce for April, 38,663 oitavas; cost for ditto, £8,871; profit for ditto, £5,719; produce ten days of May, 11,827 oitavas."

An extraordinary meeting of the Central Italian Copper Mining Company (Limited) is called for the 15th of July, to receive "a special report from the directors as to the position of the company."

The last advices from Adelaide mention that the directors of the Burra Burra had declared a dividend of £100 per cent. on the capital stock (or £5 per share), payable on the 1st June, and hope to pay a similar dividend on the 1st September following. The price of the shares was £135. Copper was firm, at £103 per ton.

The following just remarks upon mining enterprise are from a circular issued this day by Mr. W. Lelean, of the Royal Exchange:—

Mines afford a wider range for profit than any other public securities. The best are free from debt, have large reserves, and pay dividends, bi-monthly, varying from £15 to £25 per cent. per annum. Instances frequently occur of young mines rising in value 400 or 500 per cent., but this class of security, more than any other, should be purchased only upon the most reliable information, because there are numerous shares upon the market of concerns called mines, quoted at fictitious prices, intrinsically worthless.

The annexed is from the weekly report of Mr. J. R. Pike, dated this evening:—

The share market this week has been more buoyant, and in several mines a large business has been done, and evidently a greater inclination on the part of the public to invest in our home mines than for some time past. The mines most prominently dealt in have been East Caradon, Rosewarne, North Great Work, Great Martha, Wheal Unity, East Grenville, Pentre Lygard, and Wheal Moyle. East Caradons have fluctuated from  $22\frac{1}{4}$  to 27, now 24. Rosewarne have risen from 23 to 32.

At a two-monthly meeting of shareholders in Hingston Downs, held on Thursday, the accounts showed a balance in hand of £117. 3s. 11d., and an estimated balance of payments over receipts, before the meeting to be held August 22, of £75. 10s. 6d. A call of 1s. per share was made. The next sampling will be 300 tons.

Camborne Consols, on the 19th inst., made a call of 10s. per share.

At Michell Mine meeting, on the 18th inst., a call of 1s. per share was made.

A meeting of the Kapunda Mining Company was held on Monday (Mr. C. S. Bagot in the chair), when the report was adopted unanimously, and a first dividend declared of 2s. per share, free of income-tax, out of the profits in 1860, amounting to £16,096. This result of the operations of the year was considered especially satisfactory, viewing the depression that has for so long a period prevailed in the copper trade.

At Dolcoath Mine meeting on the 10th inst., the accounts showed a credit balance of £3,234. 15s. 6d. The profit on the two months' working was £2,851. 0s. 9d. A dividend of £8 per share (£2,864) was declared, leaving £370. 15s. 6d. to the next account.

The Wheal Cupid accounts, presented at the meeting on the 10th inst., showed a debit balance of £469. 7s. 11d. A call of 3s. per share was made.

East Trefusis Mine, on the 12th inst., made a call of 10s. per share.

The Cargoll Mine accounts, presented at the meeting on the 10th inst., showed a credit balance of £1,118. 11s. 1d.

Wheal Reeth, on the 12th inst., made a call of £5 per share.

At Great Brigan meeting, on the 13th inst., the accounts showed a debit balance of £4,305. 14s. 5d. A call of 17s. per share was made.

The Worvas Downs Mine, on the 11th inst., made a call of 15s. per share.

At North Frances Mine meeting, the accounts showed a balance of liabilities over assets of £203. A call of 10s. per share was made.

At East Providence Mine meeting, a call of 2s. per share was made.

New Wheal Hender, on the 10th inst., made a call of 5s. per share.

At Great Wheal Vor meeting, on Wednesday, the supplemental account, made up to the present time, showed a credit balance of £2,939. 19s. 11d.

At Bedford United three-monthly general meeting, held on Wednesday, the accounts showed a balance in hand of £1,495. 12s. 2d., and estimated receipts over payments before the meeting in September next of £1,354. 1s. 6d. A dividend of 3s. 6d. per share was declared.

At a sale of copper ore, held at Swansea on Tuesday, 2,442 tons were sold for £31,456. 12s. 6d. Subjoined are the particulars:—

From Wheal Concord (June 19) Capt. Luke states:—

The water is down to the 28. We are fixing ladders from the 20 to the 28, in order to get to the bottom of the pumps, and try to clear the shaft, so as to send away the rest of the pumps. We are also trying to get the water out of the 10, east of the 10 shaft.

WHEAL HEARLE MINING COMPANY.

A general meeting of proprietors was held at the London Tavern, Bishopsgate-street, on Wednesday; Mr. WILLIAM LELEAN in the chair.

The notice convening the meeting having been read, the minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

A statement of accounts was then submitted, which showed a debit balance of £647.

The report of the local manager (Mr. James Hollow) was read, as follows:—"I have again to observe that, in adding six new stamping heads with axle and necessary appliances thereto, the expenditure was greatly increased, to which again must be added new rods in engine-shaft, 40 fathoms in length, with new plunger and pit-work complete to the 100-fathom level, and further new footways throughout the mine; also sheds and other improvements required on the dressing floors, all of which are for permanent good, and should be regarded more as plant than current expenses. It is true that the accounts are less favourable than I anticipated, but, in fact, I regard them as highly satisfactory, for extraordinary expenditure of at least £300 is charged this day, and, in consequence of the fall in the price of tin, the adventurers have sustained a loss upon my estimate of fully £400; should, however, a reaction take place, our credits at the ensuing audits will compare favourably with the following estimates of future yield and expenditure. The reports of the agents are on the table, and in order to confirm or negative their accuracy, I called in Captain James, an agent well acquainted with the district, and an acknowledged authority in tin mining, who, I am pleased to observe, corroborates their statements. I have fully discussed the position of the works with the agents in question, and am of opinion that the costs for the ensuing three months, including merchants' bills, will be about £1,200, against which we shall sell tin enough to cover this expenditure. If the present position of the company be manfully met by the shareholders dividing the balance of £647. 15s., pro rata, this day, I can see my way clearly to promise no loss at the ensuing quarterly audit, and should the lode continue equally good at the 80, 90, and 100-fathom levels west, and the dip of productive ground be reached in the engine-shaft as referred to by Capt. James and the agents of the mine, dividends from early profits will most unquestionably follow. I may also observe that cutting the lode 7 fathoms before the end of the 50 cross-cut is a very encouraging and important feature; other and very promising points will also be realised during the ensuing six months; whilst in conclusion, and notwithstanding the necessity of a call this day, I continue to have every confidence in the success of the undertaking, and regard it on the whole as a property of unusual promise."

The following special report of Captain Richard James, the superintendent of the Trelyon Mine, was also read:—

"St. Ives, June 15th, 1861.

"Agreeably with your request I inspected Wheal Hearle Mine, St. Just, yesterday, and took a careful note both of the underground and surface operations. I need not refer you to the extent of the sett, nor to its position; it is, indeed, an extensive one, possessing superior geological features, and traversed by a large number of lodes, thirteen of which have been seen by the present workers, and two others are known to exist within the limits of your sett; one of these, which has only been worked a few fathoms below surface in this mine, yielded more tin in the mine adjoining than any other lode in the district. I do not know another having so many chances as you have here. The engine-shaft has been sunk to the 100 fathom level below adit, and the 100-level driven east 2 fathoms. Here the men are engaged in cutting plat and other necessary ground, in order to sink below. This I would recommend being done with all possible dispatch. The 100-fathom level is extended west 5 fathoms; the present end is worth £7 per fathom, and opening ground that will work at 10s. in the £1 tribute. In driving, another 8 fathoms will reach the tin ground driven through in the levels above. Here I beg to remind you that in the upper levels you had to drive west 16 or 17 fathoms, on a poor lode, to reach the tin ground; but at this level (100) there was only 2 fathoms to drive through poor ground; and should it continue to lengthen east, it will be in the shaft before it reaches the next level (110), this may be fairly expected. In the 90-fathom level west the lode is worth from £10 to £12 per fathom, and backs over, work at 8s. in the £1; this is driven into the tin ground 12 fathoms, and eight men are engaged in stoping, and by the end of the present month four men more can be set to work here on tribute at about 8s. in the £1, which will increase the quantity of tin. In the 80-fathom level west the lode is worth £12 per fathom, and laying open tin ground that will work at 8s. to 9s. in the pound. Here I beg to refer you to another important feature, viz., in this level the tin is found to lengthen 12 fathoms further west than in the 70, and the end at this time is as good as it ever has been. Now, a great portion of this tin ground is yet before the 90 end, and all of it before the 100 end; so it is evident that the tin ground is lengthening with depth, which enhances the value of the mine and insures lasting and profitable results. The 60 is letting out very much water, which is a good indication. The 50 cross-cut has to be driven 7 fathoms more to intersect the new lode; this is also a very important feature. The machinery and pitwork are in a good state of working. The changing of the lifts, fixing new footway, &c., has increased the cost during the last month; but this will not be required again. Besides this, I think the dressing cost will not be so high in future in proportion to the quantity of tin returned, as the tin at the deeper levels is of a larger grain and stronger nature, so that more water can now be safely used in washing the refuse from the tin and with more despatch. In conclusion, I beg to say that the prospects are good, and from present appearances the returns of tin will increase."

The report of the agents (Capts. N. Tredennick and W. Wesley) was also read.

The CHAIRMAN, in moving the adoption of the reports and accounts, expressed his great gratification at the fact that their purser, Mr. James Hollow, had, for the benefit of proprietors, obtained the opinion of the best practical independent authority in the district in which Wheal Hearle was situated, as to the position and prospects of that enterprise. From that report, which had been read, he (the Chairman) had no hesitation in saying that the prospects of Wheal Hearle were second to none in that important district. Capt. R. James fully bore out the statements made by their own agents, and thus satisfactorily explained the reason of the expenditure which had recently been incurred in opening the mine and bringing it into an efficient state of working. They had now a vast quantity of tin ground being laid open, which was obvious from the fact adverted to by Capt. James, namely, that the ore ground increased in length as depth was attained. By that report it would be seen that the lode might be expected in the shaft within the next ten fathoms sinking. He thought he need not refer to the district in which their mine was situated, further than to observe that it was completely surrounded by some of the richest dividend mines in that well-known district, having the celebrated Ding Dong on the south, Boscawell Downs on the east, and the Lelant, Botallack, Wheal Owles, Boscean, and others, on the north and west. The crosscut at the 50 was being pushed forward to cut the Boscawell Downs, lode having been seen at the surface at Wheal Hearle; and, therefore, by the next meeting they had good reason to hope that an equally productive lode to that cut in Boscawell Downs, where it had produced such enormous profits, would be intersected in Wheal Hearle. Another important feature was the driving of the 60 east, where, it was asserted by several practical authorities, the junction of the lodes would be intersected in a short distance. Taking all those features into consideration, he felt that he was justified in congratulating the proprietors upon possessing a property of intrinsic value. He would, however, inform them that their property was being developed with the view of placing it in a permanently paying condition rather than the realisation of speedy but temporary profits.

Mr. JAMES HOLLOW, in answer to inquiries, stated that during the last six months no efforts had been spared on his part or on that of the executive, on the mine, in developing its resources, and he hoped those present were satisfied with the results that had been achieved. As a proof of the progressive character of their undertaking he might instance the fact that in 1860 the sales of tin and copper from the mine realised £2,500, while during the six months of the present year the sales of tin had amounted to about £1,900—so that an increase of 50 per cent. upon their returns had already taken place, arising from the progressive, and he might say regular manner in which the tin ground improved and lengthened as the mine was opened. He had not the least doubt that the operations of the ensuing six months would show an improvement upon the preceding corresponding period, and he hoped with a fair profit. A great feature was that the quality of the tin ore in the bottom was a considerable improvement upon that broken in the shallower parts of the mine. The tin in the bottom was of a fine large grain and crystallised, showing that they were approaching larger and richer deposits. In the shallower parts the tin was of a smaller grain and more difficult to clean—hence the returning charges had been rather high, but he could promise that the returning charges upon the ores to be sold would be less than they had been for some time past. As regarded their prospects he might state that the 50 crosscut was being pushed on with all speed to cut a large lode which lay about 7 or 8 fathoms before the present end. The driving of the 60 fathom level east, on the present main lode, was for the same object, for about 20 fathoms before the present end that lode crossed the present engine lode. So that the driving the crosscut at the 50, and the level east at the 60, gave them two chances and two points of operation upon that new south lode, which was known in the adjoining Boscawell Mine—where it had yielded such enormous profits—as the Bridgework Lode. If that lode were cut good at either of those points the value of their property would be trebled. Seeing they were opening their mine with the view of bringing about permanent dividends, he had not hesitated to incur the expense of rendering the machinery and plant in an effective working condition—that had increased their cost, while the severity of the weather had caused a diminution in their returns, and if they added the loss sustained by the depressed price of tin, the present financial deficit was fully accounted for. As those adverse influences were not likely to recur, and as their returns would, in all probability, be materially increased, and their returning charges reduced, he thought he was justified in assuming that Wheal Hearle would soon be in a dividend paying position.

The Rev. T. MARTIN expressed himself perfectly satisfied with the position and prospects of the mine, and also with the excellent, straightforward, and business-like manner in which the affairs of the company were being conducted.

Mr. R. TREDENICK stated, that in the whole course of his experience he had never known a parallel instance where, at the second general meeting, they had merged from a call making to a paying mine, which reflected the greatest credit upon Mr. Hollow and the executive. He concluded by expressing a favourable opinion of the undertaking, believing that in a very short time it would be placed in the dividend list.

The reports and accounts were adopted, when a resolution was passed that the existing debit balance should be liquidated pro rata, which amounted to 12s. 8d. per share.

The usual compliment to the chairman brought the proceedings to a close.

MERCANTILE EMBARRASMENTS.

The latest accounts from Manchester mention the failure of Messrs. B. Wild and Co., in the American trade; but their liabilities are not very large.

A petition under the private arrangement clauses was presented yesterday in the case of Messrs. Henry Brooks and Co., manufacturers of pianoforte "actions," &c., who are unable to pay the composition agreed to some time back. Their liabilities are about £35,000, and assets, £25,000.

In the Bankruptcy Court on Monday there was the first sitting in the case of Messrs. Churchill and Macmillan, timber brokers, of Cannon-street.

A meeting of the creditors of Messrs. T. and R. Raikes, private bankers, of Hull, was held on Tuesday. The balance-sheet, presented by Mr. Jay, the accountant, shows liabilities to the amount of £89,025, and assets £22,137, or about 5s. in the pound. It was resolved that the estate shall be wound up under inspection.

At a meeting on Wednesday of the creditors of Mr. A. Psichari, Greek merchant, the balance-sheet, presented by Mr. J. E. Coleman, the accountant, stated the liabilities at £52,253, and the assets at £107,578, or more than double that amount. The cause of the stoppage is the large amount (£95,892) due from the Turkish Government; £44,000 is covered by the securities held, consisting of tithes. It was mentioned that the general body of creditors have perfect confidence in the integrity of Mr. Psichari, and are prepared to leave the winding up in his hands. A resolution to this effect was accordingly passed.

An adjourned meeting of the creditors of Mr. B. de Cuadra, Spanish merchant, took place on Thursday. According to an amended balance-sheet, presented by Messrs. Hart Brothers and Hayles, the accountants, the liabilities now stand at £87,839, and the assets at £110,263. The surplus is thus increased to £22,324, subject, however, to a liability of £18,000 on bills payable, which may come upon the estate. The cash and bills now on hand will allow of the payment in July of a dividend of 5s. in the pound, and it is proposed to leave the further liquidation of the estate in the hands of the inspectors previously appointed. Another meeting is fixed for the 12th of September. The explanations given afforded satisfaction.

A meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Lascaridi and Co., Greek merchants, is convened for Friday, the 28th inst.

A meeting of the creditors of Mr. Richard Brandt, Russia merchant, will be held on Monday next.

The Produce and other Markets.

COLONIAL PRODUCE.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 21.

The Colonial markets continue freely supplied, but there has not been any further change in prices this week. Sugar has found buyers to a moderate extent at the decline recently established. 918 casks of Melado, at public sale, meeting few bids, were chiefly bought in, but the greater part has since been taken. A recent import of Muscovado Cuba Molasses, 280 casks, in auction, was withdrawn at 17s. Coffee is steady, the various parcels of Plantation and Native Ceylon offered at the public sales selling at fully last week's quotations. Rice remains quiet. No change of importance has occurred in Spice. Saltpetre is flat, and Bengal now offers upon rather lower terms. Tea has been inactive, and large public sales are declared for the ensuing week. The Cocoa market remains without animation. Rum continues in fair request, and the former value is maintained. With scarcely any inquiry, and but little placed on offer, business in Sago is still unimportant. The Cotton market has had a dull tone, and prices of Surat are in some cases 3d. per pound lower.

THE TALLOW TRADE.

The amount of business transacted has been unusually small even for this time of year, when the demand is generally least active. The warmth of the weather has contributed materially to check business for immediate consumption, but, in addition to this, there is almost an entire absence of the usual transactions with the trade for future delivery; there being scarcely any disposition to effect purchases of a bona fide character of this nature, very few of the consumers having sufficient faith in the duration of the wholly artificial support by which prices have so long been maintained above their natural level. The operations of a purely speculative description have also been very limited, and sellers exhibit much caution, even with every appearance in their favour, the more important sales having been of the "optional" character, enabling the "bear" to estimate at once the extent of his liability in the event of (to him) an adverse issue of the contract. Should the present general inactivity in the speculative market continue, the speedy demolition of the existing monopoly must be the result, as it is only by the excitement of an extensive amount of speculation that its unnatural existence can be even for a time supported. We doubt that this support, to be extent required, will be forthcoming for the ensuing season.

The quotations to-day for new Y.C. Tallow are for the month 53s. and for delivery October to December 52s. per cwt., but we hear of no business being done to any amount.

The arrivals for the week ending the 20th instant, were 831 casks; deliveries 915 casks: stock, 65,269 casks, showing a decrease of 84 casks.

Town Tallow has again been in good supply, and readily obtainable at the full discount. It has not, however, been forced on the market, although in some instances an extension of the usual allowances has been granted. This evening the Letter price is 52s. or 49s. 6d. per cwt. nett cash. Fat, 2s. 8d. per stone of 8 lbs.

Old Y.C. Tallow has not met with much demand. 52s. 6d. per cwt. is the general quotation.

Odessa.—We are almost without supplies, but there is a fair quantity of Taganrog Tallow on the market, to be had at last week's quotations.

East India.—We hear of no transactions to any extent; really fine quality is in some request, but it is very scarce; 48s. to 53s. per cwt. may be quoted as current rates.

The particulars of to-day's public sales are as follows:—

South American.—106 casks and 110 boxes were offered, of which only 18 casks and 12 boxes were sold, 52s. 6d. being paid for good sound pale quality in boxes, and 51s. 9d. per cwt. for good coloured pure tallow in hogsheads. For the average description in pipes, 52s. to 52s. 6d. would be accepted.

Australian.—134 casks were submitted and 104 casks were sold, one lot of fair Mutton bringing 52s., and good Beef, 48s. 6d., one lot 48s. 9d. 10 casks fair mixed tallow, rather brown, brought 45s. 6d. and 45s. 9d. per cwt. There is a better supply of this tallow lately, and to effect sales, reduced prices have to be taken.

North American.—24 casks were offered, and were all sold, very good quality, at 51s. 6d., and second rate description at 49s. 6d. to 50s. 3d. per cwt.

Palm Oil.—259 casks were brought forward all of middling and inferior quality; there was little bidding, and the whole was bought in, the best at 41s. 6d. per cwt. During the week 45s. has been obtained for fine Lagos, and this is still the quotation, but the demand is not great.

Palm Nut Oil is quoted at former rates, but the supply is nearly exhausted, and we hear of no business worth reporting.

South American Horse Grease continues steady, at 38s. per cwt., at which a fair amount of business has been done during the week.—Furnished by Messrs Culverwell, Brooks, and Co., Brokers.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET.

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 21.

The market has been dull this week, and prices in some instances are a shade easier, compared with those current on Friday last. No reliable accounts have been received as regards the condition of the growing crop; and in the absence of such information, unfavourable reports have naturally been circulated by interested parties. But neither these, nor the certainty of a deficient supply until the commencement of a new season, nor the fact of a war between the Northern and Southern States which threatens for a long time to come to cut off our supplies from that source, have had any effect upon this market.

[BY ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.]

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY EVENING.

No change has taken place to-day. The sales comprise 8,000 bales, including 2,000 on speculation, and for exportation, and the imports 1,167 bales. The sales of the week amount to 54,820 bales, of which 10,400 have been taken on speculation, and 7,880 for exportation, and the imports to 25,340 bales. Fair Upland is quoted 8½d.; Mobile, 8½d.; Orleans 8½d. The stock shows a further increase, the total now stands at 1,160,000 bales.

The Corn Trade.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 21.

The weather in the United Kingdom has been during the last eight days as favourable for the growing crops as farmers could well desire. The Wheat plants have generally sprung into ear with a promise of a fair yield, which, though not expected to attain a full average produce on account of the crop being thin in plant, may yet be not far short of it, provided circumstances continue favourable up to harvest time. The Barley crop promises at present to be the best crop of cereals on the ground. The Oats crop also presents a healthy appearance, and leads to the expectation of a good return. Beans.—The crop, which at one time appeared a total failure, is in bloom. Since the recent change in the weather it has recovered strength, and now makes show of a crop. Pease also are in blossom and promise a fair average crop.

SUPPLY.—The supply of home-grown corn has been this week on the same moderate scale as in preceding weeks. The latest official returns of the quantity of grain sold in England and Wales are as follows:—Wheat, 65,560 qrs. at 53s. 9d.—Barley, 2,955 qrs. at 34s. 8d.—Oats, 5,674 qrs. at 25s. 2d. per qr.

IMPORTS.—The large arrivals of grain-laden vessels from the Baltic have for the present ceased, but on the other side, a numerous fleet of grain and seed laden vessels from the South of Europe has made its appearance at ports-of-call, consisting principally of Wheat and Maize, with a moderate quantity of Barley.

The British Corn Trade has been this week in a state of great languor and depression. The favourable accounts respecting the growing crops, and the continuance of large imports have slackened the demand, and the supply being in excess of immediate wants, holders have been compelled to accept a further reduction in the prices current last week. The value of wheat may be considered reduced from 1s. to 2s. per qr. under last week's decline. Flour is also 6d. to 1s. cheaper. Barley has met with a slow inquiry at prices about the same as last week, the turn in buyer's favour. All the other articles have lost in value this week, say, Oats, 6d. to 1s. per qr.; Maize 1s. per qr.; Beans 2s. to 3s. per qr.; and Peas 1s. to 2s. per qr., compared with last week's prices.

In Mark-lane to-day the attendance of the trade was fair but the tone depressed. Wheat—English, sold in retail at last Monday's reduced rates. Foreign—Unaltered, at last Monday's decline. Flour—American, unaltered, at last Monday's rates; Norfolk, 33s. to 35s. per 280lbs. Barley—Quiet, at last Monday's currency. Oats—Quiet, at last Monday's decline. Beans—Quiet, at last Monday's rates. Peas—Quiet.

[BY ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.]

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY EVENING.

There was a small attendance of town and country millers in to-day's market. Wheat—in limited demand, at prices the turn in favour of buyers. Flour very slow, and rather easier to buy. Oats quiet, at a decline of 1d. per cental. Maize—neglected, at a further decline of fully 6d. per qr.

REPORT ON BORWICK'S BAKING POWDER, BY DR. HASSALL.—"I have subjected Borwick's well-known Baking Powder to very careful analysis, both microscopical and chemical. I find, first, that the ingredients of which it is composed are pure and of good quality; and second, that none of them are in the least degree injurious—it is, moreover, entirely free from alum. Altogether, it is a highly useful preparation; indeed, it is indispensable in the making of unfumigated bread, pastry, puddings, &c., and in all cases where yeast cannot be procured, as in country places and on board ship. (Signed) ARTHUR HILL HASSALL, M.D., London, Analyst of the Lancet Sanitary Commission; author of "Food and its Adulterations," "Adulterations Detected," and other works.—November 9, 1860."

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Experience Teacheth Wisdom.—The common consent of mankind has awarded to Holloway's remedies the palm for curing most complaints, whether external or internal. During the past quarter of a century thousands have borne willing testimony to their efficiency in alleviating the sufferings of mankind, and in expelling from the human body the first cause of disease. No other means can extract from the blood and solids any existing impurities with the same unerring certainty as Holloway's preparations, which rapidly filter out all morbid matters. Numberless testimonials from clergymen and others, humanely watching over the welfare of the poor, attesting their merits, which are gratefully acknowledged throughout the whole civilized world, being selected by wisdom and experience.

GREAT FIRES in BELFAST, in which nine of MILNER'S SAFES (six in the first and three in the last) have preserved their contents. The following is one of the Certificates received from all the owners:—

"MESSRS. THOS. MILNER AND SON.

"Belfast, 14th February, 1861.

"Gentlemen,—A few nights since the whole block of new buildings in Bedford-street was completely destroyed by fire, and our offices and warehouses among them. The fire did not originate in our premises, but seeing it was likely to be a very large one, we had time to remove all our books, which were deposited in one of your fire-resisting Safes, to a place of safety, but, in the confusion which necessarily occurs, we neglected to remove the contents of the drawers. The Safe was in the blazing fire nearly twelve hours, and when got out we found the valuable papers which were in the drawers perfectly legible. We think it our duty to make you acquainted with these facts, and give you full liberty to publish this communication if you think proper.

"We are, Gentlemen, yours truly,

"J. and R. WORKMAN."

This Company has been formed for the purpose of purchasing and working the several patents secured in this country by Mr. Nathan Thompson, marine engineer, of New York, for his process of building boats by machinery. Mr. Thompson, after many years of close study and the unremitting application of his mechanical skill, has perfected a system of the most simple and effective character for the construction of boats of every size and mould, which must, to a great extent, supersede the present mode of building them by hand labour, every part being prepared with the greatest accuracy and finish by machinery.

Full copies of the Prospectus, Forms of Application, with Appendix, containing copies of testimonials, as given at length in the "Times" and "Daily News" of the 17th inst. (to which reference is made), will be forwarded on application to the Brokers, or to the Secretary, No. 16, Bishopsgate-street Within, E.C., London.

RIVER SALADO STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY, "En Comandante" (Limited). ARGENTINE CONFEDERATION.

Capital £240,000, in 24,000 Shares of £10 each.

Deposit £5 on allotment, and £5 on the 15th December, 1861.

The first dividend will be paid on the 1st January, 1862.

A guarantee of 9 per cent. has been granted by the Government of the Argentine Confederation on £100,000 of the capital, and a like guarantee is to be obtained on the remainder before the second call is made.

The Argentine Confederation have also granted:—
Exclusive privilege to navigate the River Salado;
Exemption from tonnage and license dues;
Reduction of 50 per cent. on all duties on the importation of merchandise introduced by the Company's boats; and Transfer to the Company of 2,700 square miles of land.

Gérant Responsable—Mr. ESTEVAN RAMS.

COMMITTEE OF SUPERINTENDENCE AND INSPECTION.

His Excellency Norberto de la Riestra, Foreign Minister at Buenos Ayres.

Mr. Constant Santa Maria, merchant, Buenos Ayres.
Messrs. Ramon Puig, Parana; Domingo Crespo, Santa Fe; Jose Cullen, Santa Fe.

The Representative of Mr. Pedro Gil, of Paris, and Delegate of the European Shareholders.

REPRESENTATIVE AND AGENT OF THE COMPANY—Mr. Pedro Gil, banker, Paris.

The object of the Company is to introduce an effective Steam-boat System on the River Salado, which is navigable for 1,100 miles through the most important interior provinces of La Plata, and joins the Parana about 250 or 300 miles above Buenos Ayres. The vessels of the Company would connect with those which now run each week from the mouth of the Salado to Buenos Ayres, in conjunction with the Royal Mail Company's steamers and those of the Messageries Impériales, and thus the richest portions of the country—even to the confines of Bolivia—would be placed in direct communication, alternately each fortnight, with Southampton and Bordeaux.

It is stated that at present the consumption of European articles in the districts connected with the Salado is £1,200,000 per annum, while the average export of produce, much of which now finds its way via the Pacific, exceeds £1,600,000, and is capable of almost indefinite increase, especially as regards tobacco and cotton. From this traffic, its certain development, and the solicitude of the Government for the completion of the Company, large annual profits are anticipated beyond the Government guarantee. To appreciate the value of the guarantee, it can be stated, that the Bonds of Buenos Ayres (Argentine Confederation), which only bear an annual interest of 6 per cent., are now quoted at 91½ per cent.

For prospectus and papers showing nature of guarantee, of grants of land, and further particulars, apply to Messrs. J. Hart and Co., No. 7, Broad-street-buildings, E.C.

Prospectuses may also be obtained from, and applications for Shares made to, Messrs. G. Harris and Sons, brokers, 22, Change-alley, Cornhill, E.C., London.

The allotment will be made by the following:—

France—Mr. Pedro Gil, Paris.

Great Britain—Messrs. J. Hart and Co., London.

Spain—Mr. José Gil, Barcelona.

Argentine Confederation—Head Quarters of the Company, Santa Fe—Messrs. Maua and Co., Buenos Ayres.

THE CHESHIRE PATENT SALT COMPANY (Limited).

WINSFORD, CHESHIRE.

Incorporated under the Joint-Stock Companies' Acts of 1856 and 1857 (Limited).

Capital £30,000, in 1,500 Shares of £2 each.

Deposit, 5s. per Share on application, and 15s. per Share on allotment.

LONDON AGENT.

Mr. H. Brooke, No. 6, Cannon-street, E.C.

BANKERS.

Messrs. Glyn, Mills, and Co., London.

Messrs. Thomas Firth and Son, Northwich.

SECRETARY.

Mr. J. Davenport, Works, Winsford.

NOTICE TO THE SHAREHOLDERS AND TO OTHER CAPITALISTS.

The Company's patent process for manufacturing salt is found to be highly successful, and the Directors have therefore resolved to considerably enlarge the works, and to allot 8,000 additional shares (£1 paid), reserving the remaining £1 per share for future expansion, when two-thirds of the shareholders shall so determine.

The past half-year's working results show that a small production of 20,000 tons of salt per annum, charged with the total of patent cost, rent, and management, will yield a dividend of 24 per cent. per annum, and that a still larger dividend will be realised as the production is increased. Upon a production of 100,000 tons the profits are estimated at upwards of 50 per cent. per annum.

The Brine Estate, upon which the works are erected, is secured upon a long lease, and at a low rental; it covers an area of nine acres, with an underlying inexhaustible supply of the strongest brine, and is situate between the London and North-Western Railway on one side, and the River Weaver on the other, enabling the Company to receive fuel and transmit salt direct from the siding of each.

The prospectus, to be had as below, gives the present financial position of the Company, the estimates for further expenditure, and the condition and prospects of the salt trade.

Application for shares to be made to Mr. H. Brooke, No. 6, Cannon-street, E.C., London, and to Mr. Davenport, Secretary, at the Works, Winsford.

The following report of Mr. Grantham, C.E., it will be seen, fully corroborates the statements made in the prospectus as to the advantages of the patent process over that at present in operation:

"London, March 26, 1861.

"Gentlemen,—Having in accordance with your request carefully watched your patent process for manufacturing salt, and examined the results for a period of nine months, I feel that I am now competent to render a report to you upon which you may rely.

"I have found that only one ton of fuel is consumed in the production of 75 cwt. of salt against 40 cwt., which is the best result obtained under the ordinary process, and that the cost of labour, wear and tear, is reduced by 40 per cent.

"I am perfectly satisfied that the system pursued—viz., the adoption of self-feeding furnaces, the application of steam heat for extracting the salt, the mode of economising the fuel, and the mechanical means used for clearing the pans and lifting the salt—are all superior modes of application.

"The special advantages gained by this new process are, an extraordinary saving in fuel and labour, and an entire avoidance of encrustation of the pans, which causes so much loss of heat and cost in wear and tear.

"The proportion of butter and table salt obtained is much larger, and of a quality remarkable for its purity and whiteness, and which no doubt will command a higher price for domestic use.

"I am, Gentlemen, your obedient servant,

"JOHN GRANTHAM."

CONSULTING ENGINEER—Captain Matthew Francis.

SECRETARY—Mr. Thomas Spargo.

OFFICES—224 and 225, Gresham House, Old Broad-street, London.

Prospectuses, with plans and sections of the property, can be had on application to the Secretary.

MINING IN ST. MINVER, CORNWALL.

A Company is in course of formation for the purpose of developing a portion of mineral property in the parish of St. Minver, Cornwall. The sett which has been obtained gives unusually good evidences of its being very valuable for lead ore. Several mine agents of great experience have inspected the property, whose opinions are unanimous that the strata are the right sort for lead, and the quantity of ore in sight beyond what could be expected for so shallow a depth.

The adventure is divided into 6,000 Shares, and it was decided at a meeting held on the 16th inst., that 4,000 should be offered to the public. A large portion out of the 4,000 are already taken up, for the most part by those who are residents of, and acquainted with, the neighbourhood.

The Mine is to be worked on the cost-book principle, and all needful particulars, with prospectuses, may be had of the Company's broker, Mr. J. S. Phillips, of 12, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, London; or the purser, Captain George Rickard, of Wenford, Bodmin, Cornwall.

May, 1861.

THE GLOUCESTER WAGON COMPANY (Limited).

Capital £150,000, in 15,000 Shares of £10 each.

Paid up £6 per Share on 10,556 Shares—£65,136.

The Directors, in conformity with the provisions of the Joint-Stock Companies' Act, and the Regulations for the government of the Company, are prepared to issue DEBENTURES in convenient sums, not exceeding in the whole £50,000, for periods of from three to ten years.

The interest will be paid half-yearly, on the 1st of January and 1st of July, by Coupons attached to the Debentures.

The holders of these securities will have a first charge on all the property, plant, and capital of the Company.

Tenders for Loans, stating the amount offered, the term of years, and the rate of interest required, may be addressed to the Gloucester Wagon Company (Limited).

HENRY WRIGHT, Secretary.

WATSON, Esq., F.G.S., has rendered a Second Edition necessary, and copies, price 1s., may now be had at the Office of the "Mining Journal," 26, Fleet-street, London; or at Messrs. Watson and Cuell's Offices, 1, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, London.

3, PINNER'S COURT, OLD BROAD-STREET, E.C.

REMARKS.—The saying that "every cloud has a silver lining" is accepted as truth by the generality of thinking men, and if there be any of the readers of the "Mining Journal" who, having perused my remarks in last week's Journal, think that my view of things in general was unnecessarily gloomy, I would repeat the legend recorded in the opening of this paper, with an exhortation to look steadily with the eye of hope through the darkest cloud for the sunshine which it masks, but cannot dim. To be perpetually engaged in an endeavour to demonstrate that black is white is not only foolish, but in the last degree unwise. It is a settled opinion with me that British mining requires no such adventitious aids, but is well able to bear the severest critical scrutiny as a field for public investment under the pressure of any external influence, however unfavourable its character may be. The conditions by which success is attainable, and to some extent assured, in mining are easy and well defined. Let the investor, in the first place, be well acquainted with the various peculiarities belonging to mining as an industry; let him purchase into such concerns as are honestly and vigorously worked; let him not pay above the market value for his stock; and, come what will, let him judge mining as he would any other investment, honestly and fearlessly, and there can be no doubt of the result, the losers in the long run being men who invest blindly, act impulsively, and are liable to fits of panic with as much periodical certainty as the ague-stricken residents in the miasma of the tropics.

Although the market for metals is at the moment as flat as it well can be, it is satisfactory to note that the stocks in hand are, comparatively speaking, low, and that in spite of an average amount of production. This is satisfactory, as proving that the export trade is only suffering a temporary check, caused, as far as America is concerned, by the diversion of the channel into which our stock of metals must run. This well over, the chances are in favour of a brisk demand, and very much higher prices. Lead in particular is sure to be largely wanted, and as the produce of our British mines is never either greatly in excess or short of an average stated quantity, the public would do well to direct its attention to the lead mines of Cornwall, Wales, Derbyshire, &c. The Cornish mines are tolerably well known, but not so the other two districts named. True, we hear occasionally of the Miners' district, the Parys district, and the celebrated Peak; but that the merits of their mines, and the capability for yielding metal of their unworked ground, especially in the principality of Wales, is at all understood or appreciated, is the reverse of truth. At another time, I may go over the ground with some degree of particularity, and endeavour to induct the public into the best and most promising districts.

It is by no means an uncommon thing to hear persons otherwise well informed speak rather contemptuously of the insignificant amount of paid-up capital with which multitudes of mines are carried on, necessitating frequent calls, individually small, in derogation of the importance of British mining as an industry. That they act as a deterrent to speculation, or even solid investment, in very many instances, I am quite convinced; but if such persons would only reflect for one moment, and find themselves in the position of the poor mine, who, being interrogated at a public examination beyond his knowledge, promptly replied that he was "short of information on the subject," were to seek that information on which alone a just opinion could be based, they would find that from the very nature of things it would be almost as impossible to start a mine with the paid-up capital of a bank, as it would be to start a bank with the paid-up capital of a mine. In opening up a mining property, the amount of capital which may be required cannot be calculated with a reasonable degree of approximation; a hard shelf of spar in sinking, or the cutting of a small course of ore in working, would alike upset the most plausible calculations of the ablest financial prophet—so it comes that the capital of a mine is called up as occasion requires. If money is wanted for machinery or other expensive plant, a call may be heavy; if for ordinary working expenses, it may be light; but, heavy or light, these terms are strictly comparative, as the meetings of shareholders are, in the great majority of cases, held at short intervals of time, so securing efficient administrative supervision, and preventing the necessity for what would be understood in common parlance as a heavy call at any time on the pockets of the adventurers.

British Mining, owing to the circumstances just narrated, is obviously as easy a field for investment as can well be imagined. The holder of money is not, as in railways, canals, and other large undertakings, obliged to part at once with a sum in gross, which in the long run may never be wanted for the purposes of the enterprise, and so be mulct of the profits which its possession might obtain; but gradually contributes to the expenses of the project, until such time as he either retires from the association, or the mine becomes self-supporting.

SPECIAL INFORMATION.

The writer, entertaining a strong opinion that the public only require the very fullest information as to the antecedents and present position of our best mines, in order to be convinced as to their value as investments, he has determined to carefully investigate and consider the eligibility as channels for investment both of mines which have a market value owing to being well known, and others only requiring to be well known in order to be patronised; but as this is a work of some labour, and as it would be impossible, owing to the length to which the descriptions will run, to publish them in extenso, Mr. PIKE will from week to week announce the names of the mines on which he is prepared to advise, and will cheerfully give to the general public, as well as his clients, free of any charge whatever, the very best information in his power, a very long residence in Cornwall, coupled with ten years' practice in the London markets, enabling him to speak from personal knowledge of nearly the whole of our Cornish, Devon, and Welsh Mines. The mines to which his attention is particularly directed this week are Pentre Lygan, North Great Work, and South Frances.

MR. GLADSTONE AS A FINANCIER.

No. I.

NOTWITHSTANDING the freedom enjoyed in this country under the British Constitution, the political power of parties in office has given rise to some remarkable anomalies. Some departments of the Government have assumed such a variety of phases under different Administrations, that it is a somewhat difficult task to ascertain the true causes by which they are produced. "The right man in the right place" has become a proverb which has very little significance in political life. There is no department in the State in which this fact has been more clearly demonstrated than in that which is controlled by the Chancellor of the Exchequer. To the judgment of this single individual, assisted by such experience as he can command from the subordinate officers of the Government, the finances of this great empire are confided: and not only its finances, but every department of trade and commerce throughout the United Kingdom becomes subject to his influence. How do we provide for the government of this important branch of the State? Do we make any preparation to supply a body of men capable of comprehending its vast details, and of understanding the almost infinite combinations which are involved in the execution of its duties? Nothing of the sort. We ignore the principles upon which every department of social life is conducted and maintained, and trust to chance to supply the nation with some one who is to govern its financial destinies. There is no school for financiers. They may spring forward like mushrooms, and vanish like a cloud. There is no Oxford, Cambridge, or Eton, where they are trained in the elements of financial science. The education of financiers has not the slightest affinity to that of mathematicians, lawyers, logicians or divines. To advance in either of these paths, there must be qualification and fitness; but to control the finances and regulate the taxation, trade, and commerce of the greatest empire in the civilised world, the nation must accept whomsoever may be thrown in its way. A glance at the list of Chancellors of the Exchequer during the last thirty years proves that the nation has had to undergo some of the most remarkable changes that could possibly occur through the contradictory theories of its Finance Ministers.

In 1842 the late Sir Robert Peel commenced his theory of direct taxation to cover the deficits of that and the five previous years, which had reached a total of £10,188,660. Mr. H. Goulburn, who was then Finance Minister, was appointed to introduce the Bank Charter Act of 1844, to limit the circulation of country bank notes to a fixed amount, and to prevent the establishment of any new Banks of Issue. In 1846 Lord John Russell succeeded in throwing out Sir Robert Peel's Administration, when Sir Charles Wood was appointed Chancellor of the Exchequer, which office he held until the Derby Government was established in 1852, when Mr. Disraeli became Chancellor of the Exchequer. This Administration was of short duration; and in 1853 Mr. Gladstone was appointed Chancellor of the Exchequer under the Government of the Earl of Aberdeen. Nothing was previously known of Mr. Gladstone's financial capabilities or his tendencies; but these were fully displayed on the promulgation of his first Budget on the 18th of April, 1853. As far as the appearance of the money market was concerned at the time when Mr. Gladstone came into office, nothing could be more propitious in a certain point of view. Consols in April of that year reached 101, but fell in September to 90½. Mr. Gladstone, in his opposition to Mr. Disraeli's Budget, had told that gentleman that "there were some things he had yet to learn." The same remark was equally applicable to Mr. Gladstone himself. Nothing could be more favourable to a judicious Finance Minister than the circumstances in which Mr. Gladstone was then placed: but he declined to accept the opinions of experienced men. Trade and commerce were in a flourishing condition. The bullion in the Bank of England exceeded £20,000,000, and the rate of discount was only 2 per cent. Mr. Gladstone at this time conceived the notion of reducing the rate of interest upon the permanent debt of the country to 2½ per cent., and to accomplish this object he introduced his conversion scheme, and proposed a reduction in the rate of interest upon Exchequer Bills from 1d.

per cent. per day to 1d., by an order dated the 14th of February, 1853. This may appear a very trifling change to propose under circumstances so favourable to his views; but the experience of practical men was opposed to him, as was clearly shown by the movement that immediately took place in the market for these securities. On the 12th of April the premium upon Exchequer Bills was 52s. to 56s., and in the following week it fell to 15s. and 22s., being an average decline of 40s. per cent. But the effect of this alteration did not terminate here. Between February and June so large an amount of Exchequer Bills had not been presented for payment for many years, the sum having reached £3,123,800. This unmistakable evidence of the error of Mr. Gladstone's movements produced no effect upon his mind, though there could not be any doubt about the opinions which had been formed by bankers and the moneyed interest generally upon his financial schemes. While these were progressing the Bank of England had raised its rate of discount from 2 to 3 per cent. But Mr. Gladstone, conscious of his own superiority of judgment, stated in Parliament that he "did not think it fit to take any advice of the Bank of England, or to ascertain the opinion of the Governor and Deputy-governor on the subject." The same independence of all advice may be traced in Mr. Gladstone's financial schemes to the present moment, and has contributed much to that want of confidence in his plans which prevails so extensively in mercantile circles.

In his scheme for converting the public debt into stocks bearing a lower rate of interest, Mr. Gladstone was equally unsuccessful. The error rested upon the supposition that the ratio between interest and principal, as it then existed, would be permanent. Such an opinion was contradictory to the leading features of the money market; and the history of the fluctuations in money since that period has fully verified its fallacy. In this course Mr. Gladstone had not only to encounter the opposition of a few, but he found himself opposed by the highest authorities throughout Europe. The holders of South Sea Stocks were almost unanimous in their decision not to accept the offer made to them, inasmuch as their stock then realised £119 per cent. And out of the £513,387,422 which Mr. Gladstone proposed to bring within the scope of his conversion, only £3,465,325 was converted, a portion of which was in the hands of Government. Mr. Gladstone was, therefore, left under the necessity of appropriating from the public balances in April, 1854, the sum of £8,039,303 in liquidation of the South Sea Stocks. This naturally occasioned considerable opposition in the House of Commons, led by Mr. T. Baring.

Mr. Gladstone, in introducing Exchequer Bonds, acquired the same notoriety by his failure to attract capitalists. On the 21st of April, 1854, a notification was issued inviting tenders for £6,000,000 in these bonds, bearing interest at 3½ per cent. per annum, in series of £2,000,000 each. On the 2nd of May only £1,596,200 had been tendered for, of which £590,800 was in Exchequer Bills, and £1,005,200 in money. This experiment, therefore, proved unsuccessful.

War having been declared against Russia, a new scene of difficulties presented itself. Mr. Gladstone in his first Budget had declared himself decidedly against any increase in the Income and Property-tax, and described it as a tax of an immoral tendency; he would therefore simply extend the tax to Ireland, and also extend it to incomes as low as £100 a-year. Entertaining a hope that the tax itself might be repealed altogether in 1860, he remarked in 1853 that, "Should hostilities again break out, it would afford us the means of at once raising our army to 300,000 men, and our fleet to 100,000; and by a judicious outlay would, if need be, enable us to defy the world. It was Sir Robert Peel who had called forth this giant from his repose to come and assist our industrious toils in peace."

Mr. Gladstone had no idea that the time was near at hand when he would be called upon to have recourse to the Income-tax in an increased amount. In the following year this tax was doubled, or raised to 14d. in the pound on incomes of £150, and to 10d. upon those of £100; so that his theories of reduced interest, and of the repeal of the Income-tax were at once destroyed. Mr. Gladstone would have done wisely if he had confined his attention to the improvement of our Customs and to the reformation of the administrative department of our finances. But his experiments upon the financial system of the country have been of far too speculative a nature to obtain the approbation of practical men who saw clearly enough that the errors which were committed on his first entrance into office, were the precursors of a chain of difficulties in the future. Mr. T. Baring, on the occasion of bringing up the report of the resolution in reference to the issue of Exchequer Bonds in May, 1854, ably exposed the errors of Mr. Gladstone's financial schemes, and also the impropriety of "stopping £6,522,546 from funds belonging to the Savings-banks, which had been sold to buy Exchequer Bills; thus the Savings-banks funded property was used to bolster up the Exchequer Bills, and when these were obtained they were converted into the funded debt, to the amount of £1,200,000." Such was the opinion of one of the most experienced members of the House of Commons on Mr. Gladstone's financial movements in 1853 and 1854. The manner in which he has dealt with the finances of the country during his later tenure of office we shall reserve for future remark. In the meantime we would suggest that efforts ought to be made to place the government of the national finances upon a sounder basis, and to separate entirely from the province of the Chancellor of the Exchequer those merely formal transactions which demand an independent and distinct department in the State.

THE BANK RETURNS.—THE DRAIN OF GOLD FOR CORN.

IN considering the Bank Returns there are certain broad principles which are tolerably safe guides. For instance, if we see corn rising from a deficient harvest, a drain of bullion may be reckoned on with certainty, and a drain of bullion is generally succeeded by a rise in the value of money. If, on the other hand, there is a falling corn market, we may generally conclude, in times of peace, that an easier money market will ensue. We subjoin a statement of the Bank Returns now, and at the corresponding period of last year; also at the 26th December:—

	June 27, 1860.	Dec. 26, 1860.	June 26, 1861.
Circulation Issue .....	£30,245,485	£26,568,575	£26,153,600
Circulation Active .....	20,959,780	19,644,500	19,204,520
Public Deposits .....	9,327,313	7,361,356	8,159,026
Other do. ....	12,353,700	11,972,295	11,511,296
Government Security in
Banking Department ....	9,814,106	9,540,273	9,967,654
Other do. ....	20,265,535	20,522,372	20,180,066
Coin and Bullion in both
Departments .....	16,552,030	12,789,119	12,644,660
Notes in Reserve .....	9,285,705	6,929,075	6,949,160
Total Reserve (Notes and Coin) in both Departments	10,067,250	7,628,619	7,915,150
Bank Rate of Discount ....	4	5	6
Average Price of Wheat ...	57s.	62s. 6d.	53s. 9d.

Taking the prospects of the harvest as the basis of an argument, we find that at this time last year the average price of wheat was 57s. a quarter, with wretched weather, a rising corn market, and every prospect of a bad harvest. This year the average is 53s. 9d. a quarter, with a falling market, splendid weather, and the prospect of an average harvest. It will be observed that the effect of the bad harvest of 1860 is clearly demonstrated in these Returns by a withdrawal of bullion from the coffers of the Bank to the extent of nearly four millions as compared with the corresponding period of last year, whilst simultaneously with a falling corn market for the last three weeks there has been (despite our enormous shipments of gold to America) an increase in the bullion in the Bank of England to the amount of £703,843. These comparisons suggest satisfactory conclusions respecting the immediate course of the money market.

THE BOARD OF TRADE RETURNS.—THE INORDINATE SCALE OF OUR IMPORTS.

THE Board of Trade Returns for the month of May are interesting as indicating a revival in the exports of home produce and manufactures. The figures for the month are subjoined:—

May, 1859 .. ..	£10,485,744
" 1860 .. ..	10,949,188
" 1861 .. ..	11,206,070

The exports of the month were more by £256,882, or 2 per cent., than in the same month of last year, and more by £720,326, or 7 per cent., than in May, 1859.

For the five months the statement is as follows:—

1859 .. ..	£52,337,268
1860 .. ..	52,783,535

There is thus a decrease of £3,003,003, or  $5\frac{1}{2}$  per cent., compared with 1860, and a decrease of £2,556,736, or  $4\frac{3}{4}$  per cent., compared with 1859.

The improvement which has taken place in the exports for May fairly affords ground for congratulation, for, although the shipments to America have sunk to an exceedingly low amount, the withdrawal of this customer has been compensated by the influx of several others. More particularly, during the past month, there has been a decidedly increased demand for cotton goods and some other manufactures for account of India and China.

The satisfactory conclusions deducible from the export returns are, however, to a considerable extent qualified when we examine the returns of imports. It is quite clear that we are continuing to spend extraordinarily large sums in articles of foreign and colonial production. For the month ending April 30 (the latest period to which the official values are given), the value of the principal articles imported was:—

" 1860 .. ..	13,679,301
" 1861 .. ..	17,509,940

And for the first four months of the year the imports have been:—

1859 .. ..	£33,407,156
1860 .. ..	42,410,364
1861 .. ..	51,821,567

The great bulk of the increase is still in grain and flour. Until the imports of these articles subside the value of money cannot possibly rule low. Meanwhile, it may be remarked that the further we leave the bad harvest of 1860 behind us, the nearer do we get to relief, provided the next harvest prove a better one.

THE REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONERS OF HER MAJESTY'S CUSTOMS—THE ADVERSE BALANCE OF TRADE.

THE official Report on the Customs is a very valuable document, for it emanates from those who, from their position, have the best possible insight into the working of our vast commercial system. The Report commences with the most important event of the year 1860, viz., the Treaty of Commerce with France. To show the importance of the concessions obtained by that Treaty, it may be pointed out that the former tariff of France practically excluded from that country the yarns and textile fabrics of Manchester, Glasgow, Leeds, Huddersfield, Bradford, Leicester, and Nottingham; the finersorts of earthenware of Staffordshire; the glassware of Birmingham, Newcastle, and London; the hardware of Birmingham and Wolverhampton; the cutlery of Sheffield; and the broad cloth of Yorkshire and the West of England. In fact, it was a tariff of prohibition, more severe against England than against any other country, as a consequence of our continuous wars with France. This reign of prohibition has been succeeded by a Treaty of high, but not prohibitory duties. So far as the Treaty has yet come into operation (for our readers are aware that certain future dates have been fixed for the admission of certain articles), the result, on a comparison of the exports of 1860 with those of 1859, is that there is an increase in hardware of 49 per cent.; in pig iron of 4 per cent.; in bar and bolt iron of 6 per cent.; in copper of 8 per cent.; and in lead of 35 per cent.

Next, as regards our imports: It must be remembered that so far as England was concerned, the operation of the Treaty was immediate. The importations of clocks have risen 24 per cent.; watches, 50 per cent.; leather gloves, 15 per cent.; silk manufactures, 17 per cent.; shawls, scarfs, and handkerchiefs, of woollen manufacture, 300 per cent.

It is somewhat satisfactory to observe that the distress at Coventry does not arise from any increase in the importation of French ribbons, but from the change of fashion in female attire, for the falling off in the manufacture of ribbons has been felt quite as much at St. Etienne as at Coventry. We have not the slightest doubt that the Treaty, when it comes into full operation, will be attended with the best results both commercially and politically.

A general review of the trade of the kingdom for the past year shows an increase both in exports and imports, but the increase in the latter largely predominated, constituting a heavy drain for the time on the resources of the country. As regards exports, the figures were—

1859 .. ..	130,440,427
1860 .. ..	135,842,817

Our best customers were—

The Hanseatic towns .. ..	£10,000,000
France .. ..	5,000,000
Brazil .. ..	4,000,000
United States .. ..	21,000,000
India .. ..	17,000,000
Australia .. ..	10,000,000

The increase in the exports of foreign and colonial merchandise also goes on satisfactorily, showing that this country is the entrepôt where the wants of a large portion of the world are supplied. The figures are—

1853 .. ..	£23,174,023
1859 .. ..	25,203,163
1860 .. ..	29,827,836

But when we consider the magnitude of the excess of imports over exports, it becomes somewhat difficult to explain how the large balance against this country is adjusted. It is evident that this is not done by the export of bullion, for the specie and bullion imported in 1860 amounted to £22,978,196, and the total exported to £25,534,768, whereas our imports of commodities are returned at—

1857 .. ..	£187,844,441
1858 .. ..	164,583,832
1859 .. ..	179,334,981
1860 .. ..	210,648,634

If we add together the exports of British, Foreign, and Colonial produce—of which latter this country is the entrepôt—they amount only to £165,670,753, so that there remains an apparent balance of nearly £48,000,000 against us; whereas the balance of bullion exported over that imported was only £2,536,572. Probably the chief explanation of this apparent and striking anomaly is that, although 1860 was a year of exceptionally large imports, it does not follow that we were obliged to pay for the whole of them within that year. This view is borne out by the fact that during the whole of the first six months of 1861 we have been subjected to a severe drain, partly in payment for the imports of 1860. The chief countries from which we drew our imports were:—

Egypt .. ..	£10,000,000	India .. ..	£15,000,000
France .. ..	17,000,000	Australia .. ..	6,000,000
Russia .. ..	16,000,000

But more important than all is America, which supplied us with the enormous amount of £44,000,000, being £10,000,000 above the importations from that quarter in 1859. As the value of the corn imported from America in 1860 was but £6,000,000, which was obviously inadequate to make up for the deficiency in our harvest, it becomes additionally easy to account for the continuance of the American pressure upon us up to the present date. Another interesting fact is that, of a total of £36,000,000 of cotton imported from all parts of the world, no less than £30,000,000 came from the United States. As this amount was far above the average, the large export of specie to America is further accounted for.

To show the magnitude of our imports of Foreign and Colonial produce during the past year, it may be mentioned that out of the fourteen principal articles of import only four showed a decrease, viz. :—

		1859.		1860.
Sugar	... cwt.	9,098,544	...	8,807,586
Hemp and Jute	... "	2,159,980	...	1,609,175
Silk	... lbs.	9,920,891	...	9,178,647
Spirits	... galls.	11,250,710	...	10,331,062

The decrease in spirits was entirely in brandy, the imports of which are seemingly most capricious, being—

1,064,663 gallons in	...	...	...	1858
4,030,175 "	"	"	"	1859
2,342,540 "	"	"	"	1860

The ten principal articles in which the imports increased were—

		1859.		1860.
Coffee	... lbs.	65,353,030	...	82,767,746
Cotton	... "	10,946,331	...	12,419,096
Flax	... "	1,432,037	...	1,464,810
Provisions	... "	1,415,920	...	2,381,799
Tea	... lbs.	75,077,452	...	88,946,532
Timber	... loads	2,729,507	...	2,802,884
Tobacco	... lbs.	50,671,264	...	51,670,893
Wool	... "	130,783,000	...	145,501,651
Corn	... qrs.	9,221,167	...	12,890,567
Flour	... cwt.	3,330,770	...	5,093,845

But, as might be expected, the most remarkable increase was in the imports of wine, which were :—

	Gallons.		Gallons.
1859	8,195,513	1860	12,483,362

Colonial wine forms an exception, as it has fallen off from 789,756 gallons in 1859 to 684,991 gallons in 1860 ; and all other descriptions show an augmentation. The principal increase is, however, from :—

	1859.		1860.
France	1,797,859 gallons.	...	2,535,760 gallons.
Portugal	1,010,888 "	...	2,445,159 "
Spain	3,629,325 "	...	5,325,948 "

But if we take the consumption into consideration, Spanish wines has increased only 3 per cent. (as compared with an increased import of 40 per cent.); French 61 per cent.; and German and mixed wines from Holland, 77 per cent. Port has decreased 13 per cent., and Colonial wines 46 per cent. But what is most remarkable is, that although the importation of wine has increased 50 per cent., the consumption has not increased more than 1 per cent.; this is, no doubt, to be accounted for by consumers being unwilling to increase their stock until the duty was reduced to its minimum.

The other principal articles of daily consumption have increased as follows :—Cocoa, 1 per cent.; coffee, 3 per cent.; corn, 39 per cent.; flour, 53 per cent.; currants, 33 per cent.; spirits, 11 per cent.; refined sugar, 6 per cent.; tea, 6 per cent.; tobacco, 1 per cent.

Notwithstanding, however, this great increase of consumption and of imports, the total receipts from Customs have fallen from—showing a deficiency of £1,899,302.

£25,065,066 in 1859 to £23,165,764 in 1860,

This decrease the Commissioners of Customs attribute entirely (with the exception of that in sugar and molasses) to the operation of Mr. Gladstone's budget remissions. The decline in the duty receipts was on wine £808,506, which, however, is only 41 per cent., in face of a reduction of duty of 50 per cent.

There is much in these figures, affording, as they do, a condensed review of the year's trade, which is deserving of study by all who wish to trace the causes of the disturbance witnessed during the last nine months in the money market. Large imports—suddenly extended under the necessity of our being fed—are the one main cause of our difficulties, and have constituted the distinguishing characteristic of the year 1860. It is hardly possible, therefore, to overrate the effect which the result of the coming harvest will have upon every commercial and financial interest in the kingdom. An average yield—more cannot be hoped for, considering the unfavourable conditions under which the wheat seed was committed to the ground, and the comparatively limited breadth sown—would go far to efface the traces of last year's failure, whilst another bad harvest would probably occasion a serious crisis.

FIRE INSURANCE STATISTICS—THE INEXPEDIENCY OF THE DUTY—THE GREAT FIRE.

An official return has been made of the duties paid to Government by the various Insurance Companies during the year 1860. This duty is 3s. per cent. on the sum insured, and the total received by Government for the year 1860 is no less than £1,558,585. This, at 3s. per cent., would represent an amount insured of no less than £1,039,056,666. That the large duty charged by the State acts most detrimentally as a tax on and a discouragement to prudence is certain. In every sense this is a most obnoxious impost. It is defensible on no ground, save that of sheer financial necessity. Its removal was demanded—in every respect save that of interested clamour—far more than was that of the paper duty. It is one of the few taxes which require not to be lowered, but to be entirely abolished, like the window duty. Special taxes on light, on air, and on prudent habits, are all utterly opposed to the principles of economical science. It is not to be doubted for a moment that the repeal of the Fire Insurance Duty would be followed by a steady increase in the amount of insurances effected. In other words, a stimulus would be given to the exercise of providence and forethought. A tax of equal amount on life insurance would certainly not have been permitted to deface the statute-book, yet would hardly be one whit less objectionable in principle than this tax on fire insurance.

The present is a peculiarly suitable moment for drawing attention to the vicious operation of this duty. Our metropolis—the greatest aggregate of dwellings, of population, and of wealth on the face of the earth—has just been preserved, humanly speaking, by the mere accident of a change of wind, from one of the most awful catastrophes ever recorded in history. It wanted little more for the conflagration in Southwark to have acquired dimensions which would have thrown even the Great Fire of 1666 into the shade. All the public journals admit this. Had the great railway stations, near London Bridge, taken fire, and had the wind been such as to fan the progress of the flames, it is only too probable that nearly all the south side of London, which is also one of its most densely populated portions, would have been laid in ashes. The mind of man recoils from the horrors which would have followed. Well may it be asked—What is the use of all our modern appliances and safeguards? We boast of our ability to control the most powerful and subtle elements in nature, yet seem to be almost as much in the power of the great destroyer—Fire—as our forefathers were three hundred years ago. Millions sterling of property—representing the laborious accumulation of savings and of capital—have within the last week been resolved into a cloud of carbon, which has hung like a pall over the greatest, richest, and most scientific city in the world; and now that the work of destruction is at an end, our most appropriate feeling is one of humble thankfulness that the area of the disaster was not far wider, for the simple truth is, that we were powerless to grapple with it.

Now, if we are liable to contingencies of this fearful character—if we are liable to have destruction suddenly overtake our dwellings, decorated as they are with every article of comfort and luxury, and with the triumphs of artistic skill; our warehouses, loaded with the materials of food and manufacture, or with the still more costly produce of those manufactures themselves; our State buildings, churches, and hospitals, and the equally imposing erections which have arisen in many parts of this great metropolis at the powerful bidding of Associated Capital—it cannot be denied that we ought to take every means in our power to reduce to a minimum the danger and the possible suffering. With this view, we ought to encourage in every way the really beneficent operations of those well-appointed public companies whose express business it is to make a legitimate profit themselves whilst holding the public harmless against fire risks. This is one of the few means really at our disposal to mitigate the terrible consequences of a conflagration. The more the system of fire insurance is encouraged, too, the greater will be the precautions that will be observed; and this because, the stronger the insurance companies become, the better will they be enabled to enforce the observance of certain plain rules essential to the public safety. Already the action taken by them in this respect is producing daily and hourly benefit. We would earnestly urge the companies to take warning by the recent dreadful event, and to require the observance of much more stringent precautions in the warehousing and storing of dangerous kinds of goods. What can be more perilous than the storing up, in close propinquity, of vast quantities of jute, hemp, tallow, oil, tar, sulphur, saltpetre, turpentine, and similarly inflammable articles? What is more contradictory than to prohibit by law the accumulation of more than a certain limited quantity of gunpowder in any but licensed depots, yet to allow the component elements of gunpowder—sulphur and saltpetre—to be warehoused in any quantity in the midst of the dwellings of myriads of people? We have hitherto been perfectly careless of several most plain and simple safeguards, which we shall probably begin to attend to now that two or three millions of property have been instantaneously swept away. The Fire Insurance Companies have it in their power to make the adoption of valuable precautions almost universal, and will doubtless henceforward exercise it more stringently for the public good.

The following is the official account of the gross amount of duty on insurances against fire paid by the London Insurance Offices during the year 1860 :—

It would add to the value of these returns if the amount of property other than farming stock insured were given, as well as the amount of duty paid to Government.

THE QUESTIONABLE POLICY AND THE UNQUESTIONABLE EXPENSE OF SENDING THREE THOUSAND TROOPS TO CANADA.

Is the present time, when England is staggering under an enormous expenditure, and when the "United" States are preparing for a desperate civil strife, a fit moment for the Government of this country to send a force to Canada? We confess we have grave doubts of the wisdom of the step in a political point of view; but, eschewing politics except as they bear upon finance, we maintain that, if such a colony as Canada will not protect itself, it is not worth preserving. It is the duty of every colony which claims self-government to provide the force necessary for its own protection. If the Northern States of America, in their present embarrassed position, were insane enough to attempt to annex Canada by force, with the double object of compensating for the loss of the seceded States, and of gratifying the party in America who deem it good policy to heal domestic strife by foreign aggression,—and if the Canadians were determined to resist this aggression, then England would feel bound to protect Canada from the horrors of unprovoked war. But unless a demand for assistance came from Canada, we doubt very much the policy of our sending a force to protect this powerful colony. If a colony of such size, population, and resources as Canada does not think it worth while to raise a sufficient force to maintain its present virtual independence, it certainly would not be worth while for England to lavish her blood and treasure in attempting to defend those who had neither the spirit nor inclination to defend themselves. It is clearly the duty of England to say to Canada, "We will uphold you against overwhelming aggression, but we rely on you to maintain a sufficient force to protect yourselves until that open aggression is proclaimed." We therefore deem the despatch of three thousand troops to Canada at the present juncture a blunder, not justifiable on any grounds. In the first place, the force is not large enough for protection; and, in the second, we have not heard that it has been demanded by the Canadians themselves. Thirdly, in the present temper of the Northern States it is sure to be misconstrued. Indeed, we may be quite sure it will be made a political handle of by both Unionists and Secessionists. The measure is particularly objectionable on financial grounds. India, which has not self-government, has much more reason to require the Imperial Government to pay the expenses of the army necessary to protect it than has Canada. And then, again, is it not disgraceful that, though we pay twelve or fourteen millions annually for our navy, when an expedition, however small, has to be sent out, Government are obliged to increase even that enormous expenditure, because they have not a single vessel fit for the transport service in readiness?

If we have any consolation on the subject, it will be in seeing how the great steam-ship acts as a transport. If she does her work well, it may become worth the while of Government to purchase her at a very moderate price, and this may save much future expenditure. We would suggest that the most minute record should be kept of the expenses incurred by the transport of this expedition, so that we may be able to compare them with former expenses of the same kind. This is the only good that we can possibly imagine as likely to arise from an expedition which is too small to resist aggression, if that be intended, too large for the ordinary garrison of Canada, a provocation to the angry Americans, and an unnecessary addition to our already overwhelming expenditure.

HOW THE PUBLIC MONEY IS WASTED.

It is only by a hint that now and then oozes out that any clue can be obtained as to the manner in which Government manage to spend some twenty-eight millions annually on the army and navy. The mind of man can hardly grasp the incalculable quantity of cannon, rifles, swords, timber, and shot, that a ten years' steady expenditure at this rate ought to accumulate. So vast is the quantity, however, compared with what we have got to show for it, that a suspicion haunts the public mind that the money is not properly spent, but wasted—wasted almost as grossly as if it were taken bodily and thrown into the sea. Sir Morton Peto recently stumbled on the little fact that about ten inspectors of works are employed where one would suffice; and Mr. Lindsay discovered that Government, in the little item of anchors alone, are spending from £20 to £40 a ton (according to the size) more than the prices at which these articles can be obtained from the most eminent anchor makers in the kingdom.

If it could be known what the cost of an Enfield rifle is, as turned out by Government, compared with that at which it could be obtained, were the supply put up to public competition, even the Horse Guards would be startled.

To show that these are not vague assertions, but that they can be proved by figures, we may refer to a list lying before us, which shows the prices of anchors from the first makers of the day, comparatively with the official scale of prices paid by the Admiralty. The specification, proofs, and test are precisely the same. The market price of 17 anchors, from 1 ton, increasing 5 cwt. each up to 5 tons weight, is shown to be £1,428 as against £3,434. 17s. 6d. paid by the Admiralty under a contract dated 1841.

Let it not be supposed that the market prices of the anchors quoted are from houses which could not supply anchors as good as those now furnished, for the prices given are supplied by Messrs. Hawks, Crawshaw and Sons, John Abbot and Son, and Henry Wood and Co. But it will, perhaps, be said that the prices paid by the Admiralty for anchors, under the contract of 1841, are not the prices which they now pay. Will some Parliamentary reformers of our enormous expenditure ask Lord Charles Paget what is the price the Admiralty now pay; how many anchors they have purchased since 1841, and the prices given; also the number in store then, and the number in store now?

The latest intelligence we can glean as to anchors supplied to the Admiralty is that, in 1854, 792 anchors, of under 20 cwt., were delivered in one dockyard, at the price of £33 per ton; that in 1856, 630 additional anchors were delivered into store at Woolwich, at £40 per ton; and that the price now paid for anchors by the Admiralty is, for those weighing 50 to 59 cwt., £2. 11s. 4d. per cwt., or £51. 6s. 8d. per ton; 60 to 69 cwt., £2. 9s. 11d. per cwt., or £49. 18s. 4d. per ton; 70 to 100 cwt., £2. 16s. 11d. per cwt., or £56. 18s. 4d. per ton. The cost of similar anchors, if put up for competition, would be, according to the prices furnished, 50 to 59 cwt., £26 to £28 per ton; 60 to 69 cwt., £28 to £30 per ton; 70 to 100 cwt., £30 per ton. Consequently, the Admiralty seem to be paying nearly £24, £21, and £27 per ton too much in these respective instances.

Now, if this extravagance pervades the whole of the Admiralty contracts, it is very easy to imagine how the public money goes. The fact is, that so long as the Admiralty is constituted as it is, and "My Lords" change with every administration, there is no hope of reform, for as soon as any one of "My Lords" begins to know his business he has to make way for another lord, who has to be taught his business, and thus the Admiralty Board becomes the worst organised in the public service. The Board ought to be permanent, and to be composed of the most able men that can be found, irrespective of party. At present it is a disgrace to the country, and engulfs millions a year in waste.

THE STATE OF TRADE.

(COMPILED FROM NUMEROUS LOCAL REPORTS.)

At Manchester, the market remains in almost the same state of inactivity as last week, with here and there a change for the worse. Nearly all kinds of cloth, including shirtings, T-cloths, long-cloths, and printing-cloths, are in less request, and in many cases lower prices have been taken than last week. The tone of the market is extremely dull. A despatch from Bombay to the 26th May reports shirtings about 3d. per piece dearer, but even at this advance the rates are most unremunerative, and for the present there is no improvement here in the demand for India. The business done in yarns is also on the most restricted scale. The offers to purchase are generally at prices too low for spinners to accept, but where sales take place there is a decline of about  $\frac{3}{4}$ d. per lb. on the quotations of last week. Water twist for China is rather more inquired for, but scarcely any business has resulted. No progress seems to be made with the short time movement, though it is still under discussion.

At Leeds there is an absence of buyers, and great quietness has prevailed in the cloth warehouses this week. Notwithstanding the care manufacturers exercise the rate of production is rather in excess of the demand, and the prospects for the autumn and winter trade do not brighten.

At Rochdale the flannel and wool markets have been again very quiet. For goods, both Lancashire and Yorkshire, merchants made very small demand. Prices keep tolerably steady.

The report from Bradford, dated Thursday, states that business in worsted yarns is very scanty. There is rather more activity in pieces, and the inquiry for plain goods has slightly increased. Some of the foreign houses are pretty busy, and orders from the Continent come in rather more freely, but manufacturers have still reason to complain, as many looms are standing.

At Huddersfield there has been more doing again; and it would seem that the continued fine weather has at last restored something like confidence to trade. A fair number of buyers have been about the Cloth Hall and the warehouses, although their operations are still conducted with great caution.

At Nottingham the lace trade continues without much change; very little is being done at the warehouses. The foreign buyers do not purchase largely, and the home trade continues dull. All branches of the cotton trade are extremely flat. Stocks of all kinds of goods are being kept low. In hosiery there is a little more doing, the home demand having slightly improved. The dullness in this trade is in consequence of the absence of the demand for the American markets.

The ironmasters of South Staffordshire and the district held their preliminary meeting at the Stewponey, near Stourbridge, on Thursday afternoon. There was a very large attendance of the trade, and the general feeling appeared to be that no improvement could be expected till political affairs on the Continent become more settled, and the disputes between the parties in the United States are adjusted, and an alteration is made in the Morrill Tariff Bill. As was expected, a reduction in the price of finished iron was agreed to of 10s. per ton, and a reduction in the rate of puddler's wages of 6d. per day, and the mill men and others in proportion. There was no arrangement come to as to blowing any more furnaces out of blast, but the general opinion was that the reduction will necessitate the adoption of this course by some of the manufacturers. The present price of bars is £7 per ton; hoops, £8; and sheets and plates, £8. 10s.

A FRESH DRAUGHT UPON THE FRENCH MONEY MARKET.

It is announced that a Bill authorising the issue by the Treasury of debentures, repayable in thirty years (obligations trentenaires), has been submitted to the French Legislative body, and passed. The amount to be issued is to be sufficient to produce a net sum of £4,160,000, to be employed in the execution of railway works which the State has undertaken. They are the lines from Rennes to Brest, from Toulouse to Bayonne, from Perpignan to Port Vendres, from Grenoble to Montmélian, from Thonon to Collonges, and from Aix to Annecy.

INDIAN RAILWAYS.—THE PAR OF EXCHANGE.

The rate of exchange in operations between the Government and the railway companies having often attracted attention, the following remarks on the subject, from Mr. J. Danvers' Report for the year 1860-61, will, perhaps, be found useful:—

It was explained in the former report that the railway capital is principally raised in this country, and paid into the Government treasury in London, and that the sums required for the expenditure in India are advanced by the Government from the local treasuries. When the contracts between the Government and the railway companies were executed, it was considered desirable to fix the rate of exchange at which these advances should be made. The first contract was entered into in 1849, when silver was cheaper than it is now, and when the prevailing rate of exchange was more in favour of this country. That fixed upon was 1s. 10d., and by this rate all the transactions between the Government and the railway companies are regulated. The rate of exchange has now risen to 2s. or upwards; the consequence is that for every £100 which the railway companies pay into the Government treasury in this country for expenditure in India, the Government advances, in rupees, an amount the equivalent of which at 2s. is about £109. The repayment of the advances made by Government on account of the guaranteed interest is subject to the same arrangement. The profits of the railways as they accrue are, under the contracts, paid into the Government treasuries in India, and although the exchangeable current value of the rupee may be 2s., they are converted into sterling at 1s. 10d., the Government being entitled to retain the difference. The extra amount which the Government are now advancing will, accordingly, be gradually recovered, should the present rate of exchange continue or increase (either of which is probable), and should the railways work at a profit. For instance, the Government this year will probably advance Rs. 6,000,000 to the railway companies in India, and the railway companies will only be debited with the sum of £5,500,000 in this country, which is £500,000 less than would have been charged against them had the transaction been regulated by the rate of 2s. On the other hand, the Government, it is calculated, will receive into the treasuries in India a sum of Rs. 40,00,000 on account of the net profits of the railways, but a sum of £366,666 only will be credited to the companies in reduction of their debt to the Government for the guaranteed interest. This process will go on for some time. The advances on account of capital will of course cease when the lines are completed. The Government will continue to receive all the profits of the railways in rupees, and, after converting them into pounds sterling at the fixed rate of 1s. 10d., will, in the first instance, apply the amount so produced to the payment of the guaranteed interest. If the profits should amount to more than 5 per cent., half the excess will be applied to the repayment of the sums advanced for guaranteed interest in former years, and half paid to the shareholders in addition to the 5 per cent. It is difficult to estimate which will have profited most by the arrangement, when the accounts between the companies and the Government are closed; but the probability is, supposing the existing rate to continue, and the lines to be profitable, that the profit and loss of each will ultimately be nearly balanced.

THE BANK OF ENGLAND.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—If we had a Board, or authority for nursing and guiding commerce, its seal would, no doubt, bear her Majesty's effigy, with the motto—"Buy in the cheapest market and sell in the dearest;" and on the foolscap used in the office these wise words would be embossed in a handsome and conspicuous manner.

Suppose, now, our British merchants—a body of men notoriously slow of enterprise, indifferent to business and profits, ignorant of markets and prices, without correspondents and letters, deaf to factors, agents, and brokers, with eyes ever closed to the MONEY MARKET REVIEW, a hundred Prices Current, circulars, newspapers, and telegrams—had some time last winter roused themselves from their habitual lethargy, looked in at the great Board, and asked advice of our official mentors, the reply would naturally have run in this wise—"We have had a shocking bad harvest; therefore corn, wherever cheap, ought to be bought. The cheapest markets are in the United States, and the cheapest way to buy is to take out gold; with gold you will save five per cent. at New York, and fifty if you go as far as Chicago, where the paper dollar of the banks is down to fifty cents., and people won't take it even at that. The stock of wheat, flour, and maize is inexhaustible, and with sovereigns you can buy for next to nothing. Moreover, at New York and in Cuba you can buy sugar at one-third, molasses at one-half less for sovereigns and doubloons than last year. Other things may be picked up almost as cheap. By all means send gold; that at the worst can only lose interest, not sink capital. Nobody can draw, and therefore no one can ship. The holders of goods are hard up; send gold and you will buy cheap enough, and that's what we have the gold for. The seller's necessity is the buyer's opportunity. Now is England's opportunity for making money; but we must send gold, that will enable us to buy cheapest in the cheapest market, on terms which can give no loss, and may leave large profits. The official advice of this Board is, that our merchants should send gold to those countries, nothing but gold, and no mistake! We will give you this opinion in black and white; fee ten guineas. The motto on our foolscap is worth more than the money. It runs thus:—"Buy in the cheapest market and sell in the dearest."

Now did the Bank, looked up to by the multitude as the very prop and mainstay of our commerce, give advice after this fashion? Was its motto, "Buy in the cheapest market," or was it, "Buy not at all?" Eight of the alterations in the rate, out of the dozen made in seven months, were notoriously meant to prevent the sending of gold and the buying in the cheapest market. Having fourteen millions of unrepresented notes, the Bank was, is, and ever will be—to speak gently—in a false position, must oppose the best interests of British commerce, must make and does make every effort to thwart our buying cheapest in the cheapest market. That was the ostensible object of the eight additions to the rate, eight blunders we will call them, not only as proved by the event and the present action of the Bank, but as before-hand demonstrable by economical science.

The people of England were never better off—that means, never more able to overcome great difficulties without great suffering, than at the close of last year. Wealth and well-being, savings of surplus income, the proper provision against evil days, had been progressing amazingly. There were those, and I could name them, who suggested that the bad harvest would not cause the same pressure as in former times, not even in the money market. What had we free trade for? Did not the returns of the property tax prove annual accumulations to the amount of seventy or eighty millions? Now, did the Bank ignore these facts as it did the golden rule of buying in the cheapest market? Or was there no blunder but merely plunder? Is the Bank, interfering with legitimate commerce and preventing legitimate profits, content to revel in large dividends and glory in an immense bonus? We know not. But this we know, that the Bank will not join in chorus with the official mentors; "Now is your time! the seller's necessity is the buyer's opportunity." It will not issue its fourteen millions of unrepresented notes with the advice, "Send gold, by all means gold, sovereigns and doubloons!" The foolscap will not be embossed with the wise words, "Buy in the cheapest market and sell in the dearest;" its motto is, "Buy not at all!" I am, sir, yours,

MERCATOR.

GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY OF CANADA.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE "MONEY MARKET REVIEW."

SIR,—Before this note can be published it is highly probable that intimation of the dishonouring of another half-year's interest upon the First Preference Bonds will have been announced.

It is really saddening to witness this; and the more so, as the traffic returns, averaging £13,200 weekly, were such that they justified the expectation of the interest upon these Bonds being safe beyond all doubt. There is only one conjecture—still it is only a mere conjecture—that can be arrived at, and it is this, that those Directors of the Company, who are also the bankers of the Company, are quietly repaying themselves out of the earnings of the line for any advances made by them. This may be correct, or it may be altogether erroneous; still I cannot see what other conclusion can be drawn, as the Directors seem determined to maintain a silence which is tantalizing and unbearable to the suffering bondholders, and looks as if the Directors were afraid to bring their doings to the light.

All that is required to pay the interest upon the First Preference Bonds is a clear weekly return of £2,304 after paying working expenses. It is probable that, instead of earning only £2,304 of clear profits out of the £13,200 of gross receipts weekly, the actual sum is from £5,000 to £6,000, being sufficient to meet the full interest upon the First and Second Preference, and on one-half of the Ordinary Bonds, and yet the First Preference Bonds are now selling in the market at 40 per cent. discount, the purchasers getting a whole year's arrears of interest.

It may be well for the bondholders of this line to keep in view the difficulties which all the leading railways, without exception, have come through, and compare the former with the present position of those lines, and also of the Grand Trunk of Canada Railway. The contemplation of this may help to sustain their courage under present adversity, and nerve them to exertion, so as to bring their undertaking out of its difficulties. The following few instances show the depression which some of the leading railway stocks suffered:—

In 1851 ...	Caledonians	were at	£20 ...	and are now	... 97½
„ 1848 ...	Great Northern	„	40 ...	„	... 107½
„ 1851 ...	Lancashire & Yorkshire	„	46 ...	„	... 111½
„ 1850 ...	Midlands	„	31 ...	„	... 121
„ 1850 ...	North British	„	16 ...	„	... 63
„ 1854 ...	Berwicks	„	61 ...	„	... 104½
„ 1850 ...	Scottish Centrals	„	40 ...	„	... 114½

These are a few of the most striking instances of great depression caused by almost insurmountable difficulties at one period in the history of railways and of subsequent great prosperity. Perhaps it is not assuming too much, to remark the great probability of the present purchasers of the Grand Trunk of Canada Railway Preference Bonds, and even of the Ordinary Bonds, becoming at no very distant date equally fortunate with the purchasers of the above-named stocks at the low prices. Instead of bondholders losing heart and sacrificing their bonds now, it may be wiser policy for them to equalise their prices by purchasing at the present low rates, and holding on with patience.

It is in the power of the Committee of the Stock Exchange to grant a very great relief to the holders of these bonds, enabling them to dispose of the over-due interest warrants, without at same time sacrificing the bonds, and this by merely causing the bonds to be dealt in "ex over-due coupons."—I am, &c.,

WILLIAM MILLER.

MERCANTILE EMBARRASMENTS.

The stoppage was announced on Saturday last of Messrs. J. Duncan and Co., of Dundee, manufacturers of goods for the Australian and American trades. This is an old and respectable house. The amount of the liabilities has not transpired. It is stated that they are expected to pay in full, with a considerable surplus. The "stoppage of the American trade" is assigned as the principal cause of the failure.

The stoppage has been announced of Mr. Charles James Webb, wholesale cheesemonger, of Whitechapel. The liabilities are perhaps about £20,000.

The Manchester advices mention the failure of Messrs. T. Fish and Co., manufacturers.

A meeting of the creditors of Mr. Richard Brandt, Russia merchant, of Crosby-square, was held on Monday, when the balance-sheet was presented by Mr. Quilter, the accountant. The liabilities of Mr. R. Brandt are estimated at £88,456, and the net assets at £30,481. It was explained, however, that the London firm, and the houses of Messrs. W. Brandt and Sons, of Archangel, Mr. Charles Brandt, of St. Petersburg, and Messrs. Brandt Brothers, of Riga, all form one establishment. According to the latest accounts received the aggregate liabilities of the four firms amount to about £450,000, while the assets are rather under £300,000. The Russian Government are creditors for 600,000 roubles, or about £90,000, which was lent to the firm about six weeks ago. The aggregate estate shows a probable dividend of about 60 per cent. on the total liabilities, and it was explained that the best plan would be to wind up under inspection, a course similar to that already agreed to at St. Petersburg. A resolution to this effect was accordingly adopted.

At a meeting of the creditors of Messrs. Mackay and Read, commission merchants and insurance brokers, also held on Monday, a statement was presented by Mr. John Young, of the firm of Coleman, Turquand, Youngs, and Co., showing liabilities to the amount of £16,150, and assets estimated at £4,959 net, or 6s. 1d. in the pound. It was proposed to pay a composition of 5s. in the pound, in instalments at four, eight, and twelve months, without guarantee for the last, but it was finally resolved to appoint a committee to investigate.

At the adjourned meeting on Monday of the creditors of Messrs. P. C. Selvago and Co., who failed in February last, an amended statement of the affairs was explained by Mr. Coleman, by which it appeared that the liabilities to rank amount to £46,761. 17s., and the assets to £11,988. 19s. 7d., thus showing rather more than 5s. in the pound. An offer of 6s. in the pound, payable by three instalments, viz., one in cash and the remaining two in nine and eighteen months, was agreed to.

At a meeting on Wednesday of the creditors of Mr. J. H. Cohn, East India merchant, who failed in February, 1860, it was resolved, after some discussion, to agree to Mr. Cohn's offer to place £22,000 of assets in the hands of the creditors, against liabilities of £60,000.

At a meeting on Thursday of the creditors of Messrs. Alexiada, Delta, and Co., Greek merchants, the pro forma balance-sheet presented by Mr. J. E. Coleman, the accountant, stated the liabilities at £84,447, and the assets at £123,534, including £23,543 due from G. Delta, of Constantinople. The firm has branches at Marseilles and Constantinople. The cause of the failure is the same as in other cases—the non-payment of money due from the Turkish Government. Messrs. Delta, in connection with one of their debtors, claim upwards of £200,000 from the Porte, and it is hoped that under the reign of the present Sultan the Turkish finances will take a more favourable course. The Marseilles house shows liabilities of £40,000, against assets of £20,000. This increases the direct liabilities mentioned in the above statement to about £105,000, while the assets would show a surplus of £80,000 to £100,000, after meeting all engagements, should the Porte pay its debts. It was resolved that Messrs. Alexiadi, Delta, and Co. shall continue to liquidate their estate, and to adjourn to the 29th of August.

At a meeting yesterday (Friday) of the creditors of Messrs. Lascaridi and Co., Greek merchants, of London and Marseilles, the liabilities were stated by Mr. Turquand, the accountant, at £242,184, and the assets at £133,433. The failure has been caused by the injudicious transactions in London of Mr. G. P. Lascaridi, who retired from the firm in December, 1860. It was resolved that Messrs. Lascaridi and Co. shall liquidate their estate, with the assistance and under the supervision of two creditors.

The examination meeting in bankruptcy on Wednesday in the case of Messrs. Nickolls and North, tallow brokers, was further adjourned. It was mentioned that the transactions of the bankrupts had reached £800,000 a-year.

In the Bankruptcy Court on Thursday, Mr. F. B. Schrader, the Liverpool member of the firm of Laurence, Mortimore, and Co., whose protection was withheld until he had been three months in prison, was discharged.

CONSIDERABLE attention has been excited among the mercantile public, both in Belfast and Dublin, by the determination of certain of the fire insurance companies to raise their rate in consequence of the recent frequency of serious fires in those towns. In several instances an advance from 55 per cent. to 105s. has been demanded.

A LETTER from Alexandria, of the 11th June, says:—"The harvest this year in Egypt is magnificent, and prices of grain are expected to be two-thirds lower than they were last year."

THE grain harvest in many parts of Europe this year seems likely to be a fortnight or a month earlier than the average. In the south of France the cutting of wheat has already commenced. The accounts from America are also good, and the western farmers are hurrying forward their last year's stocks to England at a rate which is limited only by the capacities of the railways and the freight market.—Times.

LONDON AND NORTH-WESTERN RAILWAY.—Mr. Moon has been appointed to the office of chairman of this company, vacant upon the death of Admiral Moorsom, and Mr. Westhead, M.P., takes the position of deputy chairman. Mr. Moon has for a considerable period been the deputy chairman, and one of the most hard-working members of the board of directors. He is intimately acquainted with the interests of the company. Mr. Westhead has had great experience in railway management, and has always enjoyed the confidence of the railway proprietors with whom he has been connected.

Accordingly, there is an increase of £229,217 in the reserve, following the increase of £543,109 shown in the previous return. The coin and bullion, which last week increased £383,889, now exhibit a further augmentation of £248,867.

THE MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 28.

The discount market this week has been tight, as usual at this period of the quarter. There was, however, no pressure until to-day, when the applications at the Bank of England were heavy, both from the commercial public, the money brokers, and the Stock Exchange. The pressure of Government Stock on the Stock Exchange has evidently not a little to do with the stringency lately experienced. To-morrow, being the last business day of the quarter and of the half-year, will of course be a very busy one in banking circles. Few transactions occurred to-day below 6 per cent.

In the Stock Exchange money continues to command fully 6 per cent. on Government securities up to the July settlement.

There is still a general impression that the money market will become easier as soon as the quarter is fairly turned; and the Bank Returns point in the same direction.

About £45,000 in bar gold and sovereigns was withdrawn from the Bank to-day for exportation.

The Persia and Edinburgh have sailed for New York since our last report, with £358,139 in specie, and the North Briton for Quebec with £49,200, making in all £407,339.

The Shannon arrived yesterday from the West Indies, with as much as £491,000 in silver, and £36,500 in gold.

The Ellora took on Thursday £89,513 in silver (including £50,123 on Government account), and £1,650 in gold for Bombay.

The steamer of the 4th July will take about £120,000 in silver for Calcutta on Government account, which will be withdrawn from the Bank. As the Bank Return just published states the total of silver bullion at only £212,399, the supply there will soon be exhausted.

The rate of discount in the open market at Paris is  $4\frac{3}{4}$  per cent.; at Vienna, 6; Hamburg,  $2\frac{1}{2}$ ; Brussels, 4; Berlin,  $3\frac{1}{2}$ ; Frankfurt, 2; Turin,  $6\frac{1}{2}$ ; and Amsterdam, 3 per cent. With the exception of Vienna and Turin, London is now the dearest market.

THE BULLION MARKET.

With reference to the movements in bullion and in the Indian Government paper, Messrs. Pixley, Abell, and Langley report as follows:—

GOLD.—Since our last circular of the 20th inst., the Bank has purchased further small amounts of gold, in all about £81,000; and as there is but little demand for export, any immediate arrivals will also be sent into that establishment. Further shipments of sovereigns, &c., have been made to America during the past week, the Nova Scotian having taken £40,000 to Quebec; the Persia, £154,467, and the Edinburgh, £203,672, to New York. Some considerable sums of gold coin have arrived from Constantinople, and these, with sovereigns withdrawn from the Bank, have furnished the needful supplies for America. The Ellora has taken £1,650 to Bombay.

SILVER.—Our market has been very quiet for the past few days; there has been but little demand for Bombay, the steamer having taken but £89,513, £50,123 of which was on Government account. The Shannon has arrived from the West Indies with about £491,000, but this specie will not be deliverable for some days yet.

MEXICAN DOLLARS.—Quoted by us, in error, in our last circular as 59 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per oz., instead of 58 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per oz., have been but little in demand during the week. A large amount of dollars have arrived by the Shannon, but will not be deliverable in time for the China Mail of the 2nd July.

EXCHANGE for Bank's Drafts on Bombay and Calcutta, at 60 days' sight, remains unchanged—ls. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s.; Madras, ls. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to 2s. Bills with Documents, Bombay and Calcutta, ls. 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to ls. 11 $\frac{3}{4}$ d.

INDIA GOVERNMENT LOAN NOTES remain the same as quoted on the 20th inst., viz., 100 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 100 $\frac{3}{4}$  for Five-and-a-Half per Cents., and 94 to 94 $\frac{1}{2}$  for Five per Cents. The prices for these securities telegraphed from Bombay yesterday, are 102 and 96 respectively; but rates at Calcutta by letters delivered to-day are 1 to 1 $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. below the Bombay quotations.

THE EXCHANGES.

THE INDIA LOAN.

It is rumoured that the New India Loan will probably be brought forward on Monday.

The India Loan Bill passed its third reading in the House of Lords last night.

INDIA BONDS.

The following notice regarding India Bonds sent in for payment was posted on Saturday last in the Stock Exchange:—

Gentlemen,—With reference to the announcement which has been published raising the interest on India Bonds from 4 to 4 $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. per annum, I am directed by the Secretary of State for India in Council to acquaint you that, should application be made by persons who have given notice for payment of bonds to withdraw such notices, they will be permitted to do so, but it will be necessary that the persons applying should be directed to exchange at this office their bonds marked for discharge for new bonds, which will be prepared and delivered to them. I am further directed to state, that the option to withdraw notices of discharge can only be allowed up to the 15th proximo.

India-office, June 21.

H. MERVILLE.

THE NEW ZEALAND LOAN.

Some considerable sales of New Zealand Six per Cent. Debentures have been effected during the month at the agents' minimum price of £101. 15s.

THE FINANCES OF SWEDEN.

The Royal Swedish General Mortgage Bank has invited tenders for about £2,500,000 4 per cent. or 4 $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. stock on the security of landed estates in the kingdom assessed at one-half of their value.

DEBT OF NEW GRANADA.

The London Fiscal Commissioner of the New Granadian Confederation announces the first redemption of the Active and Deferred debt for the 2nd July. The half-yearly dividend due the 1st inst. under the new agreement on the New Bonds, and on the Active and Deferred Bonds converted, will be paid by Messrs. Baring Brothers on the 1st July. The bondholders' committee have called in the bonds and overdue coupons in order that the holders may receive the new Active Bonds and the Waste Land Certificates.

CUSTOMS REGULATIONS IN BRAZIL.

Advices from Brazil state that the restrictive Customs regulations enforced a few months back, and which gave general annoyance to all shippers of goods to that country, have been repealed.

THE GREAT FIRE.

The great fire has, of course, formed a prominent topic of conversation this week in all circles. On a moderate computation the loss is thought to reach a million and a-half or two millions sterling. The representatives of the offices forming the committee of the London Fire Engine Establishment have issued an advertisement, requesting that all persons who have sustained loss will as soon as practicable give notice to the offices in which they are insured.

Little effect seems to have been produced by this calamity on the prices of the shares in the fire insurance companies. They are mostly well held, and purchases or sales are alike a matter of private negotiation.

We understand that the great fire has already brought a large accession of business to most of the fire insurance offices.

RAILWAY TRAFFIC.

The Brighton Railway traffic return shows this week an increase of £2,064; the South-Eastern, an increase of £302; the London and North-Western, a decrease of £3,185; the Great Western, a decrease of £2,167; the Great Northern, a decrease of £1,461; the London and South-Western, an increase of £3,083; the Eastern Counties, a decrease of £579; the Lancashire and Yorkshire, an increase of £725; the Manchester, Sheffield, and Lincolnshire, a decrease of £548; the North-Eastern, an increase of £3,910; and the Midland, a decrease of £1,125.

The receipts of the Ottoman Railway for the week ending June 16 were £212.

RAILWAYS.

The half-yearly meeting of the Brighton Railway Company is called for the 26th July.

A special meeting of the Midland Railway Company is called for the 6th July, at Derby, to approve a Bill now before Parliament for incorporating the North Somerset Railway Company.

An extraordinary meeting of the New Brunswick and Nova Scotia Railway and Land Company is called for the 29th inst., when a resolution will be submitted for making an important alteration in the articles of association.

The half-yearly meeting of the London and Greenwich Railway Company is called for the 9th July, when a dividend of 5s. 4d. per share, or £1. 6s. 8d. per cent., will be recommended.

The annual meeting of the shareholders in the Atlantic and St. Lawrence Railroad Company is called for the 6th August, at Portland, Maine.

The Northern Railway of Canada (formerly the Ontario, Simco, and Huron) is making good progress, under the refitting and renewing of the permanent way, undertaken by Mr. Brassey. The receipts for five months this year show an increase of £6,700 over those of 1860.

The Directors of the Great Western Railway of Canada notify that they are prepared to pay off the Six per Cent. Bonds falling due in October, 1862.

Subjoined is a statement (from Mr. Slaughter's Weekly List) of the railway calls falling due in the month of July. The total is rather considerable:—

THE SCINDE RAILWAY.

The following is a trustworthy account of the opening of the Scinde Railway. The progress of this undertaking reflects great credit on all concerned:—

According to advices received from Kurrachee of the 23rd of May last, the Scinde Railway was formally opened on the 11th of that month by her Majesty's Commissioner in Scinde, and on the morning of the 13th the first public train for passengers and goods ran from each terminus of the line, the crowd of passengers at the Kurrachee terminus being enormous. Since then great numbers of passengers were being conveyed daily. The quantity of goods delivered by native traders for carriage far exceeded expectation, and taxed to the utmost the resources of the railway. One firm alone offered to enter into an arrangement for the conveyance of 140 tons per diem. Sir Bartle Frere on the 29th of April, 1858, turned the first sod of the Scinde Railway, and notwithstanding engineering and other difficulties, in little more than three years thereafter his successor has declared the line to be open for public traffic. The Scinde Railway is 114 miles in length, and is the first completed railway opened in India. The Commissioner in Scinde has alluded in terms of commendation to the excellence of the arrangements of the administrators of the railway, and called attention to the fact that the workmen employed by the company upon the line drawn from Scinde, Beloochistan, Bhawalpoor, the Deccan, Cutch, and from the confines of Persia and China, had all so conducted themselves that neither feuds nor disturbances had ever reached the ears of the authorities.

THE COMMERCIAL BANK.

We understand that the Commercial Bank of London has now liquidated its banking liabilities, by the realisation of assets and the maturing of bills and loans. Credit is due to the directors and the manager, Mr. Cutbill, for the promptitude with which this has been accomplished. It is not yet known when a distribution will take place amongst the shareholders under the winding up, but it will probably be at an early date. Since the business of the bank was transferred to the London and Westminster, the shares of the latter have improved about £6. This represents on the total number of shares in that bank about £300,000.

THE STOCK AND SHARE MARKETS.

A further severe fall has taken place this week in the English Funds, under the influence of a continued pressure of stock, which has augmented the demand for money. Support in the shape of investments by the public seems to be still wanting. It would also appear that operations for a fall have been entered into on the prospect of some heavy amounts of stock being thrown on the market by the fire insurance companies in anticipation of the large claims about to be made on them. The approach of the India Loan, besides throwing down the price of the India Five per Cent. Stock, has contributed additionally to depress the English Funds. Exchanges continue to be made into the India Five per Cents. In proof of the depression of the market it may be mentioned that New Three per Cents., on which about 12s. 6d. dividend has now accrued, were dealt in to-day as low as 88½.

Consols closed on Friday last at 89½ to ¾ ex div. for money, and 90 to ½ for the 10th July. The final quotations to-day were 89½ to ½ for cash, and 89½ to ¾ for the July settlement, being the lowest point of the week within ½ per cent. The fall since last Friday is ¾ per cent.

The India Five per Cent. Stock has again been rather pressed for sale, owing to the expectation that the rapid passage of the Bill through Parliament will be followed speedily by its introduction into the market.

The price has fallen about  $\frac{3}{8}$  per cent., closing to-day at  $98\frac{3}{8}$  to  $\frac{5}{8}$  for the account, and  $98\frac{1}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$  for money.

There has been a fresh fall of 2s. to 3s. in Exchequer Bills, owing to some considerable sales. The March issue is quoted 10s. to 5s. dis., and the June 3s. dis. to par.

The official list of to-day's actual business in the English Funds and Indian Government Securities, is annexed:—

Three per Cent. Consols, for money,  $89\frac{1}{2}$ ,  $\frac{1}{4}$ , ex div.; ditto for account (July 10),  $89\frac{1}{2}$ , ex div.; Three per Cents. Reduced,  $88\frac{1}{2}$ ,  $\frac{5}{8}$ ; New Three per Cents.,  $88\frac{1}{2}$ ,  $\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{1}{2}$ ,  $\frac{5}{8}$ ; Bank Stock, 229; India Five per Cent. Stock,  $98\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{5}{8}$ , ex div.; ditto for account,  $98\frac{1}{2}$ , ex div.; ditto Four per Cent. Debentures, Oct. 1863,  $95\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; ditto, April, 1864,  $95\frac{3}{4}$ ; ditto 1859,  $95\frac{3}{4}$ ; ditto Bonds, 14s., 10s., 18s. dis.; and Exchequer Bills (March), 10s. dis.; ditto (June), par, 3s. dis.

The Foreign Stock Market has been inanimate. Turkish Bonds, however, have been in increased demand, owing to the hope that the accession of the new Sultan will be followed by financial reforms. The Loan of 1854 after declining has recovered, whilst that of 1858 has risen 1 per cent. The closing quotations to-day were respectively  $71\frac{3}{4}$  to  $72\frac{1}{4}$ , and  $56\frac{3}{4}$  to  $57\frac{1}{4}$ . Mexican Bonds rose yesterday to  $22\frac{3}{8}$  to  $\frac{5}{8}$ , and relapsed to-day to 22 to  $\frac{1}{4}$ .

Buenos Ayres Six per Cents. remain steady at 90 to 92, and the - ferred at 28 to 29.

The sales recorded in the Foreign Stock Market to-day were as follows:—

Brazilian Four-and-a-Half per Cents., 1860,  $86\frac{1}{2}$ ,  $\frac{3}{8}$ ; French Three per Cents. Rentes, 66 (exchange 25f.); Mexican Three per Cents., for account,  $22\frac{3}{8}$ ,  $\frac{1}{2}$ ,  $21\frac{3}{8}$ ,  $22$ ; New Granada Deferred,  $5\frac{3}{8}$ ; Russian Three per Cents., 1859, 62; Sardinian Five per Cents., 78,  $\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $\frac{1}{4}$ ; Turkish Six per Cents., 1854,  $71\frac{1}{2}$ ; ditto, for account, 72,  $\frac{3}{8}$ ; ditto Six per Cents., 1858,  $57\frac{1}{2}$ ; ditto, for account, 57,  $56\frac{3}{4}$ ,  $57\frac{1}{4}$ ; ditto, £100 Bonds, 59.

The market for English Railway Stocks, upon the whole, has been rather weaker. It has been somewhat prejudiced by the settlement which was completed yesterday (Thursday), and which showed a rather increased supply of certain descriptions, chiefly Midland, Great Western, and London and North-Western. Great Northern ordinary and "A" stocks have shown especial depression. The latter stock is affected to some extent by the recent verdict in the case "Pim v. the Great Northern Railway Company," as the whole amount awarded to the plaintiff must apparently be met out of the half-year's revenue. The rumours respecting the probable dividends of the London and North-Western and Midland Companies are likewise not favourable. The principal feature in connection with the final adjustment of the account on Thursday was an increased supply of Midland stock, which caused the "contango" to rise to  $\frac{1}{2}$  per cent.

The following shows the closing prices of the principal British Railway Stocks this day, and the result of the week's variations. The share list in detail will be found in another column:—

Great Luxembourg Railway shares are firm at 7 13-16 to 15-16. Lombardo-Venetian are dull, at 11-16 to 9-16 dis. Great Western of Canada have fallen to 9 15-16 to 10 1-16. Indian Railway stocks are steady.

During the last two days there has been a further considerable fall in the securities of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada, owing to the issue of an unfavourable report from the commissioners lately appointed. This document has not yet been formally published. The company's stock closed to-day at 17 to  $\frac{1}{2}$ , being  $1\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. lower than on last Friday. The bonds have fallen heavily.

The closing quotations for shares in new undertakings to-day were as follows:—Ocean Marine Insurance,  $3\frac{5}{8}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$  prem.; Thames and Mersey Marine, 9-16 to 11-16 prem.; Universal Marine Insurance, 5-16 to 3-16 dis.; London and Provincial Marine,  $\frac{1}{2}$  dis. to par, ex div.; Natal Land,  $\frac{3}{8}$  to  $\frac{5}{8}$  prem.; China and Japan Steam, par; and Seend Iron,  $\frac{1}{8}$  to  $\frac{3}{8}$  prem.

AMERICAN SECURITIES.

The position of the market for American securities is noticed as follows by Messrs. D. Bell, Son, and Co.:—

We have had another week of active business in American securities. There has been a steady demand for United States Five per Cent. Bonds at  $71\frac{1}{2}$  to  $72$ , ex div. Transactions have taken place in Pennsylvania Stock at 68, and in the Bonds at 70. Virginia Six per Cent. Bonds continue to be freely dealt in at  $41\frac{1}{2}$  to  $42\frac{1}{2}$ . There will be found but little alteration in our quotations generally, although the transactions have been large, which is explained by the fact that the stocks purchased are returned on the market at a very small advance in price.

Mr. E. F. Satterthwaite reports as follows, under date of Wednesday evening:—

The market in London for American securities has been dull during the past week. United States Five per Cents., and Virginia Six per Cents. are rather more freely offering. In Railroad Bonds we have no change to note. The late inquiry for New York Central shares continues; they close firm at 69 to 70. Illinois shares, after receding to  $41\frac{1}{2}$  discount, improved to  $39\frac{1}{2}$ , but at this figure they are not well sustained, notwithstanding the last price from New York is  $33\frac{1}{2}$  discount. In Erie shares the business has been small, at  $20\frac{1}{2}$  to  $21\frac{1}{2}$ .

THE PARIS BOURSE.

At Paris to-day (Friday) the Three per Cent. Rentes opened at 67.62 ex div., and closed at 67.55 both for money and the account, being 1-16 to  $\frac{1}{8}$  per cent. lower than yesterday, and  $\frac{1}{4}$  per cent. lower than on last Friday.

LONDON AND PROVINCIAL MARINE INSURANCE COMPANY.

The annual general meeting of shareholders was held at the London Tavern on Thursday, June 27; Admiral Sir H. LEEKE in the chair.

The Secretary (Mr. J. L. DANIELL) read the following report:—

"The accounts, which have been duly examined and verified by the auditors, show that, after the payment of all claims for losses, averages, and returns, together with all expenses, charges, salaries, &c., and one-fifth of the preliminary expenses, there remains a surplus on the underwriting account of £39,320. 1s. 6d. From this sum the directors recommend the payment of interest to the shareholders at the rate of 5 per cent. upon the paid-up capital of the company."

The CHAIRMAN, after expressing his gratification at the full attendance, observed that at the first formation of a company of this sort they must expect to meet with many ups and downs. Sometimes they had been flourishing, at others depressed, but by steady perseverance they had been enabled to conquer all difficulties, and had arrived at a position of prosperity. By turning to the balance-sheet and looking at the sum standing to their credit, he hoped they would agree with him that they had not done badly. (Hear, hear.) They had had a very severe autumn, a stormy winter, and a spring during which gales of wind were almost continuous, and there had been in consequence many disasters, which had, to some extent, affected their revenue. They were, however, in a flourishing state, and had every prospect of a most successful future. Their risks, which during the year had amounted to £7,000,000, had, by the safe arrival of a considerable proportion of the insured vessels, been run off to something under £2,000,000 at the date of the accounts, and had the meeting been postponed but a few days he believed he should have been able to announce that they had been brought down to something under £1,500,000. This was very satisfactory. (Hear.) The capital was invested on deposit at the banker's, at discount houses upon collateral security, and in railway bonds, Government, and colonial securities. Like other insurance companies they had now the summer before them, and the hope that the fine weather would bring home the ships they had insured upon safe. Their business was now almost double what it was last year, and being of the best and safest character, they might reasonably expect it would be profitable. It was now proposed to pay 5 per cent. dividend free of Income-tax, but he hoped next year they would be in a position to divide  $7\frac{1}{2}$ , and perhaps something more. He concluded by moving the adoption of the report.

Mr. DANIELL (deputy chairman) seconded the motion, adding that the £2,000,000 of outstanding risks had been already reduced by £600,000. The business of the office was conducted with every care and caution, and none but the best class of risks was undertaken. They might have done a great deal more business had they chosen, but they preferred rather to do a comparatively small business safely than a large one at great risk. Looking at the severity of the seasons they had passed through, and the number of shipwrecks which had occurred, he thought that 52 per cent. of loss on the premiums received was a very favourable result. Looking at the character of their business, he did not anticipate the necessity of an extension of capital, either in the way of further calls or the issue of additional shares. They had money enough to carry on all the operations of the company, under ordinary, and even under extraordinary circumstances; but if at any time it should be requisite to put out more shares, they would be offered, in the first instance, to the existing shareholders pro rata and at par.

A SHAREHOLDER thought the charges for management were somewhat too large as compared with the business.

Mr. DANIELL replied to the objection, observing that it was necessary to make ample provision in establishing a company of that description. The figures alluded to embrace all office charges, rent, subscriptions, &c. These are heavy, the subscription at Lloyd's alone being £400 a-year. It should be observed that the present staff was sufficient to carry on a much larger business than they had at present without adding to the expenditure. In reply to further questions it was added that agents at outports were not allowed to take risks on their own responsibility, but all the business passed through the hands of the underwriter in London. There had been about £7,000 loss since the date of the report, a portion of which has arisen from the American steamers, which were considered very good risks; and the premiums since received amount to nearly £20,000. The directors had received for their services during the past twelve months £3,520, which was £500 less than the deed provided.

The dividend at the rate of 5 per cent., free of Income-tax, payable on and after July 1, was confirmed.

The resolution was carried nem. con.

The directors retiring by rotation were re-elected, as were the auditors, to whom £50 each were awarded, and the usual compliment to the chairman and his co-directors concluded the business.

Mines.

FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 28.

Business in the mining market this week has again been kept within moderate limits. We have to report a rise in shares in East Caradon, but with this exception, the tendency of prices has not been very favourable. Rosewarne United shares, which last week rose considerably, have this week experienced an equally decided fall. There has also been a reduction in West Caradon, East Basset, and North Downs. Marke Valley, East Wheal Grenville, and Calvadnack shares have been steady, with numerous transactions.

The attention of the dealers in the mining market to-day was principally occupied with the settlement. East Wheal Grenville shares were rather flat, and East Caradon firm. The inquiries were chiefly for Marke Valley, Merilyn, North Downs, and West Polmear.

Amongst the prices reported to us this evening are the following:—

Alfred Consols,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to 2; Calvadnack,  $7\frac{1}{2}$  to  $8\frac{1}{2}$ ; Carn Camborne, 1 to  $\frac{1}{4}$ ; Camborne Vean,  $2\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; East Basset, 80 to 85; East Caradon,  $24\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; East Grenville, 45s. to 46s.; East Devon Great Consols, 2 to  $\frac{1}{4}$ ; Herodsfoot, 39 $\frac{1}{2}$  to 40; Marke Valley,  $8\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; New Treleigh,  $1\frac{1}{2}$  to 2; North Downs,  $4\frac{1}{2}$  to  $\frac{3}{4}$ ; North Treskerby,  $21\frac{1}{2}$  to  $22\frac{1}{2}$ ; South Caradon, 300 to 310; South Frances, 130 to 135; St. Ives Consols, 30 to 32; Stray Park,  $35\frac{1}{2}$  to  $36\frac{1}{2}$ ; West Caradon, 48 to 50; West Rose Down, 12 to 13; West Polmear, 18s. to 19s.; Wheal Clifford, 170 to 180; Wheal Ludecott,  $3\frac{3}{4}$  to  $\frac{1}{2}$ ; Wheal Margaret, 43 to 45.

We extract the following from the circular of Mr. Lclean, of the Royal Exchange:—

The market for mining shares during the past fortnight has been very flat, and for tin mines especially, in anticipation of the sale of Banca tin on the 26th inst. Now, however, that the result has been made known, namely 69 florins as compared with the sale of last year 79 $\frac{1}{2}$ , more firmness is exhibited in this description of share stock. Copper is also firmer at former quotations. The congenial weather and increasing confidence in political affairs produce a good effect.

About 2,516 tons will be offered on the 16th July, viz.:—Bearhaven, 753 tons; Cobre, 650; Cuba, 463; French Ore, 206; Knockmahon, 144; Australian, 111; Laxey, 110; Ookip, 19; Australian, 18; African, 16; Australian Regulus, 13; and Turkish Ore, 13 tons.

At Camborne, on the 4th July, 2,821 tons of copper ore will be offered for sale, viz.:—Wheal Clifford, 600 tons; West Seton, 513; South Frances, 265; North Roskear, &c., 233; Wheal Basset, 201; South Wheal Tolgus, 197; East Basset, 145; Wheal Seton, &c., 144; Tre-savcan, 112; North Crofty, 102; West Stray Park, 83; Wheal Harriet, 72; Tolcarne, 72; South Basset, 47; Whealy Uny, 22; Pell Wood, 8; and West Condurrow, 3 tons.

At Great Wheal Fortune, an improvement has taken place in the 48-fathom level, which is now producing tin-stuff of ample value.

Camborne Vean has a very great improvement in the bottom level, where a good tin lode has been cut.

At South Caradon the lode in the 90 level east (going towards the discoveries in East Caradon) has very much improved. This is important. The ore is very rich.

From New Crow Hill Mine the report states:—

The shaft is progressing favourably, and the load in the 35 is still opening out equal in quality, but no wall yet. The six heads stamps are working regularly, and in about five weeks we shall have five tons of lead for sale; for this quantity it must be understood the stamps have only been working about a week. We have put men to cut out the ground for the new twelve heads stamps, and I have purchased an acle, bearers, frames, &c. We have at surface in work for stamps, &c., about six tons of lead, and are raising every day.

The following report of North Porthilly Mine was received some time ago from Captain James Pope, of Wheal Basset:—

I have inspected the land in the above-named mine, belonging to Francis Malby, Esq., and find two lodes opened on in several places at a very shallow depth, which have very promising appearances, producing some fine gossan and very fine bunches of lead ores, such as can seldom be found in any mine in Cornwall. I do not hesitate to say, although so near the surface, it will produce 1 ton of lead ore per fathom. The mine is situated south of Pentire Glaze, on the same run of lodes, the strata being very congenial for lead ores, from which, if properly laid open, I have no doubt will make a profitable and lasting mine. To work this sett only a small outlay will be required; say from £700 to £1,000 will be quite sufficient, when I have every reason to expect, before this sum has been expended, some good returns will be made. Looking at this sett throughout, and the appearances of the strata, I consider this to be one of the best speculations that can at present be seen in Cornwall; such as can be highly recommended to any company of gentlemen inclined to speculate in mining.—[See advt.]

The East Kongsberg Native Silver Mining Company of Norway have received advices dated Kongsberg, 17th June, of which the following is an extract:—

The ores broken last week are superior to anything yet found since the mines were taken up by the present company. Hitherto we have only been getting Scheider's and Malm, but the last week we broke Mittler's, that is ore containing 50 per cent. of silver. As we sink deeper, the veins will be more productive. Men and boys are spalling the ore, and preparing it for stamping.

From Fowey and Par United (June 24) the agent writes:—

During the past week we have cut 2 branches in the cross cut north, and from the quantity of water issuing from the end, I think we are nearer a larger lode. The ground in the shaft is still good for sinking. The masons are getting on very well with the engine-house, and all other work is going on satisfactorily.

From Wheal Concord (June 27) the agent writes:—

I have the pleasure to inform you that the water is in fork to the bottom of the pumps—that is, 5 fms. under the 28 fm. level. We have succeeded in pulling up the timber that obstructed the sinking of the pumps, and we now find our way clear to the 38 fm. level, and are putting in another set of bearers to lower the pumps and fork the water to the 38 fm. level. The engine working well, keeping the water at the same point with a moderate quantity of coal.

From West Devon Consols (June 27) Captain G. Rowe reports:—

In sinking the engine-shaft we find the strata continues of the most favourable description for the production of copper ore, and our progress in deepening the shaft is very satisfactory. We hope to get down a sufficient depth to commence driving a 40 fm. level in about a fortnight from this time. There is no change in the appearance of the lode in the rise in back of the 30 fm. level since last reported on, the men having been engaged the last few days in putting in air-pipes, &c., for better ventilating the workings. The tribute department is without change.

From West Condurrow Mine (June 27) the agent writes:—

The lode in the engine shaft is  $2\frac{1}{2}$  feet wide, composed of spar, prian, and red falkan, with a promising appearance, producing a little tin and stones of copper ore. In the 12 fm. level west of the engine shaft the lode is  $1\frac{1}{2}$  feet wide, composed of fyan and kindly gossan, producing saving work for tin and stones of copper ore. In the 24 fm. level west of Purser's shaft the lode is 2 feet wide and is producing stones of copper ore. The other bargains are much the same as when last reported.

The Produce and other Markets.

COLONIAL PRODUCE.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 28.

There has not been any improvement in the Colonial Produce Markets to notice during the week. Sugar is still very dull, and quotations have receded quite 6d. per cwt. in several cases. Floating cargoes of Foreign, however, sold at a slight recovery on the lowest rates lately accepted. Melado meets a tolerably ready sale, at the reduced rates lately established. Molasses are inquired for, but the firm rates demanded check business. The Coffee market continues steady. No alteration has occurred in Rice; White Bengal is firmer. Sago is about 2s. per cwt. dearer f<sup>g</sup> bold grain. Spice remains inactive. During the past fortnight, Pimento has fallen quite  $\frac{1}{2}$ d. per lb. Penang Cloves show a decline of about 1d. per lb. Jamaica Ginger is 2s. per cwt. cheaper. Saltpetre is quiet. The Tea sales have gone off without spirit, but prices exhibit little variation. There is still an indisposition to buy Cocoa, and about 300 bags Guayaquil have been sold privately at a further decline. Only a limited inquiry has existed this week for Rum, and transactions are confined to small quantities at previous rates. 450 bags good White Penang Tapioca were nearly all withdrawn at  $\frac{1}{2}$ d. A cargo of Nitrate of Soda, from New York, was bought in. More inquiry prevailed for Tinnivelli Madras Cotton, but business being interrupted by the confusion caused by the late fire, and the smallness of our present stock, only 1,000 bales good fair have been sold at 6d.; also 400 bales middling fair to fair Compta (Surat) at  $\frac{1}{2}$ d. to  $\frac{1}{2}$ d.

THE TALLOW TRADE.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 28.

The Tallow Market during the past week has, upon the whole, exhibited very little change. It experienced a certain degree of excitement on its being ascertained that about 8,800 casks of tallow, nearly all Y.C., had been destroyed by the fire, which broke out at Cotton's Wharf, on the 22nd instant, and which is not yet extinguished. This excitement, however, was of far shorter duration than the lamentable cause which produced it, its chief result being an advance of about 1s. per cwt. in Y.C. tallow for June delivery, and a merely nominal improvement in the quotations for October to December. This movement, however, was but poorly supported, and a few sales only, chiefly for this month's delivery, were effected at the advance, scarcely any demand having arisen for more future periods. Upon the whole, the general effect on the market of the sad event we have referred to above seems to have been only to exhibit its inherent weakness. Under ordinary conditions, by the loss of so large a quantity of tallow, prices would have been seriously and permanently affected, but so strong is the general conviction that the wholly artificial support still given to prices by the monopolists can only be of short duration that very few buyers have been induced to operate for more than their usual immediate requirements.

The business transacted to-day in new Y.C. tallow has not been important, and quotations show little alteration from those of our last report of the 21st instant. 53s. is demanded for June, and 52s. per cwt. for October to December.

The arrivals for the week ending the 27th inst. were 2,069 casks; deliveries, 1,000 casks; loss by fire, say 8,800 casks; stock at present estimated at 57,538 casks, showing a decrease of 7,731 casks.

Town Tallow.—The demand has been moderate, being checked by the warm weather. Business has been chiefly at the nominal discount. The letter price this evening is 52s., or 49s. 6d. per cwt. net cash. Fat, 2s. 8d. per stone of 8 lbs.

Old Y.C. is neglected, there being cheaper tallow offering, more suitable for general purposes. Nominal price 52s. per cwt.

South American has been in fair demand during the week, and some parcels have been also sold to arrive. Supplies have materially increased lately, and our last quotations have hardly been maintained. 52s. is about the current rate for fine, in pipes.

The following are the results of to-day's public sales:—

Odessa.—Ten casks of mutton were offered, of fair quality, and were bought in at 51s. 6d. 51s. is the general quotation for fine Mutton. Beef Tallow is not offering.

Taganrog.—136 casks Mutton were offered, of which only 10 casks were sold, at 51s. 6d., quality fine. The remainder were bought in, at 51s. 6d. and 51s. per cwt.

Australian has been in better supply, but the bulk of the tallow has been of a character little adapted to the season, showing a scarcity of good sound qualities; there is, however, a fair export demand for low goods. 256 casks were submitted to-day, of which 250 casks were sold. Good Mutton at 51s.; fine mixed at 49s. to 49s. 6d.; second quality 46s. to 47s. 6d.; and inferior descriptions from 45s. down to 41s. 9d.; the latter being dark and greasy. Good Beef brought 47s. to 47s. 3d. per cwt.

North American.—56 casks were offered, and the whole found buyers at 49s. 3d. The quality being good, but not fine.

East India.—110 hogsheds of fine quality were brought forward, and the bid-dings reached 52s. 3d. for the best, but the parcel was withdrawn at 52s. 6d. and 53s. per cwt. Low descriptions are not in demand.

Palm Oil.—The prices given last week have been generally maintained, but the demand has not been active. Fine oil is scarce, and has been in some request. 23 casks were offered to-day of very fair quality, and they brought 43s. to 43s. 9d. per cwt. 44s. to 44s. 6d. are still quoted for the best sorts.

Cocoa Nut Oil has continued in moderate request, but owing to the pressure of stocks, to which a recent addition of about 3,000 casks has been made, prices have given way, and during the week 44s. has been accepted for fine Cochon, and 42s. 6d. to 43s. per cwt. for Ceylon, which are about present rates. There were no public sales of this article to-day. In Sydney we hear of no transactions, prices nominal.

Palm Nut Oil.—There is very little offering, 38s. to 38s. 6d. per cwt. are the general quotations.

South American Horse Grease has been sold at 38s. per cwt., previous rates being maintained.—Furnished by Messrs. Culverwell, Brooks, and Co., Brokers.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET.

[LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 28.]

The market has been firm this week, especially during the last day or two, and prices exhibit an upward tendency. Spinners have bought sparingly, however, the state of trade offering no inducements to go into stock, and until trade improves or our stock diminishes, no important enhancement in prices is looked for. The quantity of cotton now held here although large, is ill-assorted, and good useful descriptions of American are very difficult to buy. With the present stock the position of cotton is for the moment, to a great extent, subordinated to the state of the market for the manufactured article, and not the least improvement can be noted at Manchester in regard either to goods or yarns.

[BY ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.]

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY EVENING.

The market has been very firm to day, with sales to the amount of 12,000 bales including 4,000 on speculation and for exportation. The imports to-day are 15,631 bales. The sales of the week comprise 79,950 bales, of which 16,910 were taken on speculation and 13,340 for exportation, and the imports 81,622 bales. Fair Upland is quoted 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.; Orleans, 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.; Mobile, 8 $\frac{1}{2}$ d.

The Corn Trade.

LONDON, FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 28.

The weather has been this week changeable—clouds, rain, and sunshine alternating, but the growing grain crops continue, on the whole, favourably reported of, in most parts of the United Kingdom. The wheat plants are generally in ear—the early kinds, such as Talavera, are blooming. This is a critical time for the corn crops—too much rain now would prove very prejudicial, especially to the wheat crop, the plant of which is generally thin on the ground and patchy; besides, a smaller surface has been sown than usual—part of the seed has never germinated owing to the badness of last year's crop. Moreover, a portion of the plant has been killed by frost last winter, and by excess of moisture in early spring, before the dry weather sets in—so that even under the most favourable circumstances the wheat crop is not likely to yield an average. The barley crop, however, promises on the whole a fair produce. The oat crop is less favourably reported of—in some parts there is a good yield in prospect—in others, there is not an average expected. Beans and peas have much improved by the recent forcing weather, and probably will not be far short of an average, with a continuance of favourable weather. Haymaking has become general, but the showery weather this week has been a great drawback to its progress—a portion of the crop has been spoiled, and the yield which never promised an over abundance will be further reduced, and fall short of last year's produce. The potato crop is untainted by blight up to the present time, and promising a very abundant produce.

SUPPLY.—The returns of this week exhibit a further falling off in the deliveries of home-grown corn, owing to farmers having their hands fully engaged in hay-making. The latest official weekly returns of the quantity of grain sold in England and Wales are as follows:—Wheat, 57,676 qrs. at 52s. 8d.—Barley, 2,064 qrs. at 32s. 6d.—Oats, 4,325 qrs. at 25s. 2d. per qr.

IMPORTS.—The large imports from the Baltic noticed last week have ceased with the turning of the wind, southward, but instead a large fleet of corn-laden vessels from the south of Europe has appeared at the usual ports of call, consisting principally of Wheat, with a fair proportion of Maize, and a moderate quantity of Barley, but small of other kinds of grain. The imports of Flour are to a fair extent, chiefly from the United States of America. The monthly Board of Trade Tables for May show still a large importation of foreign grain. The largest imports of Wheat during the month of May last were from the Baltic and from America.

The British Corn Trade was early this week in a state of great languor, but for some days past has improved in tone, and the downward movement in prices appears for the present arrested. The continuance of large imports from the south of Europe tended to check the demand and to depress prices—but the growing impression that under the most favourable circumstances the wheat crop in the United Kingdom is not likely to attain an average produce, has contributed to produce confidence in the maintenance of present prices, and, several purchases of wheat effected this week for the continent, at prices from 2s. to 3s. over what English buyers were bidding, infused a greater firmness into the trade, and decidedly checked the downward movement experienced last week. Wheat: The supply of English was generally small in most markets, and prices of English as well as Foreign declined 1s. to 2s. per qr. under last week's rates. In some markets an improved feeling has gained ground during the last three days, and superior sorts have fetched higher prices. Flour: Early this week sales were made at 6d. to 1s. per sack and barrel cheaper. Barley: In limited demand, at about last week's prices. Oats: Sold slowly, but not cheaper, excepting inferior sorts. Maize fetched about last week's prices—but with a slow sale. Beans are quoted 1s. to 2s. per qr. Peas also 1s. to 2s. per qr. cheaper.

In Mark-lane to-day the attendance of the trade was small and the tone quiet, but improving. Wheat—English, sold more readily at last Monday's reduced rates. Foreign—held firmer, at last Monday's decline. Flour—American, quiet, at last Monday's rates; Norfolk, 32s. to 35s. per 280lbs. Barley—Unaltered, at last Monday's currency. Oats—Steady, at last Monday's decline. Beans—Quiet. Peas—Quiet.

[BY ELECTRIC TELEGRAPH.]

LIVERPOOL, FRIDAY EVENING.

There was an average attendance at to-day's market. A fair inquiry for wheat at last Tuesday's rates. Flour—slow sale, unaltered in value. Oats and Oatmeal—quiet, rather cheaper. Maize—steady, mixed 28s. 6d. ex-quay, yellow 29s., white 31s. 6d. to 38.

THE CROPS IN BELGIUM.—The Belgian journals state that the appearance of the crops is very satisfactory in all parts of the kingdom. Wheat and rye in particular are in a good condition, and potatoes promise an abundant yield.

FOREIGN-OFFICE, JUNE 24.—The Queen has been pleased to approve of Mr. Thomas Lidbetter as Consul at Kurrachee for his Majesty the King of Prussia.

The estimate for the Post-office packet service for the year 1861-2 was £994,956. A Parliamentary return issued on Wednesday states the sum required to be voted on account at £250,000.

The 24th annual meeting of the Minerva Life Assurance Company was held on the 13th instant, when the report stated the number of new policies issued in 1860 at 392, assuring the sum of £161,455, and yielding in new annual premiums, £5,196. This is a considerable increase upon the new business of the previous year. The total income of the year was £78,996; and the total cash assets on the 31st December, 1860, were £415,544, being £24,751 more than in 1859. A dividend on the paid-up capital at the rate of 5 per cent. for the past year was declared, free of Income-tax.

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT AND PILLS.—Experience Teacheth Wisdom.—The common consent of mankind has awarded to Holloway's remedies the palm for curing most complaints, whether external or internal. During the past quarter of a century thousands have borne willing testimony to their efficiency in alleviating the sufferings of mankind, and in expelling from the human body the first cause of disease. No other means can extract from the blood and solids any existing impurities with the same unerring certainty as Holloway's preparations, which rapidly filter out all morbid matters. Numberless testimonials from clergymen and others, humanely watching over the welfare of the poor, attesting their merits, which are gratefully acknowledged throughout the whole civilized world, being selected by wisdom and experience.

This Company has been formed for the purpose of purchasing and working the several patents secured in this country by Mr. Nathan Thompson, marine engineer, of New York, for his process of building boats by machinery. Mr. Thompson, after many years of close study and the unremitting application of his mechanical skill, has perfected a system of the most simple and effective character for the construction of boats of every size and mould, which must, to a great extent, supersede the present mode of building them by hand labour, every part being prepared with the greatest accuracy and finish by machinery.

Full copies of the Prospectus, Forms of Application, with Appendix, containing copies of testimonials, as given at length in the "Times" and "Daily News" of the 17th inst. (to which reference is made), will be forwarded on application to the Brokers, or to the Secretary, No. 16, Bishopsgate-street Within, E.C., London.

NORTH PORTHILL MINE, CORNWALL.

A Company is in course of formation for the purpose of developing a portion of mineral property in the parish of St. Minver, Cornwall. The sett which has been obtained gives unusually good evidences of its being very valuable for lead ore. Several mine agents of great experience have inspected the property, whose opinions are unanimous that the strata are the right sort for lead, and the quantity of ore in sight beyond what could be expected for so shallow a depth.

The adventure is divided into 6,000 Shares, and it was decided at a meeting held on the 16th inst., that 4,000 should be offered to the public. A large portion out of the 4,000 are already taken up, for the most part by those who are residents of, and acquainted with, the neighbourhood.

The Mine is to be worked on the cost-book principle, and all needful particulars, with prospectuses, may be had of Mr. J. S. Phillips, of 12, St. Michael's-alley, Cornhill, London; or the Purser, Captain George Rickard, of Wenford, Bodmin, Cornwall.
